Britain, Scandinavia Reach Understanding On Atlantic Defence

LONDON, Aug. 4 — (AP). — American joint Chiefs of Staff have reached a complete understanding with Britain, Norway, and Denmark on organization for mutual defence under the Atlantic Pact, Admiral Louis E. Denfeld announced today.

"We are going home, I am sure, with a very much better understanding of the situation than we had when we came over," the United States Chief of Naval Operations told a press conference following meetings with Norwegian and Danish military commanders.

Denfeld spoke for the joint chiefs.

The subject of sharing the atom bomb with other Atlantic Treaty signatories was not mentioned in the staff talks, Denfeld told a questioner.

Avoid Arms Aid

"There was no general discussion of arms aid," he added. "Our purpose in coming here was to exchange ideas on proper organization."

Gen. O. E. Berg, Chief of the Norwegian Joint Services, told the reporters:

"We have discussed defence programs and we are finding a very good solution to our problem."

The Scandinavian delegations met the American officers in separate conferences at United States naval headquarters in London Each group spent more than an hour with the Americans.

The conferences were conducted under the same (closed-door) conditions as yesterday's meeting with British military leaders. Armed guards made certain only actual participants entered the conference room.

The American representatives will leave for Paris this afternoon on the next leg of their 10-day air tour of Europe.

The American, British, Danish and Norwegian military leaders all met King George at Buckingham Palace Wednesday night for a "friendly, informal talk."

Holding Youth In Layng Killing

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 (CP)—Police today disclosed they are holding a 20-year-old man named Andrew Roy MacPherson in connection with the killing in Toronto of Alfred Layng.

(In Toronto police said the youth held in Ottawa had "nothing to do" with Layng's death.)

Ottawa police said MacPherson, who described himself as a coal miner from Sydney Mines, N. S., answered in almost minute detail the description of the man who shot and killed Layng in a crowded street last Saturday.

Taken into custody by Provincial police officers yesterday afternoon while hitchhiking on the Montreal road near suburban Eastview, the man was described as five feet six inches tall and was wearing a yellow and black checked sport shirt, blue trousers and tan shoes.

Motorcycle Hits Tree 2 Young Riders Killed

STRATFORD, Aug. 4 (CP)—Two young persons were killed Wednesday night when their motorcycle left a road east of the city and their bodies were thrown against trees.

Dead are Kenneth Cross, 24, Stratford, and Miss Rita Sloan, 25, Seaforth.

A farmer near the scene of the accident said the motorcycle, driven by Cross, went out of control when a tire blew.

Cross was a wartime motor mechanic with the Canadian Army. Miss Sloan was employed in a Stratford knitting factory.

The couple were riding to a dance when the accident happened.

Sault Man Kills 250-lb. Bear With Axe

Friends Chase Bear Past Tree So Steelworker Can Have Pelt

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 4 —(CP)—Les Sharpe, Sault Ste. Marie steelworker, told today how he killed a 250-pound bear with an axe.

Sharpe and two friends, Frank Peary and George Cockwell, picking berries while vacationing near Otterhead, on Lake Superior, sighted the bear. While Sharpe hid behind a tree with axe raised, his friends circled the bear and chased him past the hiding place. Sharpe struck the bear on the head.

"I stunned him somewhat," Sharpe said. "The bear seemed to buckle and go off balance for a moment. It was long enough for me to get set for a second blow. I hit him again, this time with the blade, and caught him on the side of the neck. This made him mad and then I knew I was on the spot.

"He grabbed the axe with his teeth and caught at the handle. The bear grappled with me, and with all my might, I twisted the axe away.

"I hit him the third time on the back and this seemed to hurt him badly."

Blow after blow was rained on the bear until it finally fell mortally wounded.

After snapshots were take the body of the bear was buried in Lake Superior. Sharpe said he killed the bear to use the skin as a rug. But the pelt, after the axe treatment, was too badly damaged.

Say Parliament To Open September 15

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.— (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that the first session of the 21st Parliament will open Thursday, September 15.

The last session opened Jan 26 and prorogued April 30. It was followed by a general Federal election June 27 in which Mr. St. Laurent's government was returned with an overwhelming mapority.

Standing of the new Parliament: Liberals 193; Progresive Conservatives 41; C.C.F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent four; Independent-Liberal, one; total, 162.

The announcement on the opening of Parliament was one of a series made by the Prime Minister in a prepared statement.

To Propose Speaker

The Government, he said, intends to propose at the opening of the session that W. Ross Macdonald, Liberal member for Brantford, and Deputy Speaker in the last Commons, be appointed Speaker. Dr. Gaspard Fauteux, Liberal member for Montreal St. Mary's, was Speaker in the last Parliament.

The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, has approved the appointment of Senator Elie Beauregard (L - Quebec) as Speaker of the Senate. Dr. J. H. King (L-British Columbia) was last Speaker in the Upper Chamber.

In both Chambers the Speaker's post alternates between English and French-speaking members with each new Parliament.

Herve Edgar Brunelle, former Liberal member of the Commons for the Quebec constituency of Champlain, has been appointed Associate Commissioner of the Canadian Farm Loan Board.

Mr. St. Laurent said the Governor-General has also approved the reappointment of 12 parliamentary assistants to the posts they held in the last Commons.

Invade South Korea

SEOUL, Aug. 4 — (AP) — A force of Communist border guards, reported to number 6,000 men, struck across the border at three points to-day into South Korea. First reports said the northern forces overwhelmed two Korean Republic infantry companies and shelled their regimental headquarters on Ongjin Peninsula.

Defence Minister Shin Sung Mo sent a messenger by plane to the peninsula, north of here, to report the situation. Only partial reports have been received from the combat area by radio.

Ailing Man Locates Son After Searching 43 Years

DETROIT, Aug. 4—(AP)—An ailing man's long search for the son he left 43 years ago seemed hopeless. He feared he would die before he found him. Then, by a strange quirk of fate, a tramp on a San Fransisco dock offered to sell him a worn Detroit telephone directory. He bought it for 25 cents.

Because of that, William Geddes, 67, is going to see his son again.

Detroit lawyer Harold Geddes, 44, told today how he talked by phone with his father, who is in a San Francisco hospital.

The elder Geddes, a railroad engineer, disappeared mysteriously from his home in Rochester, N.Y., in 1906. He left behind his wife and two small sons. The family never heard from him again. His wife, now dead, remarried.

William told his son he had gone to California, found another wife and started life anew. He had a son and daughter by his second wife.

During the Second World War, he joined the Merchant Marine, serving throughout the war in combat areas of the Pacific.

After the war, he was stricken with a heart ailment. Gradually the thought that he might die soon aroused in him a desire to find his former family.

Writes 112 Letters

He started writing letters to police departments in eastern cities asking them for help. He wrote 112 letters in all, but each was a new disappointment.

Then he bought that phone directory. Listed there was a "Harold Geddes." Before the father and son made connections, the elder man suffered another heart attack and entered the hospital. He spoke with his son from there.

They were only able to talk a few minutes. William told Harold: "All this excitement has made me pretty tired. I guess I'd better go lie down."

Harold said today he was waiting for his father to improve. After that he will decide whether to go west or have William come to Detroit.

"It was a funny conversation," Harold said. "But I guess he'll be all right. All the members of our family are pretty tough."

KIRKLAND LAKE, Aug. 4 — (CP)—Victor Desmarais and Leo Martial, armed bandits who held up the Larder Lake Imperial Bank July 19 today were sentenced to seven years each in Kingston penitentiary.

The sentence was given after a long review of the case by Magistrate S. Atkinson. He quoted from previous cases of the same kind to verify his judgment. Neither of the men showed any visible emotion when sentence was delivered.

Truman Opposes Arms Bill Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)— President Truman today opposed any reduction in the $1,450,000,000 he has asked for arming foreign countries, but he said he doesn't care anything about having blank-cheque powers.

The foreign arms bill pending in Congress would permit the President to send weapons to any country whose arming he thinks would help the United States.

When asked about this clause at his press conference, Truman said he doesn't particularly care whether it remains in the bill. He said all he wants is to see that European Pact countries are properly taken care of.

The president also discussed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and China.

Concerning Mrs. Roosevelt, a reporter asked whether it is true that she has offered to resign as a member of the United States delegation to the United Nations because of a difference with Francis Cardinal Spellman over federal aid to education.

Truman replied that Mrs. Roosevelt offered to resign—as she does every year—just to give him a free hand to appoint anyone he wants. But he said she's going back to the United Nations in her same job.

The President announced that the State Department is publishing tomorrow a volume on United States relations with China, particularly during the last five years.

India Agrees To Import Cut

NEW DELHI, Aug. 4 (AP) — India has agreed to reduce her imports from dollar countries by 25 per cent this year if other countries of the Commonwealth do so.

The plan to stand by the decision of the recent conference of Commonwealth finance ministers in London was announced today by Dr. John Matthai, Indian Finance Minister.

He said the conference had accepted India's four-point stand:

1. The principle of equality of sacrifice among the Commonwealth countries.

2. Imports from the sterling area should be made available to India to compensate for cuts in imports from dollar countries.

3. The Commonwealth countries should set up machinery to keep each other informed of individual requirements so as to meet them from the sterling area.

4. Review the whole position at the earliest possible time to consider restoration of cuts in dollar imports.

Find 2 Oshawa Cars Stolen By Theft Ring

STRATFORD, Aug. 4 (CP) — Two stolen cars, said to have been taken by car theft ring from Oshawa, were recovered in Stratford police announced today.

The automobiles were stolen from Oshawa in May and sold here in June.

Oshawa and Toronto police are investigating the ring. No persons have been arrested in Stratford in connection with the thefts.

Prince Philip Ordered Back To Active Navy Duty

LONDON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, was ordered to day to active duty with the Royal Navy's destroyer force in the Mediterranean.

The Prince, who is a professional sailor as well as the husband of the future British Queen, will join the flotilla leader H.M.S. Chequers at Malta Oct. 17.

Princess Elizabeth and their son, Prince Charles, will remain at Clarence House, their London home.

Philip will be first lieutenant —second in command—of the 1,710 ton Chequers. He will be its executive officer, responsible for discipline and daily ship routine.

The Prince's assignment was announced in the Admiralty's daily list of new orders.

The Press Association's court correspondent, who writes with official guidance, said the appointment was at Philip's personal request.

"He has been on the half pay list as a lieutenant since September 29 last," the correspondent wrote. "He requested the Admiralty to put him back on the active list, with the consent of the King."

It will be the Prince's second tour of duty as a first lieutenant.

He was appointed to the same rank in October, 1942, on the destroyer H.M.S. Wallace. He was then 21, the youngest man in Royal Navy history to hold the rank.

An old navy hand, the Prince first saw wartime sea service at 19, when he joined the battleship Ramilles of the Mediterranean Fleet as a midshipman.

Ask Schools Teach Conservation

County, City Draft Special Brief For Ont. Legislature

Education of the public, beginning with children in the schools, in the broad significance of the conservation of lands, forests and waters, was placed first in the proposals that were discussed at a meeting of representatives of the county and city of Peterborough Wednesday night in the office of the Department of Agriculture.

This was a preparatory survey to draft recommendations for the sessions at Lindsay Wednesday, Sept. 7, of the Select Committee of the Legislature on specific phases of conservation. The committee will receive a brief from the counties of Victoria, Ontario, Durham and Peterborough.

The next step in drafting the eventual presentment will be a meeting Wednesday, Aug. 10, of groups from the four counties, following the procedure that has been adopted elsewhere since the Select Committee set out on its itinerary of the province. Peterborough's representatives at this meeting will be: Fred Marshall, Reeve Gale Elliott, G. A. Brethen, Col. F. E. Birdsall, Harry Blewett, W. A. Anderson, Reeve M. H. Johnston, Alex Huston, W. W. Dawson, T. J. Ryan, superintendent of the Trent Canal and Harold T. Rehill.

The discussion Wednesday night ranged informally in concern for the preservation of the natural resources of Ontario, with various phases of education recurring in the suggestions.

Financial Assistance

Wm. A. Anderson of Otonabee agreed with the unanimous primacy of education, but he also said that in regard to the conservation of the fertility of the soil, the basis of farming, there should be some long term financial assistance, without interest, to see that the land was maintained "in good shape." Too many farmers, and particularly younger men wishing to take up agriculture, did not have enough capital "to farm the new way." The need and costs of the machinery which had so generally come into use was such a serious matter "that they can't think of these other things."

Harold Rehill of the Chamber of Commerce, was closer, than he may have realized, to the sentiment of the meeting when he said at the outset that the lack of education regarding the many phases of conservation appeared to him to be the weakest part in that program and work. He was called upon second, after Alex Huston, by the chairman, Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

"City people know so little of what can be done and should be done about conservation," said Mr. Rehill. "Probably 99 p.c. of the fires in the woods could be charged against people from the city. They don't stop to appreciate the great assets we have in our forests and other woodlands. I think it is only by education that this carelessness can be overcome."

Report 110 Survivors In Yangtze Sinking

SHANGHAI, Aug. 4 (AP) — Seventy-one crew members and 39 passengers survivors of the merchant ship Kiangling Liberation have been brought to Shanghai, pro-Communist newspapers said today.

The Communists charged the merchantman was sunk Saturday night on the Yangtze by fire from the fleeing Royal Navy sloop Amethyst. The sloop had been a hostage on the Yangtze since April. British sources denied the merchantman was sunk by the sloop.

Liberation Daily, one newspaper, quoted a passenger as saying the Amethyst opened up on the Kiangling at close range. The passenger said many passengers leaped into the river and were drowned. At least 40 hits were scored on the vessel, he said.

Alarmed Calls From Citizens About Missing Friends Flooding Police Headquarters

MURDER VICTIMS—With the discovery of the bullet-riddled body of Robert Smith McKay, 25-year-old air force veteran, in a North York field late Tuesday and the discovery early Wednesday of the body of Gloria, his 22-year-old wife, in the family car in a north Toronto parking lot, Toronto police recorded their fourth and fifth murder cases in seven days. McKay, three revolver slugs in his body was found by workmen. At the time, his wife, their pet dog and family car were reported missing. Wednesday the howling of the pet dog led police to the gruesome discovery of Mrs. McKay, killed by two bullets, in the back seat of the family car.

TORONTO, Aug. 4 — (CP). — Panicky Toronto citizens alarmed at the unprecedented series of five murders in a week, flooded police and newspaper offices today with reports that friends or relatives are missing.

A salesman, a married woman and her small son have disappeared during the last three days and relatives have requested police aid in locating them.

The salesman was last seen three days ago at South River, near Huntsville, and the woman and her young son have been missing from their East-end home since Tuesday.

The reports came as the police continued an intense search for a sadistic hitch-hiker in connection with the apparently motiveless slaying of a young married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKay.

Meantime officers here reported the receipt of fresh information which they said may indicate that Bradford, Ont., may have been the site of the killing of Robert and Gloria McKay, who apparently were slain sometime Tuesday while returning to their Toronto home from a weekend in the Bradford district.

They said Peter Wintercourt, a Bradford service station attendant, told them a man and a woman, answering the descriptions of the McKays, stopped at his station and asked where they could get a drink. They had a small dog and another man wearing tan shorts was seated in their car.

The man in shorts, he said, was driving the car while the couple were in the rear seat. The three had a meal in the Station Restaurant and when they drove away in the car, Wintercourt added, he heard several shots fired.

Prof. Joslyn Rogers, a ballistics expert and criminologist attached to the Toronto Police Department, said the slayer of the McKays "must be a crazed man with a desire to kill."

The professor, who examined the .38 calibre bullets found in the bodies, said the murderer shot the young couple as they sat in the front seat of their car "and then riddled bullets through McKay's body."

Thousands of Police Comb France For Jewel Bandits

LE CANNET, France, Aug. 4—(CP)—Thousands of police today combed southern France for the four bandits who stole a fortune in jewels from the Aga Khan and his wife. Roadblocks were thrown up from Mentone on the Italian border all along the Riviera—playground of the world's wealthy—to the sprawling port of Marseille, known as a criminal hideout.

Hundreds of cars were stopped. But no trace has been found of the robbers who yesterday held up the Aga Khan and the Begum outside their villa here and grabbed jewels worth $781,448 and 200,000 francs ($600) in cash.

Police guards around the mansions of the rich have been doubled. Many of the millionaires here are reported hiring private detectives as an additional security.

The Aga Khan's offer of 5,000,000 francs ($18,248) reward for information leading to arrest of the bandits had received no response so far.

Jewelry Worth $781,448

A Paris jeweler, Pouget, confirmed to day that the jewelry was worth 213,000,000 francs ($781,448), adding that this figure was based on a Lloyd's insurance policy.

In the last few days, bandits have gotten away with about $1,000,000 in the robbery of a bank at Aix-le-Provence, the theft of jewelry in a store at Beauville and the robbery of the Aga Khan.

The independent Paris newspaper Le Figaro said: "All the police of France, and all the gendarmerie must be mobilized." The anti - government newspaper L'Aurore said the wave of gangsterism in France calls for cabinet action toward modernizing the police.

Police found the abandoned automobile used by the robbers of the Aga Khan near the scene of the crime. There was no indication, however, that the authorities had any clues as to how the men continued their flight.

The Aga Khan and his Begum reportedly dined in a restaurant in Cannes last night without any guards. They were scheduled to leave this afternoon by plane for Deauville to visit the Aga's son, Prince Aly Khan, and Rita Hayworth.

Loans Out For Spain

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP). —Vice-President Alben Barkley to-day ruled $50,000,000 in loans to Spain out of the European recovery program. Barkley held that an amendment sponsored by Sen. Patrick McCarran (Dem.-Nev.) violates Senate rules.

Vet Meets Girl On Tuesday Makes Her Wife Saturday

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 4. — (AP).—A former soldier stepped up his romance today with the 18-year-old girl friend he found through a newspaper want ad.

Charles Donaldson, who needed a bride in a hurry, hasn't much time left until the wedding.

He met Irene Krebs Tuesday night after she answered his want ad. Their marriage is set for Saturday.

More than 300 applicants answered Donaldson's ad in the St. Joseph News-Press and he chose Irene.

Promotion and commotion have swamped the young couple since they met.

They're going to have a public wedding.

"I've signed a contract with a manager to stage the wedding Saturday night," Donaldson said. "I don't know where it will be. We can't get the ball park or the municipal auditorium."

Irene said she thought at first the want ad for a bride was just a joke.

"I telephoned about 5 o'clock to find out what it was all about," she said. "I don't remember the conversation. It was all kind of stuttery.

"We made a date to meet in a drug store and I still thought it was a joke. I didn't think it'd be there.

"I got there late and met him. After I'd talk to him for a while I didn't know quite what was happening. I wasn't surprised when he proposed."

The 22-year-old former soldier came home to find his old girl friends had married or moved away. Orville Montimore, his partner in a general contracting service, planned to be married Saturday, so they decided to make it a double wedding.

Blame Hitch-Hiker For Shooting Couple In Car

Report Bevin To Visit Canada

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP)—The Evening Standard today says Foreign Secretary Bevin is planning a visit to Ottawa for political talks with Canadian ministers following economic conferences in Washington early in September.

The newspaper adds that Bevin will be the guest of the Governor General, Viscount Alexander, during his stay in Ottawa. Mrs. Bevin will accompany the Foreign Secretary.

Newspapers have also speculated that Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will visit Ottawa following the Washington discussions.

At Ottawa, neither the Prime Minister's office nor officials at Government House, the residence of the Governor General, had any information of such a visit. However, they said it was "quite conceivable" the British Foreign Secretary might visit the capital.

Queen Elizabeth Observes Birthday

LONDON, Aug. 4 (Reuters) — Queen Elizabeth is 49 today. She spent her birthday quietly at Buckingham Palace. No official engagements were arranged to celebrate the day, which was regarded as a family occasion. Ships of the United States navy in British ports honored the anniversary by firing a 21-gun salute.

Will Cut Truman Aid Bill Despite Alarming Figures

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4—(AP)—Figures on Russian military strength failed today to shake the determination of members of the United States House of Representatives' Foreign Affairs Committee to trim President Truman's arms-aid program. After a full day of closed-door sessions with Army and State Department experts who helped draft the $1,450,000,000 program to rearm friendly countries, Democrats and Republicans alike agreed that the President won't get what he wants.

The situation shaped up like this after the first full week of committee consideration of the program sent to Congress last week by Truman:

1. There is heavy sentiment to curb the broad grants of presidential authority proposed and spell out, as closely as possible, the amount of assistance to be given, the countries to receive it, and the conditions under which it shall be provided.

2. There is substantial sentiment for a sharp cut in the amount and duration of the program.

Want Time Limit

Instead of aproving an arms aid plan to run through June 30, 1950, many committee members favor limiting it to next March 31, with the idea that Congress can take another look in January and extend it if necessary. Those supporting this proposal would cut the financial authorization at least in half.

The expert witnesses who testified Wednesday were recalled today. They are Maj.-Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Edward T. Dickinson, Jr., and Dr. Lloyd Berkner, members of the Government's Foreign Assistance Correlation Committee.

One committee member said the experts gave reports on current Russian military strength which were impressive and "showed without doubt that Russia has not reduced its military strength by any extent since the end of the war."

In fact, he added, the Soviet has added the equivalent of 100 divisions of troops through control of satellite countries.

Canoe Hits Log Three Drowned

COCHRANE, Aug. 4 (CP) — A blueberry picking expedition ended in tragedy near Low Bush, 40 miles east of here, Tuesday when three Indians—two of them infants—were drowned in Lake Abitibi as they were returning home in a canoe.

The dead: Baptiste Singer, his son, Toby, two; and Baptiste Black, six months, all of Low Bush.

Survivors of the accident are: Mr. and Mrs. Dave Black and Mrs. Singer, wife of the drowned man.

They told police they were returning home in a 20-foot freight canoe powered by an outboard motor when the boat struck a submerged log. The canoe turned over and Mr. and Mrs. Black swam to shore. Employees of the Abitibi Power and Paper Company rescued Mrs. Singer.

Bodies of the two infants were found under the canoe. Singer's body was recovered later by grappling.

Police Probe Three Crashes

Provincial police constables attached to Peterborough headquarters staff were called upon to investigate three highway accidents on Wednesday, in each of which a vehicle was ditched, but with no one seriously hurt. All of them occurred around 10 a.m.

One of the crashes occurred on the Warkworth-Frankford county road and involved a taxi owned and driven by Russell Stevenson of Norwood, which left the road on a curve and turned over several times before coming to rest. Stevenson was taken to a doctor for treatment for cuts and bruises. With him in the car were Chas. Baker, also of Norwood, and a girl passenger, neither of whom were hurt. The accident occurred four miles south of Hastings and the car was badly wrecked, damage amounting to about $500. Provincial Constable A. Kellogg, Hastings, investigated.

Second Accident

Provincial Constable Alfred Poulter investigated an accident on No. 28 Highway, near the Armstrong Lumber Company's yard, two miles from Peterborough. In this case traffic was being flagged to slow down at a point where a car was being towed from the ditch by a wrecking truck. Among vehicles which stopped were a moving van and a car, into which an Imperial Oil truck driven by William G. Bateman of Cobourg crashed. The driver did not see the warning signal in time. After hitting the car which was driven by Oscar McGill of Cavan, the truck swerved into the ditch. Nobody was hurt and Mr. McGill's car sustained about $300 damage. A rural mail box and its post were knocked over in the crash also.

In the third accident a truck driven by Byran Henderson of the Trent Valley Baking Co., Ltd. slid off the River Road on a curve during a rain, knocking off a telephone pole as it did so. Damage to the truck was slight and the driver was uninjured. The accident occurred just inside the city limits and was investigated by Corporal L. A. McClure.

Want Canada Take Italians

OTTAWA, Aug. 4—(CP)—The Italian government is anxious to increase the flow of Italian immigrants to Canada, but so far no official request for assistance has been placed before the Canadian government, it was learned today. A Canadian government spokesman said that Italian representatives here have "approached us to inquire what our attitude would be" if the Italian government decided to propose officially an increase in the number of farm immigrants to Canada.

"That is where the matter stands now," he said.

A spokesman at the Italian Embassy said that "every time we have the honor of meeting with Canadian government representatives we stress the need of emigration from Italy."

The country has a population of 47,000,000 people crammed into an area about one-third the size of Ontario, he said. There now are more than 2,000,000 unemployed in Italy.

Italian imigrants have been allowed to enter Canada since Aug. 1, 1947, but the movement has been largely restricted to those who have relatives here. A group of some 70 terrazo workers was brought here last year by an industrial firm, but there have been no mass movements similar to those out of displaced persons' camps.

Ford Asks Strike Vote On Company Property

DETROIT, Aug. 4 (CP)—The Ford Motor Company today asked the State Labor Mediation Board to reverse itself and hold the Aug. 8 strike vote of Rouge plant workers on company property.

Noel P. Fox, board chairman, announced Monday that a decision had been reached to conduct the poll on property owned by the Wayne County Road Commission.

The suggestion that the legislature might be made to pay court costs when people charged with contravening the law are obliged to make several long journeys to court because of adjournments, was made today in city police court by W. C. Grant.

Mr. Grant was complaining that his client, Mrs. Emily Barnett, had travelled to Peterborough from Mount Julian twice to face a charge of failing to stop her car at a stop sign on Sherbrooke St. Today was her second appearance and the case was adjourned again because police witness was unable to be in court.

Reds Paralyze Northwest China

CANTON, China, Aug. 4 (AP)—Chinese Communist troops have captured the gateway city of Lanchow, stronghold of Moslem warlord Gen. Ma Hungkwei in northwest China.

Nationalists Wednesday admitted that the city, Pingliang, had fallen. An army spokesman said, however, that the open country there made Pingliang hard to defend.

The fall of Pingliang puts the Reds 40 miles inside Ma's province of Kansu. The drive by 200,000 Red soldiers into Kansu first was reported Monday.

Shirley May's Mother Says She Doesn't Care If Daughter Swims Channel In Nude

SOMERSET, Mass., Aug. 4 (AP)—The mother of Shirley May France doesn't care if her pretty, 16-year-old daughter swimh in the nude in the English Channel crossing attempt.

"I don't think it makes any difference if it helps her to keep going better," said Mrs. Walter France.

"And I guess it would be easier to swim without a suit," she added.

Shirley may have caused a few eyebrows to lift recently when she intimated she planned to swim the Channel covered only with coatings of grease.

But now the Somerset schoolgirl says she has decided to wear a bathing suit and risk irritating her skin.

"There's been a lot of scandal going on," she explained.

Mrs. France said she was unable to accompany the girl to Britain "because the other children need me here."

Mrs. France works at a sewing machine in a dress factory during the day and then cares for three younger children—Marilyn, 12, Carla, nine, and Jackie, five—at night.

Prospects Dim For World-Wide Labor Inquiry

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 4 —(AP)—Prospects dimmed today for a world-wide United Nations Commission on-the-spot investigation of forced labor.

Several speakers told the United Nations Economic and Social Council that such an inquiry would be useless unless the Commission had access to all countries including Russia.

A probe of forced labor was proposed yesterday by the United States after Britain formally accused Russia of maintaining 10,000,000 laborers in "a new slavery organized on a mass production basis."

Polish delegate Julius Katz-Suchy sought today to ridicule the British presentation of the Soviet "correct labor codex."

He said the British Foreign Office should get a refund from the intelligence agent who turned in the Soviet regulations for forced labor camps because the codex was obtainable in London in 1936.

Buys Documents

"All the intelligence agent had to do," Katz-Suchy said, "was to go to the Sweet and Maxwell book store in Chancery Lane and buy the same document."

"The British foreign office, instead of buying it there, prefers to cook up something in its own kitchen," Katz-Suchy added sarcastically. He said the foreign office had "falsified a few passages in translation, just to keep up the tradition."

The Polish delegate described the Codex as "just prison regulations." He described British regulations for the flogging of prisoners and quoted documents which he cited as proof that compulsory labor exists in British colonies.

Katz-Suchy also criticized what he described as the peonage system in the southern states of the United States. In Tokyo under United States military occupation, he said, desperate peasants are selling their children.

The American resolution on forced labor, he said, was an investigation of hatred and incitement to war propaganda.

Note Toronto Stocks Picking Up Speed

TORONTO, Aug. 4 — (CP). — The Toronto Stock Market started to pick up speed to-day and indicated at least a one million share day. Industrial issues were steady in the active trade, golds were moving swiftly into higher price territory, base metals made a small gain and Western oils were fractionally lower.

Volume for the first three hours was 845,000 shares, about 511,000 shares more than the same period yesterday.

Spearheaded by senior issues, golds moved ahead all along the line. Hollinger, Teck Hughes, Dome, Lake Shore, Wright Hargreaves, Kerr Addison, and McIntyre were all ahead fractions. Dome made the biggest gain in the group, adding 75 cents. Junior gold stocks were almost exclusively on the plus side and included in some of the better gainers were Anglo Huron, Campbell Red Lake, Giant Yellowknife, Negus, San Antonio, Pioneer and Pickle Crow.

Base metals were slightly on the plus side. Consolidated Smelters was a loser, however, dropping ¼. Others on the lower side were Steep Rock, Sherritt Gordon, Ventures, a holding issue, Waite Amulet and Reeves Macdonald. Among issues higher were Castle Tretheway, Labrador, Osisko, and United Keno Hill.

Base Metals were lower in the comparatively dull activity.

McKay, 25-year-old electrician, and his wife, Gloria, 23, were slain on their way home to Toronto from a Civic Holiday weekend outing at a farm at Minesing, about 80 miles north of Toronto. Relatives said they left the farm about 8.30 or 9 p.m. Monday.

Mrs. McKay was found dead Wednesday in the couple's car, which had been left abandoned near the old Christie Street Military Hospital in north-east Toronto. The husband's body was discovered late Tuesday in a gully near a wooded glade on Toronto's northern outskirts.

Examination of bullets found in their bodies showed that McKay and his wife had been killed with the same revolver. But the weapon which killed them was not the one used by the slayer of Alfred Layng, although of the same calibre.

Sydney Plants Keep Going On Army Coal

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug 4 — (CP).— The government may use troops in underground pits as well as strip mines where they are already working, Fuel Minister William Ashley told striking coal miners.

The troops started working the surafce mines Tuesday.

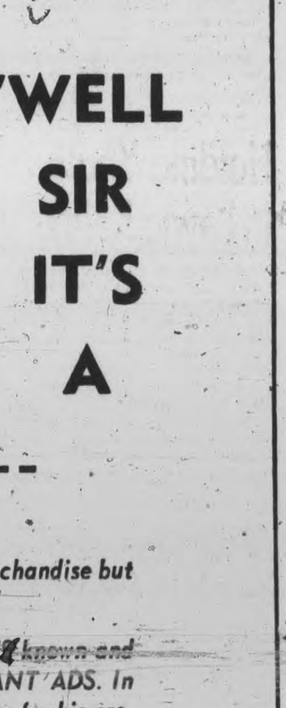
Meanwhile, the first troop-mined coal was rushed to the fuel-starved gas works in Sydney. The strike, leaving Australians with minimum gas, light and heat rations during the mid-winter months, has caused considerable hardship and discomfort to hundreds of thousands throughout the Commonwealth.

The strike of 23,000 coal miners now in in its sixth week, is over wages and hours. The miners are asking for a 15 per cent wage increase and a reduction of the work week from 40 hours to 35.

Troops at the strip mines cut more than 4,000 tons during their first 24-hour shift ending Wednesday.

When the troops were brought in, authorities made plans for them to produce 25,000 tons this week and 100,000 tons a week later. Normal weekly production in New South Wales, where most of the mines are located, is 243,000 tons.

Earlier Wednesday, Federal security agents investigated the possibility of sabotage to equipment in the strip mines. Army officials said there was no proof but it was suspected that machinery had been tampered with before the troops took over.



A decisive vote is expectd to be taken today at Newcastle by a conference of miners' lodges on a resolution that the Miners' Central Council should be asked to call mass meetings to consider ending the strike.

Pope Honors Negro First Bahaman Award

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 4 — Ulysses Davis, building contractor, has been appointed a Knight of the Order of St. Gregory the Great by Pope Pius.

It was believed Mr. Davis is one of the first Negroes in the western hemisphere to be honored by the Vatican. It was one of two awards made here recently—the first to Roman Catholic laymen in the Bahamas.

Mr. Davis, 45, was born in Antigua and came to the Bahamas from Jamaica in 1922. He has been president of the Holy Name Society in the Bahamas for 10 years and president of the Catholic Benevolent Association for 14 years. He is also president of the newly-formed St. Francis Xavier Credit Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis have 11 children. The two eldest daughters are attending the University of Toronto.

Parking Meters In Operation

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 4 — (ENS)—There should be no trouble in operating the parking meter system in an equitable way if common sense and courtesy are used, Councillor P. H. MacMillan told a special meeting of the town council Wednesday night. He reported that 146 meters had been installed and that their operation would begin Thursday at 9 a.m.

Councillor Howard Wilson said that it was up to the police to enforce the traffic bylaw and that their duties wouldn't be greatly increased by the meters.

Chief Constable George H. Hardy told the council that he would assist in every way he could to enforce the bylaw but his duties as a policeman took him out of town a great deal. During holiday time one man was on duty 24 hours a day for two weeks. Two policemen, he said, couldn't give the time they should to checking the meters.

Double Parking Curb

Councillor Wilson said that the object of the meter system was to do away with double parking. If it failed to do this," we might as well tear the meters out."

Reeve J. C. Anderson thought that restrictions shouldn't be too severe on double parking.

"If you strickly prohibit double parking you will drive all the business out of town," said Deputy-Reeve Locke. Farmers and others should be allowed to double park long enough to carry their weekly supplies from the stores.

After much further discussion the enforcement of the bylaw was turned over to the police, who were instructed to use their own discretion regarding double parking.

A resolution was passed that Wm. Dungar be engaged for the period of one month to service the meters and make the collections, and that an advertisement be placed in next week's local paper asking for applications for the position—the applicant to state salary and qualifications.

$8,000 Fire Razes Barn At Campbden

CAMPBDEN, Ontario, Aug. 4 (CP). — A fire of undetermined origin destroyed the barn on the farm of Leslie Selby, about one mile west of Campden, Wednesday. Within seconds, the wind caught up the source of fire, and sent the dry structure into a mass of flames. Loss is officially estimated at $8,000. The barn was about 40 by 60 feet, and contained calves, pigs, milking equipment, implements, a water system, one year's supply of feed, and a 40-ton hay crop. The Beamsville Fire Department was called, but a heavy rain poured over the ruins, 10 minutes after the uprights collapsed.

St. Catharines Bus Partially Burned

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 4 — (CP). — One of St. Catharines newest $15,000 buses was partially destroyed by fire of unknown origin Wednesday evening. It is reported the vehicle was being filled with gasoline. Smoke during the first few minutes gave every indication of a great oil fire. Damage was estimated at $7,500. The fire occurred at the NS and T Garage, but only the bus caught fire.

Farm Costs Get Boost In Britain

LONDON, Aug. 4 — (CP) — British farmers' pleasure in increased production has been sobered by increased costs.

Just as government satatistics revealed significant gains in the livestock numbers, the Agricultural Wages Board announced that more than 600,000 farm workers in England and Wales will have their wages increased by 4s (80 cents) to £4 14s ($18.80) weekly.

Working hours will be reduced from 48 to 47 weekly and an extra day's holiday with pay is to be added to the present six days a year. Overtime will be paid at the rate of time and a quarter for weekdays and time and a half for Sundays and holidays.

Farmers' representatives on the board voted against the increase which will cost more than £5,000,00 annually. Farmers now will demand that prices of their produce be increased to meet this new expense when the annual price-fixing negotiations are conducted with the government in a few months.

Recovery Program

The four-year recovery program prepared by the Labor Government emphasizes the necessity of increasing home food production and reducing imports, especially from dollar countries.

Compared with a year ago, cattle and calves have increased by 247,000; sheep and lambs by 607,000; pigs by 844,000, and poultry by 5,234,000.

Indicative of Britain's determination to expand her home bacon production was a rise of 58,000 in the number of breeding sows, an increase of about 30 per cent.

In addition to higher labor costs the farmers will have to pay more for feed. The government [illegible] ported feed which cost £66,000,000 in a year, with the hope that greater feed production at home will be encouraged.

The Margarine Wrangle Continues

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture is going to appeal to the Privy Council against the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada that Parliament has no right to ban the sale of margarine in this country. The dairy interests are determined to leave nothing undone which might restore the monopoly which they have enjoyed for sixty-two years. They ignore the plain fact that Canadians want the right to buy margarine; they ignore the fact that margarine is no longer an inferior substitute for butter, but a nutritious food with its own claim on the market. They want a monopoly, and they are ready to fight to the last ditch for it.

* * *

Their appeal is, essentially, a fruitless one. Simply stated, the situation is this: sixty-two years ago Parliament banned margarine, using its powers under the B.N.A. Act relating to agriculture and to trade; there has always been doubt as to whether Parliament acted within its rights. An appeal to the Supreme Court brought a decision of 5 to 2 that Parliament exceeded its rights in the matter of the ban, and the sale of margarine became legal. The provincial legislatures officiously set to work to put restrictions on the sale of margarine, but they dared not attempt to ban it themselves. Now the Canadian Federation of Agriculture hopes to persuade the Privy Council that the ban was a legal one, and if they do so the ban will be restored.

* * *

Unless the Dominion Parliament is more afraid of the buttermakers than it is of the people of Canada, however, the ban would only last until Parliament could assemble and remove it. Nobody now imagines that the people of Canada do not want margarine. The butter monopoly is utterly discredited, and the fact that the Dominion Government spends the taxpayer's money to keep millions of pounds of butter in storage to maintain a floor price—that it subsidizes butter, in short—does not sit well with the Canadian people.

* * *

It is a clear case of a special interest seeking to thwart the will of the nation for its own gain. Not all the appeals to the Privy Council which could be heard between this and the year 2000 can ever make that palatable. Parliament, which imposed the ban, can remove it. And if it does not remove it the electors will want to know why.

Wisdom After The Event

The revelation that the policy of unconditional surrender for Germany at the end of the war was entirely an American idea has come as a disagreeable surprise. It will be remembered that when that policy was announced (after the Casablanca conference) it was criticised in some newspapers on the ground that it would prolong the war; there were also a few suggestions that a completely demoralized and ruined Germany might be rather expensive to her conquerors. But these dissenting voices carried no weight. Neither, it seems, did the voice of Mr. Churchill carry weight in making the decision in favour of unconditional surrender, [illegible] wanted it, and that

Now Mr. Bevin, the British Foreign Secretary, is complaining about the effects of that unconditional surrender. Germany, in ruins, is a costly nuisance at a time when Britain (one of the conquerors) has plenty of trouble of her own. Unconditional surrender has left, he says, "a Germany without a law, without a constitution, without a single person with whom to deal, and without a single institution to grapple with the problems . . . it left us Germany as a shambles".

Let us suppose that Mr. Churchill had prevailed, and that the policy of unconditional surrender had not been embraced at Casablanca; what might have been the situation now? Would an offer of peace with some degree of honour have appealed to the Germans? We cannot think that Hitler would have permitted any thought of surrender, for he knew that there was no hope for him, whatever happened to Germany. Would moderate elements in Germany have been able to make contact with the Allies, and overthrow the Nazis from within? No anti-Hitler revolution succeeded. And what German law and what German institutions would have remained strong enough to survive the fall of Nazism? After all, unless we have been greatly misled, Nazism had rotted every German institution to the point where there was little to be salvaged.

It is always possible to be wise after the event. No doubt the American demand for unconditional surrender sprang from American inexperience in warfare, and in cleaning up the messes which wars leave behind them. But it is impossible to say now that another policy would have shortened the war, or that it could have left the victors with lighter burdens than they now bear. And it must not be forgotten that the Germans are almost as expert at losing wars as they are at fighting them; they will make no effort to restore their country if they can possibly force their conquerors to make it for them. Speculation about what might have been is wasted time.

Remember Trudy Ederle?

There seems to be a new burst of enthusiasm for swimming the English Channel this year. Several people have tried it, but we have not been sufficiently interested in their efforts to notice whether they were successful or not. But our eye has been caught by some publicity about Miss Shirley May France, who is going to swim the Channel naked. Apparently somebody thinks that this is a new and daring idea.

It is not. A good many swimmers who have attempted the Channel feat have swum naked, for the excellent reason that in a long-distance swim of that kind any bathing suit, however small it may be, is a nuisance; it holds a certain amount of water, and creates a certain degree of needless fatigue for that reason. Most Channel swimmers are coated with a heavy grease, which protects them against cold and does not in any way hinder their progress.

Miss France will not even be the first woman to swim the Channel naked (if she makes it). In 1926, on August 6, Miss Gertrude Ederle swam the Channel in 14 hours and 34 minutes; she swam naked, protected by heavy grease. The following year Mrs. Corson equalled that feat, though she took nearly an hour longer to do it. Since then seven other women have swum the Channel, usually naked and greased. And we may add that the coating of grease is so heavy that it affords a protection against gapers that no bathing suit could possibly give. So much for Miss France's silly publicity.

Swimming the Channel is rightly regarded as a great test of endurance and strength. The water is extremely cold and it may be very rough; several kinds of weather may be met with in the course of the swim. Trudy Ederle's time has never been bettered by a woman swimmer, though in August, 1934, Emma Faber came close to it, finishing the swim in 14 hours and 40 minutes.

Well Done, Amethyst!

The war in China is so difficult to follow that most of us lose patience with it. But once in a while an incident seems to illuminate the whole scene; such an incident is the exploit of the Royal Navy sloop Amethyst, which arrived in Hong Kong yesterday, after running the gauntlet of Chinese Communist gunfire. The Amethyst set out three months ago for Nanking, to help in the evacuation of foreigners from that city; the ship was damaged by Communist gunfire, and lay in the river until early this week; supplies were running low, and the Communists would not allow the Amethyst to return to Hong Kong accept under humiliating conditions—admission of invasion, infringement of sovereignty, an apology and a payment of compensation; so Lieutenant-Com[illegible] made a run for it, [illegible] when the Communists tried to stop him, and rejoined the fleet at Hong Kong.

These tales of daring gladden us all. Much international dealing with Communists is on the conference level—interminable argument and quarrelling, like a tea-party of cranky old women. The Amethyst's answer to the Communists was to dare them to do their worst, and to return blow for blow. For the time, at least, it clears the air.

Slave Labour In Russia

By
W. N. EWER

LAST October in the United Nations Assembly the accusation of "slave labour camp" was again made and the Soviet representative, M. Pavlov, described the charge as a "monstrous" lie. This is an extract from the "Anglo-Russian News Bulletin" of 11th July. The "Bulletin" is one of the mouthpieces of the Soviet Embassy in London. On 15th July, the "corrective labour codex" of the Russian Soviet Federal Socialist Republic (largest of the component republics of the Soviet Union) was produced to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. It leaves no doubt of the existence and character of the institution of "corrective labour." In future, Soviet propaganda will have to justify it, not deny it.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT is the nature of the institution that matters. And the defence will no doubt be that in every civilized country convicted criminals are compelled to work in some form of confinement and that in the more civilized countries the purpose both of confinement and enforced labour for criminals is corrective and reformatory rather than merely punitive. That is true. But between the institution of corrective labour in the Soviet Union ,and formerly in Nazi Germany) there is a profound difference.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN the first case, those subjected to it are persons duly convicted after open trial in a court of law for definite breaches of known laws. In Britain for example, no man can be held in prison or in confinement by the police or any branch of the Government without a definite charge being at once made against him—and then only in order to be publicly tried as speedily as possible. That is the famous principle of Habeas Corpus. Only in time of war does Parliament give the Government power to hold suspects without trial. But under the "codex" — as under Hitler in Germany—"persons are directed to corrective labour who have been sentenced thereto by decree of an administrative organ."

◇ ◇ ◇

THE liberty of every Soviet citizen is permanently at the mercy of the Government and its officials who can by "administrative decree" sentence him to confinement, exile, forced labour—without charge, without trial, without appeal. It is a system of lettre de cachet of which the Bastille was a symbol. It was always the mark differentiating despotism from a free society.

THE second outstanding feature of the codex is that a citizen can be deprived of his freedom and condemned to corrective labour not for any definite offence but simply in order to "put him in conditions which debar him from the possibility of committing acts which inflict harm on the socialist construction." Especially earmarked for treatment under the "penal policy" of the "proletariat" are "unstable elements among the workers." Such a system, rendering every workers regarded by the authority as "unstable" liable to imprisonment, exile or forced labour in "punitive colonies" for an indefinite period, is as harsh an istrument of tyranny as has every existed. There could be no more complete denial of personal freedom, outside of chattel slavery. It is the dragooning of a whole nation by fear of prison and labour camps into complete silent submission to the will of its rulers.

AND it is used with ruthless efficiency without parallel except perhaps in Nazi Germany. There is good evidence for believing there are at the lowest estimate some 8,000,000 people undergoing "correction" in camps or in remote exile from their homes. How many more millions have been broken into humble "correctness" or have died during the process in the 16 years that this "law" has been in force? The reason for this system is the declared "defence of the dictatorship of the proletariat." But the "dictatorship" is in fact the dictatorship of Josef Stalin.

ALL power is in the hands of the Communist Party. But the Party itself is despotically controlled from the Kremlin. Its members are strictly disciplined, pledged to unquestionable obedience, liable at any time to be "purged" on order from above. They have no voice. There has been no Party Congress for ten years; a contrast with Lenin's days when it met annually and debated freely. The Central Committee and its bureaux and its secretariat are neither elected or criticized. They are nominees and obedient servants of the "leader" and they remember that such of their forerunners as dared to oppose him have died on the gallows, in prison or in exile.

◇ ◇ ◇

IT is this astonishing Byzantine autocracy, masquerading as "socialism" and the "new democracy" which the "corrective labour codex" exists to protect. It is an essential part of the mechanized Tsardom which Stalin has created on the ruins of Lenin's Republic.

More Good Land

Winnipeg Tribune

It has been proven that large areas in Northern Manitoba are suitable for mixed farming and with more and better roads being built in that part of the country markets for many kinds of produce are being made accessible. The need in Manitoba is for more mixed farms and prospects are there will be many more in the north within a very short time.

Four-Lane Hog

Brockville Recorder and Times

A new type of road-hog is appearing on Ontario highways. This is the particularly objectionable sub-stratum of driver who refuses to allow anyone to pass him on a four-lane highway. Just why he objects to being passed when he himself is well under the speed limit is hard to figure out. It's probably just the old road-hog state of mind coming out in another of its repulsive forms.

WELCOME TO UTOPIA

Shorts For Office Wear

(WINDSOR STAR)

THREE enterprising and presumably attractive office girls in Toronto decided to counter the current heat wave by wearing shorts to work. When others in Ottawa attempted it they were sent home to don clothing more in conformity with business wear.

People slowly are getting more sensible about clothing. Women have shown the way in wearing light and cool (and little) clothing. Even men are learning. Where once dignity demanded jackets, tight-fitting collars and ties, many men now go about the office in shirt sleeves; often in sport shirts. And they go in more and more for light-weight material in the remainder of their apparel.

Frequently women are seen downtown with bare midriffs, or with shoulder-bare sun dresses. One admires their coolness on a hot day (and also, possibly, their midriffs or shoulders). One would be naive to assume, of course, that coolness is the only motive impelling women to wear light, brief, sometimes even scanty, dresses. That would be to misunderstand women.

Maybe the Toronto girls are in advance of the times in wearing shorts to work. Or they may be setting a new trend. Who knows but what shorts (for well-built girls) will be the vogue of the future for girl office workers in warm weather.

Such cool attire could add to their efficiency. Our only doubt is its effect on the efficiency of male fellow-workers. Men, however, are adaptable people. They might become so accustomed to a bare-legged girl at the next desk that they would favour her semi-nudity with no more than a casual, passing glance. But, and herein lies the danger, they might not become so casual.

Letters To The Editor

IRRESPONSIBLE HOLIDAY-MAKING

Sir,—The Peterborough lumber famine, brought about by all the suppliers in the city deciding to take a holiday at the same time is now over. These people should know that they have a responsibility to maintain the supply of their particular commodity. Suppose that all the plumbers quit for a week, or the bakers, or the dentists, or all the undertakers, then many would suffer for such irresponsible conduct. It is the same with the lumber suppliers, they should know better than to exhibit such irresponsible anti-social behaviour. I look forward to a new lumber dealer starting business in this city. Everyone to whom I have spoken on this subject is of the same opinion.

CONTRACTOR.

A PREPARATION FOR GRADE ELEVEN

Sir,—It was simply revolting to read about the high percentage of failures this year at P.C.V.S. When such a majority, as in grade 11, for example, fail to obtain the necessary marks to be promoted, something is wrong somewhere and an investigation of some sort should be conducted.

I do not believe that the entire blame should rest upon the shoulders of the teachers as a great number of students have only themselves to blame. As a pupil advances in the academic course at P.C.V.S. he gets the pick of the teachers and the higher he goes the better teachers he obtains. When I was in grade 11, I had precisely the same teachers as the students had this year, and, although I found it extremely difficult, it was not impossible, but you had to be prepared for hard work with long hours of studying.

It is evident now that the step between grade 10 and 11 is too great; therefore, something should be done to alleviate it. I do not think that the grade 11 course should be made easier but that the grade 10 course be made a little harder so as to prepare the student for senior grades.

Thanking you for the space in your paper, I remain,

Yours Sincerely,
A FIFTH FORMER.

NEW LIGHT ON DEMOCRACY

Sir,—Here is a bright new definition of a Democratic country—one that can send its fire engines to a parade but won't send them to help a man save his home because he lives a little out of bounds.

Did he not come under the jurisdiction of the Utilities, or was it just plain generosity that we did not tell him he would have to wait for his day or at least until 9 p.m. to use the garden hose?

Three cheers for us !!!!

God must be truly proud of the creatures he created in His likeness.

If we had a little more of the milk of human kindness in our veins, in the place of the red tape that we choose to call blood, the United Nations Committee might be out of a job. But, there you have a point. Who wants unemployment?

Yours truly,
ELIZABETH GREENWAY.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And David spake unto the Lord the words of this song in the day that the Lord had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, and out of the hand of Saul; and he said, The Lord is my rock, and my fortress, and my deliverer; the God of my rock; in him will I trust: he is my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my high tower, and my refuge, my saviour, thou savest me from violence . . . He brought me forth also into a large place: he delivered me, because he delighted in me.

The Lord rewarded me according to my righteousness: according to the cleanness of my hands hath he recompensed me. (II Sam. 22:1-3, 20-21.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Woe unto them that are wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight! . . . Therefore as the fire devoureth the stubble, and the flame consumeth the chaff, so their root shall be as rottenness, and their blossom shall go up as dust: because they have cast away the law of the Lord of hosts, and despised the word of the Holy One of Israel. Therefore is the anger of the Lord kindled against his people, and he hath stretched forth his hand against them, and hath smitten them. (Isa. 5:21,24,25.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Hearken to me, ye that follow after righteousness, ye that seek the Lord; look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged . . . Hearken unto me, my people; and give ear unto me, O my nation: for a law shall proceed from me, and I will make my judgment to rest for a light of the people . . . Hearken unto me, ye that know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law; fear ye not the reproach of men, neither be ye afraid of their revilings. For the moth shall eat them up like a garment, and the worm shall eat them like wool: but my righteousness shall be for ever, and my salvation from generation to generation. (Isa. 51:1,4,7,8.)

One Way To Borrow

Calgary Albertan

Vancouver recently sold more than $7,000,000 in debentures through a financial syndicate, without asking for separate tenders, and since has greatly regretted it because price wsa so low. Calgray City Council last Saturday night decided to offer $6,- without asking for separate tenders, and 300,000 worth of debentures to a syndicate, on Wednesday accepted the syndicate's offer of less than 9 cents on the dollar. Civic officials termed the offer a good one, and we aren't in a position to dispute it, but it does seem a hasty and somewhat unorthodox way of borrowing money.

Greco Kayoed In 5th Round By Dauthuille

MONTREAL, Aug. 4/(CP) — Blond Laurent Dauthuille of Paris, who hit the fistic jackpot by coming to Canada, today was aching for a fight with world middleweight champion Jake Lamotta after blasting Montreal's Johnny Greco in five rounds of a non-title fight last night.

Dauthuille came to Montreal less than a year ago in an attempt to cut in on the rich prize fight purses of North America. In his first local battle—against Pete Zaduk of Guelph—the willing, but green Frenchman won a decision and $2,000.

Last night he earned $18,000 for fighting the Canadian welterweight champion and advanced further on his quest for the world crown.

Greco once one of the world's leading welterweight contenders and a veteran at 26, did not impress against the fast-improving Frenchman. Dauthuille held an edge all the way and put Johnny away at 2:53 of the fifth round with a flurry of short, hard punches.

Looked Bad

Greco looked bad from the second round on when he slipped to the wet deck and couldn't break through Dauthuille's effective classic style of defence. In the fourth round, Dauthuille opened up a cut on the bridge of Johnny's nose and jarred him with a series of hooks to the head.

In the fifth, Johnny rushed out of his corner in a desperate effort to regain points he had lost earlier. Dauthuille, fighting easily, forced Greco to come into him from a crouch, then jolted him up with a fast series of punches.

A left straightened Johnny up, then a right cross finished him. Greco sat down with a dazed surprised look on his face. As the referee counted, he rolled over on his back and that was the end.

Oshawa Crushes Batawa 6-1 Boosts Lead Over Peterborough

OSHAWA, Aug. 4 — (CP). — Oshawa Merchants climbed back into the win column here at the Civic Memorial Stadium Wednesday night as they completed their home schedule in the COBL with a 6-1 victory over the Batawa Shoemen. They increased their first-place lead over the Peterborough Marines to 1½ games.

Bill Gingerich took a couple of innings to get steadied away and then breezed along, allowing only one hit until the seventh. He hurled shutout ball until Cecil Solmes looped one over the wall in right field, in the eighth.

Batawa's best chance was in the second when Johnny Aquino doubled and Mac Watson was safe on an error. With none out Gingerich fanned the next two batters and forced Muffitt to pop up.

Cracks in Fourth

Gordie Muffitt had the Merchants under control until he cracked in the fourth. George Ticcony opened with a scratch hit that bounced off Muffitt's glove and then Bill Cook hit one into centre. Muffitt got the next two batters himself on bouncers, but Fred Bidgood rapped one through the infield to score his two mates. Beefy Bathe tripled to open the fifth against Max Smith, then pitching for Batawa, and Crabby Joskozski, up from the juniors for this game, also tripled. He scored on an outfield fly. Red Jubenville's timely single scored Ticcony and Cook who had walked and singled in the seventh after a double play had apparently closed off an Oshawa threat.

The visitors had only one error and pulled off two sparkling twin killings.

Petes Defeat CGE 9-1 To Take Lead

After taking two successive defeats the Petes came back on Wednesday evening at King Edward Park, when they swamped the C.G.E. 9-1 to again take the lead in the league race.

Within five minutes, Petes were ahead two goals when Larry Payne sent an oblique shot inside the upright, to be followed by a 20 yard drive by Eldon Downer in the far corner of the upright. G. Downer tested the custodian with a hard drive that he failed to hold but the Petes' inside men made it 3-0 from the rebound. At this point the C.G.E. rallied and kept the play inside the Petes' area where E. Downer repeatedly repulsed the attacks. E. Lane broke away on the left wing to witness a C.G.E. player kick the ball back to his custodian who was not there, and thus registered a fourth counter. F. Hunter left the field with an injured knee and the Electrics had to play with ten men. Towards the interval, H. Payne went up the centre to score amidst protests of "offsides." Half way mark, Petes 6, C.G.E. 0.

On resuming, C.G.E. re-arranged their attack, while the Petes were clicking in every department. The Foster brothers at full back, along with E. Woodcock in goal, made up an unbeatable defence. C.G.E. wilted as time wore on and the Petes made it 7-0 through G. Downer, and finally ended with two penalty kicks for the Petes being converted, while C.G.E. registered through Steele from a spot kick to make it read 9-1.

C.G.E.— J. Chamberlain, goal; J. Craig and C. Murduff, fullbacks; H. Wilson, H. Steele and J. McCauley, half-backs; R. Strong, E. Cotton, F. Attard, F. Hunter and J. Goodhew, forwards.

Referee, J. Buchan. Linesmen, J. Ellis and H. Foster.

We have a somewhat varied program for the balance of the week. Tonight, Groups No. 3 and 4 play their first game in the men's second schedule. And also tonight at 7:30 p.m. the ladies are holding a doubles tournament with the draw from the board.

Friday night, 7:30 p.m., continuation of the Selkirk Trophy play. And on Saturday evening, also at 7:30 o'clock, the ever popular "Family Hour" tournament.

We hear rumors that there might be a masquerade tournament held in the near future.

With three weeks yet to go the committee has 70 paid entries for the Black memorial doubles tournament. Step lively you local bowlers or maybe your entry will come too late.

Next Wednesday, all day, beginning at 10 a.m., the Provincial playoffs for Districts 13, 14, 15, 16, will be held here. There are three competitions: singles, doubles and rinks. C. Argue, of Belleville is the official umpire.

Playing in the Belleville tournament on the holiday, Bill Jeffries' local rink scored the possible 8 end against Watkins of Belleville.

Today's thought—Preparation is half the battle, and nothing is lost by being on one's guard.

Mimico Tilt Postponed On Account Of Rain

Peterborough Lumberjacks played the Mimico Mountaineers to a 1-1 tie in two minutes and ten seconds of their game in Mimico Wednesday night. Rain forced the referees to call the game. It will be played in Mimico Saturday, August 13.

Peterborough got the draw and went in for a shot on Taylor. The rebound was grabbed by McPhail who ran to the Petes white line, passed to Gord Gair who passed in turn to Ken Dixon to score in 38 seconds. Seven seconds later Howse passed to Thorpe who tucked the ball behind Taylor to tie the score. Dootch Vitarelli missed several passes in front of the Mimico net due to the slippery ground. Referees George Cole and Bill Fitzgerald of St. Catharines called the game at 2:10.

Red Sox Romp Over Browns As Yanks Thump Detroit

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sport Writer

Dominic DiMaggio, Joe's kid brother, is sparking the belated pennant drive of Boston Red Sox with his 30-game hitting streak. The little professor must hit in 26 more consecutive games before he can tie with his big brother's major league record of 56, set in 1941. Since he started the string June 29 he has averaged .357 with a liberal spraying of extra base blows among his 45 hits.

With DiMaggio on his batting spree, Ted Williams leading the league in hitting at .344 and the pitching staff rounding into form, the Sox look like the standout team they were supposed to be last Spring.

Still third, six full games behind the New York Yankees and two back of second-place Cleveland, the Sox are within striking distance of the leaders.

Ellis Kinder's 14-strikeout job in yesterday's 9-3 romp over St Louis Browns is the latest indication of Boston's new-found pitching strength.

Kinder now owns a 14-5 record with two brilliant jobs in his last two starts against Chicago and St. Louis. Fitting into a regular turn with a Maurice McDermott, Chuck Stobbs, Mel Parnell and Joe Dobson, he gives manager Joe McCarthy a solid staff.

Helps Boston

Bobby Doerr's three-run homer helped Boston score four runs in the sixth. They batted around again in the seventh for five more runs.

DiMaggio chipped in with a double and single in the 15-hit afternoon while Williams smashed two singles and drove in two runs.

New York Yankees boosted their margin over Cleveland to four games by downing Detroit 7-5. The Indians' scheduled night game in Washington was rained out.

Hank Biasatti, a product of the Windsor sandlots, saved his first hit of the season for a big moment, whipping Chicago, 3-2 for Philadelphia with an eighth-inning double. He had gone hitless since replacing the ailing Ferris Fain at first base two days ago.

Biasatti's double off Bill Wight broke up a duel between the Chicago southpaw and Joe Coleman. The double, following Wally Moses' single, produced the tie-breaking run when outfielder Dave Philley booted the ball.

Blank Boston

St. Louis clung to its half-game lead over Brooklyn in the National League by blanking Boston 7-0 last night after the Dodgers thumped Pittsburgh 10-5 in the afternoon.

Howie Pollet, pitching one of his best games of the season, hung up his fourth shutout and 14th victory with a four-hit job. He struck out six and walked only one.

Johnny Antonelli, who has lost five straight to the Cards, was driven from the hill during a five-run spurt in the fourth inning.

Duke Snider drove in five runs with a homer, double and single as Carl Erskine pitched the Dodgers to an easy win over the Pirates. Erskine, recently recalled from Fort Worth, yielded only six hits in his first complete game of the season.

New York Giants ran their streak to six straight victories, dumping Chicago 4-1 on Dave Koslo's five-hitter.

Ken Raffensberger turned in the pitching gem with a 2-0, two-hit shutout over Philadelphia. Danny Litwhiler's 383-foot homer in the fourth gave Cincinnati its first run. Grady Hatton's single, a sacrifice and a single by Johnny Wyrostek off Robin Roberts made it 2-0 in the eighth.

Bisons Have Narrow Squeak With Newark

By The Associated Press.

The war of nerves—the wiggling and sweating—has begun in the tight International League pennant race.

With less than six weeks to go the boys running things from the benches are becoming a bit jumpy.

Such was the case last night of Buffalo's league-leading Bisons.

Buffalo's closest pursuers — Rochester and Jersey City—were rained out, and fourth-place Toronto had already been beaten

Therefore, when the Bisons went into the bottom of the ninth leading Newark 11-8, Richards had no thought of losing. So he used three relief pitchers to hold the last-place Bears scoreless.

Ernie Silverman, the first reliefer, opened the inning. He needed help from lefty Jake Wade. Wade, in turn, needed assistance, and Richards called on Saul Rogovin to get the last out.

As a result of the "squeeker" Buffalo's lead today is 1½ games over Rochester.

Trailing 9-0, the Bears staged a comeback that brought them within one run of tying. Bob Thurman capped the surge with a grand-slam homer in the seventh.

Lefty Jim Prendergast pitched Syracuse to a 4-1 victory over Toronto in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was rained out.

Prendergast scattered eight hits as the Leafs took advantage of Nick Strincevich's wildness and loose play by his mates to score three times in the sixth, breaking a 1-1 tie.

Rain washed out the Montreal-Jersey and Rochester-Baltimore tilts.

PRO WAR OVER

The costly three-year war between the Professional National Basketball League and the Basketball Association of America ended at New York Wednesday with the merging of the two circuits into an 18-club organization to be known as the National Basketball Association. Maurice Podoloff of New Haven, Conn., president of the BAA, was chosen president of the new league, and Ike Duffey, president of the National league, was named chairmon of the board of governors.

Tigers And Cyclones Battle To A Draw

Tigers and Cyclones battled to a 7-7 tie in a peewee fixture at Miller Bowl Wednesday. The Tigers took a six-goal lead into the last period but only managed to score a single to the Cyclones seven. Ron Jay had five goals for the Tigers while G. Simmons of the Cyclones had six.

In the other peewee game played Wednesday the Petes trimmed the Terriers 11-7. The score was tied 3-3 at the first, 6-6 at the second and in the last period the Petes broke loose to score five to the Terriers one.

Gord MacInnes had five goals for the Petes while Basil McGee shone in the nets. Larry Ferguson and Ketcheson were the pick of the Terriers.

Toronto Team Coming To Play All-Star Outfit

St. John's Training school lacrosse midgets from Toronto Saturday afternoon at 2.30 in will meet the local all-stars on Miller Bowl in an exhibition game. In the O.L.A. playoffs last year the St. John's team ousted the local Petes but Coach Jack Foote feels the locals are stronger and can take the Toronto boys.

The following players are asked to be on hand for this game: O'Reilly, Galley, Brioux, Macilmoyle, Outwater, Carravaggie, Fontaine, Cupoli, Daniels, Batley, L. Jones, Woodgate, Curtis, Doris, Allen, Deck, Brown, Chapman and R. Johnston.

All Saints' Win Minor Game 13-1

All Saints' bantams walloped the Legion 13-1 in a Minor Lacrosse semi-final Wednesday night at Miller Bowl. In the second bantam game the J. K. Hughes squad pulled out a 6-5 victory over the United Electrics.

In the All Saints'-Legion game the Saints jumped to a 8-0 lead in the first two periods and added five in the last to the Legion's single tally. Kearns and Delehaye went best for the All Saints' team while Blodgett and Sutherland went well for the Legion.

Lineups—

All Saints—Sullivan, Kearns, Drury, Johnston, Delehaye, Fitzpatrick, Parry and Heard.

Legion—Blodgett, Hefferman, Mullen, Sutherland, O'Brien, Killen, Saunders, James.

United Electric took a quick lead in the other bantam game with the J. K. Hughes squad by a 3-0 score in the first period. But the Hughes squad came through in the second period to outscore the Electrics 3-2 and in the third period 3-0 to take the nod. T. Hunt and Orde went best for the J. K. Hughes team while Galvin and Roberts stood out for the Electrics.

Lineup—

Electrics—Simmons, Courneyea, Kelly, Roberts, Kane, O'Rourke, King, Galvin, Board, Tarkington, Brockwell.

J. K. Hughes—Lirkley, Cullen, J. Ferren, B. Ferren, Ryan, Orde, McDougal, T. Hunt, G. Hunt, Boyce, Rowley, Hickey, Chambers.

FRECKLED NOBILITY—Herbert Harris, 11, takes a magnified look at Sally Brady, 9, after they were chosen King and Queen of Freckles at the Chicago Railroad Fair. The judges had a tough job trying to decide between Herbert and two other boys, until Herbert took off his shirt. Then he won with freckles to spare.

Co-Op Boys Trim Bankers 19-2

The Co-op. team of the Civic League swamped the Bankers 19-2 in Ashburham Park. The Co-opers tallied seven in the first and six in the second as they nicked Brown of the Bankers who had poor support in the field. They went on to score one in the third, three in the fifth, one in the sixth and seventh. Bankers got theirs in the first and sixth.

Bus Drivers connected for 16 hits for nine runs to take the Firemen in the other League game at King Edward Park by a score of 9-4. The Drivers built up a three to one lead in the first and went on to score a single in the third and five in the sixth. Firemen pushed three more runs across in the third.

Thursday night's games will be the same as Tuesday's. The Firemen will play the Bankers at King Edward Park while the Bus Drivers are playing the Grant and Loucks squad at Ashburham Park.

Few Travellers Discover Charm of Old St. Pierre

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. PIERRE, St. Pierre et Miquelon, Aug. 4 (CP)—Two air hours away from Halifax is this colorful island town where you can get a bottle of the best champagne, a jar of the most delicate perfume and a meal in the best French tradition all within the limits of a five-dollar bill.

And yet tourists are as scarce as the old rum-running fleet which gave the island the only prosperity in its long history as a French colony.

The big cement warehouses along famous "rum row" are abandoned. When the United States was "dry" they used to handle 20,000 cases of Scotch and eye a day. Today economists have their eye on these solid structures as a means of housing hoped-for fish processing and cold storage plants that could handle hundreds of cases of tinned and processed fish daily.

The tourist will find his dollar worth 125 francs—which spells a very good time, even if there are some inconveniences in the way of first class hotel accommodation and the fact that the lights go out at midnight.

This latter distraction is a sore point with the local administration and a new electric plant is high on the list of projects to be completed in the immediate future. But what the accommodation lacks in luxury, it makes up in tasty meals, served with appropriate wines, and a well-mannered cordiality which warms the foggiest night.

The almost treeless islands are an unknown country to most Canadians and Americans. But the few tourists who happen by design or accident to find their way to this little town get the impression they have been here before. For St. Pierre is just like any other little Norman or Brittany fishing town along the English channel.

The mole, quay and lighthouses are of old-world design, the architecture is on French lines, with the cement walls painted a bright yellow ochre.

Luxuries Are Cheap

Dog carts, pulled by Newfoundlands and Labradors, deliver milk in old wine bottles. The cafe life along the quay is gay and its patrons and fare are reminiscent of old France. Beer is the most expensive drink but an expenditure of $1.25 will provide a man and his friends with a bottle of the best champagne to lubricate an evening's conversation. Best wines and liqueurs—the popular refreshment—can be purchased for a song.

In each cafe noisy dance music plays almost continuously and dancers do modern reels and the Brazilian samba. Shy maids, as brown as berries, provide partners for the dance but retire to their own tables immediately the music stops playing.

The most exquisite perfumes, kid gloves and silks—taxless like nearly everything else on the islands—are available for half the price demanded at Halifax or Montreal. Food and other commodities are heavily subsidized to stabilize living standards.

Only military force on the islands are the 10 members of the gendarmerie who add to the color and charm of the place with their kepis and French service bikes. Their heaviest equipment is a jeep which can take them anywhere on St. Pierre island in 10 minutes.

This thin line of gendarmerie was the only defence the governor of the day had when Free French forces took possession in 1943. Previously the conservative and 100 per cent. Roman Catholic population had observed a watchful and dignified relationship with Vichy.

The Free French action was done without consultation with its own leaders and with the other allies.

Bitter Over Occupation

And the precipitate haste of the landing stirred some animosities in the colony which are dying hard. A local political leader with known strong allied sympathies put it this way:

"Patriotic men who had served France well and who openly favored the cause of the allies were clapped into jail on the word of over-energetic partisans and informers, homes of men who had close personal associations with the governor and his staff were stoned, men of substance and influence who could have been trusted to establish a solid pro-allied administration were passed up for opportunists and government job-seekers. That is why the Free French era is still a point of such bitter controversy on the islands today."

But the colony's relations with France have never been closer or more favorable. The island's assembly, which has the powers of almost full responsible government, is predominantly Mouvement Republican Populaire (MRP)—the dominant party in France.

The islands have some stony pasture land for enough cattle to supply everybody with milk. But little cream and no butter is available. A few vegetables survive the short summer season. As a result, everything but fish has to be imported.

Yet islanders live well by any standard. The prized possession in the home of Acting Governor Guy Clech is his tomato plant which bears fruit each year. At a recent dinner Sir Gerald Bentall, Canadian consul-general at Halifax, and Air Commodore Frank Wait, Canadian eastern air chief, the governor's culinary staff produced a dozen courses that would have pleased any gourmet.

The summer season is short and is sometimes menaced by the thick fogs which sweep in from the banks, but the water warms up for bathing and the broad white sands of the Landlaide Isthmus connecting Little and Great Miquelon is one of the best natural beaches in the world.

The people of Saint Pierre live by the weather and every vestibule has a barometer which is consulted with the same regularity and respect as the family Bible.

LITTLE BIT OF FRANCE—Nestled off the south shore of Newfoundland is France's oldest colony and last possession in North America, St. Pierre et Miquelon. Since the repeal of prohibition in the United States, the colony has experienced no real prosperity. Now the island has plans for harbor development and new plants for the fish industry which they hope will restore its economy. This is a general view of St. Pierre town and St. Pierre Island, showing Miquelon in the right background. The landing strip, harbor and larger public buildings are clearly visible.

Drug-Crazed Gunman Kills Three For Loot

BANGKOK, Siam, Aug. 4 —(Reuters)—Investigation of the "world's biggest highway robbery" took a new turn today when police disclosed they had taken the two chief suspects into protective custody after a sensational triple shooting.

Police action in the 15-month-old case, involving theft of gold bars valued at $4,000,000, came after an opium-crazed gunman shot and killed three people last Sunday in an alleged attempt to exact his share of the loot.

One of the men in custody is former police chief Pramoj Prathueng. The gunman, Oo Ying-pin, killed a Ceylonese civilian. A Chinese car driver and an eight-year-old girl in an apparent attempt on the life of Pramoj. He also seriously wounded Pramoj's wife before escaping.

A large part of the shipment of 38 cases of gold bars, stolen in May 1948, in transit from the Middle East at Macao through Bangkok, was believed to be still in the hands of the thieves.

Jane Powell Wants Adult Love-Making

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 4 (AP)—Enough of this kid-stuff smooching on the screen says Jane Powell. She wants the real thing.

"It's time I was getting more than a quick smack from Scotty Beckett," she said on the set of "Nancy Goes To Rio," in which she has another puppy-love romance. "How long can I go on like this?"

"Look at Elizabeth Taylor," she said, making the most needless suggestion of the week. "She got to play Robert Taylor's wife in a picture. And she's three years younger than I am!" It's doubtful if Jane will soon get her wish, as long as her all-American girl vehicles continue to prosper.

Sinatra Swatters

Frank Sinatra's swooners whipped Andy Russell's Sprouts in their annual out-of-this world series, which raised $24,000 for youth work. Some of the actors proved to be softball stars as well. Funniest gag came when a taxi stopped at the players' bench and delivered the stars to their field positions.

Eleanor Powell is set for her screen reappearance in "Duchess of Idaho." She will play herself and do a dance number.

From Goethe to gun movies: That's the story of Aspen, Colo., which recently had a festival to honor the great German author. Robert Taylor goes there next month to film locations for his second post-war western, "Devil's Doorway."

Crosby Clan

Bing Crosby's boys make their first screen appearance as young men for a "Top O' the Morning" trailer. The boys squelch their pop with some funny lines and show decided acting ability.

Itt loks as though MGM had dropped plans for a reteaming of Jeanette Macdonald and Nelson Eddy. That's sad news to their many fans.

Sara Haden (she was the aunt in the Hardy series, remember?) is used to having her name confused. During a recent Texas tour, she heard herself called Sara Allgood and Sara Patten. But she began to worry when a girl pointed and said, "There's Sarah Bernhardt."

Pave Armour Road South Of Hunter

Of a dozen bylaws introduced at the council meeting Tuesday night by Ald. James Gillespie in the absence of Ald. H. Dodds who, with Ald. Herb Young, was away on city business was one that authorized the laying of a sewer across the river between McDonald's and Burnham's Points. The work is being done by the Utilities Commission who are laying a water main. The city assumes halfe the cost.

Paving of Armour Road south of Hunter St. and of King St. between George and Aylmer Sts., was also authorized. Another bylaw will provide sewers on Lundy's Lane, Graham and Montrose Avenues in the south end.

Another bylaw directs the issuing of debentures for $28,000 required by the Board of Education for the enlargement of the Park Hill Road school and the furnishing of its two additional rooms.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, who returned Monday from a three-week holiday at Bathurst, N.B., presided at the meeting. A source in his ofifce said he doubted that another meeting would be held Thursday.

Acheson Has Confidence In Trygve Lie

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Aug. 4 (AP) — State Secretary Dean Acheson Wednesday expressed "great confidence" in U.N. Secretary-general Trygve Lie who recently was attacked by a mystery witness before a Senate judiciary sub-committee as pro-Communist.

Acheson's views were expressed in a note to Bryon Price, acting secretary-general, who protested July 27 against publication of what he called "irresponsible and unfounded attacks" on the secretary-general.

The anonymous witness, identified only as "witness 8," charged Lie permitted Communist agents to terrorize the secretariat. Lie now is on vacation in Norway.

Acheson said "I am confident that a situation like that described by the anonymous witness wouldn't be tolerated."

At the same time, he pointed out there was nothing the state department could do to stop a congressional group from publishing reports such as that issued by the sub-committee on immigration and naturalization, headed by Senator Pat McCarran, (Dem.-Nev.).

Raps Knuckles

Price had reminded the state department in his protest that the internal affairs of the U.N. secretariat were not the business of the Senate sub-committee, but were the responsibility of the U.N. general assembly and its 59 members.

He also had called attention to article 100 of the U.N.-charter in which all governments agreed to "respect the exclusively international character of the responsibilities of the secretary-general and his staff and not to seek to influence them in the discharge of their responsibilities."

Acheson replied:

"The United States has subscribed to these provisions and continued to support them wholeheartedly."

SILENT WITNESS—If Toby could speak, he might give police the solution of the slaying of his owners, Robert McKay, 25-year-old air force veteran and Gloria, his attractive 22-year-old wife, the fourth and fifth murder victims in Toronto in a week. The bullet-riddled body of McKay was found in a North York bush Tuesday afternoon. Toby's howling led police Wednesday morning to the body of Mrs. McKay, in a car parked in a north Toronto parking lot. She also had been shot. Toby, a honey-colored spaniel, was tethered beside the car.

Priest Sentenced To 8 Years By Czech Reds

PRAGUE, Aug. 4 (AP)—Czechoslovakia's Communist-ruled government has carried out its threat to imprison Roman Catholic priests accused of supporting the Vatican decree excommunicating Catholics who are militant Communists.

The official Prague radio announced last night a village priest had been sentenced to eight years imprisonment for treason. He was accused of refusing to administer the last sacrament to a sick old woman until she resigned from the Communist party.

The priest, Rev. Alois Fajstl, denied the charge.

It was the first test of the Czech government's defiant stand against the excommunication decree. The Vatican announced last month that all Roman Catholics who militantly support Communism would be excommunicated—a church penalty barring them from receiving the sacraments and associating with faithful Catholics.

In Rome, a Vatican source suggested the Czech trial may have been a "Communist trick to try to discredit the church and its faithful." Vatican officials have said the excommunication is primarily directed at the consciences of wayward Catholics and requires no official execution by priests.

Prague's Account

The Prague radio gave this account of the charges against the priest:

Father Fajstl, a priest in the village of Sebranice, 90 miles east of Prague, was called July 16 to administer the church's last sacraments to Zofie Paclikova, 67, who was gravely ill of pneumonia.

The priest asked the woman whether she belonged to the Communist party.

"When she replied in the affirmative," the radio account said, "Father Fajstl declared that according to the Papal decree of July 13 Communists and their collaborators are excommunicated out of the church and refused to administer the last sacrament to the sick woman."

Only after the woman—"in mortal fear," said the radio report—sent her membership card back to headquarters did the priest agree to administer the church rites.

The woman later recovered and testified against the priest at the trial.

WATERMELON SUBSTITUTE — Traditional watermelons were missing but that didn't deter these small fry who found candied apples could be just as much a part of an Emancipation Day celebration as the vine fruit. Sylvester, left, and Franklin Caslin of Detroit, two of the thousands who jammed Windsor's Jackson Park for the celebration of 117th anniversary emancipation, polished off these three in quick order and were back for more. Importation of watermelons is banned under Canada's dollar-saving program.

Has Some Opinion

The point of education was also at the top of the list of Fred Marshal, chairman of the Conservation Association of Peterborough. His own group is preparing a brief for the Lindsay meeting. Essentials of conservation should be taught in the schools, Mr. Marshall said. Another point was lack of provision for the replacement of timber, and also that certain Crown lands should be used for specific purposes.

Alan T. Brown said that although his idea might appear fantastic he believed forest fire could be checked and extinguished in early stage by the dropping of chemical bombs timed to explode about 100 feet above the flames. he had discussed the suggestion with aviators, chemists and others who told him they believed it was feasible.

Bombs could be devised and used for war purposes, and Mr. Brown said the same ingenuity could produce chemical bombs for fighting bush fires.

P. J. Mather said that when he was going to a rural school he never heard anything taught or mentioned about soil conservation. "We have got to get that subject into the rural and urban public schools. When I attended an agricultural short course here 25 years ago there was nothing that I can remember now about the basic principles of soil and its management, and what makes the grain grow."

Demonstration Farms

More use of demonstration farms and analysis of soils were also mentioned by Mr. Mather. He commented that in a democratic country compulsory methods could not be adopted, and education in such matters as conservation was a slow process.

Prof. R. G. Knox to the effect that the word 'conservation' should be substituted by "land use" for clearer and general understanding of its import. "We should have a survey of farm land for the purpose of determining its best uses, as a mean of getting essential information to the farmer and convince him that he should put it into practice. Perhaps we are not making enough use of our agricultural offices."

"Some years ago it was estimated that the medical profession cost the taxpayers $10,000 to prepare a young doctor for his work," said Mr. Gifford. "That sum may be $15,000 today. It would be a great help to our young farm couples when they are starting out if they had the advantage of knowing definitely what their land is best adapted for, and the ideas and methods that were found most beneficial. More assistance of that kind might be arranged from our agricultural offices."

Derives Benefit

Hary Blewett, owner of the demonstration farm on the Chemong Road, said the technical assistance offered by the Ontario Agricultural College and the Department had been a benefit to him.

"The first question that was considered when we took up that project was 'what is the land best suited for?' The wood lot on a hill was kept free of cattle to encourage the growth of young trees. Several hills that were eroded were put back into grass. That should have been done years ago. A definite plan of crop rotation has been a big advantage as far as I can see. I hadn't been systematic enough before that. Contouring and strip farming was another thing we did. Although it is a demonstration farm, I still see some people plowing up and down hill. I don't know that there is much education there"

Mr. Blewett remarked that in this planned type of farming, perfection could not be reached in three or four years He said it might be more like 10.

"This business of education is more difficult to accomplish than some people assume," Frank Paterson commented. "I told Mr. Blewett some of the folks might laugh at him when he went into the demonstration farm work. Traditional thinking is hard to change. Personally I would be a lot happier if more people went out to see the Blewett place."

Learns Hard Way

W. W. Dawson said that, like Mr. Mather, he was not taught anything about agriculture at school. He had to learn it the hard way.

In regard to the practice of summer fallow, Mr. Dawson said too much of the plowing resulted in valuable top soil being carried by rain to the bottom of the field. He mentioned an observation at his own place after last Thursday's downpour, and said "more good soil was carried off Thursday in this province than we could put back in years."

Mr. T. J. Ryan, head of the Trent Canal department, briefly traced the development of the reservoir dam system of the Trent watershed which enabled control of freshet water and avoidance of the serious floods in spring that were reported annually from the Grand and Thames rivers in western Ontario.

Other contributing to the discussion were Mr. Brethen, R. A. Stewart, John Bell, zone forester, John Ketcheson of the soils department, Col. Birdsall, Bruce Graham, Earl Rosborough.

Stream Control

Mr. Graham suggested that control of small streams might be practical for the forming of ponds for the conservation of ducks and other wild life.

Wm. Mood remarked that an obstacle to the new farming was the old stone fences of the pioneers. Removal of those fences could be effected by a bull-dozer service, which the Department might be able to supply, possibly on a rental basis. It would be an aid to the modern farm planning.

Mr. Paterson said that if it were not advisable for the government to undertake that service, it might be made available by private enterprise. He informed the members appointed to go to Lindsay next week that the meeting there was at 10 a.m., and hoped that they could all make the trip.

Coroner's Jury Recommends Road Flag Men

BOBCAYGEON, Aug. 4.—(By a Staff Reporter.) —Accidental death was the verdict reached by a five-man coroner's jury inquiring into the death of William H. Gray, of Lakefield, on No. 36 highway, six miles east of Bobcaygeon July 21.

The inquest, presided over by Victoria county's coroner, Dr. W. R. Thomas, was held Wednesday afternoon in Bobcaygeon town hall.

Jury foreman, Henry Parker, former reeve of Harvey, reported that the jury recommended to the provincial department of highways that gangs of road workers put out flag men on both sides of the work area to warn approaching motorists of the danger.

Mr. Gray, 75-year-old acting foreman of the road workers, was killed instantly when struck by a loaded logging truck driven by Lorne Kelso, 23, of Bobcaygeon.

Describes Accident

Kelso told the jury he was driving about 35 miles an hour along the 18-foot highway. He saw no sign of the workers until he topped a sharp rise. Then he saw a man on the side of the road. He jammed on his foot brakes, the emergency brake, and blew his horn. The brakes couldn't begin to hold the 11-ton load. A pump motor on a trailer behind the department truck drowned the sound of the horn. Mr. Gray was struck by the right front fender. The department truck was on the south side and Mr. Gray had his back to the oncoming logging truck on the south side.

"I was trying to get through without hitting anything," Kelso said. "Apparently he (Mr. Gray) didn't hear me. He seemed to walk right into the truck."

Witness Thomas Hatton, Lakefield, driver of the department truck and only road worker who was aware the logging truck was coming, told the jury, "he (Kelso) did all he could do."

Jury foreman Parker, in announcing the verdict, said the jury men "agreed unanimously the truck driver (Kelso) wasn't to blame."

Mr. Hatton testified he had discussed the question of stationing flag men to warn motorists to slow down with Mr. Gray on previous occasions. Mr. Gray had said he wasn't supplied with enough men to spare two flaggers.

Dr. Thomas told the jury Mr. Gray's body was badly broken and either the skull fracture or the chest injury he received was enough to cause death.

Provincial Constables G. M. Caldwell and York of Lindsay, who investigated the accident, also gave evidence.

BIG LOAD FOR A LITTLE GIRL is this five-headed cabbage grown by Mrs. Earl Woodcock on Highway 7, seven miles east of the city. The vegetable, which boasts five good-sized heads on its upper surface and two heads in the budding stage underneath, is held by Jacqueline Galvin, 181 Hazlitt St. Circumference of the top is 36", and top plane measurement is 13". It was grown in a patch where the rest of the cabbages are normal. —Examiner Staff Photo

Two Trucks Collide On Narrow Roadway

Two trucks were badly smashed and both had to be towed away after they collided Wednesday noon on Clonsilla Ave. Both drivers escaped without injury.

One vehicle, driven by Keith Boorman, 55 Hunter St. E., was a combination tank and stake oil truck and the other was driven by John W. Henderson, 42 Irwin Ave., York, Toronto.

Excavations on both sides of the highway narrowed the road to about 15 feet, according to city police constable Andy Dalton. There was room for only one vehicle to pass at a time and Boorman, travelling east, was the first to pass. Henderson, who was going west, braked as he saw Boorman passing through the narrow section of the road and his truck went into a skid. Boorman got through the narrow part and was back onto his own side of the road when the other truck skidded and the two vehicles collided.

Touring London Jim Webb Meets The Queer

Jim Webb, Peterborough boy, who left here July 14 to attend a World Rover Moot overseas, was in a group of four who stopped in downtown London a week ago and chatted with Her Majesty the Queen. Webb, who was with Tom Abel, London, a student at the University of Western Ontario, John Starr, Hamilton, and Tom German, Kitchener, have been touring the capital.

The Canadian Scouts visited Imperial Scout Headquarters, and saw the room dedicated to Lord Baden Powell. This room is filled with the late Chief Scout's personal belongings and gifts received by him prior to his death in 1941.

The Canadians, who are stationed at Chiswick, a suburb of London, are finding that the food is plain, but good. While none in the contingent were actually seasick, some were slightly under the weather due to the change in food and water.

The English people are impressing the visitors with their friendliness and interest. Several Canadians have been stopped by passersby who wanted to know something about Canada.

A touch of home was found in London as some of the Rovers met people from Toronto, and saw Canadian cars, complete with left-hand drive, on the streets.

In general, the Canadians are having a wonderful time, and are developing an admiration for the spirits of the English people.

London's Claim To Irish Being Strenuously Pressed

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 4—(CP)—London's "Mr. Irish" scoured through this city's history files Wednesday and came up with several reasons why London has a major Canadian claim on the deposed statue of Queen Victoria that once stood in a Dublin square.

"Mr. Irish"—Assessment Commissioner Harry Bennett—brushed off an unofficial claim from Peterborough that it has a right to the statue, because of the large Irish population and public use of the name Victoria.

London officials recently wired the Eire government asking if it could obtain the deposed statue. Shipping charges alone will amount to some $8,000.

Says Mr. Irish: "London's connections with both Ireland and Victoria are almost too numerous to mention."

Some Of Claims

Wasn't London derived from the pure Celtic Lun Dun, a term which in English means Ship's Fort?

Didn't three Irishmen, Lord Edward Fitzgerald, Capt. John Givens and Capt. J. Gray, recommend London to Governor Simcoe as the future capital of Canada?

And even before there was stick or brick of the present city, wasn't the area surveyed by Patrick McNiff and Peter Carroll and visited by Rev. Dr. Webster, all of them Irish?

Col. Thomas Talbot, generally considered the father of the London area, was born in Dublin and died in this city. Other Irish who played a prominent part in this city's history included Bishop Vronyn, the Meredith family and Sir Frank Smith, a mayor, who lent his financial assistance to Sir John A. Macdonald to complete the transcontinental Canadian Pacific Railway.

By 1851, according to government census reports, London had more folk of Irish birth or descent than any other community in Canada.

In London there is Victoria Park, Victoria Bridge, Victoria St., Victoria School.

Enlarging the Victoria connection, Mr. Bennett says that Albert St. was named for the Queen's husband; Kent St. for her father; Louisa St. for her mother, and Clarence St., Edward St., Connaught Ave. and St. George St for her children. Balmoral St. was named for her favorite Scottish home; Windsor Cres., for her English home.

A daughter of her uncle, George [illegible]

Even London's worst disaster occurred on Victoria Day, 1881, when the steamer Victoria capsized in the Thames and hundreds of persons died.

In the field of military activity, a company of the 100th Regiment was raised here. It later became the Leinster Regiment and was disbanded when the Irish Free State was formed. Dublin is in Leinster.

Queen Victoria's father, the Duke of Kent, commanded the 7th Royal Fusiliers, City of London (England) Regiment, when it was stationed in Canada. The Canadian Fusiliers (City of London Regiment) (Canada) is affiliated with the British unit and both wear the same uniform and badges.

And Mr. Bennett says he could think up other reasons, if he thought they were necessary.

Soap Makers Reduce Prices

Peterborough grocers were taken by surprise by announcements from two soap manufacturers of soap and shortening price cuts. Local independent store keepers first heard of the price cut this morning.

As a result, price changes are still uncertain in the small stores, but more than one grocer felt the price of large packages of soap flakes would decrease one cent.

Large chain stores cut their prices one cent first thing this morning. Soap substitutes dropped from one to three cents. Laundry soap went down one cent.

Although one soap manufacturer announced vegetable shortening for household use was reduced two cents a pound, this change was not reflected in Peterborough stores today.

Local grocers said they had stocks of soap on hand which had been bought at the high price. The profit per package was so small, they felt they could not afford to cut prices until they had sold those stocks. One business man said when the prices had gone up, grocers had held the price down until the stock on hand had been sold. "It works both ways, you know," he commented.

With most grocers asked it was a matter of their waiting to see what happened, but there seemed to be a belief prices would come down a notch.

Rescue 2 Fishermen When Boat Ablaze

DETROIT, Aug. 4 (CP)—Two fishermen were rescued from the Detroit River near Ecorse, Mich., Wednesday night when two explosions and flames wrecked their 18-foot cruiser in full view of hundreds of passengers aboard the Detroit and Cleveland liner Western States.

Hero of the river drama was an unidentified cruiser owner who pulled the two fishermen from the water after they had donned life jackets and abandoned their stricken craft.

Rescued without a scratch were Charles Jackwak, 39, and John Kopey.

The Western States anchored near the fire scene and put a lifeboat into the water to aid in the rescue. The coast guard also dispatched a boat to the area.

Jackwak said the explosions and fire came without warning as they were returning to Detroit from Fighting Island.

Appeal For Aid To Repair Old Cathedral

Mayor Max Swanston has received an appeal for funds from Peterborough, England, where the ancient Anglican cathedral built in 1407 is in need of repair to the extent of £10,000 ($40,000).

The two cities sharing the same name have already cemented ties of friendship through messages exchanged between the mayors. Now comes an appeal, together with an illustrated booklet depicting the beauty and historical treasures represented by the cathedral.

The appeal for support from this Canadian city of Peterborough comes from Canon L. E. W. Bosley, who writes from the vicarage, Peterborough England. Mayor Swanston is waiting to see what support the people of this city are willing to give to the cathedral before taking any civic action.

The English cathedral is the parish church of St. John the Baptist and ranks among Britain's most famous historic buildings.

Parish records include the Elizabethan charter securing rights of the market and the beautiful interior of the church itself is reminiscent of days long past.

The need to launch an appeal for funds resulted from discovery of dry rot and the Death Watch Beetle when the roof was stripped for comparatively minor repairs.

Timbers Destroyed

Recurrent leaking in the roof of the nave led to the church commissioners entering a contract to have the roof stripped of the lead covering and replaced. After it had been stripped, however, it was discovered that the heavy oak timbers had been attacked by the beetle and by dry rot.

Servicemen from the American Continent serving in Britain during the war were among recent visitors to the cathedral at Peterborough. On the borders of the Fen country and 76 miles north of London, Peterborough was an historic landmark for many sightseeing servicemen.

The story of the cathedral—the present building is the third to stand on the site—has been traced back to the seventh century, and it is known that the first building was destroyed by the invading Danes in the ninth century.

Comparatively modern history links Oliver Cromwell's name with the cathedral. In 1643 the building was defaced by his soldiers, who were responsible for destruction of many churches north-east of London.

Peterborough's cathedral was fortunate in escaping destruction during the Second World War. When so many historic buildings were damaged and demolished, England's Peterborough was untouched by any form of bombardment—except from dry rot and the Death Watch Beetle.

SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Muldrew of Elizabethville was held at their home last Wednesday, a few months in advance of their actual wedding date, Feb. 5, 1890. A congratulatory message from Royalty and many others highlighted the gathering of 250 relatives and friends.

Elizabethville Couple Mark 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Muldrew of Elizabethville celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary at their home last Wednesday. More than 250 relatives and friends gathered to pay their respects to this popular couple. Although they will not have been married for sixty years until Feb. 5, 1950, it was thought advisable to hold the occasion in advance when summer weather made it more pleasant.

The late Rev. Anderson of Millbrook performed the marriage ceremony between Mary Martha Gordon and Archibald Muldrew. Born at Newtonville in April, 1862, son of the late Archibald Muldrew and Nancy Hawthorne, Mr. Muldrew spent his youth in that village and later the family moved to Garden Hill to settle at Oak Hill on a farm known as the Muldrew homestead; it is now owned by a nephew Harvey Muldrew. He is the last surviving member of a family of four sons and two daughters.

Mrs. Muldrew was the daughter of the late William Gordon and Sarah Hamilton of Oak Hill. She has two sisters, Mrs. James Muldrew of Elizabethville and Mrs. Harold Smyth of Peterborough and a brother, J. H. Gordon of Kendal.

Successful farmers for 52 years in the Garden Hill district, the Muldrews are one of the most respected couples in their community. There are seven children living: four daughters, Mrs. Wm Walter of Peterborough, Mrs. Harry Fowlie of Detroit, Mrs. Russell Savery of Starkville and Miss Wilhemine Muldrew of New York City. Sons Lawrence and William live in Oshawa and Stanley in Whitby and another son Gordon died in infancy.

Message From King

Among the hundreds of messages of congratulation was one from Their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth, the Hon. Leslie Frost, Premier of Ontario, and Charles Stephenson of Port Hope, formerly M. P. for Durham.

Tea was served in the afternoon and a program of entertainment was held in the evening during which addresses were read and gifts distributed to the popular couple. Besides a keen interest in community affairs Mr. Muldrew is a keen hunter and bagged his first wolf last year and still enjoys a good game of baseball.

Premier Seeks Information On City Housing

A casual conversation between Premier Leslie M. Frost and Mayor Max Swanston here on Civic Holiday got around to the question of housing.

Recent intimations have indicated that this subject is to be discussed on August 8 in Toronto by Federal Minister of Reconstruction Winters and representatives of the Ontario cabinet including the Premier.

In reporting the holiday incident in which Mayor Swanston was particularly interested, His Worship said today: "Premier Frost asked me if there was any special phase of the housing problem in which Peterboroug was interested. I answered that I thought the council and the citizens generally would like to see full payment of taxes on the houses built by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation for rental purposes. This has been an unsatisfactory arrangement ever since the housing emergency arose here. Different councils have discussed it from the angle of full taxes instead of fixed payments by the government in lieu of taxes.

"Premier Frost said that the matter of taxes was one question to which he had been personally giving some thought, and he said he was glad to know what the Peterborough feeling was on that point. Mr. Frost asked me what the rented houses are costing the city, but, offhand, I could not give an exact figure. I said I thought City Clerk Outram could prepare a statement in a short time. The Premier suggested that we get this information for him, and Mr. Outram is getting it ready."

English Women Change Dresses Rummage Sales

By MARGARET LANCASTER

"There is no exaggeration at all in stories about food and clothing shortages in England", Mrs. Wm. Addyman declared today when telling of her two and a half month visit there this summer. "Almost everything is rationed and prices are very high. If you can afford to buy on the black market, or stay in high class hotels and pay prices prohibitive to the average person, you can do all right," she added.

Mrs. Addyman, president of Peterborough Local Council of Women, left for England on May 8 for a visit with her family and her mother who was seriously ill then and died two weeks after she arrived. Later she made visits to various places, seeing friends of local people, and to Peterborough where she was a guest of the Tradeswomen's Council.

Appeal for Clothing

Members of the latter organization appealed for shipments of any used clothing she might be able to gather. To explain the great need they pointed to a little old lady wearing a threadbare dress and related its lengthy history of ownership. The women have become tired of wearing one dress for years and years so they have devised a system of turning them in at rummage sales and thus making a change once in a while. Another method is for Mrs. Jones to give the skirt of her dress to Mrs. Smith and the blouse to Mrs. Brown, each of whom will fit a blouse and skirt to the pieces and so have a "new" dress.

"I don't see how the women have time to do anything in their homes when they spend all day standing in queues" Mrs. Addyman said. "Different parts of the country are in different positions and my family live in a farming district and are somewhat better off. It is quite possible to have lots to eat and to put on a flabby fatness if you like fish and potatoes and can consume black bread that looks as though it were made from floor sweepings" she explained.

Much Discontent

"The average Englishman is putting on a good front but down deep he is is very discontented" she believes. Most of their dissatisfaction stems from the fact Displaced Persons are being brought into the country and given two thirds more than natives through an international law agreement. "You see crowds of people before 10 Downing St. in London, every day, thoroughly dissatisfied. They hope for an election soon."

Plans for a visit to the Continent had to be set aside when Mrs. Addyman found all the tours were booked by English people seeking a holiday where there is more food and generally better conditions.

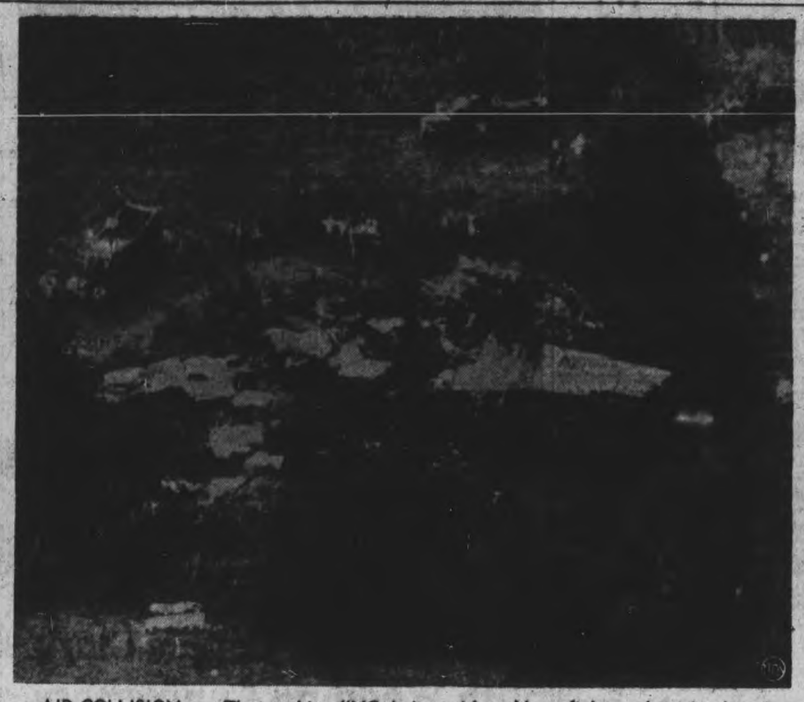
Business Slump Eases Off For Time Being

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)—Signs built up today of a breathing spell—but probably not a permanent halt—in the business downturn in the United States which has run through 1949 so far.

A consensus produced by an official group of economists boiled down—with some "ifs" attached—to this:

1. The immediate outlook is that economic activity likely will hold at the mid-year level for the July-August-September quarter, and perhaps may rise a bit in September.



2. Longer-range prospects are darker, because it seems that, on the whole, fundamental readjustment has not been completed and employment, production, income and prices may continue to draft downward from October through mid-1950.

The man who drew up this appraisal would not be quoted by name.

The longer-range downdrift, it was noted, probably will be obscured from recognition by its piecemeal character, a moderate tempo, and erratic upturns now and then in particular lines.

One sign of an economic breather or reversal was said to be "a significant change in the attitude of business men (over the country) within the last two weeks," this involving a swing toward optimism.

The "significant change" was reported by a strategically-placed Washington official with an unexcelled opportunity to keep in touch with business thought in all parts of the country and to get a bearing on its general direction.

Loaned Neighbor Gun Just Before Murder

EDMONTON, Aug. 4 (CP) — A crown witness testified Wednesday that she loaned a pistol to Wilfred Nowell a short time before the 58-year-old Thomas Law was shot and killed in his Edmonton sign-painting office last July 25.

Nowell, a former employee of the painting firm, is accused of murdering Law after Law fired him. Preliminary hearing of a murder charge against Nowell began here yesterday.

Mrs. Michael Homynyk, a neighbor of Nowell's, told the court her husband owned a Luger automatic pistol and had often shown it to Nowell. She said Nowell had borrowed the weapon from her the day of the killing.

Mrs. Homynyk said Nowell told her he had found a purchaser for the gun and asked to have it. She gave it to him, along with a clip of cartridges for it.

The council held Kennedy brought discredit on the union because his views were made to seem union policy.

The two counties also favored establishment of a conservation branch within the agriculture department.

Reports that the new expedition has been under preparation for some time were confirmed by the navy department Wednesday. It said the entire project has been under close scrutiny in recent weeks in the light of budget limitations, and that no decision regarding it will be made until Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations, returns from his present trip to Europe.

The plans are said to call for eight ships and 3,500 men.

BOORMAN'S BEVERAGES

DETERMINED DAREDEVIL—Major Lloyd Hill, 30-year-old daredevil, gets a loving caress from his small daughter and wife after completing Monday's trip through the Niagara River rapids. He made the seven-and-a-half mile jaunt in a 650-pound barrel but not in one trip. His first attempt Saturday was interrupted at the whirlpool after he hurt his leg. He spent the week-end in the hospital and finished the trip Monday afternoon.

$150,000 Crop Harvested From Swamp

FORT FRANCES, Ont., Aug. 4—(CP)—Workmen will be busy all summer about 10 miles southwest of here. They'll be digging more than $100,000 out of a swamp.

No wild hunt for a chest full of gold pieces, the operation is part of the sane but comparatively little-known peat moss industry in Canada.

To the uninitiated, the section of desolate swampland looks useless to man or beast. But out of the bog this summer a 10-year-old company (the Arctic Peat Moss Corporation, Ltd.) expects to harvest a crop worth nearly $150,000, one official estimates.

Nearly all production goes to the United States, where there has been a market for peat moss in the form of poultry litter and horticultural soil conditioner ever since shipments from Germany stopped in 1939. Little if any peat moss is used for fuel on this side of the Atlantic.

Harvesting a crop of peat moss is a simple process. But it takes time. Cutting the blocks of moss out of the bog began in April this year. A gang of about 75 men and women will be kept busy for several months cutting, stacking and re-piling the peat.

After the wind and sun dry out the blocks, which are stacked on racks, they are hauled to large open-air storage sheds. The company has three miles of narrow-gauge railway, complete with engine and cars, to do this job.

Drainage Important

In the company mill, near the bog, the blocks of peat are broken up, screened and baled. Some peat moss has been sold locally for insulation. The company now is experimenting with the idea of manufacturing an insulating wall board.

An important part of the peat moss business is drainage. Canals and ditches must be dug to carry surplus moisture away from the bog before operations can begin. Here there are between four and five miles of ditches in the drainage system. A three-mile main ditch runs to Rainy River.

Peat is made up of an accumulation of three or more kinds of mosses, together with other decayed vegetation. Some spots in the bog here have been mined to a depth of 12 or 14 feet. Normally the crop is taken to a depth of one foot at a time. The main value of the finished product is that it will absorb up to 15 times its own weight in water.

Peat moss is used, among other things, for golf course greens, in greenhouses, orchards and market gardens. Most of the Canadian output of peat moss comes from British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Quebec and New Brunswick produce some.

Manitoba's peat moss operations are at Whitemouth, about 60 miles east of Winnipeg.

Through the years, peat has been put to many different uses. But perhaps the strangest use came to light during the First World War, when the Canadian government operated peat bogs to produce material for surgical dressings as well as for fuel.

Professor Raps Mine Monopoly

THETFORD MINES, Que., Aug. 4.—(CP).—The Arbitration Board into the labor dispute between three Thetford Mines asbestos companies and the Federation of Asbestos Workers (C.C.C.L.) today carried its sittings to the mines.

Judge Thomas Tremblay of Quebec, chairman of the Board, suggested counsel for the federation of the three companies involved — the Asbestos Corporation, the Johnson Mines and the Flintkote Mines Limited—and experts appointed by both parties and members of the press be included in the party. Other members of the Board said Theo Lesperance representing the workers and Raymond Caron acting for the three companies.

Seven mines are operated by the companies in Thetford Mines and it is expected one mine of each company will be visited.

More than 2,000 workers walked out last February on a 4½ month strike for a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase, elimination of asbestos dust in and around company plants, a social security plan and other benefits.

In Wednesday's hearings Maurice Lamontagne, economics professor at Laval University, a Federation witness, said the eastern townships asbestos industry was an "almost complete monopoly."

Senate Rejects Measure To Handicap ERP

By FORBES REUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Administrators of the European recovery program, as well as the recipient countries, probably are breathing a little easier today.

The reason: The United States senate yesterday turned back a measure which would have handicapped E.R.P. considerably.

This was an amendment to the foreign aid appropriation bill which would have provided that a huge chunk of E.R.P. funds — $1,350,000,000—be spent on surplus United States farm crops.

It is the essence of E.R.P. that its funds are to promote the recovery of Europe and not to provide direct assistance for any American or North American group.

The funds do, of course, through helping to restore Europe and in the meantime helping to maintain trade, assist every one. But to restrict the E.R.P. administrators in the way they think the money should be spent would be another thing.

Forsee Cut

While swithing of money from one purpose to another apparently has been avoided, still a great deal of the money is in fact spent on this continent, and a lot of it in Canada.

Canadian officials recognize that American exporters will turn an increasingly critical eye on sums spent elsewhere than in the United States, and this may mean that less E.R.P. wil lbe spent here.

BOMBS FOR BRITAIN—German bombs, this time without their "blitz" effect, are once again reaching Britain. Among hundreds of tons of scrap iron and steel being shipped daily to England from Berlin's western sectors are some of the defunct Luftwaffe's biggest block-busters. Here German workmen use an acetylene torch to halve the shell of a two-and-a-half-tonner. (Photo by NEA-Acme staff correspondent Jack Chitham.)

There are some factors, however, which should continue to bring considerable amounts to this country. One is the matter of availability of the particular goods needed.

Another is that if dollars now received by Canada through ERP purchases are cut down, Canada will have that much less American money to spend in the United States. What one American exporter may gain through the switching of ERP purchases from Canada to the United States, another may lose through decreased Canadian buying.

ERP funds that are spent for goods in Canada, find their way back to the United States.

Another factor that would relieve pressure for cutting ERP buying here would be a pick-up in business conditions across the border.

There are increasing signs that this may be taking place. From New York the metal-working trade weekly, Iron Age, reports that steel scrap prices are showing real signs of strength for the first time since January.

Women Waiting 40 Years To Get In House of Lords

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Aug. 4—(CP)—Women have been waiting 40 years to get into the House of Lords, and it looks as though they'll go on waiting for a while. It's largely a question of timing. Nearly everyone agrees peeresses should be allowed to sit in the Upper House, but enabling legislation is not expected during the present parliament.

Whitehall's feeling is that the question is part of the larger matter of reform of the Lords. Conservatives and Labor generally agree that reform is overdue, but they probably won't do anything about it until after the next election.

Ineligibles

When and if they do, about 24 women who are Peeresses in their own right will be affected. One of them, Baroness Darcy de Knayth, is 11 years old. She would not be able to take her seat until 1959.

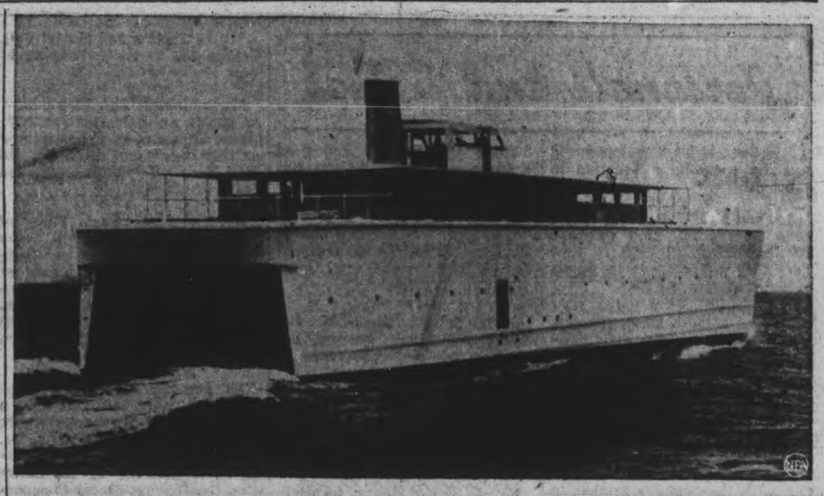
Another is Princess Arthur of Connaught, who is Duchess of Fife in her own right. As a Royal Princess, she would not take her seat but would be formally presented.

Peeresses began their fight for a right to sit in the Lords in 1908. Twice before 1930, a measure to admit them on the same terms as men was defeated. New proposals were rejected by the Lords in 1946.

But the ladies finally scored. In a recent debate in the Lords, Peers decided by 45 votes to 27 that women should be admitted as soon as the government introduced the necessary legislation.

Lordly Wit

The motion was introduced by the Marquess of Reading, married for 35 years and the father of a son and two daughters.



He said it is out-of-date to suggest that admission of women would imperil the dignity of the House because they might "by powers of fascination beguile some of your Lordships into the wrong lobby."

Amid laughter, he added:

"This House is not primarily a club, which in the Pall Mall sense may be defined as a voluntary association of persons determined not to associate."

Eighty-five-year-old Viscount Cecil of Chelwood wanted to know "why on earth" women should be excluded.

"We have had five queens who have shown capacity at least as high as that of any man," he said. "It is fantastic to say you cannot find a woman fit to sit in the House of Lords."

ROUGH SAILING ON ITS WAY OUT—This will be the coming thing in large passenger ships and luxury liners, according to speedboat designer and manufacturer Gar Wood. It's the Venturi, Wood's newest design, shown in Detroit. The twin-hulled yacht is said to be able to ride the roughest type of water and still maintain its even keel. Wood says the unique "tunnel" construction pockets air on which the craft rides, preventing rough sailing even in heavy seas at high speed.

Coffee Shop Wrecked

EDMONTON, Aug. 4 (CP)—An explosion that levelled an Edmonton coffee shop Wednesday sent three persons to city hospitals. The trio were the only persons in the shop when the blast, believed caused by leaking natural gas, ripped through the frame building and smashed windows in surrounding structures.

Marriage is More Than Love Reply New York Ministers

NEW YORK (CP)—A New England clergyman has raised a heated controversy by advocating a change in the marriage ceremony.

Rev Gordon B. McKeeman, Universalist minister in Worcester, Mass., who urged that the word "love" be substituted for "live" in the sentence "so long as ye both shall live," said the old version is "antiquated."

An angry chorus of New York wives and clergymen, and a somewhat feebler chorus of males, dispute this.

A young bride of less than six months was aghast at the idea.

"My goodness," she spluttered, "that's perfectly awful. I like the traditional way, just as it is."

Another young bride thought the proposed version would start young couples off wrong. "They would go into marriage with the feeling that this might not be for ever," she said.

A number of clergymen also expressed themselves as strongly against the change.

Dr. Randolph Ray, minister of the Little Church Around the Corner, in which more than 150,000 people have been married during the 100 years of its existence, said he wouldn't consider the change for a moment.

"It's ridiculous," he declared. "People fall in love and out. They might as well not take any vows at all."

Love Not Everything

Marriage means something more than mere physical attraction, Dr Ray thinks, and the proposed change would overemphasize "physical love, which passes very soon."

Dr. William Rosenblum of Temple Israel also expressed himself against any such suggestion. "Marriage is a sacred covenant. I believe in love but marriage also means a responsibility to one nother mutual respect and a community of interests."

A Roman Catholic priest was just adamant. "Marriage is permanent," he said firmly.

What do the men say about this?

One bachelor, a banker, thought the proposed change might have some merit—"It would probably be more practical and truthful. It might be a more accurate way of putting it. So many marriages end in divorce, why perjure yourself in the beginning?"

But playwright Charles MacArthur, husband of actress Helen Hayes, was inclined to agree that the idea was silly.

"It's immaterial," said the husband of 10 years. "What words we use don't make any difference. When anyone goes into marriage, naturally he thinks that it will be successful. Changing the words won't do any good. First of all, you must have a change in concepts of marriage and family life."

Skirt and Trousers Combine In One in New Paris Design

By MURRIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON— (CP)— Schiaparelli has a novel solution for the controversial question of whether skirt or trousers shall prevail in beachwear.

The Paris designer is showing an ensemble which covers one leg with a trouser and the other with a skirt.

Made in gay chintz, the left side is a plainly-cut, calf-length trouser leg, while the right is a [illegible] ed skirt of the same le[illegible]

The skirt gathering forms an arc from the centre trouser seam to the right hip where it meets the cummerbund and continues straight round the back till it meets the trouser leg. This gives a skirt back.

It is worn with a Mephisto-topped swimsuit in black linen, cut skin tight and so stiff that the flame-shaped cut-outs don't wilt in sun or water. The whole is topped by a rough straw Mexican sombrero.

Other continental beachwear is under discussion in the British press. Taking a look round Venice's lido beach, the reviewers find that anything may be worn from a grass skirt to swimsuit encrusted with seashells or fired with shining sequins.

Italian swimsuits are mostly one-piece strapless, with a cuffed bra top split in the centre to a deep plunge.

Paris presents flowered scanties: tiny strapless bras with tie-bows and the briefest briefs possible.

Sun-Suits Like Ballet Dresses

The newest of sun-suits is a close copy of the classical ballerina costume—long slender bodying with a brief full skirt fluting out over tiny pants.

For boating, there is a hip-length fringe-footed tunic in polka-dot with halter necks and cuffed plunge bra line. This can be combin[illegible] [illegible] has [illegible] worn with a black-button pinafore. The full skirt is completely open at the back. The top is plain with two straps.

For wearing over a swimsuit there is a tieside play-suit. It is open down each side in pinafore style, having ballerina skirt with scalloped foot and baby pinafore top with scalloped sides and plain round neck.

Dirndl blouses have a new look They are made of broderie anglaise or eyelet-hole embroidery, havnig deep frill off-the-shoulder neckline and frill-finished sleeves. They are gathered onto an elastic band to leave a bare midriff and are suitable for combination with shorts or flowered dirndl skirt.

Attractive for plain-colored linen skirts are the strapless jersey tops with turn-back cuff around the top and neat ribbed waistline. Although unboned it stays up because it is machine-made and fits like the paper on a wall.

New Zealanders Help DPs Settle

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP).—New Zealand is making a thorough job of fitting its first large group of displaced persons from Europe into a new life in the Dominion. They are being given a broad education in New Zealand conditions before being allocated to industries.

The party of nearly 1,000 persons from eight northern European countries includes more than 100 elderly people who are too old to be expected to work. New Zealand is the first country to recognize a responsibility to care for old people in accepting drafts of displaced persons from the International Refugee Organization.

Selected from displaced persons' camps in Germany and Austria, the immigrants were given preliminary instructions during their voyage here in the English language, weights and measures, New Zealand laws, the Maori people and the Dominion's social security system.

Greeted With Flowers

On arrival they were taken by train to a camp at Pahiatua which was used during the war for refugee Polish children. On the way they were handed gifts of flowers, chocolates and toys for the children by citizens who met the train at stations.

Efforts are being made to find suitable light or part-time work for the elderly people. More than 100 applications to adopt six orphan children included in the draft had been made before the party's arrival.

Canadian Pianist Says Paris Chaste

TORONTO, Aug. 4 (CP) — Agnes Butcher, brilliant Canadian pianist recently returned from a pleasure trip to Europe, says "Paris has become rather chaste."

The girls of the Folies Bergere wear clothes and prostitution has become illegal and altogether Paris isn't what it used to be before the war, says Miss Butcher. She studied music in Europe before the war.

Now a teacher at Toronto's Royal Conservatory of Music, Miss Butcher says what started out as a pleasure trip actually turned into a series of concert performances.

From France, she and her husband went to Cologne where in a lecture room of the university she played Bach and Beethoven.

MISS SEPIA, 1949—Curvacious Mary Clark, centre, 17-year-old high school student from Detroit, was crowned Miss International Sepia of 1949 over 24 other contestants in a beauty show held in conjunction with the annual Emancipation Day celebration in Windsor, Ont. Another Detroiter, Miss Beverly Evan, right, was second, while Canada's lone entry, Miss Cora Davis, 17, of Windsor, was third.

Family Loses Coordination When Mother Takes Holiday

DEAR MISS DIX: I am taking my first and only vacation in twenty-five years of married life and enjoying it tremendously. But in my month's absence from home hubby has lost fourteen pounds in weight. My daughter, 22 years old, is getting weak over her job of household tasks and cooking. My son will not stay in the house much because he cannot see me around. And my pet dog and cat are refusing to eat and wander from room to room hunting me. So I must cut short my holiday and go back to keep the home together. So much for mother's vacation. What do you say to that?

Dorothy Dix

MRS. F. H.

ANSWER: Why, I'd say any woman who is that important to her family should feel that she is one of the kingpins that held the univerhe together. And I am sure she must be so proud and happy that her very heart must sing sing for joy.

But your story proves my contention that every wife and mother should take a vacation away from her family every year, not only for her ow nsake, but for their sakes. It gives her husband and children a chance to get a perspective on her and see just how valuable she is to them and how much they need her.

You see, when we are with people all the time we unconsciously get to take them they do for granted. The household runs along on greased wheels. Things are always clean and neat and orderly. There is always a light burning in the window when husband and children come home at night. There is always somebody to nurse if one is sick and to sympathize if one is in trouble. But we get so accustomed to this that we don't notice it.

We somehow feel that home just sort of automatically runs itself and that there is some magic that conjures up tasty dinners and fresh clothes and makes beds and sweeps floors, and that mother hasn't much to do with it, and that while it is nice to have her around, she is by no means a necessity.

So that is why every wife and mother should insist on a vacation. She not only goes back home rested and refreshed herself, but to be better loved and more appreciated by her family.

Happy is the woman who is necessary to her family. No greater tribute could be paid to her worth than her husband loses weight in her absence, and that even the cat and dog go from roo mto room hunting her.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: You speak of the failure of American husbands to give their wives romance. Perhaps you can tell how long a wife would stand perpetual petting from any man, even her husband. You seem to overlook the fact that a man who works hard all day hasn't time to think of soft things to say to his wife when he gets home. It seems to me that if a wife attends to her work properly she will not notice whether her husband is indifferent or not, so why blame a husband's indifference when the real cause is the wife's idleness and selfish desire to be waited on?

ANSWER: You got me wrong, Mr. Man, if you think that I advocated a man's knocking off work and spending his time sighing at his wife's feet. I think that the love which doesn't express itself in deeds hasn't much substance, and that a man can say it with beefsteaks just as much as he can with violets.

Nor do I advise any man to turn himself into a kissing bug. Any normal woman gets fed up on that kind of thing in very short order. Sentiment and caresses are like chocolate candy—delicious to nibble on (and every woman has a sweet tooth) but cloying as a steady diet.

But there is a difference, isn't there, Mr. Man, between a man's neglecting his wife and paying her a few well-deserved attentions? It seems to me that even the Tired Business Man is not so utterly exhausted but that he could notice what his wife has on and some of the things she has done during the day to make him happy and comfortable, and mention them to her if he really sensed that the poor creature would consider this adequate pay for her labor.

A man doesn't work any harder after marriage than he did before marriage. While he was courting his wife he found strength enough to spend from three to four hours an evening telling her how beautiful and wonderful and different from all other women she was, and how much he admired her. So I think he might mention it now and then after marriage. And, believe me, Mr. Man, no woman ever works so hard that she ceases to notice whether her husband is indifferent or not. When she does that, it is because she doesn't care.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 51, with a tidy little property that I have accumulated by hard work and economy. I am in love with a widower, a man of 65, who is a splendid man in every respect. Are we too old to marry?

WORRIED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Not a bit of it. A man of 65 is only in his prime in these days. There is no reason why you two should not marry and have many years of happy and congenial life together.

Thought Dead Brothers Meet

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(CP)—Two brothers who had thought each other dead for 33 years met this week in Toronto's Union Station.

Tom Ellis, of London, England, was a 14-year-old signaller in the Royal Navy during the First World War and Ernest Ellis, now of Toronto, was a 16-year-old private with the Canadian Forestry Corps when they last met.

"Then, quite a few years ago, we lost touch with our relatives in England," said Ernie. "We thought Tom had died."

When they met in the station it was simply "hello, Tom," and "hello, Ernie."

Tom, who was only eight when Ernie left England for Canada, will go back to his job in London in a month. Meanwhile the brothers are filling in the gap left by 33 years of separation.

Film Workers Squawk At Cut

LONDON, Aug. 4.—(AP). — British film workers today let out a loud squawk at an industry plan to slash movie salaries by 10 to 20 per cent.

Actors and actresses in supporting roles complained they will suffer far more than the name-in-lights types, who surrender most of their pay to the tax man anyway.

"Players well up in the game but just under the big-star class will certainly take a walloping," said Bill Hartnell, screen tough guy.

Star Margaret Lockwood's reaction was typical of those in the big-money brackets:

"The difference between £10,000 ($40,000) a year and £20,000 is only about £750 by the time the inland revenue has had its share."

The pay-cut plan, disclosed yesterday, lops 20 per cent off big-star salaries, then tapers down to 10 per cent for screen folk making as little as £261 a year.

Catch Youths Stealing Clothing From Car

When Constable Vern O'Donoghue was sitting on the verandah of his Roger St. home Wednesday evening, he saw two youths searching through a car parked across the street. Today two men were charged in city police court with stealing a pair of boy's tweed pants and a blazer from the car. One pleaded guilty and the other, not guilty.

The accused are Gerald Sweet, Nassau, who pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence to August 11. The other, Albert Selmes, 376½ Water St., pleaded not guilty and was remanded to August 11 with bail set at $1,000.

The men are charged with stealing the clothes, which are valued at more than $25, from Mrs. Dr. Feick, New Hamburg, Ont., who was staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pete McGillen.

Carries Naval Shell

WIXIGOE, Sussex, Enland — When Robert Wares, a fisherman, found an unexploded shell on a nearby beach he put it into a sack and carried it three miles to police authorities. It was put in the local mortuary and defused.

Low Rail Rates On Grain Under Attack

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(CP). — The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, in a brief presented to the Royal Commission on Transportation, today criticized low rail rates on export grain traffic moving in Western Canada.

The Association said shippers not receiving these special statutory rates were forced, in effect, to pay for maintaining them.

The Association brief was the opening presentation to the Commission as it began sittings in Toronto, last stop on its lengthy transcontinental tour of investigation into national transportation problems. The three-man body under Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, was expected to sit here two days.

Besides expressing criticism of the western grain rates, the C. M.A. brief also:

1. Renewed a 1944 request it made to the Dominion and Provincial governments for a national transportation policy.

2. Asked for regulation of motor carrier freight services by independent administrative boards.

3. Recommended giving the Board of Transport Commissioners power to order rebates to shippers when it is found they have paid freight charges later determined to be unreasonably high.

4. Proposed that a study of the question of reducing the heavy fixed charges of the Canadian National Railways be undertaken by that railway itself. This matter is included in the terms of reference of the Commission.

5. Urged that steps be taken to obtain uniformity in railway accounting methods.

6. Asked that the two major railways should review and report on co-operative economies they have effected under the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific Act of 1933.

Jail Man For Passing 'Rubber' Cheques

D. C. Tyler, 543 Waterford St., was sent to jail today for a month by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., after pleading guilty to four charges of offering worthless cheques to four Peterborough business people.

Complainants were Dennis Fitzgerald, manager of Zeller's; M. D. Irwin, Irwin's Drug Store; Harvey Strub, manager of Tem Travel Agency and William Dorrington of the Charlotte St. Service Station.

Cheques paid to Zeller's and Tem Travel Agency were each for $20; Irwin's Drug Store accepted a cheque for $15.03 and Mr. Dorrington, $10.

Tyler told the magistrate he came to Peterborough from Trenton five months ago and had been working on the buses here.

Court Dismisses Assault Charge

Stanley Bebee, 122 Hillard St., appeared in city police court today to face a charge of assaulting James McAlpine. The case had already been adjourned three times and when McAlpine failed to appear today, it was dismissed.

V. J. McElderry K. C., representing the Crown in the absence of Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, offered no evidence, stating that it was a private prosecution. Magistrate W. R. Philp, K. C., dismissed the case.

A case against Orville McFadden, 983 Ford Ave., charged with assaulting Joseph McIntosh was adjourned to Aug. 18. Emmett Sheehy, defence counsel, said McIntosh was in hospital at Kingston and was, therefore, unable to appear in court today.

Expensive Railway

OTTAWA, Aug. 4—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent announced today that parliament will be asked to vote a grant of $1,200,000 to assist British Columbia in extending the Pacific Great Eastern Railway from Quesnel to Prince George.

Study Deed First Before Giving Permit

The legal committee of the council is recommending that the building inspector be directed to study the deed of a property before issuing a permit for erecting a building on it. He is to satisfy himself that the proposed building conforms with any restrictions applying to that area. Otherwise, a permit is not to be issued.

The Sands committee authorized City Clerk Outram to prepare a letter in reply to a recent enquiry from the Allied Labor Council respecting the ward system of electing members of the council. The committee approved a Niagara Falls resolution asking the provincial government to relieve municipalities of more of the cost of hospital care of indigent patients.

Princess Takes Trip In Gift Sailboat

COWES, Isle of Wight, Aug. 4 (AP). — Shielded from spray by a battle jacket, Princess Elizabeth took her first cruise in her gift sailboat Bluebottle here yesterday. The Dragon-class boat, 29 feet 3 inches long, was a gift of the Island Sailing Club of Cowes last summer. Princess Elizabeth's husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, with a friend and a paid hand, handled the sails in a brisk breeze.

Leakage Into Pit Causes Lockage Delay

Visiting pleasure craft on their way through the Trent Canal Wednesday were held up temporarily by a water leak that made the Liftlock inoperable. Thomas J. Ryan, superintendent engineer of the Trent Canal, when contacted today, said the lock was out of commission from two until seven o'clock, and that two boats were delayed. Leakage was due to an opening in a gate that had not been properly closed. The situation, not a serious one, was remedied by pumping the water out of the pit.

Woodcock Injured

DONCASTER, England, Aug. 4 (AP). — Bruce Woodcock, British heavyweight boxing champion, suffered shoulder injuries to-day when his truck collided with a tree. Doctors were unable to say immediately whether Woodcock would be able to continue training for his bout with Lee Savold of Paterson, NJ, in London on September 6 for the British version of the world heavyweight title.

13 Prisoners Remain At Large

MORELIA, Mexico, Aug. 4 — (AP). — Fighting between police and convicts who staged a mass break here has resulted in 11 deaths, police announced Wednesday night. Ten of the dead were prisoners and one a guard.

Only 13 of the 72 convicts who fled the Michoacan State Penitentiary Tuesday and seized weapons were still at large. They were being hunted by officers in the hills surrounding Morelia.

Forty-nine of the prisoners surrendered yesterday. They had barricaded themselves on a hill but were surrounded by police and soldiers from the Morelia Garrison. Morelia is 150 miles west of Mexico City.

Pickpocket Caught At Hamilton Track

HAMILTON, Aug. 4.—(CP). — Hamilton police and fire departments combined late yesterday afternoon at the Hamilton Jockey Club's mid-summer races to arrest an enterprising Toronto pickpocket, Robert Torrance, 40, who tried to take advantage of unwary bettors.

In magistrate's court today, he pleaded guilty to the theft of $93 from a Hamilton resident, Edward Winter, and was remanded a week for sentence by Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins.

Standing in the betting ring near the mutuel machines, Mr. Winter felt his wallet being removed and called for help.

An off-duty fireman, Russell Malcolson, heard the cries and gave chase, catching the pickpocket in the crowd.

Later detectives George Wright and Ernest Barrett arrived to place the man under arrest.

Reformatory Prisoner Escapes From Guelph

GUELPH, Aug. 4.—(CP). — Search continued today for Edward Buga, 16, alias Edward Spilaber, who escaped from the Ontario Reformatory Wednesday. Superintendent Hedley Basher reported that an all-night hunt by reformatory guards had failed to reveal any trace of the young fugitive, who is believed to have headed for Toronto. Buga made his getaway while working in the fields with other prisoners.

Arbitration Board Hears Union Dispute

A dispute between Local 527, UE, CIO, and the Peterborough Lock Company was taken before an arbitration board headed by Judge W. S. Lane of Picton in the Public Library Wednesday afternoon. The board's decision will be anounced later.

The dispute centred around the dismissal of nine employees which the union local said was in violation of its agreement with the company. A question of seniority was involved in the dismissal, the union held.

Company and union local officials failed to reach a settlement, but agreed to place the matter before an arbitration board, whose decision will be final and binding on both parties.

The union has asked that the nine men be taken back on their jobs and given full compensation for time lost.

The company's representative on the board was McAuley Dillon, KC, of Toronto. Drummond Wren, general secretary-treasurer of the Workers' Education Association, represented the union local.

Gendron Remanded On Murder Charge

TORONTO, Aug. .—(CP). — Charged with the pistol slaying of Arthur Wickert, 38-year-old department store executive, Philip Gendron, 27, was remanded today to Aug. 11.

Wickert, brother-in-law of Gendron, was fatally shot last week in his basement apartment in a Toronto nursing home following a seven-hour drinking party.

Wage Contract To Be Discussed

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(CP).—A conciliation board report on a new wage contract will be presented tonight for consideration to a membership meeting of union employees of the Algoma Steel Company at Sault Ste. Marie, it was learned here today.

Approximately 4,000 employees, members of the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.), Local 2251, would be affected by the board's recommendations, said to include a 10-cent hourly wage increase and a reduction in the work week from 48 to 44 hours.

This is in line with a settlement reached at the Steel Company of Canada in Hamilton and the Dominion Steel Company, Sydney, N.S.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the Steelworkers' Union, will attend the meeting.

Expect Air Agreement Bring Plane Orders

MONTREAL, Aug. 4.—(CP).—Transport Minister Chevrier, back from air conferences in London, said today he expected the new Pacific air agreement signed in England would mean that Canadian Pacific Air Lines will be ordering additional passenger aircraft from the Canadair Company plant here.

Additional plans will be needed because negotiations just completed between Canada and Britain have extended the Dominion's air rights in the Pacific, an area which is to be serviced by Canadian Pacific Air Lines.

Arbitration Board Hears Anco Dispute

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—(CP).—A three-man board of arbitration today began discussions of the reinstatement of Steve Anco, president of Local 439 of the United Auto Workers of America (C.I.O.), whose discharge precipitated a two-day walkout by some 4,500 employees of the Massey-Harris Co. last week.

The employees agreed to return to work last Friday under terms of a company-union conciliation meeting which called for settlement by arbitration.

Rev. E. W. Rowland officiated at the services, and burial was in Little Lake Cemetery.

Orillia Man Dies Of Fractured Skull

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 4.—Struck by a taxi last night after getting off a bus, John L. Irish, 81, of Orillia, died in hospital today from a fractured skull. Police said the elderly man was crossing a street after returning from a fishing trip and was hit by the taxi, driven by Lloyd A. Leeking, 29.

Jailed Seven Days For Drunken Driving

Bill Heenan, Campbellford, could not decide whether to plead guilty or not guilty in city police court today when he faced a charge of drunk driving. After hearing evidence that he was found inside his car in a ditch at Havelock in a drunken condition, he did not deny the statements of two police officers and changed his plea from not guilty to guilty.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C., sent Heenan to jail for seven days.

Chief Constable Bay M. Bell of Havelock, said he found Heenan inside his car in the ditch on Highway 30 in Havelock village.

When he opened the door Heenan nearly fell out. He staggered to the road and the constable took him to the village jail.

Provincial Constable David Coffey, Peterborough detachment, described Heenan as being "under the influence" when he transferred him from Havelock to Peterborough.

Nothing Official

MONTREAL—(CP)—The provincial tourist bureau is somewhat embarrassed. It can provide official road maps of Ontario, and official road maps of Canada. But the road map of Quebec isn't official—it's put out by an oil company.

Get New Name On Phone Calls

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 — (CP) — Government switchboard operators now answer "Government of Canada" instead of "Dominion of Canada" when calls come through 28211 which connects most branches of the Government.

The change, ordered by the Finance Department which has jurisdiction over the government's telephone service, took effect at the end of last month when a new telephone directory was issued.

The directory lists government numbers under "Government of Canada" instead of under the former heading of "Dominion of Canada."

Finance Department officials said the change was ordered by the Department, but none appeared prepared to say why the order was issued.

There have been several moves in recent years to have the word "Dominion" dropped from Canadian titles and one government source said recently that the word connotes colonial status.

'URGENTLY NECESSARY'—Former Secretary of State George C. Marshall (right) hears some whispered words from Sen. Tom Connally (D., Tex.) in Washington. Marshall testified before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, studying President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms aid program. He termed the program "urgently necessary".

Farmer Becomes Petunia Expert

EDMONTON, Aug. 4 — (CP) —At a glance, Robert Simonet of Edmonton is an ordinary citizen-farmer who can be seen any Saturday morning selling his produce at the city market place.

But Mr. Simonet also is a scientist. Unknown to many of his fellow Edmontonians, he is one of the world's leading producers of 100 per cent pure strain, double-headed petunia seeds.

His laboratory is the hothouse in his back yard. His laboratory technicians are five or six young girls who, with the aid of tweezers, artificially cross-pollinate hundreds of petunia seed specimens.

Mr. Simonet's method of deriving pure strain double-headed petunias began by crossing two doubles. The next year 75 per cent were found to be doubles, the rest singles. Doubles then were crossed with singles. In the third year, one-third of the original 75 per cent turned out doubles.

Theoretically, this one-third was pure strain double-headed petunias But the proof of purity is further cross-pollination. Mr. Simonet spends most of his time on his knees, continuing his research among his beloved petunias.

FEEL LOTS BETTER SINCE TAKING SYNTONA, HE SAYS

Not Tired As Before, Backache, Rheumatic Pain Gone, Digestion Improved, Sleep More Sound and Restful.

"For a long time I was very rundown, but I feel lots better since taking Syntona Herbal Compound and I do not hesitate to recommend this medicine," said Mr. Alexander Sohm, 133 Jackson street west, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I had backache and rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. Stomach was out of order, giving me gas, indigestion and heartburn after my meals, and I was subject to frequent headaches and dizzy spells. My nerves seemed to be all on edge, as I couldn't get my proper sleep at night and many mornings I felt as tired as I did the night before.

"Reading about Syntona Herbal Compound I got some and almost right away I began to feel better. Now the pains have cleared up, digestion has improved so that I eat well and I am relieved of headaches and dizzy spells. Also my nerves are relaxed now, sleep is more sound and restful and the tired feeling I used to have in the morning has disappeared."

The reason why such good results are produced by a medicine compounded to act on stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels at the same time is simply this:—The organs of assimilation and elimination are so closely related that when one becomes ailing it so often affects one or more of the others. Food that should supply energy and resistance only ferments in the stomach. Soured particles and waste matter are absorbed into the bloodstream and soon the whole system becomes rundown.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Plan Egg X-Ray After 87 Years

MELBOURNE, Australia (CP) —Melbourne's National Museum staff are worked up about a mystery they hope to solve soon — what's inside a 12-inch-long bird's egg the museum has had for 87 years.

The eg once belonged to the now extinct roc, known to science as the Aepyornis. Its contents are equivalent to 148 hen eggs and its girth is 34½ inches.

It has no holes or cracks and by using X-rays the museum hopes to find out at long last just what's inside. The only record the museum has is that it bought the egg in 1862 from a Monsieur Laffargue.

The roc is believed to have become extinct about two hundred years ago. Scientists think it was a flightless bird about 12 feet high. Fossilized remains have been found on the island of Madagascar.

Magistrate Rules 'Scabs' Objectionable

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP)—The word "scab" is strong enough language to land its user in court, according to a ruling by a New Zealand magistrate. In a recent case the magistrate fined a man $8 for using the term.

"The word 'scab' has an objectionable and opprobious meaning and when applied to a working man he must feel he has done something that is shameful or dishonorable," said the magistrate.

Evidence was given that during a recent carpenters' strike a breakaway union was formed and held a meeting in the town hall of Auckland. A crowd of about 200 gathered outside and the defendant in this action and others present shouted "scab" at those entering the hall.

Canton Road Wide Open To Red Army

Changsha Captured, Chiang Generls Revolting At Front

CANTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—The fortress of Changsha fell today to the Communists and a credible report of a Nationalist army revolt on that front may mean the road to Canton soon will be almost wide open.

Loss of Changsha, 365 miles to the north, was bad news enough for the Nationalists. But the Reds in another lunge southeast of Changsha were only 215 miles from this refugee capital.

Both these reversals were admitted officially.

Unofficial but credible reports said Gen. Chen Ming-jen, new governor of Hunan province, had revolted.

General Chen only recently replaced Gen. Cheng Chien. The government charges Cheng fled from Changsha and went over to the Reds Monday. The government ordered Cheng's arrest, accusing him of trying to arrange a local peace with the Communists.

Takes One Army

The unofficial accounts said General Chen, close friend of his predecessor, also went over to the Reds taking at least one of his three armies with him. His armies totalled 90,000 men.

Defection of the Hunan General would create a serious situation. It conceivably could compel Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, the commander in the south, to withdraw his troops southwestward into Kwangsi Province. This would leave the road to Canton open for a swift and easy Communist advance.

A Nationalist announcement said the defenders of Changsha withdrew in good order Thursday night before the Reds entered the city.

The closest Red approach to Canton, however, came on the north-east. The Communists made a 25 mile advance south of newly captured Suichwan, which is 240 miles northeast of Canton.

T-I-M-B-E-R-!—Lumber trucks, hauling mine timbers, are shoved over an embankment near Washington, Pa., climaxing a fight between miners and non-union lumbermen. Vesterburg pit workers, aroused by the non-union drivers, attacked 16 trucks. The drivers fled, but the miners set the trucks afire and shoved them over the side.

Guard DiMaggio From Girl, Attack Feared

NEW YORK, Aug. 5 (CP) — A hysterical young woman Thursday threatened to kill herself if Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankees star outfielder spurned her love.

Police placed her in her father's custody fearing a repetition of the recent tragedy that almost took the life of Eddie Waitkus, Philadelphia Phillies first baseman.

The girl whose name was withheld by authorities, was described as a petite, 30-year-old brunette. Police said she had been pestering DiMaggio with mash notes for months. Once she tried, without success, to visit him at his hotel.

It was said the Yankee management has taken the precaution of providing the clipper with a bodyguard.

The lovesick worshipper of the Yankees star was taken into custody after her latest note to DiMaggio. Screaming hysterically after being questioned by an Assistant District Attorney, she was taken to hospital.

Her father agreed with authorities that she was in need of psychiatric treatment and she was later released in her father's custody on his promise to obtain such treatment.

The case paralleled in many ways the Waitkus case. The Philadelphia player was shot by a crazed admirer who had lured him to her room with a mysterious, urgent note.

Acheson Says Chinese Reds Merely Tools of Russians

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—(AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson today blasted the Chinese Communists as tools of Russia and declared United States willingness to help the people of China establish true independence. The Secretary reviewed United States-China relations at a press conference after issuance of a State Department report in which he wrote off China's Nationalist government as a total failure.

In a statement he laid down the "basic principles" which he said should govern United States policy toward China.

He declared he was not in the least "defeatist" about the Chinese situation.

Acheson met correspondents one hour after the State Department released a bitterly critical "white paper" on its relations with Nationalist China.

The 1,054-page book contained statements by Acheson showing he is convinced the Nationalist regime is done for and the Communists can sweep over all China anytime they choose.

Sees Serious Difficulties

As for his lack of defeatism it was based on a belief that the Communists are in for serious difficulties in trying to govern the Chinese "in the interests of a foreign power"—Russia.

"The United States, for its part, will be prepared to work with the people of China and of every other country in Asia to preserve and to promote their true interest, developed as they chose and not as dictated by any foreign imperialism."

It was in a letter to President Truman, with which he opened the white paper, that Acheson declared that the Communist regime serves the interests "of Soviet Russia" and predicted eventually the Chinese people "will throw off the foreign yoke."

The State Department document included the long-suppressed Wedemeyer report. In the white paper Acheson told

Ingrid Bergman To Quit Films,

ROME, Aug. 5—(AP)—Ingrid Bergman announced today she will divorce her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom. She also said she will quit the movies.

The beautiful Swedish star made the declaration in an emotional statement issued to reporters by her personal representative, Joseph Steele.

Sources close to the actress reported she intends to marry Italian director Roberto Rossellini after her divorce.

Miss Bergman's statement said: "It was my desire not to make any statement until the conclusion of the picture I am now making ("After The Storm").

"But persistent malicious gossip, that has even reached the point where I am made to appear as a prisoner, has obliged me to break my silence and demonstrate my free will.

"I have instructed my lawyer to start divorce proceedings immediately also, with the conclusion of my present picture, it is my intention to retire into private life."

"She wants to lead a private life," Steele said. "She has yearned to get away from the bright glare of publicity. She has made her decision in good faith."

Steele said Miss Bergman probably will claim incompatibility in her suit and that "she does not expect her husband to contest the divorce."

He said that Miss Bergman will not seek exclusive custody of her 11-year-old daughter, Pia.

He added that Miss Bergman had contemplated divorce before she met Rossellini in Hollywood last year.

Parents Hurt Saving Nine Others

Blaze Razes House Minutes After First Alarm Sounds

GANANOQUE, Aug. 5—(CP)—Three children died today in a fire which destroyed a three-family dwelling in this Thousand Islands resort town, 20 miles east of Kingston.

Thirteen other children escaped along with their parents.

Dead are: Gloria Running, three; Agar Running, four; and Wilma Running, 10.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orange Running, are in a Kingston hospital with critical burns suffered when they tried to rescue them. Nine other Running children were brought to safety.

The fire was spotted by one of the Running children who shouted an alarm. George See, who lived in an adjoining part of the house, led his four children to safety and then called the fire department.

Although firemen arrived within a few minutes, the fire gutted the Running section of the house and damaged the part occupied by the See family. Water and smoke damage was severe in the third part of the house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bishop.

Badly Burned

Mr. and Mrs. Running were severely burned as they rushed about their flaming house in a frantic attempt to save all their children. Origin of the fire is not known. Mr. Running, a laborer, has been ill lately and was unemployed. The homeless children are being sheltered temporarily by neighbors.

Mayor J. D. Carmichael of Gananoque said:

"This is one of the worst tragedies ever to hit Gananoque. It has cast a shadow over the whole community." He said he will call a special meeting of Town Council to consider assistance for the family.

Service clubs have offered aid to look after the nine homeless Running children.

Has Five-Point Price For Peace

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—(AP).—A five-point "price for peace" said to be in the mind of Prime Minister Stalin, including a $2,000,000,000 United States loan to Russia, Thursday was outlined in the August issue of the United Nations World, a privately-published magazine.

The magazine quoted an unidentified "top-ranking American business man who is also a respected Republican, churchman and civil leader," on the basis of a conversation the periodical said the American had in the summer of 1948 with Andrei A. Gromyko.

Stalin's five conditions for peae were jotted down by the American. The five points, the magazine said, were:

1. A treaty between the United States and the U.S.S.R. formalizing the commitments of both countries as set forth in the Yalta and Potsdam documents.
2. Four-power unanimity on [illegible]
3. Western generosity on reparations for the U.S.S.R.
4. Immediate cessation of the United States and United Kingdom support of "subversive Fascist and Hitlerite elements."
5. Elimination of all alleged discriminatory trade practices on the part of the United States and resumption of normal trade relations, stimulated by a $2,000,000,000 loan on terms similar to those of the U.S. loan to Britain in 1946.

Youth Missing

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 5—(CP)—Charles Robson, 17-year-old Stamford Township youth, has been missing from his home since Monday, Police said today. For two nights police and volunteers have searched for him in dense bushland in the northern extremities of the township, but their efforts have been futile. The boys' dog returned home without him Monday night. When last seen young Robson was carrying a shotgun and wearing a pair of blue jeans and a yellow and brown sweat-shirt.

Absolve Tokos In Connection With Murder

TORONTO, Aug. 5 — (CP) — Police to-day arrested Zigmund Tokos of Hamilton on a charge of possessing an unregistered revolver, but said he had nothing to do with the gun-slaying last Saturday of Alfred Layng.

Tokos, 26-year-old laborer, was taken into custody in an early morning raid on a house in suburban Long Branch. A .32-calibre revolver was found beneath his pillow.

Layng died from .38-calibre bullet wounds.

Police said Tokos answered closely the description of the man who shot and killed Layng as he attempted to capture a fleeing bandit after the robbery of a groceteria (Loblaw's) last Saturday on East-Central Parliament Street.

However, after questioning Tokos, they said he had nothing to do with the Layng case. He was returned to the cells on the charge of possessing a revolver illegally.

A woman detained with Tokos was released.

Tito Says He's Ready To Halt Red Attack

BELGRADE, Aug. 5 (AP). — Yugoslav troops were in a state of alert to-day to guard against what Marshal Tito called provocations and intimidation by his Russian-dominated neighbors.

Tanjug, the official news agency, Thursday night quoted Tito as saying bloody clashes already had taken place in Macedonia.

The Premier, who defied Soviet dictation a year ago in a row with the Cominform (Communist International Information Bureau), accused his Eastern neighbors of trying to intimidate Yugoslavia by spreading rumors of a threatened Red Army invasion.

Tito called them "nothing but ordinary rumors," but added:

"Nevertheless, we are not unvigilant here either.....We are prepared to prevent all provocations, to defend our country against everyone."

Etobicoke Trucker Killed In Own Home; Police Holding His Son 16

Neighbors Hear Feeble Call For Help From Dying Man On Lawn, Hear Long Arguments, But No Shots

TORONTO, Aug. 5—(CP)—Douglas Graham, 38-year-old truck driver was shot and killed early today at his home in suburban Etobicoke Township and Crown Attorney W. A. Gibson said Graham's 16-year-old son Gordon will be charged with manslaughter. Police said Graham died at the base of a tree about 100 yards from his home after calling to a neighbor for help. He was shot with a .22 rifle.

It was the sixth slaying in the Toronto district in the last 10 days and the third in Etobicoke Township since 1945. It came as police pressed an almost clueless search for the killers of a young Toronto couple found slain earlier this week and the gunman who killed a veteran in a grocery store holdup. Arrests have been made in the two other killings last week.

Graham's wife and two boarders in the Graham home—Arthur Sutherland, 25, and Joe MacDonald 31,—were taken into custody and released after questioning.

Hears Cry For Help

A neighbor of the Grahams, 71-year-old Mrs. Annie Ramsay, was awakened early today by a man shouting "Mrs. Ramsay, help me. Get a doctor."

She said she was afraid to open the door because of the unprecedented number of recent killings in Toronto. She said she looked through the door window and saw Graham sprawled on the lawn. She then called police and an ambulance.

Graham's widow said the son shot his father by accident, believing the rifle was not loaded. He brandished the weapon in front of his father, who was threatening to beat him.

Her husband, she said, was "a very difficult man when he drank wine."

"I think he was worse this time because he had been out of work for some time and was unhappy about it."

She told this story:

Graham came home about 2 a. m. and turned on the radio, awakening the household. The son arose and protested. There was a scuffle and then a shot which fatally wounded the father.

Police said they are puzzled why no one in the neighborhood heard the shots or any sounds of a struggle.

They said Archie McCoomb, 67, next-door neighbor, said he went to bed about 10:30 and was awakened several times by voices from next door. He heard someone call "Mrs. Ramsay" three times about 1 a.m. but went back to sleep and didn't awaken until police arrived.

Had Some Trouble

Mrs. Ivy Graham, 35, the slain man's mother, said her son had been out of work for some weeks and found a job with a transport company only last week. He had been married for 18 years.

Falls 3 Storeys Youth's Life Saved By Birds

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP)—His life saved by the pigeons he was trapping, Kenneth Mann, 14, was admitted to hospital Thursday night after a three-storey fall from a third-floor ledge on a downtown building. Both his arms were broken and he suffered serious internal injuries. He owes his life to several pigeons he had stuffed into his shirt, hospital authorities said.

The pigeons, placed inside his shirt for safekeeping, cushioned his fall sufficiently to save his life. Kenneth was taken to hospital suffering a broken right arm and a possible fractured skull.

The pigeons were killed.

Police said the youth and two companions spotted the pigeons nesting beneath the roof ledge. They climbed a drain pipe to the third floor ledge and Kenneth stuffed the birds in his shirt. As two of them started down the pipe gave way throwing Kenneth to the ground. The other boys managed to slide down the pipe to safety.

Apparently, police said, Kenneth landed on his stomach, crushing the pigeons but breaking his fall.

Firemen and police rescuing the injured lad had to climb to the roof of the building and lower a ladder to get to him.

Hospital officials described the the youth's condition as "serious" but said he will recover.

Sees Russians Recruit Slaves

BERLIN, Aug. 5 (AP) — The Sachsenhausen concentration camp near Berlin is being used as a depot to provide Soviet Russia's slave laborers, Mrs. Erika Raeder said today.

The wife of the former German grand admiral was released from the camp a month ago after four years as a prisoner of the Russians and now is in Western Germany.

"Every two months big transports of people who were being punished for something left Sachsenhausen for Russia," she said in an interview. There were usually 2,000 people to each transport. They were not all Germans, either. A large number of them were Russians who had broken some rule.

"The people were stripped naked. Each was branded on the buttocks with a special type of indelible tattooing.

Thieves Loot PO At Stirling

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 5—Thieves broke into Stirling Post office, rifling mail bags and stealing a large number of stamps and an undisclosed amount of money Wednesday night. Officers investigating found the large safe lying on its side. The looters had pried it open.

The thieves gained entry by jimmying a back window.

Complete inventory of stolen items will be taken on the arrival of officials from Ottawa. A brokerage office in Belleville reports the loss of five 1,000-share certificates mailed yesterday to a client at Stirling. These stocks were valued at over $200.

The break-in was discoverd Thursday morning by Fred McDonald, a post office employee, whose job it is to put the mail on the morning train.

Canada's Exports Up 9% US Trade Only Weak Spot

[illegible] (CP)—Ex[illegible],000,000 during June, an increase [illegible]-months period, [illegible] exports to the U. S. were nearly $55,000,000 higher than for the same period last year.

The Dominion exported goods worth $225,100,000 in June, nine per cent more than in June last year. That boosted total exports to $1,424,000,000 for the first half of 1949.

Those exports, however, were made before the sterling area—one of Canada's biggest customers — decided to slash imports from dollar countries by 25 per cent.

On July 22, the Bureau reported the Dominion had a favorable trade balance of $22,200,000 for the first five months of the year.

Biggest factors, the Bureau said, in the increase in foreign sales, were higher exports of wheat, cattle, farm machinery and base metals.

On trade with the United States —which government officials say is the only weak spot in the Canadian trade picture — Canadian exports edged upwards to $113,-

After dipping slightly earlier this year, exports to the United Kingdom rose to $60,700,000 compared with $54,200,000 but the half-year total was down to $335,-600,000 from $359,400,000 in 1948.

Wheat displaced newsprint as the biggest export commodity in June. June wheat sales were $45,600,000 and the sixth-month total was $201,300,000 compared with $97,100,000 last year.

June newsprint exports were $35,600,000 compared with $30,-500,000 and the six-month totals were $200,600,000 compared with $178,100,000.

Export of bacon and hams continued to drop. It fell to $800,000, compared with $5,675,000 in June last year. Half-year exports of bacon and hams were $9,600,000 against $53,400,000.

Man Delivers Twins In Rush Assignment

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5 (AP) — J. Orefice Thursday night after he delivered premature twins and kept them alive in an oxygen tent fashioned from a suitcase.

The ambulance attendant arrived at the home of Mrs. Ethel Lorane Lappe, 20, a few seconds before she gave birth to the first child.

"And then," said Orefice, "the first thing I knew there was another one."

Both were girls.

Orefice spanked life into them. Seeing their breathing falter, he looked about for something he could use as an oxygen tent.

At Orefice's suggestion a near-hysterical, 20-year-old George W. Lappe produced a suitcase.

Orefice lined it with blankets, deposited the twins inside, then inserted a rubber tube leading from a tank of oxygen caried in the ambulance.

Both babies were alive when the ambulance arrived at hospital last night, but one died early today.

Let Out 1,400 Workers

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5—(AP) —The navy announced Thursday that 1,400 civilian employees will be dismissed Sept. 15, from the Mare Island and Hunters Point naval shipyards. It represents the largest mass dismissal since the end of the Second World War. Lack of funds and of work made necessary the dismissals, the navy said.

HIGHWAYMEN ON RIVIERA—The Aga Khan, father-in-law of Rita Hayworth and one of the world's richest men, and his wife, the Begum Khan, were robbed by highwaymen near their villa on the French Riviera. Four masked men ambushed their car, shot out the tires and escaped with a jewel case containing gems valued up to $600,000. They also took $6,500 in cash.

Talks With France Helpful On Defence

PARIS, Aug. 5 (AP)—French and United States military chiefs today held what they described as satisfactory talks on the defence of Western Europe.

"I think we see eye to eye," the United States Air Force Chief of Staff, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, said after the officers had talked for almost three hours.

Vandenberg said no decisions had been made, but that the discussions had been "very helpful."

French leaders had been reported seeking assurances that France won't be shoved into the background in drafting Atlantic Pact defence strategy.

Cat Aboard Amethyst Will Get Medal Too

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP) — For catching rats in a time of extreme danger, Simon, the sloop Amethyst's cat, will get a medal.

It's the Dickin Medal. The Allied Forces' mascot club will present it.

Among the 53 mascots already holding the medal, Simon will stand out. He's the first cat. The others are dogs, horses and pigeons.

Simon was aboard the Royal Navy sloop when it ran the Chinese Communist gauntlet down the Yangtze last week-end after three months of virtual captivity. He had been wounded by Communist shrapnel when the ship was first attacked in April but kept right on catching the rats that threatened the ship's meagre supplies.

Living Costs Hit New High During June

OTTAWA, Aug. 5 — (CP). — The experts say it is just "seasonal," but food now is costing more than at any other time in Canadian history.

Things like eggs, potatoes, fresh vegetables and meat were more expensive in June than ever before. And the price increases during the month sent the cost-of-living index to an all-time high of 162.1.

That was an increase—the biggest in any month this year—of 1.6 points over the May index of 160.5, it was reported Thursday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics which compiles the index on the basis that living costs for 1935-1939 eyual 100.

Food costs were the big item. They went up 4.3 points during the month. Rent jumped a full point, reflecting the results of the Bureau's rent survey, covering the second quarter of the year. Prices of most other items are tabulated monthly.

The food sub-index — one of seven making up the full index—stood at 207.2, nearly six full points higher than at the same time last year. Government statisticians say food comprises 31 per cent of the average family's budget.

"A lot of people are surprised at the sharp increase," an official said. "But June is an unusual month."

Other items remained steady during the month.

Clothing was unchanged at 183.3, home furnishings and services declined .2 to 167.5, and miscellaneous items increased from 128.4 to 128.5.

As the result of slight increases in coal prices, the fuel and light sub-index rose from 128.7 to 129.1.

Blueberry Picking Ends In Drowning

SUDBURY, Aug. 5 (CP)—Seven year old Terrance Gordon Godin was drowned Thursday while picking blueberries with his family in a pond in an abandoned gravel pit about two miles east of here.

The boy had left the family group to put on his shoes in a car on the opposite side of the pond, when he evidently slipped into the pond.

A 13-year-old boy, Walter Legace, recovered the body in about six feet of water after diving into the pond four times three hours after the family noticed the boy was missing.

The victim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Godin. He was unable to swim.

Fish Die Of Poison

DUESSELDORF, GERMANY, Aug. 5—(AP)—All fish in the lower Rhine river have died from some mysterious poison, the ministry of food in Westphalia said today. Experts suspect the poison came from waste matter from an industrial plant. German fisheries estimated their loss at more than 100,000 Deutsch marks (about $30,000).

MORE ABOUT—

Acheson Says

Truman that United States policy now must be shaped to "encourage all developments" in China which are directed to this end.

Acheson said the Communist regime serves the interests "of Soviet Russia." He advised the President it may "lend itself to the aims of Soviet Russian imperialism" to start an aggression against China's neighbor nations.

If that aggression comes, Acheson indicated the United States would try to block it through the United Nations.

Take Own Time

While not all China is at present under the red banner, Acheson said in another document of the White Paper, the Communists can take over the rest any time they want and Nationalist armies wil be powerless to resist. He thus advised Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee March 15.

For the "ominous result of the Chinese civil war" Acheson placed full blame on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and other leaders of the crumbling Nationalist government. He said they "lost no battles" in the last crucial year for lack of American weapons.

"The Nationalist armies did not have to be defeated; they disintegrated," he said.

To support the position that Chinese—not American leaders—were to blame for the disaster, the State Department included among the unveiled state documents a sensational letter from China's current acting president, Gen. Li Tsung-jen.

Li, who succeeded Chiang Kai-shek as chief of state, wrote president Truman May 5, 1949, that China was brought to its present plight by the failure of its previous government (Chiang's) to make "judicious use" of American aid and to put through "political, economic and military reforms."

Beyond Help

Truman and Acheson evidently have decided that China's Nationalist government is beyond the point where it can be hurt even by bitter criticism.

In addition they appear to believe that the record justifies their decision not to undertake any great new air program to the Chinese Nationalists and their determination to break with the past, release the facts as they see them, and lay out new lines of anti-Communist diplomacy in the Far East.

About what can be done, Acheson spoke only in general terms. He expressed the belief that "ultimately" the Chinese people "will reassert themselves" and China "will throw off the foreign yoke." The United States, he said, "should encourage all developments in China which now and in the future work toward this end."

Wanted Stable Power

The white paper presents American policies as stemming from a consistent effort by this government to make China a politically-stable power, peaceful and free of foreign domination. Achson said that these remain American objectives.

The review brings out that various means were tried to achieve these objectives in the past.

During the war with Japan, when President Roosevelt was concerned to keep all China in the fight, he tried to get Generalissimo Chiang to name the late Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell as commander in chief of Chinese and American forces. The idea was to unify Chinese armed forces under a "neutral." Chiang agreed in principle but never did anything about it.

Chiang and Stillwell fell out and Stillwell was called home.

Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley next took up the task. His mission spanned the transition period at the war's end (1944-45). American policy still emphasized unity of the Communists within a China led by Chiang.

Friendly Feeling

Hurley went to Moscow and conferred with Foreign Minister Molotov who assured him the Russians had friendly feeling toward Nationalist China and favored American help to Chinese unity.

Unity did not progress. Hurley fell out with the American career diplomats working with him [illegible] finally resigned with a violent denunciation of American diplomacy.

The United States meanwhile made the Yalta deal with Russia for restoration of old Czarist port, base and rail rights in Manchuria.

This agreement by President Roosevelt is defended by Acheson as necessary to assure Russia's entrance into the war against Japan.

Finally General George C. Marshall, with orders from President Truman to pacify and unify China, followed the trail of failures to China in December 1945. His efforts collapsed in a full-scale renewal of the civil war in 1946.

Strong Warnings

From 1943 on, one American diplomat after another warned the State Department that unless the Nationalists reformed and recaptured popular support the Communists might some day take over China.

The American Government's estimate of the military situation in China to-day comes out in the White Paper in the memorandum Acheson sent Chairman Connally of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee March 15, 1949. He told Connally the administration opposed a $1,500,000,000 China-aid Bill sponsored by Sen. Ptarick McCarran (Dem.-Nev.).

The Communists, Acheson wrote, "hold all important military areas of China from Manchuria to the Yangtze River and have the military capability of expanding their control to the populous areas of the Yangtze Valley and of eventually dominating South China."

Despite all the aid which had been furnished by the United States, Acheson said, "the National Government does not have the military capability of maintaining a foothold in South China against a determined Communist advance."

Canon Paterson Conducted Layng Funeral

Last tribute to Alfred Layng, the 25-year-old ex-serviceman who was killed Saturday in Toronto while trying to capture the armed robber at Loblaw's groceteria, was paid Thursday by Canon J. Douglas Paterson, a former rector of All Saint's, Peterborough.

At the funeral, which was attended by 1,000 of St. Peter's Anglican Church, Carlton St., Toronto the Canon recalled the two major sacrifices which had been made by Layng.

Referring to Layng's enlistment with the RCAF, Canon Paterson said "he behaved as a citizen then as he did at the time of his death."

"Had others standing by, who did nothing to help, only pitched in, a life would have been saved and a dangerous criminal, still potentially dangerous, would have been today under control," he continued.

"We think and only wish even now, the murderer might come to his senses and surrender himself" the Canon declared. "When he went out armed he had no thought of a widow bereft of her husband and a fatherless child. It would surely be better for him to escape from his own conscience and the haunting dread which, waking or sleeping, will never let him know peace."

Before saying these words Canon Paterson read the 23rd Psalm.

Grandfather Of Quints Dies

NORTH BAY, Aug. 5 (CP)—Father of Mrs. Oliva Dionne and grandfather of the famous Dionne quintuplets, Moise Legros, 76, died early today in St. Joseph's Hospital, North Bay.

In failing health for several months, he first entered hospital June 3, then returned to his home in Corbeil for two weeks. When his condition became critical again, he was forced to return to hospital. During his final illness he was visited frequently by the quintuplets.

It is expected that requiem mass will be held for him Monday morning at Sacred Heart Church in Corbeil. Interment is to take place in Corbeil cemetery.

One of the early pioneer residents of Corbeil, Mr. Legros first came to the district in 1890 and began the arduous task of clearing heavy bushland to form the farm where he made his home for the remainder of his life.

Mrs. Dionne has been touring in France and Italy during the past month and was not able to be with her father at the time of his death. She is expected back in Canada about Aug. 12.

Besides his daughter, Mr. Legros is survived by five sons, Vital, Timmins; Aurele, North Bay; Hector, St. Charles; Lias, Chicoutimi, Que., and Henri, at home. One brother, Alex Legros of Callander, also survives.

Gunman Battles 50 Policemen

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—(AP).—A trigger-happy gunman Thursday tried to shoot it out with more than 50 heavily-armed policemen, but was cut down in a hail of lead after wounding three officers.

Edward Shumak, 22, was struck in the head and chest by the combined fire from machine-guns, rifles and pistols. His death came at the end of the 20-minute pitched battle when he poked his face out of a washroom doorway in the North Western Railroad station where he had barricaded himself.

"He practically did a handstand backwards when that burst hit him," was the grim remark of Detective Emil Smicklas, who fired a machine-gun.

Minutes earleir, Shumak had been firing defiantly from the washroom.

An ex-convict, he was wanted on an automobile larceny charge.

Counterfeit Ring In Windsor Area

WINDSOR, Aug. 5 (CP) — Police of two countries are trying to crack an international counterfeiting ring which has already cost one Canadian $2,000.

Secret Service operators in Detroit are working with the RCMP here and the American agents are seeking a link with another ring recently discovered in New York.

Seizure Wednesday of a "different" bogus $20 bill leads RCMP to believe that an independent ring might be operating in Windsor and district. The bill was passed at a local bank.

First break came when Leo Aubin, Windsor operator of a money changing booth at the American end of the Detroit-Windsor tunnel, reported he received $2,000 worth of counterfeit bills.

At the request of Secret Service agents, who thought they had a line on the bill passer, Detroit and Windsor newspapers withheld the story until today. Aubin lost the money last Friday.

Aubin said a shabbily dressed man threw a bag of money on the counter and Aubin counted out $2,000 in Canadian money in exchange. Police said the man tried to get Aubin to change another $1,000 of the American money but Aubin refused.

Aubin found the exchanged money was phoney when he noticed all bills had the same serial number.

Stands Trial For Slaying

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP) — An attractive member of the Women's Royal Army Corps, accused of stabbing her soldier bridegroom to death in Austria, never consummated her marriage because she was sexually abnormal, the Crown prosecutor said at her trial today.

The defendant is 21-year-old Margaret Williams, ski champion of the corps. She was sent back to London by British Occupation Authorities in Austria to face trial for killing Sgt.-Maj. Montague Williams, 34, her bridegroom of, 12 weeks.

Mrs. Williams, said Prosecutor F. D. Barry, had "leanings toward Lesbianism."

A statement attributed to her by the prosecution said:

"My married life had not been a normal one because when I agreed to marry my husband I told him I did not love him and that I did not want to sleep with him until I had really fallen in love with him, and he agreed to this."

The statement said Mrs. Williams stabbed her husband to death July 4 in a YMCA hostel in Klagenfurt, because he had slapped her face after she was carried home from a drinking bout.

Pearson Sends Reply To Letter From Mayor

Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Minister for External Affairs, has acknowledged the letter of City Clerk Outram which conveyed the enquiry of the city council and its interest in the Victorian statue in Dublin.

By that medium the prospect of Peterborough obtaining it for Victoria Park has been transferred to the channel of diplomacy and the procedure of protocol. The council realized that its own approach by letter to local authorities in Dublin was too casual and off the beam of propriety in such matters.

It was agreed that the correct manner would be to ask Hon. Mr. Pearson to make representation to the Hon. Mr. Aherne, ambassador at Ottawa for the government of Eire.

Urge Long-Term Agreements For Bushland

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 5 (CP) — A program which would encourage private owners to enter long-term agreements for management of their private bushlands was recommended today in a brief prepared for delivery to the Ontario Legislature's select committee on conservation.

The brief prepared by Oxford County noted the need for increased tree coverage on public as well as private lands, and suggested that the important thing is to encourage the owners to carry out sound forestry practices or else enter into some arrangement with the Ontario Forestry Department.

A competent authority should be created by legislation, to handle such a program, the brief suggested. The owner should be entitled to financial results from the sale of trees.

On forestry, the Oxford brief, one of four county authorities submissions to the committee, suggested that there be an increase in the field staff of the Lands and Forests Department and abolition of exemption from taxation of woodlots. In place of the latter a payment of $5 per acre yearly up to 10 per cent of total holdings was suggested.

On soil conservation, the brief urged that the farm planning staff of the Ontario Agriculture College soils department be enlarged to take care of the farmers now requesting to have their farms laid out for contour plowing and strip-cropping.

An extensive educational program was recommended to make people aware of the importance of more humus, of the dangers of burning straw, and of other aspects of soil preservation.

Briefs were also prepared for presentation by the counties of Norfolk, Waterloo and Brant.

Among those on the down side were Montreal Locomotive, Ford A, Consumers [illegible] but were improving as the session progressed. Senior golds higher included La Luz and Tech Hughes. Lower were Dome, Lake Shore and Hollinger. Losses and gains were split about evenly in juniors. Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting, Noranda, Waite Amulet and International Nickel were all ahead in the base metal list while lesser issues added pennies consistently throughout the list.

Ready To Pour Concrete Floor

Work of pouring concrete for the "floating floor" in the Civic Arena, Park St., part of the new artificial ice plant being installed in the building, is expected to began on Monday, it was learned today. Twenty laborers were despatched to the job on Thursday by the National Employment Service to prepare the forms and pour the cement.

Once the actual pouring of the concrete begins, it must be kept up continuously day and night until the job is finished. It will take between two and three days to do the work. The floor has to be built in such a way that it can expand and contract with changes in temperature, hence the term "floating floor."

Work of installing the piping for the artificial ice plant has been proceeding for some weeks, and the whole job will be completed well ahead of the opening of the winter hockey season.

"I was only looking for my girl friend," Roberts was quoted. "I lost her during the night."

Issue Challenge To Third City Wanting Statue

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 5 (CP)— "Come out in the open and fight like men," City Assessment Commissioner Harry J. Bennett challenged citizens of an anonymous Canadian city which is quietly "muscling in" to bid for the statue of Queen Victoria sought by London and Peterborough.

Thursday Mayor Ray A. Dennis said dominion authorities told h[illegible] the name of the city, but warned him to keep it secret.

"It must be situated in a hole in the ground," said the doughty Mr. Bennett, "the people there must be ashamed of the name.

"If they identify themselves, then we can meet them on even terms and if they have any better claim than London they can have the statue," he declared.

The statue was moved into storage from a public square in Dublin when Ireland became a republic.

Mayor Dennis told the Public Utilities Commission Thursday he had asked the assistance of External Affairs Minister Pearson to obtain the statue for London.

Show Consumer Capacity In Price Rises

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The increasing and busy populations of Canada and the United States have terrific capacities for consuming goods.

This is illustrated by what is happening in both countries.

Despite warnings that demand is catching up with supply, as indeed it is in some things, the cost-of-living index continues to rise in Canada. And in the United States cautious buying by businessmen in recent months now means that they are running short of supplies.

An Associated Press survey of the American scene says:

"Inventories have been cut back so low, in some cases, that the buyers now have to come back into the market—at the sellers' terms. And prices are starting up again in some lines. The rush to buy again, if it gains volume, probably will give another boost to prices.

Losing Sales

New York's Wall Street Journal comments:

"Stores have cut their inventories of some merchandise so low that now they are losing sales. Customers often can't find what they are looking for." However, it adds:

"It's a calculated risk, most retailers intend to continue taking it."

On the basis of development so far, this column has seen no reason to regret its comment of last April 12, which was:

"There are factors in the American economy which could make for a pick-up in activity later on, and, oddly enough, they lie in part of the caution and nervousness now being shown.

Seek Lower Prices

"Right along the line, customer, retailer, wholesaler, manufacturer, are shopping for lower prices. Unless panic develops there is a point below which prices can't drop at present if they are to cover the cost of production.

"When this level is approached, considerable buying may have to come into the market to make up for depleted stocks." And on May 3:

"It would seem apparent that many orders are being held off now, pending price clarification. Sudden drops in orders for copper and other base metals don't mean that need for them has suddenly stopped."

Suspend Licences

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP)—The Ontario Liquor Licence Board Thursday announced suspension of four licences for an indefinite period in the drive to tighten enforcement of liquor regulations. Clare's Public House at Hepworth, near London, was suspended for serving beer on Sunday and serving beer to minors. The Victory Tavern in Toronto was suspended for serving intoxicated customers.

One Police Force Said Need For Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP) — A metropolitan police force covering the whole greater Toronto area under unified direction "has to come," said Mayor H. E. McCallum Thursday after the Board of Police Commissioners in private session discussed the five slayings in this area in the past week.

The Mayor's view of one force for Toronto and its surrounding municipalities was supported by senior Magistrate Robert J. Browns. Third member of the Commission, Judge T. H. Barton, was not present.

Chief Constable John Chisholm referring to the fact suburban police municipalities have to be notified by telephone at present, he said that Inspector John Nimmo of the Toronto force "immediately offered the co-operation of our force and sent out men to North York County when the body of Robert McKay was found."

McKay's body was found in North York County territory in northern Toronto. "It is the combined responsibility of the Provincial Police, North York and Toronto city," the Chief said.

Mayor Hopeful About Housing

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP) — Mayor H. E. McCallum said on Thursday he was optimistic regarding the housing conference to be held here Monday between Reconstruction Minister Winters and Premier Frost of Ontario. The Toronto Mayor was instrumental in arranging the conference.

"The prospects of our reaching a satisfactory arrangement are better than ever before," said Mayor McCallum. "Both Premier Frost and Mr. Winters are able and practical men and I think they can come up with the solution to our problems."

The Mayor said it was his hope that the conference may be the first step towards a general Dominion-Provincial conference on housing.

"It's possible another general conference between the Dominion and the 10 provinces may be arranged by 1950," he added.

Smith Pays Out $475 For Sheep Killed By Dogs

The killing of sheep by dogs in the township is causing more than usual concern to Smith council. More than $475 has been claimed by the owners of flocks in the Bridgenorth and Lakefield areas, as reported at the council meeting Tuesday.

The road superintendent reported that Charles Young had completed his gravel crushing contract. A total of 7517 cu. yds. have been crushed and placed on township roads. Of that amount more than 800 yards was spread on the roads of Bridgenorth and Chemong Park.

A letter from the Chemong Park Cottagers Association suggested a list of improvements for the park, with the request that they be considered by the council. The communication included complaints of the carelessness of picknickers in leaving refuse scattered around the picnic grounds; reckless driving on the park roads; holes in some of the roadways; and inroad of commercialism in the park.

Members of the council said they were willing to co-operate with the association in all reasonable suggestions.

The road superintendent was authorized to engage a weed spraying outfit, and spray parts of the 2nd, 7th and 12th concessions, as a means of testing the effectiveness of this method of weed control. The council adjourned to Sept. 6.

DETROIT, Aug. 5 (CP)—Joseph Fox, 23, is not the wily Indian his name implies.

After a five-year absence from his army post, he told Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, he had just learned the war was over. Fox blamed it all on New York's subways.

In 1944, Fox said, he was given a two-day furlough from Camp Kilmer, N. J. He got lost riding the city's subways and became so discouraged he hied himself to the North Ontario woods.

There, Fox said, he followed his tribal pursuit of hunting and fishing. Recently learning that the war was over, he came [illegible] to renew old acquaintances [illegible] in downtown Detroit.

John Loves Mary Scheduled For Summer Theatre

Mixed wartime marriages and quick divorces provide the situations in next week's Peterborough Summer Theatre comedy, John Loves Mary, in the Queen Mary School auditorium.

The action of the play is given a hearty push on its way when a U.S. soldier in England marries the fiancee of a friend so that she can be transported quickly to America for a hasty divorce and marriage to her true beloved. The object of this custom built immigration scheme is a night club dancer who has won great renown by dancing on her hands. When the helpful John arrives in New York ready to deliver the bride, he finds his friend Fred, has already married an American girl and his own girl friend, Mary, is all set to marry him any minute she can manage it. So the play begins, and it takes three farcical acts and considerable ingenuity to untagnle the complications.

The comedy ran a highly successful two years on Broadway. The Peterborough Summer Theatre's presentation of the play will feature Anna Cameron as the eager Mary, and Frank Perry as John who took his duties as a friend too seriously. Both Miss Cameron and Mr. Perry have appeared in several of this season's plays. Miss Cameron's most impressive roles were as the maid who married the son of the family she worked for in George and Margaret and the maid in Angel Street. Frank Perry is Giles in this week's Rebecca and last week was Dr. Frankenstein in Arsenic and Old Lace, both of which he carried off with a great deal of skill and feeling.

Gerry Sarracini, the colonel in Rebecca and the menacing Jonathan in Arsenic and Old Lace, will be Fred, the friend who double-crossed his friend by marrying the wrong girl.

Pat Atkinson who won wide approval as the housekeeper in Angel Street and the young maid in Blithe Spirit will leave the scullery for the night club and will appear as the hand dancer.

John Primm, who hasn't missed appearing in all six of the company's production will keep his record intact with a part of an Irish elevator operator. Three other veterans of the theatre's productions Christine Thomas, Bill Needles and Michael Lynd, will do their part to maintain confusion in John Loves Mary. Hugh Taschereau will handle his best part to date as the ex-lieutenant who appropriately becomes a theatre usher.

Two U.S. Girls Cruise Trent In 18-Ft. Canoe

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 5 (ENS) — Perhaps the smallest craft to cruise the Trent canal this season is an eighteen-foot canoe skippered by Miss E. Huntington, Brooklyn, N.Y., and Miss S. Kline, Summit, New Jersey.

They praised the Trent system highly for scenery and courtesy between here and Trenton and look forward to the thrill of going through the hydraulic lift lock at Peterborough.

They left this morning northbound and expect to reach Georgian Bay the latter part of September.

Big War Games Under Way In Canadian Northwest

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta., Aug. 5.—(CP).—Even before it starts, Exercise Eagle is an amazing example of difficulties Canada faces and takes in stride to keep herself militarily fit.

To launch Canada's biggest peacetime land-air manoeuvres, hundreds of people have been flown thousands of miles by the R.C.A.F. High officers and reports were flown some 2,000 miles from Ottawa to the airfield outside this northern Alberta town—the operational base of the three-day airborne exercise along the Alaska Highway.

Civilian cooks and helpers were brought in by air to feed the more than 1,400 participants. Air force reserve fliers will be landing today from Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton and Vancouver. Because they are civilians and have to be back at work Monday morning, R.C.A.F. transport planes are bringing them in on a week-end basis.

The airborn regiment that will make a paratroop assault on the airfield at Fort St. John, B.C., the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, came hundreds of miles by rail from Southern Alberta.

Weeks of work have gone into preparations that appear to have turned out a smooth, co-operative team with its headquarters and general feeding hall in big hangar. By Monday it will have evaporated.

Today the air force will move on from the transport role to a tactical role with some 70 planes doing reconnaissance, staging air duels and bombing with bags of flour.

The bombers will drop two-pound bags of flour to indicate bombs. The fighters will drop one-pound bags to indicate assaults by their rockets and guns. Elaborate rules have been laid down for distinguishing friend from foe(umpire from spectator, as well as to keep operations as realistic as possible.

Steelworkers Accept Plan

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 5.—(CP).—Members of United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) Local 2251, Thursday night voted to accept the recommendations of the Conciliation Board in the dispute between the Union and Algoma Steel Corporation "provided a new working agreement is signed as soon as possible." The company still has one week in which to make a reply before the 14-day non-action period is ended.

Findings of the Board which met in Toronto two weeks ago recommend: A 10-cents-an-hour wage inrease; a 44-hour week; two additional statutory holidays, making a total of eight per year; additional union security including "irrevocable check-off for the life of the agreement, with a 15-day escape clause"; an additional day's holiday for each year worked to a maximum of five years (workers now get one week's holiday after the first year worked, and two weeks after five years); other minor concessions "improving the old agreement."

The Algoma steelmen accepted the recommendations with a majority vote. It was not unanimous. The report was read by union secretary John Barker. The meeting heard addresses by President Eri Dalrymple, Local 2251 and C. H. Millard, international director of the Steelworkers Union.

Is London More Irish Than Peterborough?

Apparently there are people in London (Ont.) who think that their city is more Irish than Peterborough, and that they have therefore a better right to the Statue of Queen Victoria which the government of Eire has banished from Dublin. A Canadian Press dispatch yesterday gave publicity to several of London's bold assertions, and particularly those of Mr. Harry Bennett, London's assessment commissioner. We have read Mr. Bennett's statements with ill-suppressed mirth.

* * *

First of all, Mr. Bennett says that the name London comes from "Lun Dun", which is Celtic and means "Ship's Fort". This is not in accord with the facts as we know them; several books in our possession say that London is from "Llyn Din" which means a lake fort; and "Llyn Din" which Mr. Bennett vaguely passes off as "Celtic", is pure Welsh; hasn't Mr. Bennett ever heard of any Celts except Irishmen?

* * *

Further to support his claims, Mr. Bennett says that three Irishmen suggested London to Governor Simcoe as the future capital of Canada; we draw Mr. Bennett's attention to the fact that Governor Simcoe very properly turned down this absurd suggestion. And Mr. Bennett says that many Irishmen helped to make London what it is today. But these claims are as nothing beside Peterborough's Irish history; this area was settled almost entirely by Irishmen, and although a few Englishmen and Scotsmen have crept in since (usually through marriage with Peterborough's beautiful Irish girls) the place is still as Irish as Paddy's pig.

* * *

In his assertion that London (Ont.) has associations with Queen Victoria Mr. Bennett is somewhat more successful. He points out, for instance, that London's blackest day was Victoria Day, 1881, when a river boat named Victoria turned turtle and drowned a lot of Londoners. But we think that it is a little late in the day for London (Ont.) to try to be anything but what it is—a Canadian city drawing heavily upon the credit of its great exemplar, London (Eng.) Does not the Encyclopaedia Britannica say "The local nomenclature is largely a reproduction of that of the great city whose name it has borrowed"? Is not its Anglican Cathedral called St. Paul's? Is not London (Ont.) content to snitch what it can from London (Eng.) without wanting to make Queen Victoria and all her associations its own civic property, and to claim to be Canada's most Irish city? Surely there is moderation in all things?

* * *

It may be that London needs the statue of Queen Victoria more than Peterborough. We suggested that the statue be brought here merely out of affection for the memory of a great lady. But London seems to need everything it can lay its hands on to bolster its self-esteem.

When May A Man Kiss His Wife?

The newspapers have given some publicity to the trial of Roy Miffleton on the charge of kissing his wife. It seems that Mr. Miffleton took Mrs. Miffleton to a resort to swim, [illegible] peared in her bathing suit she looked so attractive that Mr. Miffleton kissed her. The report says that the kiss was not a Valentino kiss, calculated to inflame the passions of the bystanders, but a perfectly ordinary kiss on the cheek, occupying about two seconds. But Mrs. Mary Trabing, whose husband owned the resort, objected to the kiss, and told Mr. Miffleton so. Mr. Miffleton replied (quite properly in our opinion) that the lady was his wife, and that he was the best judge of when and how she needed kissing. Mrs. Trabing would not let the matter drop, and caused Mr. Miffleton to be brought into court on a charge of disorderly conduct. The magistrate fined Mr. Miffleton ten dollars, not for kissing his wife, but for saucing Mrs. Trabing and for refusing to leave the beach. All this happened in Galesville, Maryland.

It is easy to be wise about these affairs when we are a good distance from them. Nevertheless we feel that Mrs. Trabing showed a lack of tact in rebuking Mr. Miffleton, and we think that Mr. Miffleton showed a very proper spirit in ticking off Mrs. Trabing. Men ought to kiss their wives, often. Wives who are not kissed often enough develop a look which suggests that they have found a caterpillar in the salad of matrimony. And their husbands have an expression recalling the old sailors' song which says:

When I was a little lad
My mother always told me
That if I didn't kiss the gals
My lips would all go mouldy.

Mrs. Trabing seems to lack the first requirement of a resort owner, which is to know when not to see what is plain to the view.

They Are Wonderful But Are They Alert?

In the last few months we have printed a surprising number of news items telling of women who have borne babies, greatly to their own surprise. One of these, in Detroit, thought she had a fresh cold, until it turned out to be a fresh heir; another thought that she had a touch of indigestion; a third performed the extraordinary feat of having a baby almost entirely while asleep; yet another thought that she needed to take a little more exercise until the cause of her added weight became plain; two others did not know that they were pregnant until they had to be taken to hospital. We consider these facts astonishing.

As a usual thing, a woman who is to become a mother knows of her situation very early in the proceedings. She makes elaborate calculations with her doctor and her husband, and then she tells the news to her friends. She eats special food; she takes special pills; she takes some sorts of exercise and avoids others; she buys special clothes; she takes afternoon naps; she ponders upon the problem of names; she lays in stocks of baby clothes and she does quite a bit of knitting. And, as the day approaches, she wears the abstracted look of one who is listening for a sound which she is not quite sure she hears.

This is routine. But there are some women, it appears, who do none of these things. They never give a thought to the great event until it happens, and then they are as surprised as anyone. Such women, we admit, are wonderful, but they are not the people that we would trust with any particularly delicate or complex task. They don't seem to be very alert.

Dope And Jazz

Gene Krupa, the dance-band leader, is receiving some unpleasant publicity because three members of his band have pleaded guilty to charges of taking marijuana. Krupa himself was once involved in a similar charge. The Windsor Star thinks that there may be some connection between narcotic addiction and being a jazz musician. We doubt if such a connection could be established; nevertheless several jazz musicians have been involved in such cases, and about fifteen years ago a very popular jazz band leader made a great display of refreshing himself from a little box containing white powder as he worked; it was popularly supposed that the box contained cocaine, and this addiction was thought to give him glamour in the eyes of his admirers.

Marijuana is a difficult drug to deal with, because it does not appear to be habit-forming in the sense that other drugs are so, and because it does not not seem to have any deleterious effects on its users. It merely "hops them up" for a short time. Nevertheless its use is undesirable, for it may create an appetite for stronger narcotics.

Why jazz musicians should be especially given to its use we cannot guess. Many of them lead somewhat irregular lives, and they may move in circles where the use of drugs is considered smart. The unfortunate part of the business is that they are heroes to many [illegible] example may lead foolish boys and girls to experiment with things which are bad for them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A tanned face may be irresistible to women, but a green back is even more so.

"Bathing Suits Immoral" says a headline. On some figures, no doubt. On others, they are downright stunning.

The British Columbia Conservatives think that they would have done better in the election if they had had a newspaper owned and edited by their party; they are said to contemplate establishing such a paper. Save your money, boys, the day of the kept party paper is over.

Wyndham Lewis -- Individualist

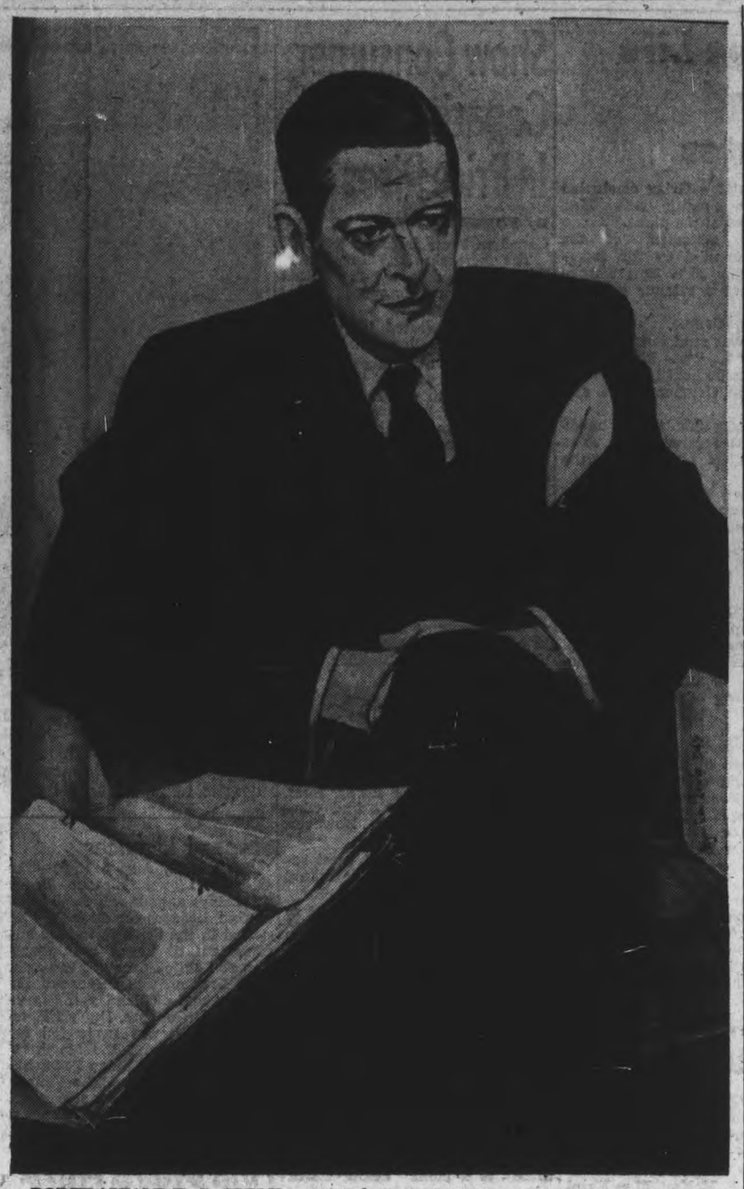
By MICHAEL MIDDLETON

ARTISTS in Britain tend to be wayward, individualistic creatures. They have seldom felt the need to organize themselves into tight groups, adhering rigidly to a logical and hermetic programme, and stating publicly from time to time their tribal doctrines and superstitions in the form of manifestos. The manifesto is, to all intents and purposes, a phenomenon of the first half of the twentieth century, but already enough have been issued to keep the historians busy during the second half, tabulating and cross-reterencing mutually destructive claims and abuse. Only one specifically British group ever emerged from the ferment of those exciting days before the First World War to join in the international clamour with any gusto. They called themselves the Vorticists, and the paper with which they set out to shake Britannia from her nineteenth century lethargy was named, appropriately enough, Blast.

❖ ❖ ❖

VORTICISM was called a revolt against Italian Futurism, but in fact it was an English variant of Futurism and Cubism. Jacob Epstein, Henri Gaudier-Brzeska, Edward Wadsworth and William Roberts were among the artists who adhered. The founder of the movement, and the driving force behind it, both on its literary side and on its artistic side, was the ebullient Wyndham Lewis. It was Lewis who edited Blast. It was Lewis who composed the manifesto. Bearing in mind, doubtless, Marinetti's injunction to "Fire the Libraries! . . . Turn the floods into the Museums! . . . Let the famous pictures float! There is no masterpiece without aggressiveness!", he attacked (among other things) "The Britanic Aesthete (cream of the snobbish earth)", "Humour (quack English drug for stupidity and sleepiness)", "Sport (humour's first cousin and accomplice)" and Blessed (among other things) lighthouses "cutting the storm like a cake," machines and the hairdresser who "attacks Mother Nature for a small fee and makes mercenary war on wildness." All this seems as vieux jeu as most manifestos do thirty-five years later. Wyndham Lewis is, however, one of those rather rare figures—an articulate painter. An unusual opportunity to reconsider his contribution, and Lewis' very individual position in his generation, was afforded by the retrospective exhibition of drawings and paintings recently on show in London at the Redfern Gallery.

❖ ❖ ❖



WYNDHAM Lewis was born in America, in 1884. He studied at the Slade School and was early affected by contemporary movements on the Continental mainland. He is, indeed, almost the only Englishman who may be said to have participated in those movements, and whose intention and achievement can in any way be compared with that of the French cubists. As early as 1912 he was employing the full range of angular abstractions and violent distortions evolved by Picasso and Bragne, and at this time reproached "even the Paris school of 'nature-mortists' as I called them, for their inability to free themselves from the habit of naturalism." "Why worry," he said, "about a lot of match boxes, bottles of beer, plate of apples and picturesque guitars . . . since by the time you had finished your picture they had in any case almost disappeared?" These early abstractions—a little reminiscent now, it must be admitted, of the linoleum designs of the 'twenties—are historically interesting. For Lewis, however, they in no way precluded simultaneous ventures of a more naturalistic kind, and it was not long before he was attempting, in a long series of portrait heads, a synthesis not unlike that evolved at one period by Juan Gris. This was based directly on visual observations, and an acute analysis of the changing surfaces of forms. These he formalized with boldness and precision, wedging and interlocking them with the utmost delicacy, authority and assurance. Gone were the sharp angularities of abstraction. In their place were the curved, metallic rhythms of Vorticism.

❖ ❖ ❖

LEWIS is essentially a draughtsman and his paintings have a good deal of the harsh, unsympathetic quality of one who thinks in terms of line and concept. In many ways his most characteristic early works are those imaginative cities of steel towers, prophetic of the mechanistic world to come, which he peopled with strange round-headed figures, half human, half animal, and often sheathed in armour. They are the industrialized equivalents to De Chirico's "Disquieting Muses"—at once satiric and ominous, suffused with a harsh red-brown that is peculiar to Lewis. On a smaller scale he is still drawing half-abstract designs in this manner today, but equally, as always, he continues to make most academic portraits of the famous. The very recent painting of T. S. Eliot in the Redfern exhibition recalls the occasion [illegible] thirties when another—and very [illegible] —portrait of Eliot by Lewis was rejected by the Royal Academy for admission to its annual summer exhibition, thereby causing the resignation of some better-known Academicians.

❖ ❖ ❖

IF his entire output is considered, Wyndham Lewis' oils cannot be regarded as his most successful statements, if only because they reveal no love for the medium of paint itself. As a portrait draughtsman, however, he has no equal in Britain today and few in the world. The importance of his pencil portraits may be judged by the profound effect they have had and continue to have upon many of the more talented of the younger generation. Lewis spent the war years in Canada and the United States of America. When he returned to Britain he found a school of young romantics attempting to wed poetry to formal structure. And it was to him that they very largely looked for guidance in the latter.

Letters To The Editor

A BOY'S BAND?

Sir,—On all sides, one hears of Peterborough being a musical city, so much talent here, etc., but to place it in that category, I would think that the days of the "OLD 57th" really put this city on the map musically. Such members as C. Westbrook, Bob Hyderham, Ed Cronk, W. Hughes, and several others, not the least was the outstanding Trombonist, who featured solos from coast to coast, H. Gilbert, who will be remembered by many lovers of music, and who also was a Command Performer. Yes, Prof. Gliddon had a fine aggregation to conduct in those days of real achievement along the lines of music.

Might I say, that it has come to the writer's attention, that Mr. H. Gilbert, is at present visiting in the city and as a Veteran of the Boer War, also World War I, many will welcome him back with open arms.

In speaking with Mr. Gilbert a few days ago, he spoke of the work done by the Police Boy's Band of London, a band of over 150 strong—and is surprised to know that such a movement has not made much effort in this city, and said every city should (with any size) have such a band, where the police work with the boys, in this fine work, which in the main, makes better citizens, surely there are men in the city who would back to the limit such a movement, and to those who might be interested, we as citizens would like to hear more about it.

Yours very truly,
A. ARMSTRONG,
R.R. 3, Peterborough

SINK OR SWIM IN GRADE ELEVEN

Sir,—I trust that the Peterborough Board of Education is proud of the results from its recent statements. The Board has insulted staff and students of P.C.V.S. The rest of Ontario now considers Peterborough's Collegiate as an institution for the less intelligent. People from out of town places have written friends in Reterborough asking what they are doing with all the imbeciles at P.C.V.S.

As a student at the Collegiate I believe it is my duty to reply to the statements of the Board.

The Board feels that because a pupil has a good record in Grade 10 that the only reason for failure in Grade 11 is inefficiency on the part of the staff. Such a statement in itself, reveals how little the knowledge some Board members have about the system used in our high schools. Grade ten is considered the easiest year in high school, while grade eleven is considered, by most of the students themselves, as the toughest. Grade eleven is the year you sink or swim. Good hard work is necessary to pass the average student in grade eleven. I do not say that the system is right or wrong but I do say that to place the blame for failure at P.C.V.S. on the teachers is wrong.

Some blame for the failures has been attached to extra-curricular activities. And student who claims too many extra activities for their failure is only blaming themselves. It is the student who chooses to go into the activity. No one is forced. Therefore if a student has too many outside interests, he has only himself to blame.

As a student at P.C.V.S. I have found the staff tops. The Board, it seems, has forgotten that last year 94.6% of the papers attempted on the grade 13 departmentals (in which one member of the Board places so much faith) were passed. This was well above the average for the province. This year the percentage may not be so high but look at the record over a ten year period and you will find that Peterborough is above average. The teachers will go more than half way to help a student who is willing to work. [illegible] dent has only to ask and he will receive [illegible] er four to help students who feel they need it and are willing to work.

I am glad that the people of Peterborough have not taken this matter lightly. And I can assure you that many students are disgusted with a Board that insults their school.

A STUDENT.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Praise waiteth for thee, O God, in Sion and unto thee shall the vow be performed . . Iniquities prevail against me: as for our transgressions, thou shalt purge them away. (Ps. 65:1,3.)

Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteausness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? .....

Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty. (II Cor. 6:14,17, 18.)

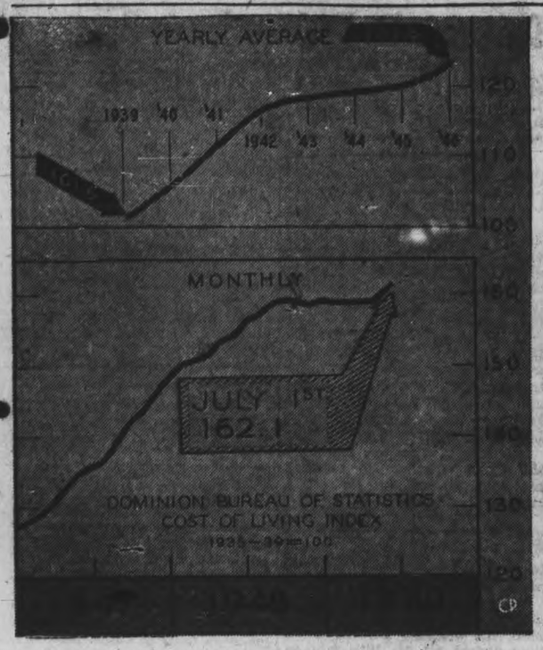
❖ ❖ ❖

Having therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God. (II Cor. 7:1.)

Let's Be Reasonable About It!

We like good hotels. We like the efficient service, clean rooms and quiet organization. A hotel is a pleasant place to get away from the inefficency that distinguishes s much of life.

Thetrefore, we asked the operators of hotels to go warily when they advertise "all the comforts of home." Do you want your bathroom in the hotel to be similar to the one at home—a place where newly-washed stockings drape and catch a man's neck, where pink underwear is spread around, and the multitudinous jars of face cream cause a man to hunt for the cake of soap?



Do you want to find a turtle in the bathtub, along with a half dozen boats that Junior built in the manual training class? If you go to a hotel, do you want to hunt in the refrigerator for ice cubes instead of just calling for service? Do you want to listen to your daughter run up the phone bill while trying to read an article by an economist who insists the national economy is fundamentally sound in spite of the spending in Washington?

No, let's keep hotels as hotels. They don't need to become "homelike" to attract our trade. A home is the logical place for things to be home-like. We want our hotel to still be a hotel.—(Wall Street Journal).

George Graham's Humor

In the course of an article upon the wit and humor of Parliamentarians The Ottawa Journal gives the late George Perry Graham high rating in the matter of those qualities. That one-time MP for South Renfrew had indeed rare qualities as a humorist. Once upon a time when speaking before a Renfrew audience in support of a candidate from Ottawa he said that in Brockville they did not refer to outsiders seeking election there as outcasts, but that they sometimes cast them out. He was referring to a Pembroke man running as a Parliamentary candidate in Leeds county and failing to win.

OVER THE TOP—Increased food costs and rents were responsible for a 1.6 point increase in Canada's cost-of-living index during June, according to Dominion Bureau of Statistics announcement Thursday. The index reached 162.1 as of July 1, compared with 160.5 at June 1. The increase was the largest in recent months. The food index climbed 202.9 to 207.2 while rents jumped a full point, from 122.4 to 123.4. The top graph shows the trend of Canada's living costs from 1939 to 1946.

Vice-President Barkley Tripping Light Fantastic

By GEORGE RONALD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5—(CP)—Alben W. Barkley is proof that you can be vice-president of the United States and still have a lot of fun. The keen wit and rollicking sense of humor of this 71-year-old Kentuckian has brought gay, new attention to a post which has tended to push men into the Washington background.

The late Thomas Marshall, speaking from eight years of personal experience, once said the vice-president "is like a man in a cataleptic state."

"He cannot speak; he cannot move; he suffers no pain; and yet he is perfectly conscious of everything that is going on around him."

Maybe so—years ago. But that description does not apply today. Barkley is smiling, good-natured activity itself. He is nearly always on the go.

Youngsters Envious

"Mr. Barkley," says the Washington Post, "having plunged with what is best described as boyish enthusiasm, into the giddy social whirl of this capital, is maintaining a pace that leaves the hardest young debutante and the most athletic of dancing men gasping with envy."

The "Veep"—Barkley says that is what his family calls him now that he is Vice-President — does little solo dances at parties. He goes to beauty pageants and crowns and kisses the "queens."

He caused a minor sensation recently simply by having luncheon in St. Louis with an attractive widow. He added fuel to the fire by saying a few days later—as he crowned another "queen"—that he might soon "crown a queen of my own." Then he said he was only spoofing.

Not All Fun

But there is a serious side to this man who served 35 years in Congress before being named President Truman's running-mate in the 1948 election.

As Vice-President, he is presiding officer of the Senate—and he rules with an iron hand and an impressive knowledge of the Senate rules.

This year he received the first annual Franklin D. Roosevelt Four Freedoms Award for "distinguished service" in behalf of freedom of speech and religion and freedom from want and fear.

Barkley was born in a log cabin and emerged from the humble background of a Kentucky farm to play a prominent role in United States affairs. He was Senate Majority Leader during a history-making decade that encompassed the latter years of Roosevelt's New Deal and all of the Second World War.

Dinghy Sailing Races Renewed

For the first time since the end of the war, dinghy races will be held Saturday afternoon at Chemong Lake for the Kawartha Lakes Championship. The last winner of the Trent Valley System cup was George Cook, who took the honors at Chemong before the war.

The committee in charge of the sailing is expecting approximately 20 entrants, ten from Stony Lake, five or six from Chemong, and four or five from Sturgeon Lake. Men organizing the event are Dr. Ralph Clark, Gordon Matthews, Sr., his sons Gordon and Jack, and Frank Somerville.

The first race starts at two o'clock, and the second, which is an open sailing event, immediately after. There will be a handicap race Sunday morning at 10 a.m.

Chemong Lake has long been regarded as one of the choice sailing lakes of the Kawarthas. It is comparatively free from islands and obstructions (discounting the causeway), and is almost midway between Sturgeon and Stony Lakes.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 5 (CP)—The fossilized remains of a prehistoric fish, estimated to be [illegible] years old, have been discovered at Thornhill, Man., L. T. S. He said there is possibility the fish may be new to science and that its accurate determination as to species must be delayed until it can be examined by a specialist.

Cosmopolitans Win Two From Knights In Semi-Finals

By FRED MAYBEE

Howie Dalton's Cosmopolitans took a big edge in their best-of-seven semi-final series with Knights of Columbus Thursday night at the Bowl, when they won both ends of the twin bill by scores of 3-2 in the opener and 15-1 in the nightcap. The right to meet Uniteds for the Men's City Softball League championship is at stake. The series continues Saturday night with another doubleheader under the lights, commencing sharp at 7 p.m.

Ron Akers displayed rare form in the curtain-raiser before the largest crowd of the holiday season, to win a close decision over John Hunter. It was a duel though and might have gone either way, Akers allowed seven hits, Hunter eight and each squad erred thrice.

Two runs in the fourth by Cosmos supplied the victory edge as Akers himself drove his first of two hits to right and circled all the way as the ball eluded O'Heron. Crowe later got a life and scored on Dalton's single. Carpenter had two safe hits also while for KC's "Skeeter" O'Heron shone both ways and Tompkins had two hits in a very fine all-round game.

Cosmos made one big inning count decisively in the nightcap of the Men's Softball League semi-final best-of-seven series with Knights, scoring nine runs to win finally by 15-1.

Jack Crowley was at his very best on the hill for Cosmos limiting Knights to seven scattered hits and fanning nine, three in one inning.

K of C made a good game of it for five innings behind Hinton but with two away in the sixth, with Hawkes on base, Cosmos rallied to put over nine unearned runs, before Sarasceni forced Thomson to ground out.

The latter's grounder in the sixth for the third fielding chance of the inning was bobbled, scoring Hawkes. Crowe singled and Mackness was also safe on an error. Dalton doubled to score two, Carpenter and Pryde walked and two more came in on Walton's rap. Hawkes banged his second hit of the inning to score Carpenter and Crowley cleared the bases with a long triple to centre—before the final out.

Crowe, Hawkes and Dalton were the big stickers for Cosmos with Crowe sparking afield. O'Heron had two safeties and shone in right. Both teams featured some fine fielding.

Winners of Cosmopolitan Club draw were as follows: Mr. P. McGillen, 390 Rogers St., $75; Mr. W. Edworthy, 260 King St., $75; Mr. H. Colvill, 485 Rogers St., $75.

Nassau Pace Postponed Because Of Rain

WESTBURY, N.Y., Aug. 5. — (CP).—Weather permitting, 17 of the top pacers on the continent will clash tonight in the $50,000 Nassau two-mile pace at Roosevelt raceway.

Rain forced postponement of this harness racing classic Thursday night because the top-flight field of sidewheelers need a firm track to do themselves justice.

Grattan McKyle remains a 2-1 favorite in the bulky field, largest to ever start at the track.

Among those expected to furnish keen contention are Dr. Stanton, who will as usual be piloted by his owner, W. L. (Lindy) Fraser, the Forest, Ont., veteran, and the two pacers who finished second and third in the Nassau last year—Poplar Byrd and Forbes Chief. Goosebay, the 1948 winner, is not competing this trip.

Up His Alley

Dr. Stanton, who likes to run all day, is well suited by the two-mile distance—four times around the Roosevelt oval. The Doctor was made favorite in the Nassau a year ago but wound up fourth. Dr. Stanton is quoted at 5 to 1 on the early line, while the price-makers list Forbes Chief at 6 to 1 and Poplar Byrd at 8 to 1.

There are two three-horse entries in the field.

One threesome, trained by Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., is made up of Mr. Morris Scot, Stewart Direct and Dick Erla. Stewart Direct is owned by Hugh Stewart of Peterborough, and will probably go to the post with his entry-mates at about 10 to 1.

The other bargain entry for the bettors consists of Royal Man, Jerry the First and Hogden, trained by Eddie Cobb of Washington Court, O. The trio is listed at 7 to 2

An extra attraction on the program tonight is the scheduled appearance of Bangaway, a leading candidate for the Hambletonian, in the Volomite Stake, a $10,000 race which drew 11 three-year-old trotters. Pacers of the same age will clash in the $10,000 Adios in which Royal Blackstone is favored.

Bankers Defeat Firemen 16-9

Bankers defeated the last place Firemen 16-9 in a Civic League fixture at King Edward Park on Thursday. In the other league game played Thursday night the Co-op edged out the Bus Drivers 10-8 to remain undefeated.

Don Brown pitched steady ball for the Bankers, striking out nine, catching two flies and assisting in two other outs. Gimblett for the Firemen was steady also but ran into trouble in the seventh when the Bankers hit seven safeties along with two Firemen errors for nine runs to break up the close game.

The game was close all the way to the seventh with the Bankers scoring in the first inning three times, the fourth once and the sixth three times. The Firemen kept along with the Bankers until the seventh with four runs in the second, and a single in the fourth. In a fruitless effort the Firemen got three hits for four runs in the seventh to make the score 16-9.

Tihtry-six hits were made off the pitchers in the Co-op vs. Bus Drivers game. Clarke of the Bus Drivers was relieved by Graham Strickland when the pressure of the Co-op batters forced him from the mound. Five errors by the Drivers helped shove the runs across for the Co-op.

At Ottawa Bill Cowley, coach of Vancouver Canucks in the Pacific Coast Hockey League last year, said Thursday he had no intention of going to the west coast this year.

Cowley said he had been told by Coley Hall, owner of the Canucks, that Bill Carse probably would be appointed playing-coach of Canucks this year. Carse starred at centre for the club last season.

"I have no plans for the west coast this year," Cowley said. "Their plans apparently call for a swing to playing-coaches this season and I am considering another offer."

A flying egg will whirl down Utah's Great Salt Lake Flats this fall to a world's motorcycle speed record—if Noel Pope's dreams come true.

Pope, 39-year-old British motorcyclist, will drive a twin-motored supercharged machine with an airplane-like shell around it in his attempt to smash the German-held record of 175 miles an hour.

The shell is egg-shaped, with a tail and stubby wings to serve as stabilizers.

Pope hopes to hit 200 miles an hour in the machine, which he designed in co-operation with George Petty, an airplane designer.

Orioles Divide Doubleheader With Rochester

By The Associated Press

Al Widmar, tall righthander of the Baltimore Orioles, is not only very much in the running for International League pitching honors, but also one of the chief threats for the most valuable player award.

Widmar, 24, has won 18 games and lost only seven for the seventh-place Orioles who have won only 42 games in 102 decisions.

The former St. Louis Brownie turned in his 18th triumph Thursday night, beating Rochester Red Wings 10-5 in the second half of a doubleheader. The Wings took the first game 4-0 behind the five-hit pitching of big Jim Hearn.

Widmar's triumph prevented the Wings from moving into a virtual first place tie with Buffalo Bisons. The Bisons bowed 2-1 to Newark Bears in 10 innings and as a result their lead was shaved to a game.

The Wings collected only six hits off Jim Wilson in the opener but half of them were home runs by Russ Derry, Dick Cole and Al Stringer. Derry's blast was his 31st.

Widmar allowed ten hits and was in front all the way. Widmar fanned three and walked three. He leads the loop in strikeouts with 132.

Breaks Up Game

Frank Lamanna's pinch-hit single broke up the Buffalo-Newark game. Lamanna batted for winning pitcher Joe Valenzuela and singled Rookie Bob Thurman home from second with two out in the tenth. Valenzuela allowed the Bisons only three hits.

Toronto Maple Leafs took over third place from Jersey City Giants, beating Syracuse Chiefs 7-3 as the Giants bowed 8-1 to Montreal Royals.

Bubber Church stopped the Chiefs on four hits, one a homer by Al Rubeling. The Leafs pounded Art Hartley and Roman Brunswick for 11 safeties including a three-run four-bagger by Vic Barnhart. Church helped his cause, driving home two runs on a pair of singles.

Lefty Johnny Van Cuyk halted the Giants on six blows to square his record at 7-7. The Royals jumped on Andy Tomasic for five runs in the first inning on a three-run homer by Al Gionfriddo and a two-run blast by George Schmees.

CULTURED HURLER—Paul Calvert, 30-year-old Montreal right-hander, who speaks three languages, holds a master of commerce degree from the University of Montreal and is currently studying to be a chartered accountant, is chalking up an impressive record with the seventh-place Washington Senators in the American League. To date he has six wins against eleven losses but with a little support from his team-mates may yet balance the tally before the season ends. Says one Washington sportswriter: "Calvert's a chap with savvy and a relief from some of the less brainy specimens we could mention."

Detroit Fells Yanks 3-2 As Tribe Takes Twin Bill

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer.

Cleveland's flair for winning extra-inning games may mean the difference in the American League pennant race.

While the leading New York Yankees have blown eight of 11 overtime decisions, the 1949 world champions have copped 12 of 13. As a result the Indians to-day are only 2½ games out of first place.

That old extra-inning trouble felled the Yanks again Thursday when they lost to Detroit in 11 innings, 3-2. Pat Mullin broke up the game with his fourth single of the day, scoring Eddie Lake from third base in the 11th.

Vic Raschi, who has lost only six while winning 15, suffered his third setback by Detroit, a club he has not beaten.

Cleveland pulled another long game out of the fire, trimming Washington 6-3 in 12 innings to take the first of their twilight-night doubleheader.

Gambling all the way, Manager Lou Boudreau used Bob Lemon, his pitching ace, in relief who picked up his 13th win on a three-run splurge in the 12th. Doubles by Larry Doby and Bob Kennedy and triples by Mickey Vernon and Boudreau did the trick.

Humble Senators

Then the Indians proceeded to humble the Senators 14-1, for a clean sweep on Bobby Feller's six-hitter. It was the 19th loss for Washington in their last 21 games.

Dale Mitchell led the assault on four Washington pitchers with five hits. Paul Calvert was the victim, his ninth straight loss.

The slugging Boston Red Sox smothered St. Louis Browns 12-2 with 14 hits off loser Red Embree and three successors. Joe Dobson added his fourth straight victory with a six-hitter.

Dom DiMaggio, still on a consecutive game hitting spree that has reached 31 contests, took over the league batting lead at .347 with two hits. A four-run blast in the first inning ruined Embree.

A scheduled Chicago-Philadelphia night game was postponed on account of rain.

On Batting Sprees

Both St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers went on double-figure batting sprees to keep step in the National League race where the Cards still hold a half-gam margin.

St. Louis routed Boston 10-2. Al Brazle, winning his 12th, was replaced by Ted Wilks in the sixth after he had been struck by a batted ball.

Home runs by Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Tommy Brown led Brooklyn's 14-hit attack in an 11-3 romp over Pittsburg. Don Newcombe, although tagged for 11 hits, hung up win No. 10.

Chicago's Johnny Schmitz ended two streaks, New York Giants' six-game win string and the Cubs' eight-game losing slump, with a 1-0 shutout win. Andy Pafko provided the lone run in the second inning with a homer off Larry Jansen.

Cincinnati made it four in a row, a new high for the Reds this season, taking a pair from the sinking Phillies, 8-5 and 9-1.

Labor Seen Victorious In British Elections, But Evidence of Dissatisfaction Is Strong

By LEON DENNEN, NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA)—With the approach of what is described here as the most vital general election which has ever taken place in Britain, the fortunes of the Labor Government continue to decline. Faced with rapidly dwindling gold and dollar reserves, a sharp cut in exports, new strikes—stimulated in part by the Communist led World Federation of Trade Unions—and the Conservative party's bold bid for support, British socialism is waging a fierce battle for survival.

LABOR'S Attlee: The Conservative program is a "dishonest document."

CONSERVATIVES' Churchill: Labor has "brought Great Britain low."

EDITOR'S NOTE: England, wracked by a financial crisis, is preparing for the first general elections in four years. Leon Dennen, NEA's roving European correspondent, sizes up the background of this critical election and finds British Socialism fighting for survival, a likelihood of a new appeal to the United States for dollar aid, and inefficiency in the too-quickly-nationalized industries. Here is the first of his two dispatches.

At the moment, the view here is that labor will win in the much-reduced majority. Labor-next elections, although with a ites assert that the common people fear Tory promises much more than they dislike the economic and social controls of the socialists.

But, for the first time since the present government came to power four years ago, labor and the lower middle-class—hitherto its main pillars—show signs of deep dissatisfaction.

In an effort to "build socialism in our time," the Labor Government proceeded to nationalize the basic industries at a fast pace causing underproduction, inefficiency and the rise of a top-heavy bureaucracy. The government ignored the basic needs of the people.

Thus, four years after liberation and a decade since the beginning of the war which first ushered in the era of economic suffering Englishmen are asked to tighten their belts another notch.

A return of the Tories to power would not likely alleviate Britain's plight. The program of the Conservative Party, as contained in a recently-published 68-page pamphlet called "The Right Road for Britain," is, in its own way, as narrow and dogmatic as the "Marxism" of the Labor Party.

The Tories seem to ignore the fact that capitalism, as it is understood and practised in the United States, exists in war-devastated Europe in name only, not in fact.

Terming the Conservative program "one of the most dishonest documents that I have ever read," Prime Minister Clement Attlee recently said that the Tories seem to "ask for increases for everybody" but give no indication as to how they are "going to find the money and who is going to find the money."

* * *

Winston Churchill retorted that from "her high and proud position at the end of the war," the Labor Government "brought Great Britain low alike in prosperity and reputation, both at home and abroad."

Every one of the countries of Europe outside the Iron Curtain, said Churchill, enjoys a greater abundance of consumer goods than England.

Many impartial observers believe that Britain's present plight cannot be blamed entirely on what Churchill called the "biased and sterile measures of restriction and nationalization of the Labor Government." Much of it is undoubtedly due to the unstable economic and political conditions existing at present in Europe, restrictions on international trade and East-West tension.

But having once embarked on the road of super-nationalization, the government is now faced with two alternatives—either socialist expenditure on the present fantastic scale or deflation and unemployment.

May Call Off Big Coal Strike

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 5—(CP) — Australia's general coal strike, now in its sixth week, may be called off next Monday.

Officials of miners' lodges today passed a resolution calling on the Central Council of the Miners' Federation to hold mass meetings Monday to vote on ending the strike.

The resolution came at a conference at Newcastle attended by New South Wales mining officials and representatives of the central council.

The Communist-controlled Northern Miners' Management Board later passed a resolution objecting to the moderates' decision.

Final decision will rest with the central council. The lodge resolution is only advisory but it was said that no central executive has survived rejection of a lodge recommendation.

Involving 23,000 miners, the coal strike has thrown 500,000 other people out of work and paralyzed industry. The miners are seeking higher wages and shorter hours.

The cabinet of New South Wales, the state most affected by the strike met today to consider easing some of the fuel cuts imposed early in the stoppage.

Gliders Off For Peacetime Battle

EDMONTON, Aug. 5—(CP)—Troop-carrying gliders, towed by RCAF Dakotas, took off from here Thursday for Grande Prairie, Alta. 250 miles northwest, to join other combined forces mustering there for "Exercise Eagle," most extensive peacetime military operation in Canada's history.

The scheme will be directed from Grande Prairie and calls for a sham air battle by the RCAF near Dawson Creek, B.C., start of the Alaska Highway, shortly after dawn Saturday. Then the glider-borne troops will make an assault on the Peace River bridge, strategic spot between Dawson Creek and Fort St. John, B.C., further up the highway.

Paratroops will seize the airfield at Fort St. John, and will be followed by air transported troops with heavy equipment.

Plans call for these forces to move southward from Fort St. John, over the "captured" bridge to complete the conquest of Dawson Creek.

Forces for the giant manoeuvre, including 375 all ranks of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Airborne Battalion, have been assembled at Grande Prairie since early this week.

Toronto Chief Not Alarmed Over Murders

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP) — Chief Constable John Chisholm said today the murder situation in Toronto—six in nine days—is "no cause for alarm."

"In April there was a murder and there has been an arrest," he said. "On July 27, there was a murder and an arrest and on the same day there was another murder and an arrest as the result of outstanding police work."

Chief Chisholm said the gun slaying of Alfred Layng, 25, shot and killed by a gunman attempting to escape from an east-central groceteria, "is not at all unsolved. It is still under investigation."

The murders of Robert and Gloria McKay took place outside the city, he said, but Toronto police are "co-operating fully with North York police."

Blame the Weather

Dr. Joslyn Rogers, criminologist and medico-legal expert of the Attorney-General's department, said today a combination of hot weather and the workings of suggestions on wavering minds may be the reason for the wave of slayings.

"If you hear of someone having done a peculiar thing," Dr. Rogers said, "you usually soon hear of it being done again."

"It's the result of suggestion on wavering minds, according to psychiatrists; suggestion on minds that may be confused, undecided, open to suggestion."

"I more than half believe the hot weather has something to do with it," he added.

"I noticed that in 1911 and in 1921, when we had very hot weather, we also had a great many investigations . . . I don't know if it's coincidence or not, but I particularly remember that in 1921 the wave spread all through the province."

22-Pound Muskie Taken In Pigeon

The latest fish to come out of Pigeon Lake is a 22-pound muskie caught by Mrs. Fred W. Lachoff, of Akron, Ohio. The fish caught on a rainbow plug, casting, and was landed in 15 minutes. The Lachoffs brought it to Peterborough to have it mounted.

The fish was taken Tuesday afternoon about 4:30 in the vicinity of Tall Cedar Lodge. Mr. Lachoff, who is the proprietor of the lodge, says that the fishing in Pigeon Lake is remarkably consistent this year, and that they had been biting hard since July 1.

Third City Interested In Victoria Statue

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 5 (CP)—A third Canadian city is interested in obtaining the statue of Queen Victoria which has been deposed from its place in a Dublin, Ireland, public square, Mayor Dennis said Thursday.

He had written to External Affairs Minister Pearson on London's prior enquiry about the statue. He was advised that two other cities also had asked. One was Peterborough, "but it was requested not to mention the name of the other."

Man Convicted Of Assaulting Young Brother

Found guilty of common assault on his 10-year-old brother, Arthur McGrath, 24, was remanded out of custody until September 9 when he was ordered to appear for sentence by Magistrate R. B. Baxter, in police court today.

The evidence submitted by McGrath's mother, Mrs. Lottie McGrath; victim of the assault John Edward (Teddy) McGrath; McGrath's wife Betty and McGrath himself was conflicting. McGrath denied hitting his brother with is fist, but admitted pushing him so he fell against a door.

A family disagreement arose out of an attempt by Mrs. Lottie McGrath to put her son Arthur, his wife and two baby sons out of a garage where they were living behind Mrs. McGrath's house at 846 St. Mary's St. Wednesday, she asked her son to sign an agreement to vacate in a week. Mrs. McGrath and her son Teddy testified McGrath had torn up the written agreement and thrown it in his mother's face. They said that McGrath then hit Teddy in the mouth and back of the neck with his fist without provaction.

McGrath and his wife contradicted this testimony and told the the court McGrath had only pushed the boy aside because he had made an obscene remark.

Magistrate Baxter recommended that McGrath find another place to live as soon as possible and in the meantime avoid his mother and other members of the household.

Homemade Pole Used

Alfred Lafave, 300 Braidwood Ave., pulled an Isaac Walton Wednesday morning on the fishermen who swear by artificial lures. While fishing with a cedar pole, a worm, a small hook and only six feet of line, he nailed a 5½ lb. smallmouth black bass at Trent River.

Mr. Lafave was fishing off one of the piers, and had to haul the fish five feet out of the water before he could get his hands on it. He had only been fishing about five minutes with his "mudcat pole," when the strike came. The bass is 21½ inches long, and has a 16 inch girth.

System To Blame Not Teachers Carleton Says

"The whole high school system of examinations all over the province . . . leads to unfairness, dishonesty and a general lowering of education standards," Dr. H. G. Carleton, chairman of the Board of Education supervisory committee said this week in an interview.

He said press reports which quoted him as claiming teachers in the Peterborough Collegiate were unfair, were completely untrue.

"At no time did I make one reference to our local situation to those Toronto reporters," he said. He added that he had referred the reporters to the story of the July 14 board meeting in The Examiner for a "complete and correct" account of the meeting. When asked by the reporters what was wrong with the local collegiate, he said Superintendent K. S. Wightman had been delegated to find out.

10 Days Study

The resolution authorizing Mr. Wightman to make his investigation and Dr. Carleton's criticism of the examination results were decisions reached after 10 days study and not hasty conclusions, Dr. Carleton declared.

He explained that, July 4, ten days before the Board of Education's regular meeting, the supervision committee met with School Inspector F. C. Windrem, Mr. Wightman and Principal C. S. Browne for a "full and frank discussion of the results." Each member of the committee had received a separate copy of the results at this meeting and immediately following, all members of the Board were furnished with copies of the results.

"The committee is not gunning for anybody. There are absolutely no personalities in this whatsoever. All we are gunning for is better results for the students," Dr. Carleton said.

He said it was a very serious matter for even young students to miss a year, especially when their going to school meant a real sacrifice for their parents. "I feel", he said, "if by this investigation, the number of failures could be cut down, the work and criticism will have been worth while."

Departmentals Essential

It was essential, Dr. Carleton said, that grade 12 students try departmental examinations, as those in grade 13 do. Formerly junior matriculation, grade 12 enabled students to begin training as nurses and to enter many vocations, as well as being the entrance requirement of many universities and colleges. Because of this, it was extremely important that those who successfully completed grade 12 had attained a uniform standard which could be relied upon by employers, universities and the students themselves, Dr. Carleton observed.

It was too much responsibility for the teachers who set and marked grade 12 examinations, especially the young inexperienced ones, he felt. He said it was impossible under the present system for any board of education to properly evaluate teaching standards in grade 12 because there was no reliable standard for comparison.

Dr. Carleton, who is a former teacher and now instructing on the Civic Hospital nursing staff, said his opinions had not been reached lightly and like every other member of the board, he took his job very seriously. None of the members were paid for their work which quite often meant a considerable sacrifice of their own scarce leisure.

He declared the only reason he and his colleagues were on the board was because they were intensely interested in young people and seeing they got the best possible training while attending school.

The oath which each man elected to the board is required to take is no light matter. It is, in part, ". . . that I do solemnly promise and declare that I will truly, faithfully and impartially, to the best of my knowledge and ability, execute the office of member of the Board of Education . . ."

In this matter, as in hospitals, it is the patient or student who is important, not the doctor, the board member or the teacher, Dr. Carleton said.

He felt an [illegible] warranted when the examination results were as unsatisfactory as they had been this year.

MISS LAURA MARY LAMBE, 191b Murray St., who has been appointed nursing superintendent of Metropolitan General Hospital, Windsor. Instructor of nurses at Peterborough Nicholls Hospital from 1940-1943, Miss Lambe is at present director of nursing at Women's College Hospital, Toronto. She is a great granddaughter of Captain Rubidge, pioneer resident of Peterborough.

Name Miss Laura M. Lambe To Windsor Hospital Post

Miss Laura Mary Lambe, director of nursing, Women's College Hospital of Toronto and a former instructor of nurses at Nicholls' Hospital, has accepted the position of nursing superintendent at Metropolitan General Hospital, in Windsor.

Lorne R. Cumming, the board's acting secretary who made the announcement, said the hospital board approved Miss Lambe's appointment some time ago, but he was unable to persuade the new appointee to accept until within the past few days. Miss Lambe is expected in Windsor late September or early October.

Miss Lambe, who is 46, belongs to an old Peterborough family. She is great granddaughter of Captain Rubidge, one of the pioneers of the city, whose name was given to one of the earliest streets in Peterborough.

Mother Resides in City

Although Miss Lambe's early life was spent mostly in Ottawa, she has frequently visited relatives here and since 1940, Peterborough has been her home. When she came to Nicholls Hospital in that year her mother, Mrs. Alfred B. Lambe, set up home at 191b Murray St. where Miss Lambe is now spending her summer vacation.

"One of the reasons why I was persuaded to take on this job," Miss Lambe said today, "is because the new experimental demonstration school for training nurses is at this hospital."

Organised by the Red Cross and the Canadian Nursing Association, the school, which will have its first graduation in the new year, should offer a fine opportunity for training really fine nurses, Miss Lambe says. The school is experimenting to train nurses in two years instead of three.

Miss Lambe will be superintendent of the nursing service of the hospital. She faces a difficult assignment after the widespread publicity the nursing staff of the hospital received recently.

A graduate of Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, where she served as nurse, teacher and supervisor, Miss Lambe has since been instructor of nursing at the school of graduate nursing at McGill University. From 1939-1940 she served in Cambridge Hospital, England. After being instructor of nurses at Peterborough Hospital from 1940-1943, she went to Women's College Hospital, Toronto.

Mrs. T. A. Wiseman, the present acting superintendent of nurses, who undertook the position for an interim period following the resignation of Miss Mildred Maybee and an investigation of nursing supervision at the hospital, will remain until September and Miss Lambe is hoping she will extend her services to October 1.

A Board meeting is scheduled at the hospital today if a quorum can be assembled, at which names of several applicants for the position of administrator will be considered. Six experienced hospital administrators have applied for the Windsor job, Mr. Cumming said. He did not disclose their names, but said they were from various parts of Canada.

Await Complete Report

Mr. Cumming also stated that a letter has been received from Judge Eric W. Cross, one-man Ontario Royal Commissioner, whose complete report on the recent hospital investigation is still awaited. In his letter, Judge Cross states he is not submitting an interim report, but is working to have his final report ready as early as possible.

He urges that the present Hospital Board act as soon as possible in employing an administrator to replace Horace E. Atkin, who resigned during the investigation and a nursing superintendent to replace Miss Mildred Maybee, whose resignation brought on the hospital inquiry.

His final report, Judge Cross indicates, will not recommend any change in the administrative structure of the hospital as far as these two positions are concerned. The duties and responsibilities of each of the two positions, he emphasizes, are well defined in the reports of hospital experts now in the Board's hands.

Dredge Finishes Half Work In Little Lake

The McNamara dredge was more than half way across the river at Burnham's Point today excavating the channel for the parallel pipes, a water main from the Utilities Commission and sewerage line for the board of works.

"The dredge is making faster progress than we expected," R. L. Dobbin, Utilities manager, told the Examiner.

In the meantime Stuart Meiklejohn, is in charge of the welding of the pipes which are to be lowered into the grooves that are being dug in the bed of the river.

Then comes the "payoff" on the Dobbin plan of placing these dual links in their respective positions.

Some Doubt Expressed

Instead of putting in a coffer dam or engaging divers to joint the pipes under water, Mr. Dobbin has adopted a method of which laymen are doubtful. When the Meiklejohn job of welding the pipes together is finished, followed by a pressure test, the two ends of each pipe line will be plugged, the air pumped out for buoyancy, and the iron will be floated out into position over the dredged channels in the river bed.

"But, will they float?" was the question the members of the Utilities Commission posed to Mr. Dobbin.

"If they don't I'd better take a holiday for awhile," he remarked to the Examiner.

It is altogether likely that the Commissioners will be spectators on that day of experiment, and some of Mr. Dobbin's other friends may be there too, for their expected embarrassment of the Utilities manager.

At any rate, the Meiklejohn and McNamara people are getting on with the preliminaries which may be completed by next week.

Another Utilities project that is in the final stage is the linking of the new 24-inch main into the pumping system at the waterworks. That long length of pipe across the Hilliard farm and down Bethune has to be thoroughly flushed, a detail that has been retarded somewhat by the continuing light pressure resulting from the community's heavily increased demands on the city's water system.

That job will be wound up any day, according to the Dobbin schedule.

CRUISER CAUSES INTEREST

The largest, 48 foot, and some say the most lavish cruiser went through the Liftlock last evening about 7 p.m. Skippered by Kellogg Clarke of Buffalo, the Gail IV registered at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., had an estimated audience of 125 people as it went over the Big Lift. News put on the air from the Peterborough radio station was responsible for alerting many of the onlookers and 25 cars were parked along the banks to have a look at the Gail. Skipper Clarke with his wife and son and Clifford Dobbin plan to cruise as far as Lake Simcoe and turn about to repeat the same trip southbound down the Trent waterways.

Acquit Driver On Charge Causing Crash

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, acquitted Hugh Leeson, 67, of Smith Twp., Thursday in city police court when the Crown charged him with being responsible for a collision between a car and a truck July 18 on Highway 28. Mr. Leeson was driving a third car at the time of the collision and escaped without being involved in the collision but the other two vehicles were badly smashed.

Neither of the two drivers whose vehicles collided was charged.

Pleading not guilty to careless driving, Mr. Leeson described how the crash occurred some 90 feet north of the intersection of the seventh line and highway 28 in Smith Twp.

The truck, driven by Gerald Withers and the car, with J. H. Fulton at the wheel, were travelling north and south on the highway when Mr. Leeson made a left hand turn onto the highway. He made the turn and had travelled several feet along the highway on his own side of the road when the two oncoming cars collided.

Mr. Leeson said the first time he approached the highway he stopped his car. The road he was travelling sloped back from the highway. When he had reached the highway he had been unable to cross because of traffic, so he backed down.

He drove up to the highway a second time and was again unable to cross because of traffic so he backed down again. The third time he came up the slope he saw the truck on one side and the car on the other, estimating each vehicle to be approximately 300 feet away from him. He judged that he had time to make the turn into the highway traffic and did, in fact, make the turning.

Mr. Leeson said he was unable to get a clear vision of the highway until his car was partially on the cement.

V. J. McElderry, KC, for the Crown, maintained that Mr. Leeson ought not have backed his car down the slope when waiting to cross the highway. He ought to have stayed in a position where he could see the highway traffic and by not doing so, was negligent.

Provincial Constable Roy Feeley gave evidence and also the truck driver and the driver of the car.

The magistrate said that he thought the relative degree of negligence of all three parties was a matter for a civil court to decide. There was an element of doubt, the benefit of which he gave to the accused.

Mr. Leeson was defended by W. C. Grant.

UAW Appeals For Conciliation

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP)—The United Auto Workers' Union (CCL-CIO) has applied to Ontario Labor Minister Daley for conciliation hearings as a preliminary step in the dispute between the union and the Ford Motor Company of Canada on the question of a company-financed pensions and welfare plan.

The Windsor company has rejected union demands, estimating they would cost an additional $13,000,000 annually. The union seeks pensions of $100 monthly for each worker at age 60 with 25 years service. The union also seeks hospital, surgical, medical and life insurance benefits for the company's 14,000 employees.

It was reported here Thursday night that the union action is being concerted with steps by the union in the United States against the Ford Motor Company. Contracts with the Chrysler Corporation in Canada are also due for negotiation this month, but the General Motors Corporation has a two-year contract signed this year.

DRUG AIDS RH BABY—With her mother at Mount Hamilton Hospital is Baby Valerie Gayle Williams, who, but for a new medical discovery, might have needed a 90 per cent blood exchange to survive birth. Because of differences in the RH factors of her parents' blood, the baby's blood would have broken down soon after birth. A new extract, hapten, made for the first time in Canada in the laboratories of Hamilton General Hospital, was given her mother, Mrs. Ronald Williams, before the child was born. As a result, Valerie was born a healthy child requiring no extensive blood exchange.

Theft Charge Withdrawn

When Murray Nice, 581 Douglas Ave. and Lorne Fontaine, 146 Aylmer St. faced trial in city police court Thursday on a charge of stealing $2.50 and a powder compact from a handbag at the Pine Pavilion, Chemong Park, the charge against Nice was withdrawn on request of the Crown. Judgment in the case against Fontaine was reserved until Monday.

Herb Payne, proprietor of the pavilion, told the court that as soon as Miss Nancy Bosworth, a visitor to Peterborough from West Virginia, told him her handbag had been stolen, he suspected Nice and Fontaine.

Miss Bosworth said she had left her handbag on a ledge by a screen. There was a hole in the screen and when she returned after dancing, she concluded the bag had been taken through the hole.

Mr. Payne said he had seen Nice and Fontaine with two other youths and had watched them standing by the front entrance to the pavilion. Returning to the spot after learning about the lost handbag, he found a wallet and the bag on the ground where Fontaine had been standing.

Nice said that he had been with one of the other boys of the party and Fontaine had gone up to him and said "I've got a purse." Nice told the court that he told Fontaine to keep away from him if he had anything which had been stolen, whereupon Fontaine had walked away.

All four had driven back to Peterborough in Fontaine's car.

No evidence was offered on behalf of Fontaine, who was defended by John Corkery.

Major Fraser Dies

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 5.—(CP)— Major E. E. Fraser, former Conservative member of both the House of Commons and the Ontario Legislature, died Thursday at 83. He was elected to the Ontario House in 1905, 1908 and 1911, and entered the Federal Parliament in 1917 as member for Welland. In the First World War he distinguished himself in railroad construction in France.

Industrialist Explains Loan Circumstances

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Industrialist Carl G. Strandlund Thursday told a Congressional investigating committee he launched his Lustron Corporation, in Columbus, Ohio, with $1,000 of his own, patent rights on a process for prefabricating houses, and $35,500,000 borrowed from the Federal government.

Strandlund said his prefabricated housing project should be on a financial break-even basis within 90 days, and that he hopes to pay off his debts within six years. He said it now is losing about $1,000,000 a month.

Strandlund appeared before the House of Representatives banking and currency committee to explain circumstances of the loan. Representative Smith (Rep. Ohio), had demanded an explanation. Smith contended the deal amounted to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, government loan agency setting Strandlund up in business and taking most of the risks.

LAUZON, Que., Aug. 5 (CP)—A 276-foot replacement for the Arctic supply ship Nascopie which was lost in the north two years ago is under construction at shipyards in this town across the St. Lawrence river from Quebec. The ship is expected to be ready for launching at the end of August. It will be equipped with a helicopter and other modern apparatus.

Believe Europe Must Unite Or Will Perish

LONDON, Aug. 5 (Reuters) — The council of Europe, which meets for the first time next week in Strasbourg, has its origin in the growing conviction that Europe must unite or perish.

The idea is not new. It has, however, been strengthened enormously by the shift in the balance of world power since the second world war.

Europe, disorganized and impoverished, is suddenly aware that her identity as a number of independent states is threatened with extinction between the American and Russian systems which have emerged from the war.

The eastern half of Europe has been incorporated into the Soviet sphere of influence and no longer shares the broad political and economic structure which used to characterize the whole of Europe and made it a distinct world force.

When the 10 founding powers met in London last May, they agreed it was desirable to exclude Communists from the delegates nominated to the assembly of the council of Europe.

Watch Fifth Column

It was left to countries such as France and Italy, where the Communists have strong parliamentary representation to work out a formula which would effectively keep out a potential fifth column. The council must be considered part of the structure to protect Western Europe against international Communism.

But it would be wrong to conclude, as Moscow and the Cominform appear to have decided, that the council of Europe is simply part of an anti-Soviet pattern which is growing under American inspiration.

The evidence suggests that the council of Europe, in trying to safeguard Europe's heritage, will be as concerned to preserve its member states from excessive dependence on the United States as from Communism.

The idea that world peace depends on the creation in Europe of a third force—strong enough and well-organized enough to withstand pressure from both Moscow and Washington, has many adherents among delegates to the council of Europe.

Costly Attacks

DELHI, Ont., Aug. 5.—(CP)—Attacks on aphid bugs on Western Ontario tobacco crops this year may cost growers as much as $5,000,000, it was estimated Thursday. L. S. Hickery of the Dominion Experimental Sub-Station said "we are getting an average of 20 calls a day from worried growers." Farmers have been using various sprays against the tiny green bugs with small result and have been advised to dust the crops with insecticide.

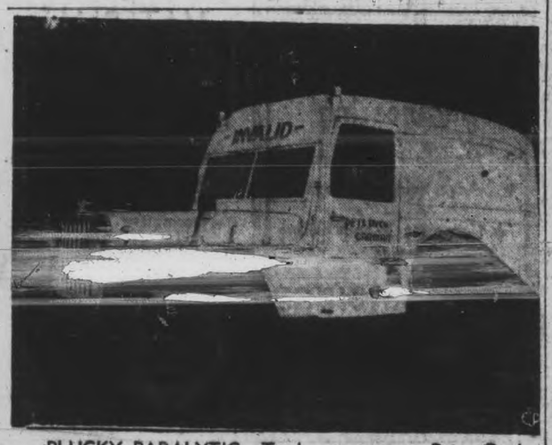
Shopkeepers Threaten Outright Rebellion



LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—Shopkeepers, galled by 10 years of government controls Thursday threatened outright rebellion against an order to cut prices.

They are members of the National Chamber of Trade—250,000 of them.

The merchants objected to a directive issued last week by Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, for retailers to slash prices of utility clothing, footwear and household textiles five per cent.

The order is effective next month.

A. F. Hopkinson, general secretary of the Outfitters Association, explained the shopkeepers do not object to price cuts as such, but want the profit margins of manufacturers and wholesalers reduced so that the whole slash does not come out of the shopkeepers' profits.

PLUCKY PARALYTIC—Twelve years ago, Peter Dyck of Carman, Man., became paralyzed and faced the prospect spending the rest of his life on his back. Today in a specially constructed vehicle, 37-year-old Dyck has become one of the most widely-travelled motorists in Manitoba. Dyck got his first vehicle—built on bicycle wheels and powered by a washing machine motor—in 1943. The next year he had a larger one built. In 1946, with help of friends, he bought a jeep and converted it to his special needs. Now lying on a bed, level with the windshield, and operating the accelerator, clutch and brake by a lever, Dyck travels throughout the province. Here Dyck can be seen in his jeep.

Say Meals This Summer Cost Most Canadian Trifle More

By The Canadian Press

Mr. and Mrs. Average Canadian and their family are sitting down to meals this summer which cost a trifle more than they did last year. At least, that's what the statistics show, even though Mrs. Average Canadian, who does the shopping, may think differently after checking her depleted pocket book.

A Canadian Press survey of prices of seasonal fruit and vegetable and of staples such as meat, bread, milk and eggs shows only a slight increase over 1948 prices.

Prospects for pears, plums, peaches and apples — none of which is on the market in great quantity yet—are excellent. Despite early drought in some sections of the country a good second root crop is expected and winter storage bins should be overflowing with onions, potatoes, carrots, turnips and beets.

In Short Supply

In some districts certain fruit and vegetable crops are in short supply and some are more expensive than last year. Lettuce and cucumbers are reported scarce in Winnipeg and tomatoes are expected to be more expensive in Ontario this year than last.

Throughout most of the Dominion, housewives share the common complaint that eggs are too expensive. But farmers and food wholesalers say this is a seasonal occurrence and, fairly soon, prices of eggs should return to normal.

Meat prices generally are considered too high by housewives although they are not a great deal higher than in 1948. This thought is reflected in a decreased demand for more expensive cuts and an increased use of fresh fruit and vegetables on Canadian tables.

Fruit wholesalers in Ontario say that despite the drought there was an excellent crop of raspberries and a fair crop of strawberries in the province this year. They say that this summer's crop of pears and peaches should be better than last with the apple crop about the same.

In British Columbia, growers say fruit in the Okanagan Valley is of better quality this summer than last.

Fruits Plentiful

Alberta's fresh fruits are plentiful and of higher quality than last year and prices have changed little.

In Saskatchewan, the survey uncovered complaints of high prices for meat, eggs and citrus fruit.

Small fruits have not flourished in Manitoba this year but, for the most part, vegetables have done well.

Quebec is the only province in which a downward price trend is noted in some commodities. Meat is reported cheaper than last year and considerable reductions are seen in prices of tomatoes.

Hear Expert On Dust Control

THETFORD MINES, Que., Aug. 5.—(CP).—The Arbitration Board sitting here to rule on the asbestos labor dispute Thursday heard testimony of an expert on industrial dust control.

The Board heard Dr. Roger Patvin, electro-metallurgy professor at Laval University and a witness on behalf of the Federation of Asbestos Workers Syndicates (C.C.C.L.) testify that asbestos dust conditions at the plants of the Asbestos Corporation, the Johnson Mines and the Flintkote Mines Limited, generally "left much to be desired."

The Board also was told by the three companies they would reject any Federation proposal to have the Rank formula and the check-off system included in any future collective agreement.

The Rank formula and the check-off were included in the last contract signed by the Federation and the companies in 1948. Under these clauses, the employers must collect union dues from all employees, whether members of the union or not, and turn over the total sum to the union.

New Art Gallery Essential Director Warns

OTTAWA, Aug. 5 (CP)—H. O. McCurry, director of Canada's National Art Gallery, said today a new home for the gallery is "essential."

He proposed construction of a new building in central Ottawa, devoted entirely to art.

Mr. McCurry appeared before the royal commission on art and science development as it continued its probe into the Dominion's cultural growth and needs for development.

The gallery, located for the last 30 years in the east wing of the National Museum, about a mile from Parliament Hill, has "never had a building of its own," Mr. McCurry said in a brief prepared for presentation to the commission, headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Chancellor of the University of Toronto.

Fire Hazard

Its present home was a fire hazard. "The building is not fireproof and the necessity of using wooden screens and partitions increases the risk of fire; while the proximity of the Natural History Museum, where smoking is not prohibited, is an added source of danger."

The building was remote from the centre of the city. Accommodation was "hopelessly inadequate" and only 30 per cent of the total permanent exhibition could be placed on display at one time.

In the proposed structure three groups of galleries could be maintained. One would be for Old Masters and sculpture collections, another for Canadian and modern collections and a third for the Canadian war memorial group of paintings.

Sombre Colored Day Dresses Accent Slimness

PARIS, Aug. 5 (AP)—Capes, flying panels and box jackets of varied lengths made their entrance Thursday when three leading French designers displayed their fall fashions.

Piguet accentuated the slimness of his tubular skirts to make brief straight-cut box jackets, fur-lined or stiffened to make them stand away from the body.

Earlier, Maggy Rouff featured knickle-length jackets flared at the back and with moderate sized collars.

Piguet, in contrast, featured pointed collars that stand up straight to higher-than-ear level. He uses them on loose flowing topcoats and capes. His capes come anything from elbow to three-quarter length and are often heavily trimmed with fur.

He introduced a trick neckline which involves a crossover bodice that unbuttons and folds back to form two enormous lapels. This was seen on a fine black wool dress which had two flying panels set on the back skirt.

Carven, another top-flight designer, also used the overskirt theme for dresses, topcoats and even gabardine raincoats.

Most designers so far have shown hip-hugging peplums for their jackets but Piguet makes them fluted or bulbous.

The fluted peplum of a black velvet suit was underlaid with white ermine and the sleeves slashed to reveal the same trim.

A strapless short evening dress had a peplum, like a half-open umbrella swung with silk tassels, standing out around the hips.

All three designers use a lot of wool plaid for suits and dresses.

Except for Piguet, who uses electric blue, crimson and black plaid for slim day numbers, most dresses are rather sombre colored.

The groomsman was Donald Davis, brother of the bride.

Variety of Gloves Shown In British Fashions

LONDON, Eng. —(CP)—Accessories count in this year's British fashion trends.

Hand-made novelty gloves are one front-liner. In suedes, leathers and snakeskin, they are designed specially to go with this year's styles and colors.

Wrist-length styles with frilled or turned-back cuffs are popular with color teams like navy and white, black and pastel pink, gray and green, brown and fawn. Smoothly-fitted gauntlets with button-backs are reminiscent of cavalier styles.

An attractive, practical idea is a plain navy leather glove with three-inch wide pique gauntlet which can be detached for washing.

Hard-wearing snakeskin-backed country gloves with soft leather palms are made in [illegible]ying shades of brown and burgundy, with snakeskin handbags to match.

An unusual style in navy has a white V-shaped gusset down the back and white gussets on the inside of each finger.

Matching accessories in rayon taffeta are popular. Examples? A taffeta cloche in navy and white check has matching gloves with wide cuff and navy suede palms and Dolly bag in navy suede with top frill and handles of taffeta. Taffeta gloves have bag and umbrella to match. Tartan and leather shoes have matching scarf and belt.

Beach Accessories

For beach wear the weavers are busy. A fishermen's creel provided with a space for a gay head scarf was combined with sandbox-sized wickerwork shoulder-bag, large enough for all seaside necessities. A wickerwork frame with a long stocking-like attachment in gaily colored cotton could be used for hat or bag in old smuggling style.

Long gloves are gay as can be. White mesh is trimmed with beads, buttons and bows. One pair has two bands of broderie anglaise, threaded with black velvet ribbon, high up on the arm.

A lovely evening glove in white satin sports a top embroidered with pearl beading. Plain matching court shoes have embroidered toes and the wrist handbag is embroidered completely.

A long evening glove in black suede has a cuff row of pearl buttons giving a detachable glove designed for dinner engagements to save the necessity for removing the entire glove.

Mesh and silk jersey gloves are also popular for evening and garden party wear in almond, lime, absinthe green, daffodil yellow, egg-shell and caramel.

First Woman Dr. Had Relatives Here

HASTINGS, England, Aug. 5—(Reuters). — Antiquarians want to save the home of Britain's first woman doctor, Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, who worked here for 30 years and died in 1910. She was a distant relative of the late William Blackwell, and Mr. W R. L. Blackwell of Peterborough, Ontario.

On the Regency Building, damaged by bombing, is a tablet which reads: "Here lived and worked for 30 years Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell. Born at Bristol, 1821. Died at Hastings, 1910. The first woman to graduate in medicine in the United States in New York, 1849. The first woman to be placed on the British Medical Register, 1859."

The house, overlooking the English Channel, has been unoccupied for 20 years.

The antiquarians hope some move for preservation, besides anything they may themselves do, may come from British and United States medical societies.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Selfish Wife Sacrifices Husband for Wealthy Mate

Dorothy Dix

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 36. My wife is 34. She is a beautiful woman. I am a hopeless cripple from an incurable case of arthritis. My wife had to go out to work and we were so poor that she lost several positions because she was so shabbily dressed. She has met a wealthy business man and has gone to live with him. He gives her every luxury and wants to marry her. A week ago she came to me and begged me to give her a divorce, told me that plenty of money would be supplied me and I would be placed in a home for incurable. She said that whether or not I gave her the divorce she would continue to live with this man as she loved him better than life. I flew into a rage and told her I would never give her a divorce, but what do you think I should do?

BROKEN-HEARTED.

ANSWER: I have never read a more pathetic and touching human document than your letter. Surely you have been called upon to bear more than your share of misfortune, and it seems cruelly unjust that to all of your other sufferings should be added this further grief of an unfaithful and unfeeling wife.

A fine and noble woman could not have deserted you in your hour of need. Nor would even a woman who was a good sport have forsaken you. She would have felt that it wasn't playing the game to turn her back upon the man she had sworn to stand by until death when he was down and out.

But in judging your wife you must look at the situation from her point of view. Life was hard on her also. It was grinding poverty and exhausting work.

And she saw this drab and dreary life streching on for years and years. Then this man came along who offered her all of the things she craved: the ease, the comfort, the soft living, the freedom from worry about money. She was besutiful and she knew that her good looks would soon go in the slavery she was condemned to. She was not strong enough to resist the temptation. She did not love you enough, for love is proof against any temptation, however great.

It was a heartless thing for her to leave you, but it was her life against yours, her happiness against yours, and selfishness won.

As for what you should do, I think the answer is plain. Give her the divorce she wants and let her legalize her position. You have lost her, anyway, and denying her a divorce will be only a petty revenge that will bring you no happiness.

If you love her, the knowledge that you have made this sacrifice for her, and that you have done all that you could to promote her well-being will be a greater satisfaction to you than the knowledge that you have been a dog in the manger.

And you will have made the gallant gesture of a fine gentleman, worthy of a better wife.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a young man of 26 in love with a girl of 23 and am my mother's only means of support. If I marry I would have to bring mother to live with us. If not, I will be depriving the girl and myself of the companionship and happiness that should be ours. Recognizing the problems which will confront us, should I decide in favor of the latter and the futility and emptiness of life or should I decide in favor of the former? I am coming to you for advice. What shall I do?

UNDECIDED.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think your decision should depend upon how broad-minded your mother and the girl are. If they are big, liberal, intelligent, just women who are capable of adjusting themselves to a difficult situation and making the best of it, there is no reason why your marriage should not be successful.

Not all mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law fight like Kilkenny cats.

Even if only one of the women loves you well enough to be willing to sacrifice some of her own personal inclinations and desires for your sake and make a genuine effort to get along with the other, you might risk marriage.

But if both your mother and the girl are narrow and jealous and selfish and particularly if they are of the possessive type of women, you had better endure the ills you have than fly to those you know not of. For a home can be a hell on earth in which there are two women battling over a man that they both love and that each is trying to take away from the other.

This is why, generally speaking, it is a fatal mistake for in-laws to try to live together, but there are exceptions to all rules, and I hope yours will be one of them.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Is pouting a disease? Is there any cure for it? My husband is a champion pouter. Sometimes he will go for six weeks without speaking to me. I love my husband and he is a splendid provider, but at times I don't feel as if I can stand his pouting any longer. What to do?

SUSIE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Pouting is a coward's way of getting what he wants by making it so disagreeable for others than they will give in rather than endure it.

I knew one woman who cured her husband of pouting by going away and leaving him whenever he passed into the silence.

If you haven't the nerve to do that, the best way is just to ignore it and let him pout in peace. If you apparently don't observe that he is pouting, he will lose interest in it and cheer up himself.

WHITE PIQUE ISSUES CRISP DENIAL—Crisp white pique has its only rival for awe-inspiring freshness the nurse's uniform or the surgeon's jacket.

This explains in part why pique fills up wardrobe gaps when the midseason thermometer climbs, why pique is a woman's favorite carry- over into the next cotton-picking season.

Conservative styled—pique has never submitted to many dressmaker frills—the jacket or dress that will see service during dog days and will reappear in wardrobes next year is apt to be a classic or a semi-classic fashion.

Safe from the changing whims of fashion are the two pique styles shown. A smart but timeless two-piece suit (RIGHT) of Eisenberg's design owes its new feminine appeal to a tailored collar softened by a pleated jabot of self fabric.

The trim white jacket, LEFT, which is used as shown to cover up the halter top of a cotton dress of gunmetal gray, is another example of the classic styling that makes a tailored pique topper immune to fashion changes.

"There is no form of prayer that would satisfy Roman Catholic, Protestant, Quaker, Jain (a Hindu religion), Moslem, Buddhist, Brahman, Agnostic, Atheist, Rationalist, Creative Evolutionist, Determinist, etc., etc., etc., or that would not intensely annoy some of them.

"Mediation should occupy many years to qualify for membership of the assembly. A silence under such a pretext would be supremely ridiculous. The watchword should be get to business."

No Slump in Nursing Jobs Fast Growing Profession

By KAY REX

OTTAWA (CP).—Nursing is one career in which a girl need never worry about the job possibilities.

Health and Welfare Department officials describe nursing as "a rapidly growing profession with openings in many fields, and with many opportunities for promotion."

Airline hostess — a nurse who chooses this has an opportunity to travel. While certain physical requirements are needed for this type of job, it offers up to $200 a month basic pay."

A supplementary issued of Canada's Health and Welfare, a department publication, lists the numerous other jobs open to registered nurses. As well as private duty nursing, which commands an average salary of from $7 to $8 a day, plus meals, while working, there also is physio-therapy work, where salaries run from $125 to $175 a month for a 40-hour week. Industrial nursing, public health nursing, medical social service, and doctor's office assistant also are included in the list.

Catch In Early Stages.

Medical and hospital bills can be a crushing economic burden when serious illness requiring long hospitalization strikes. Health and Welfare Department officials say that such illnesses can sometimes be avoided by early detection and treatment of the complaint. Many common diseases can be cured much more quickly, easily and economically when caught in their early stages.

Beware of flies in this hot weather season. Health experts warn the insects are great spreaders of disease. The housewife should make sure that they are kept outside and away from food and eating utensils. Windows and doors should be carefully screened and protected with insecticide.

Apply Oil

Neither are mosquitoes pleasant to have around. They can be eliminated by removing their breeding places — drain wet spots, empty and remove stagnant water containers and apply oil solutions to larger breeding grounds.

Swimming is fun in this weather, but it's best to be on guard when choosing a swimming-hole. Don't attempt to swim longer distances than you can easily make, and don't swim in polluted or swiftly-moving water. Stay out of the water for a reasonable time after meals, and never swim alone.

Noted Bachelor Jimmy Stewart To Take Wife

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 5 (AP)—Here's how love came to Jimmy Stewart.

Next Tuesday, bachelordom will lose one of its most noted members—the lanky James Stewart. On his last day of work in "Broken Arrow," I found him somewhat amazed at his forthcoming marriage to Gloria McLean.

"Gosh," he said, "I am almost past the point of no return."

Never much of a chatterbox, he revealed— after considerable prodding—some of the facts of his life with Gloria.

The pair met about a year ago when [illegible] at a dinner party given by the Gary Coopers. Gloria is a close friend of Mrs. Cooper's. Now that he thinks of it, Jimmy agrees that perhaps Mrs. Cooper had matchmaking in mind.

A Hit

The twosome hit it off right away. They began dating and playing golf together.

Like many bridegrooms, Jimmy is not too good at dates. He figures it was a month or maybe two ago that he proposed. (Actually it was May.) The event took place at dinner at his house.

"It was unpremeditated," he said. "Although I guess it was unconsciously premeditated for some time."

Jimmy gave his bride-to-be a solid gold compact instead of an engagement ring. She already has considerable jewellery. She was formerly wed to Ned McLean, son of Evelyn Walsh McLean, the late Washington hostess and owner of the Hope diamond.

Gloria, 31, has two sons, Ronald 5, and Michael 2.

The 41-year-old actor was asked if he thought marriage would change his life greatly.

"Now, you ask me that question six months from now and I will have a better answer for you," he replied, adding:

"I am not going into this thing lightly. After all, I am getting a wife—and two sons."

6—In Memoriams

DARLING—In fondest memory of loving husband and father, Peter Alexander Darling, who passed away August 5, 1948.

Time speeds on, a year has passed
Since death is gloom and shadows passed
Within our home, where all was bright
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will,
His vacant place no one can fill,
Down here we mourn, but not in vain
For up in heaven we will meet again.
—Lovingly remembered by his wife, Ida, and daughters Willa (Mrs. Hilliard Edwards) and Violet (Mrs. Allen Sharp).

Gets Extra Sentence For Hamilton Thefts

HAMILTON, Aug. 5 (CP) — Already serving four years for burglary, 17-year-old William D. Christianson, of Oakville, was sentenced today to 18 months definite and 12 months indeterminate on each of five counts of burglary of Hamilton homes.

These sentences will run concurrent with each other and those already being served. In addition he received a five months' sentence for breaking probation here, to run consecutive to the other sentences.

The youth pleaded guilty to the five charges of breaking into and stealing from five Hamilton homes during 1948 and 1949. He also pleaded guilty to six similar charges of burgling homes in East Flamboro. He was sentenced earlier on these counts.

Toby Popular Dog Humane Society Finds

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP) — A sandy-haired spaniel spotted as the most popular dog ever detained by Toronto's Humane Society, went home today minus a few hairs from his golden coat.

Toby, witness to the gun-slaying of his owners, Robert and Gloria McKay, was held for 24 hours while police showed him to citizens who believed they saw the animal Monday night with a young couple, possibly the McKays.

C. B. Powell, Mrs. McKay's father, said Toby "ran all over the house looking for Robert and Gloria . . . he'll pine for some time."

Humane officials reported they received nearly 100 requests from residents wanting to give Toby a good home.

Sensational Jet Planes Bring Orders Britain Hopes

LONDON, Aug. 5 (Reuters) — Britain, pinning her faith to sensational advances in jet aircraft, hopes to gain many orders from thousands of foreign visitors due here next month for the world's greatest air trade show.

The Society of British Aircraft Constructors, which will hold its 10th exhibition at Farnborough, Hampshire, announced that 24 of the 59 planes scheduled to take part will have gas turbine engines of one kind or another.

Twelve of these planes are making their first appearance. Four more are appearing with new and different types of engines.

Most spectacular item on the program will be the first jet pipe to boost the thrust of a turbo-jet engine. Two fighter planes will show what happens when this extra power is introduced.

Experts have been carrying out the necessary research for five years. It is claimed that the extra boost can add nearly 50 per cent. to the total power of an engine.

But the chief interest to visitors is likely to be the Canberra, Britain's first jet bomber, and the Comet passenger liner, first jet-propelled public transport aircraft in the world.

Also on show will be four turbo-prop-engined airliners, the Apollo Hermes Five, Mamba Marathon and Viscount.

All these planes will be scrutinized closely by air attaches and airline officials from many countries. But so secret are the details of many of the planes that close inspection on the ground will not be allowed.

Population Up 21 Per Cent In Edmonton

EDMONTON, Aug. 5.—(CP).—Edmonton's population has increased 21 per cent in the last three years, going hand-in-glove with the city's third building boom in little more than a decade, figures released by civic officials showed today.

Sparked by huge oil discoveries near here, building is setting a record clip again this year and has surpassed the 1948 record.

Coming hard on the heels of a pre-war airways boom and a wartime military boom, the latest development is bringing thousands of new citizens to the Edmonton area and pushing the building barometer far above last year.

From a population of 113,000 in 1946, the city has grown to 137,000. Building permits issued so far this year are valued at $22,617,033 compared with $13,548,833 for the same period last year. The 12-month record, set in 1948, is $27,000,000.

Business Growth

Business growth is also reflected in the 151 new commercial permits issued this year with a value of $2,854,978 — $400,000 above the figure at the same time in 1948.

To take care of the thousands of new residents thronging to Edmonton, new housing has been proceeding at a fast pace. Up to the end of July, permits for 1,712 new housing units were issued. They were wotrh $11,112,702. This compares with 530 units valued at $4,166,102 at the same time last year.

Officials say the end is not in sight. Plans have been announced for one 50-house project, two 25-house schemes and numerous smaller projects. They are expected to shatter previous building marks in the remaining four months this year.

Would Not Be Able To Identify Slayer

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP)—Mrs. Alfred Layng said today she will not be able to identify her husband's murderer if she sees him.

Her husband was shot to death outside a midtown groceteria last Saturday when he tried to stop a hold up man escaping from the store.

Mrs. Layng said "it all happened so quickly, I'm sure I can't identify the killer now."

Thursday city police told Mrs. Layng to stay in the city for possible identification of her husband's killer. Earlier she was to fly to Ottawa to identify a suspect picked up in connection with the slaying. Investigation showed the suspect had no connection with the shooting.

Woodcock Injured Title Fight Delayed

LONDON, Aug. 5 (AP)—The Bruce Woodcock-Lee Savold fight Sept. 6 for the British version of the world heavyweight boxing title was postponed today.

Injuries Woodcock suffered Thursday when his truck left the road near Doncaster were given as the reason.

A new date for the fight will be announced Monday. OD

An announcement from the Doncaster Royal Infirmary said the British heavyweight champion had a severely bruised shoulder, but that there were no broken bones or internal injuries. His car struck a tree.

Earlier, promoter Jack Solomons had said he was hopeful that the fight wouldn't have to be postponed, but the hospital announcement later changed his plans.

Ottawa Captain Captures Trophy

LONG BRANCH, Ont., Aug. 5 (CP) — Ottawa and Hamilton shared top honors in the four-day Ontario Rifle Association's 68th annual meeting which concluded Thursday.

Captain Richard W. Hampton, Canadian Intelligence Corps, Ottawa, with 74 of a possible 75, won the coveted Lieutenant-Governor's Trophy, main event of the shoot. National Defence Headquarters' rifle teams "A" and "B" won the Ontario Senior and Junior Team Championships respectively, both with 185 out of 200.

Hamilton's Sergeant R. S. Potter Argyle and Sutherland Regiment, with 501 took the Mercer aggregate for top scores in six leading matches.

Muriel M. Burr of Ottawa, the only woman entrant, made her holiday money—as she had hoped—by taking prize money in every event she entered. She will spend her second vacation week at the Ottawa matches.

Returned To Antwerp

MONTREAL, Aug. 5 (CP) — Robert Radowicz, 22-year-old Austrian passport clerk, and his 47-year-old Polish friend, Paul Rakosiawicz, will be returned to Antwerp when the Swiss freighter Anunciada sails from Montreal Sundy. Radowicz who claimed his life is endangered if he is deported to Europe, said he helped 1,200 of his countrymen flee the Russian zone of Austria. The pair arrived here after stowing away aboard the Anunciada last July 6.

Released on Bail

SYDNEY, N.S., Aug. 5 (CP)—A 25-year-old native of Guelph, who said she was nursing her 10-days-old baby, Thursday night was released on $3,000 bail six hours after her arrest on charges of forgery. Mrs. Isabel Muttart, who now lives at nearby Sydney River, was arrested shortly after noon. Police said she had been sought for some weeks after forged cheques—four totalled $470—had been cashed in Sydney and nearby towns.

Farmers Finish Harvesting In Record Time

Completion of the North Simcoe harvest in July is something of a record for that part of the province, as estimated by the agricultural representative of that county in the weekly report of the Department.

The harvest work is ended throughout the western section of the province, and many of the central and eastern farms finished the long chore this week. Some farmers will catch up with the procession a little later.

Some of the turnip fields in Huron have been seeded for the fourth time and sprouts are finally appearing. The first potatoes in Dufferin are selling slightly under $2.

Lambton sends word that prospects point to a bumper corn crop. Hay is being sold in the field after pressing for $18 a ton for trucking as far east as York.

Yields of wheat vary from 25 to 50 bushels to the acre. Halton reports 40 bushels, "but we question whether the average will be more than 25". Top returns in Oxford are 55 bushels, but that is the limit. The best reports from Hastings mention 45 bushels. Several fields of 40 to 50 bushels have been threshed in Durham.

"A few fortunate farmers in North Wellington are saving timothy for seed. During the last two weeks indications were that the last of the heavy steers, carried over to finish on grass, were sent to market while prices still were good."

Yield of timothy seed in Prince Edward will be extremely low this season. Demand for dairy cattle is being well maintained in York, and the wheat crop there has been surprising for the dry summer with quite a number of fields showing 40 and 45 bushels, and some up to 50. As one of the seed quirks of this year it was noted that a dealer sold 150 bushels of corn after the rain on July 9th.

It is expected in Glengarry that sale of cows this fall may be fairly heavy, "as the crop is only 60 to 70% of normal, and rather than buy feed, most dairymen plan to sell three or four cows.

Troops Work 8 More Mines

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 5 — (Reuters)—Australian troops will work eight strike-bound underground coal mines as well as open-cast fields, it was announced today by Fuel Minister Ashley.

The mines have been idle for six weeks. About 1,830 servicemen would work the mines in two shifts, producing about 7,800 tons daily. Ashley did not say when they would start.

Army Minister Chambers said today that about 16,000 tons of coal had been delivered at the railhead since troops began working open-cast fields.

Ashley's statement came amid widespread speculation on what course the Minister's central council will take at its meeting Sunday. The council will consider a recommendation by some delegates that mass meetings should be held to vote on whether the strike should end.

Sydney detectives today investigated a report by two members of a train crew that shots "whistled past their heads" as they were taking over an incoming coal train at Lithgow, New South Wales. Police were escorting all coal trains into Lithgow.

Resigns From Force

OTTAWA, Aug. 5 (CP)—Constable Russell Buchanan, city policeman suspended Wednesday pending an inquiry into the wounding of a fleeing youth last Monday, has resigned from the force. Buchanan fired two warning shots at 17-year-old Robert Bonner of Ottawa, one of which struck the youth above the knee. Bonner is charged with shopbreaking along with another Ottawa youth.

Nudists Put On Clothes To Attend Dramatic Show

DENVER, Aug. 55 — (AP). — Nudists put on their clothes on Thursday night and attended a dramatic show at their annual convention.

"After all, we are the American Sunbathing Association, and there is no sun at night," explained Mary Kilgore. She is chairman for the convention in Deer Creek Canyon, south-west of Denver.

Thursday night's affair was less sociable for some of the sunfolk than their clothesless frolics.

The absence of clothes makes for a more sociable life, a pair of Topeka, Kas., girls, Mildred and Mary, told an interviewer.

"You understand we mean all clothes off," Mildred said. "Just a wee bit of clothes is much worse than nothing at all. Take those new French bathing suits. They are simply horrible. Not only are they the most sex-provocative things in existence, but they are absolutely useless for swimming purposes."

The people running around in their birthday suits at the convention are perfectly at ease, a Texan told an interviewer.

"When you are undressed and everyone around is the same way why, you don't even notice the different physiques about you," he insisted.

The full-dress dramatic show put on by the Echo Valley Club of Kansas City was a disappointment for the peeping toms who have been overstuffing their eyes in the Canyon. The problem of the peepers has lessened, though, since one of them—armed with a three-foot telescope — was forced to disrobe and join in the outdoor sports with the devotees of nothingness.

Warn German Leaders May Lose Friendship

LONDON, Aug. 5.—(AP).— A government official, speaking with full authority, said today West-German leaders risk loss of Britain's friendship by inflammatory talk against this country.

The official was commenting on remarks he attributed to Dr. Kurt Schumacher, Social Democratic leader in West Germany.

Schumacher was quoted as having said in an election campaign speech "the British fought the war merely as a trade war to benefit the interests of their profiteers, who wanted to rid themselves of German competition."

Other German politicians also have attacked the western occupation powers—Britain, France and the United States.

West Germans vote Aug. 14 for a parliament which will set up a Federal Republican government.

Throws His Ax At Speeding Car

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 5 (CP) — Evidence involving a "speeding" automobile and an ax featured a weird traffic case in court Thursday.

Cecil Cotterill, 24, was charged with dangerous driving on the complaint of Leslie Kelly.

Kelly said Cotterill drove up and down Front St. at 55-60 miles an hour, sounding his horn continuously. Finally Kelly stepped in the centre of the road to try and stop the car but almost was run down.

Kelly admitted that when the car appeared again he threw an ax at it, and it smashed into the windshield. Cotterill was uninjured.

Cotterill declared he was driving only about 25 miles an hour, and he sounded his horn once. Other witnesses estimated his speed at 30 m.p.h.

Magistrate E. J. R. Wright dismissed the charge.

Gets Teaching Job

WELLAND, Aug. 5 (CP) — Terese Dionne, sister of the famous Dionne quintuplets, will join Welland's public school teaching staff in September, it was announced Thursday. Terese, 20, five years older than her sisters, is a graduate of the University of Ottawa Normal School and the Royal Conservatory of Music.

Buy Viking Vessel

LONDON, Aug. 5 (Reuters)—The Dail Mail today announced it has purchased the longboat which a crew of Danes, dressed in Viking costume, recently rowed across the North Sea. The newspaper said it planned to send the vessel on a tour of British seaside resorts. The purchase price was not disclosed. The ship, named Hugin, is a replica of a Viking vessel.

The health service providing free medical care and medicine for all came into force in July last year.

Old Reliable Just That And Then Some

By JIM O'LEARY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—For 65 games, or almost one-half of the regular playing season, Charles Dillon Stengel was without the services of Joe DiMaggio.

But Manager Stengel convinced the Yankees they had the ability to take up the slack.

With Tom Henrich leading the way, the New York Americans were alone in first place when America's No. 1 heel came back into the line-up with a bang in Boston.

But three nights later, or July 1 to be exact, and while sporting a lead of five and one-half games, Henrich ran into the dugout and over the bat rack in pursuit of a foul ball against the Senators in Washington. The battered right knee became swollen, kept him from the line-up for a time.

It was another in the long list of New York injuries which at last count totaled 45.

"Has any team won the pennant with as many as 45 injuries," was the inquisitive remark asked of Casey Stengel.

Ignoring the blunt question, but well aware of his problems, Stengel quickly changed the subject.

"Why you take that other guy," said Casey, referring to Henrich but conscious that he had a DiMaggio on his club.

"Last word I had from him after getting hit by a foul tip in batting practice was that he had a fractured right big toe, was home in Newark with his foot suspended in the air.

"Everyone asked me who was going to play first base? I told 'em I didn't know, but Henrich wasn't. He was lost for the week.

"Then I was figuring out my line-up, looked up and saw him taking batting practice. I walked out, took a look at him. He had the toe cut out of his spike, the white stocking painted with ink where it protruded through the hole.

"He saw me, turned and said, 'I'm ready, Skip.'

"What are ya going to do with a guy like that?" shrugged Casey.

It was regrettable that Henrich's home run against Cleveland's Bob Feller with two mates aboard was wiped out by rain that day.

DiMaggio's present mild slump is easily understandable.

Starting out with a bang, the Yankee Clipper has settled down to routine. The long lay off is now showing itself through faulty timnig.

Luke Appling's two-run homer in the 10th inning final of the White Sox series looked like the first shut out to be handed the Yankees at home since Mickey Harris and the Red Sox did it, 4-0, April 23, 1948.

But Tom Henrich blasted his 17th off Bob Kuzava giving the Bronx Bombers the distinction of going 120 games in Yankee Stadium without a whitewashing.

The Massillon Mauler has often remarked that this Yankees' club has more spirit than any on which he has played.

Tom Henrich dates to 1937, and certainly the club spirit will always be strong with Old Reliable a part of it.

Doctors On Guard

LONDON, Aug. 5 (Reuters)—The British Medical Journal Thursday calls on doctors to be prepared for a major polio epidemic in Britain this fall. "We do not know if there will be a major epidemic of poliomyelitis this autumn," a leading article says, "but the warning signs are sufficiently grave." The journal says that food in Britain is handled so carelessly that "the avoidance of infection seems impossible."

Plane Spots Missing Berry Picker

SUNDRIDGE, Aug. 5.—(CP).—Kenneth Fox, 22-year-old berry picker, has a new respect for aircraft.

After spending three days lost in the fly-infested Magnetawan bush area, he was spotted from a Department of Lands and Forests Beaver and rescued. Apart from a temporary dislike for blueberries, on which he had subsisted during his wanderings, and the need for eight hours sleep and clean clothes, he was little the worse for the experience.

With his wife and a companion, Gordon Spooner, of Toronto, Fox left Gravenhurst Monday morning to pick blueberries in the nearby Magnetewan section. About 4 o'clock that afternoon, Mrs. Fox and Spooner, who were picking berries together, left for Gravenhurst, thinking that Fox had returned there also.

It wasn't until late Tuesday night, however, that they contacted provincial police. Provincial Constable R. K. Chalmers, of South River, was assigned the task of finding Fox.

Wednesday morning, he started a ground search in the are where Fox was believed to be, and that afternoon he was provided with the Department of Lands and Forests Beaver aircraft from Parry Sound.

Unsuccessful in the Wednesday search, Constable Chalmers, Pilot D. Reid and Harold Kidd, a Sundridge man long familiar with this part of the country, flew over the area again Thursday morning. It was while they were circling the bush a few miles north of Ahmic Harbor that they spotted a smoke signal drifting up from a small lake.

They landed and discovered Fox—tired, hungry and disgusted with the northern bush.

Remand Martinello In Toronto Court

TORONTO, Aug. 5 (CP)—Louis Southerby, 21, alias Martinello, charged with the murder of Leslie Hern last week was remanded today to Aug. 12.

Hern's body was found stuffed under the boardwalk at the east end Kew Beach. Southerby was arrested later following a police search of city taverns and bars.

Launch New Destroyer

LONDON, Aug. 5—(Reuters)—A new destroyer fitted with "revolutionary" labor saving devices for the crew is to be launched Aug. 10, the Admiralty announced. It said the devices are a major departure from the navys "scrubbing" tradition. The destroyer has electric vacuum cleaners, electrically driven flairs for shipping paint and electric washing machines and potato peelers.

Chatham Will Have Ball Tryout School

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5 (AP) —Philadelphia Athletics Thursday announced they will send their tryout school and camp into Canada for three days, Aug. 18-20.

Arthur H. Ehlers, director of the A's farm system, said the tryout will be held at the community centre in Chatham, with the hopes of finding youngsters who would follow in the footsteps of other Canadians with the club—Dick Fowler, Phil Marchildon and Hank Biasatti.

Fowler was born in Toronto, Marchildon is from Penetanguishene, and Biasatti learned his baseball on Windsor sandlots.

TURNING THE PAGES OF
"CANADA UNLIMITED"

Under the fragrant pines at Cap Tourmente, students at St. Joachim School gathered to learn arts and crafts. It was 1668. Painting and carving were among the handcrafts taught. The students soon produced fine work—and set a pattern for distinctive Canadian art.

A new form of art appeared after 1760. British soldiers made sketches of their life and experiences in the New World. Later, artists were commissioned to travel through the land and permanently record its development on canvas.

Many foreign artists saw the promise of Canada in the early 1800's. Among these new citizens was Cornelius Krieghoff. His gayly coloured and animated scenes reflected the bustling activity of the new country.

As Canada has grown, the spirit of the times has made possible a glowing tradition of truly Canadian art. After 1918 the now-famous Group of Seven Canadian Artists started a new school of endeavour. The progress of our nation has given our artists unlimited material to draw from. Yes, there's room to grow—in Canada Unlimited.

200 KILLED IN ECUADOR EARTHQUAKES

Hot Fray Quelled But One Dead

Two Others Wounded In Wild Brawl At Home In Winona

HAMILTON, Aug. 6 (CP)—Shot through the heart, one man was killed and two others were wounded, one severely, in what police described as a wild fight in a house at Winona, eight miles east of here.

Responding to an emergency call, police found Richard Slifka, 25-year-old naval veteran, dead. Charles (Chuck) Bulmer suffered a wound in the right shoulder and Vernon Parrington was wounded in the nose. All three were from Hamilton.

Officers seized a .22 calibre automatic rifle and announced that they were holding Edward Richards, 33, also of Hamilton, in connection with Slifka's death. No charge has been laid.

The fight started in the home of a man the police identified as "Irish Davey" Ambersley. The cause was not immediately known, but officers reported that the men had been drinking before the brawl started in the early-morning hours.

Fists flew and furniture was flung about the house and police said it was a shambles when they arrived.

Seen Man With Gun

They quoted Bulmer as saying he saw a man with a rifle coming towards him during the thick of the fightnig. He heard a gunshot and pitched over with a bullet through the right shoulder.

Bulmer and Parrington were taken to hospital for treatment.

Altogether, about a dozen men were reported to have been involved in the fighting. Seven men formed the party of which Slifka and the two wounded men were members.

Charge Rioter Hits Constable

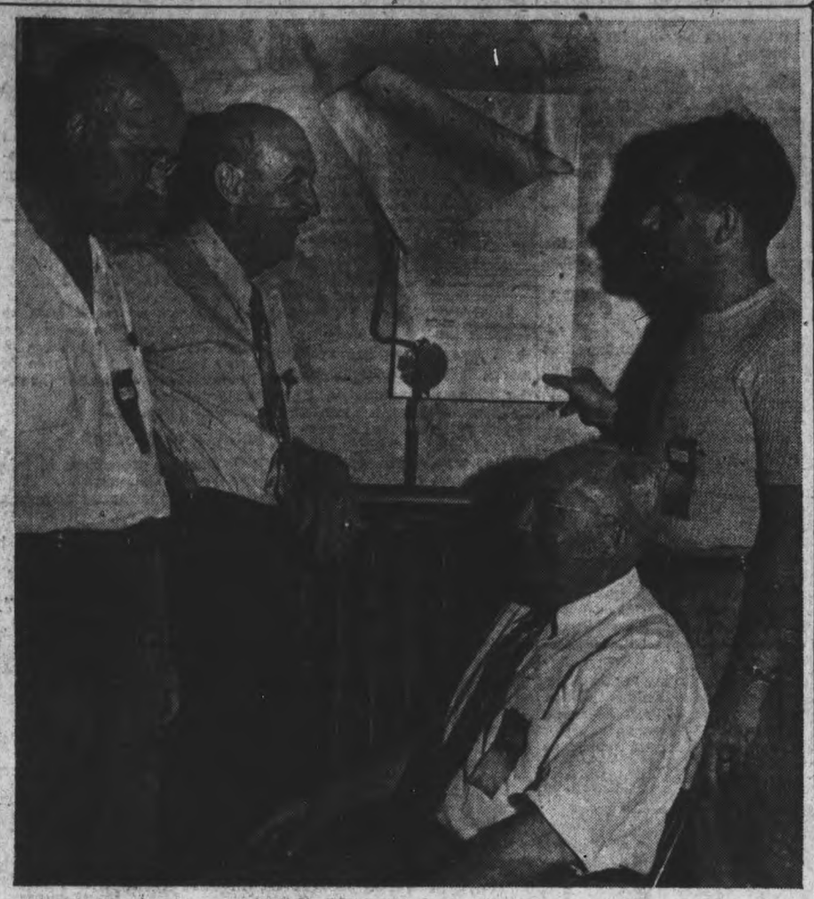
DESERONTO, Aug. 6—(CP)—Chief Constable Albert Marks of Deseronto testified Friday that George Baptiste struck him on the arms during an Old Home Week celebration July 4 in this town 15 miles east of Belleville.

Four Crown witnesses testified in connection with the altercation which gave rise to an assault charge against Baptiste. The case was adjourned a week to allow Baptiste to bring witnesses to court.

Chief Marks said Baptiste struck him in an attempt to free an intoxicated person whom the Chief had taken into custody. He then placed Baptiste under arrest but was forced to release him when he was set up by a crowd.

At the time of the alleged assault, eyewitnesses said that between 300 and 400 men, most of them from the Tyendinaga Mohawk Indian Reserve outside Deseronto, were involved.

Question Hitch-Hikers In McKay Murders



TORONTO, Aug. 6—(CP)—Police are following a new tack in their investigation of the slaying of Gloria and Robert McKay.

Working on the theory that the Toronto couple was shot to death last Monday night by a person in the back seat of their automobile, they are questioning hitch-hikers and making a special search for a farm laborer who asked the McKays for a ride in their car.

They said the laborer, whom they want to question, sought a lift from near Minesing, 60 miles north of here, to Barrie, a distance of a few miles. TheMcKays heading homeward from a Civic holiday week-end jaunt, are believed to have picked him up.

Investigators believe they have traced the couple to Bradford, 40 miles north of Toronto.

The possibility that the Bradford area might have been the scene of the shooting started police on a hunt with mine detectors for the .38-calibre revolver used in the slaying, or for shells or an ammunition clip. So far, the hunt has been fruitless.

6,000 Policemen Hold Back French Red Mob

PARIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—Twenty-five hundred Communists marched and sang around the fringes of the police packed Place de la Concorde Friday but failed to carry their demonstration against the Atlantic pact to the doorstep of the United States Embassy

The semi-official French news agency reported several persons were slightly hurt and said around 100—including three women Communist deputies of the national assembly—were arrested for refusing to move on. The disturbance was slight.

The three American chiefs of staff, whose presence in France was the pretext for the advertised demonstration banned by police, saw none of it.

They were at Fontainebleau at the time, 35 miles away, on one leg of a busy round of talks with French and European union military commanders, exploring the preliminaries for the Atlantic Pact defence system.

6,000 Police At Ready

Six thousand police and soldiers using the customary massing strategy to frighten off threatening Communist uprisings, kept the peace in the Place de la Concorde.

World Wheat Production Slashed By Bad Droughts

OTTAWA, Aug. 6—(CP)—Drought hit Europe, Canada and the United States this year and the world's wheat crop probably will be smaller—despite increased acreages. Canada's wheat acreage this year was a near-record. The United States, Australia and the Argentine all planted bigger areas.

But drought, insects and plant diseases probably will drop total world production below last year's level, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Friday in its monthly review of the wheat situation.

The Bureau's first estimate of the 1949 Canadian crop won't be available until Aug. 16. But present indications are that it will be "below last year's 393,300,000 bushels."

European production— excluding Russia—is expected to be five per cent lower than last year and 10 per cent below the pre-war average. U.S. production is estimated at eight per cent lower than last year.

Big Increase

The Bureau estimated the U.S. crop at 1,189,000,000 bushels from a record acreage of 75,500,000. The Canadian acreage was 27,500,000, 17 per cent higher than the average for the last 10 years.

Australia and the Argentine, too, were seeding more wheat. Seeding in the southern hemisphere now is nearing completion.

The Bureau also reported the carry-over after 11 months of the 1948-49 crop year was 114,100,000 bushels, compared with 93,700,000 at the same period last year.

Wheat prices rose slightly during July after Canadian Wheat Board prices for wheat for export —to countries other than the United Kingdom — fell to $1.91 a bushel on June 28. Within two weeks, however, the price had climbed back up to over $2, the price at which Canada this year will sell 140,000,000 bushels to the U.K.

Spend 60 Million To Aid Shipping

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—(CP).—The Canadian Government's plans to maintain and develop a Canadian ship-building industry will involve the expenditure of $60,000,000 over the next five years, Hon. Lionel Chevrier, said Friday at the launching of the lighthouse tender Edward Cornwallis.

The transport minister said $30,000,000 of that amount already had been allocated. It included the cost of the Cornwallis, $1,800,000.

Other ships to be built include [illegible] lighthouse tenders and other vessels.

"This ship is the first in a series of vessels which the Department of Transport and other branches of the government intend to have constructed under a long-term policy of shipbuilding," the minister declared.

"Over a period of five years we intend to have a shipbuilding program which will cost the people of Canada in the neighborhood of $60,000,000. Of that program $30,000,000 has already been put into operation," he explained.

Mr. Chevrier said that the Cornwallis would be based at Halifax in carrying out its work.

The Edward Cornwalis, a 1,800 lighthouse tender and buoy vessel, is one of the most unique ships of her type built here by Canadian Vickers, Ltd., for the Department of Transport.

Find High-Priced Houses Leave Canadian Buyer Cold

By The Canadian Press

Expensive houses are a little lower in price, or they're just not selling, but the average house for the average Canadian family costs just as much this year as it did last, and it's just as hard to get.

A cross-country survey by The Canadian Press today shows much the same pattern from the Atlantic to the Pacific; houses costing $15,000 or more are a drug on the market. The demand continues steady for other types of homes.

Buyers are becoming more selective and in the Maritimes especially older houses are a shade lower in price than a year ago. But there is no sign of any general reduction in prices.

The CP survey turned up these reports:

Ottawa: Reductions are appearing in homes above $15,000 but there's no change in the $10,000 to $12,000 bracket, now scarcest.

Ontario: Any house costing $5,000 or more to build now is selling at a higher price than ever before; most houses are five to 10 per cent higher in cost than last year. No break in the demand is in prospect; new houses and old houses are still anxiously sought and are somewhat higher than last year. Pointing up the summer seasonal lull in real estate, transfers in Kitchener in July showed one of the biggest drops since the end of the war.

Manitoba: High-priced houses are doing as much as 15 per cent but down to $6,000, the reduction is only five per cent.

British Columbia: Prices of new houses are steady, but buyers are more selective. Prices of older houses have fallen slightly.

Say 12 Cities Shattered In Mountains

Third of Ambato Flat Bridges Wrecked, Troops Giving Aid

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 6 (AP)—Rescue parties reported today that more than 200 persons were killed in a series of sharp earthquakes that Friday shattered at least a dozen populous mountain cities and towns.

Ambato, a provincial capital of 50,000 persons 55 miles south of Quito, reported 200 dead in the one city. Scattered reports from other areas cut off by wrecked bridges and telephone lines indicated the death toll would rise much higher.

Centuries-old cathedral towers were shaken down, a military barracks collapsed on conscripts and in one area a train was derailed.

An eye-witness broadcasting from Ambato said many of the dead were children who were studying their catechism in the cathedral when the quake knocked over the stone structure.

Third of City Destroyed

The Quito observatory said the earthquake's destruction was centred about 60 miles south of Quito, high in the Andes mountains.

Guayaquil, on the coast, reported the first shock came at 3.02 p.m. EDT, and a second one followed at 3.08 p.m.

Although reports from other areas still were vague, Ambato appeared to be hardest hit. The Ambato broadcaster said a third of the city was destroyed.

President Galo Plaza Lasso left for Ambato to take personal charge of rescue work. Troops were mobilized to give aid and to put down looting that was reported going on in the ruins of stores and homes.

Thousands in the area were panic stricken. Many spent the night outdoors, fearing a recurrence of the earth tremors.

Denies Quints To Become Nuns

LONDON, Aug. 6—(CP)—Mrs. Olivo Dionne today denied rumors that the Dionne quintuplets, now 15 years old, might take Holy Orders when they leave school in three years time.

Flying back to her 13 children in Callander, Mrs. Dionne said in French:

"I don't want to influence them in any way. It is entirely up to them but they've made no plans yet."

After a month's pilgrimage to Rome, Lourdes and Paris—her first trip outside Canada—Mrs. Dionne said she is in a hurry to get home.

"I have missed them so much, especially my youngest son, three-year-old Claude."

Wearing a navy-blue coat and straw boater, Mrs. Dionne arrived from Paris early today and took off for Canada by air a few hours later.

She said her eldest daughter, 21-year-old Rose Marie, has been looking after the family during her absence.

Pre-Historic Houses Found in B.C. Valley

PRINCE RUPERT, BC, Aug 6 (CP). — A remote mystery-shrouded valley in British Columbia's interior may hold the answer to the question of North America's prehistoric settlement.

Luther W. Elder, a Prince Rupert prospector, returned from a field trip recently with tales of crude stone houses in a valley near Usk on the Copper River, about 100 miles east of here.

The houses, Elder believes, may have been dwellings of our monkey-like ancestors who moved across the frozen wastes from Siberia to settle in the warmer climate.

The huge stone slabs with the stone slab roofs would prove of tremendous interest to scientists, whose knowledge of the paleolithic age in North America is very slight.

8 Days In Mine Shaft

GALENA, Kas., Aug. 6—(AP)—Ramsey Collins, 58-year old Galena bachelor, says he's sure he spent eight days at the bottom of a 30-foot mine shaft before he was rescued Friday. The abandoned zinc pit is about eight feet wide at the bottom. Chief of Police Fred Bever said Collins related he had no fears while imprisoned until the day before he was rescued. "It looked like rain. I began to worry a little then about the water running into the pit," Bever quoted him.

Call On Army To Back Reds Against Church

PRAGUE, Aug. 6 — (AP). — Czechoslovakia's Defence Minister called on the army to-day to back the Communist government in the bitter church-state struggle.

The minister — Gen Ludvig Svoboda — assailed the Roman Catholic Church in a speech to troops in Slovakia. He urged the soldiers to support the new government-sponsored Catholic action movement. Svoboda said:

"We soldiers can say that from the view of defence of the fatherland, insurance of freedom and independence we shall support wholeheartedly the Catholic action."

The Czech government ran into opposition Friday night in its latest bout with the church.

A government order to priests to defy the Vatican decree on excommunication under threat of punishment drew a sharp rejection from Roman Catholic authorities in Western Bohemia.

The administrative vicar of the diocese at Litomerice sent back the government order with an answer which said in effect: What was the government doing in a Catholic consistory interfering with the internal affairs of the church?

Both the order and the reply have come into Western hands.

In his address in Slovakia, Svoboda told the troops their "great example" was the Russian army "on whose side we had the honor to fight in the Second World War and with which we shall fight in the future in case of necessity."

The defence minister declared the Vatican and Western world sought to disrupt Czechoslovakia.

"In recent months," he said, "we noticed that internal and foreign reaction started to use some of their last legal positions to ruin us and....tried to stop our successful reconstruction."

Hold Funeral Service For Murder Victims

TORONTO, Aug. 6 (CP) — Funeral service for Robert and Gloria McKay, shot to death Monday night while returning from a week-end holiday, were held today. Services for Mrs. McKay were held at St. Brigid's Church. A mile-long procession of mourners then proceeded to a funeral home where a special RCAF service was held for Mr. McKay.

Canadian Force Pulverized By 'Enemy' In Manoeuvres

(CP) — The enemy inflicted a calamatous air defeat on Canadian air-ground forces Friday night in the initial phase of Exercise Eagle.

But the exercise, Canada's peace-time land-air manoeuvres will go on today as though it didn't happen.

Five Canadian Mitchell bombers and 12 Harvard trainers posing as fighter-bombers set out from the airport at GrandeP rairie, Alberta, 100 miles from here to launch an attack Friday night against an enemy force that theoretically had seized the strategic air base near this northern British Columbia village. They did considerable damage.

But in four brilliant assaults upon the Grande Prairie headquarters, four enemy Mustangs and two Harvards wreaked a [illegible] umpires said must be considered a calamity.

In results, still tentative until final reports are considered under an elaborate system of refereeing, the enemy virtually destroyed the striking air force amassed against it, its only operational powers were considerably damaged but not entirely.

But it will be presumed that reserves are brought up for a new Canadian air strike early today that is to be followed by an early morning paratroop and airborne landing here by the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. In other words, air supremacy, if not won, will be granted the Canadian force.

Exercise officers said the results at Grande Prairie were not entirely unexpected, and saw them chiefly as an example of the need for dispersal.

4-Power High Command Atlantic Pact Plan, Canada One Of Quartette

Supreme Council To Work Same Way As Wartime Joint Staff Board; Will Have Political-Military Powers

LONDON, Aug. 6—(CP)—A four-power high command is being planned for the Atlantic pact defense system, diplomatic officials reported today. They said the projected Supreme Defense Council for the 12 pact countries would be run by the United States, Britain, Canada and France. The big four plan was said to be one of the main subjects brought up in discussions this week among the three touring U.S. chiefs of staff and army, navy and air force leaders of European pact members. Diplomatic sources said Britain and Canada have given preliminary endorsement to the plan and that France is expected to agree in conferences going on Friday and today in Paris.

The whole plan is subject to confirmation by the foreign ministers of all 12 countries involved. The foreign ministers are scheduled to meet in Washington within a couple of months.

Informants said the Supreme Council would work in about the same way as the Washington-based Anglo-American joint staff board, created in wartime but still functioning.

It would have political military character, they added, to design and mount the grand strategy for the treaty powers and make recommendtaions on political and diplomatic levels as needed to complement military aims.

A general 12-country defense committee would work under the council with advisory powers.

Some observers noted the four countries named for the supreme council are those most advanced in atomic developments and strongest militarily.

This set-up would restrict the circle in which it might become necessary to exchange top-secret atomic information.

The Daily Graphic said Friday in a Paris story that the staff chiefs also have undertaken to "back a two-point British master plan for western union defense."

The newspaper says the plan calls for four regional defense commands and a co-ordination committee to harmonize the activities of the regional commands.

Chiang In Korea For Pacific Talks

CHINHAE, Korea, Aug. 6 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek arrived at this south Korean port today for a series of conferences with President Syngman Rhee on a Pacific pact against the Communists.

The veteran leader of China's Nationalists plans to remain here for three days.

In separate statements Chiang and the Korean president said they expect to discuss the projected union of Pacific powers Sunday.

Neither statement made any reference to the United States white paper on China. Both leaders however, said they were studying State Secretary Dean Acheson's letter summarizing the white paper.

Congress Split On How To Halt Reds In China

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Congress today found itself about as divided as China on what to do about stopping the advance of Communism in Asia.

The State Department's white paper explaining why Chiang Kai-Shek's government failed to keep the Communists from gobbling up most of China was greeted on Capital Hill by a volley of criticism from lawmakers who called it a confession of United States failure.

It was defended, on the other hand, as a realistic review of a situation which just about everybody here agrees is bad.

Among members of Congress there was a meeting of minds on one point—something ought to be done to keep all of China from being overrun by supporters of the Red banner, who might then threaten China's neighbors.

But there was no agreement on a program.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep. N.H.), long-time critic of the administration's policy toward Asia, offered a three-point program:

"1. Pat the Nationalist government on the back instead of kicking it in the face. 2. Give assurance that the United States doesn't intend to recognize the Communist government of China. 3. Furnish small arms and ammunition to the anti-Communist forces still willing to fight."

Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem. Wash.), a member of the armed-services committee, said a great deal still can be done to keep Western China out of Communist hands.

Neighbors, meanwhile, are caring for the nine remaining Running children and the four children of George See, who also lived in the three-family frame house. Gananoque town council, Lions and Rotary Club, Canadian [illegible] appointed a committee to help.

Perdue's summer cottage in Ennismore Township last winter resulted in the arrest Friday of James McGrath and Gordon Thompson, both of St. Mary's St., Peterborough. The men were remanded with bail set at $500 each, until Aug. 24. They were represented by W. C. Grant.

Articles which Mr. Perdue is missing from the cottage are two guns and a radio. Provincial Constable George Stevens made the arrest.

14-Room Farmhouse Destroyed By Flames

BRAMPTON, Aug. 6. — Fire gutted a 14-room home Friday night on the farm of Harry Laidlaw, secretary of the Peel County Agricultural Society, located on the first line west of Brampton.

Volunteers removed all the furniture and belongings from the house, while firemen from Brampton Fire Brigade fought the blaze.

Mr. Laidlaw said he was walking to the barn from the house with a milking pail when he turned and saw the roof of the house in flames. He said the fire was started by faulty electric wiring.

While flames licked the walls of the house, a number of men completely dismantled a frame garage a few feet away and moved it out of danger.

Expect Senate To Rush Aid Bill Through

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—A multi-billion-dollar foreign aid bill was set today for swift passage after running a gauntlet of sharp Senate debate. The final vote is expected Monday.

The only obstacle still confronting the money bill—and not such a big one—is an amendment by Senator J. Kem (Rep. Mo.) to bar recovery aid to any country in the future which nationalizes a basic industry.

The move is aimed particularly at Britain's socialization program.

Senate leaders see no difficulty ahead in brushing aside the Kem proposal. It was ruled out of order late Friday on the grounds it contained policy-making law in violation of Senate rules.

As it now stands, the bill contains:

1. $3,628,300,000 to carry the economic co-operation administration to July 1, 1950.
2. $150,000,000 for E.C.A. loans.
3. $1,074,000,000 to pay for E.C.A. operations during last April, May and June.
4. $900,000,000 for army occupation costs in Germany, Austria, Japan and Ryukyu Islands.
5. $45,000,000 in aid for Turkey and Greece.
6. $344,000 for a congressional watch-dog committee staff to continue checking on foreign spending.

The total of these figures is roughly about 10 per cent less than voted by the House of Representatives. For this reason, the final vote will send the bill into a conference where Senate-House members will work out their differences.

The Senate Friday approved by voice vote an amendment which in effect directs Paul Hoffman, E.C.A. chief, to re-open negotiations with Britain and France on the plant problem.

Send Destroyers Aid Amethyst

SINGAPORE, Aug. 9 (Reuters)—While the British sloop Amethyst was making her dramatic escape from under the guns of the Chinese Communists, Royal Navy reinforcements were standing by to "deal with any situation that might arise," official sources in Singapore disclosed today.

Telling the 'inside" story of the Amethyst incident for the first time, a Royal Navy spokesman said the destroyer Concord, waiting at the mouth of the Yangtze, was prepared to go up river to aid the sloop if she had needed it.

The Concord was ready to fire at Woosung forts if they had opened up on the Amethyst.

A destroyer flotilla comprising the Cossack, the Comus, and the Constance had been ordered to speed from Sasebo naval base in Japan to the mouth of the Yangtze to join the Concord the navy spokesman said.

There was no secret communication between the sloop and Hong Kong at first because the ship's signal codes had been deliberately destroyed after the first incident.

Study Evidence Taken By Commission

TORONTO, Aug. 6 (CP) — A 10,000-mile tour of nine provinces concluded, the Royal Commission on transportation today returned to Ottawa to assess more than 1,000,000 words of evidence and prepare for final hearings in its broad inquiry into Canadian transportation problems.

Regional sessions of the commission's first trip closed here late Friday after nine weeks of sittings that took it into all provinces except Newfoundland, which it will visit Sept. 27-30.

During the hearings, the commission heard submissions from the governments of all provinces visited except those of Ontario and Quebec, which have not yet shown any official interest in the transportation issues before the three-man group headed by Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon.

Representations heard at Friday's closing session of the tour included these:

1. The Ontario Mining Association asked for equalization of freight rates across the country, and also sought that Northern Ontario be given parity with the southern part of the province on freight rates lowered in the south to meet competition.

2. The Canadian Industrial Traffic League, made up of 600 company traffic managers, asked that low freight rates on western export grain moving in the west, now fixed by statute, be taken off the statutory basis and be covered by a Federal subsidy instead.

Gets Five-Year Term In Stony Mountain Pen

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 6 (CP)—James McGrath, 25, was sentenced Friday to five years in Stony Mountain penitentiary. He was convicted in magistrate's court on a charge of armed robbery.

On eight other charges, including escape from the provincial police lockup at Geraldton, July 23, McGrath was sentenced to a total of 25 years, none of the sentences more than five years in length, to be concurrent with the original five-year term.

McGrath was object of an extensive search following his escape from the jail after widening a hole left by plumbers doing repair work. He was recaptured within two days.

Brings Tension Strike Vote

DETROIT, Aug. 6 (AP)—The state-conducted strike vote at the Ford Motor Company Friday took on all the aspects of a small-bang political campaign.

Both the company and the United Auto Workers (CIO) hurled charges of coercion and underhanded tactics.

At the same time, police were ordered to be on hand to guard the polls when the three-day election begins Monday.

Some 63,500 workers at Ford's Rouge and Lincoln plants will decide whether they'll give their officers power to call a walkout under state law. Such a vote is required to make a strike legal in Michigan.

Its importance hinges on the Rouge plant's position as the heart of the 49-plant Ford empire. To have full effect, a strike would have to include Rouge workers.

Ford Friday slightly softened its previous contract proposals. It asked a 12-month wage freeze instead of the previously suggested 18-month freeze.

The issue in the dispute is the UAW demand for $100 monthly pensions, health benefits and a cost-of-living wage increase.

Moscow Story Blasts Amethyst

MOSCOW, Aug. 6 (AP)—Moscow newspapers Friday published their first sories of the Royal Navy Sloop Amethyst's escape down the Yangtze River last Saturday.

The account quoted Chinese Communist Gen. Yuan Chung-hsien as saying the vesel took a Chinese ship with it as a hostage and later sank the Chinese ship, with the loss of several hundred lives.

The Amethyst fired on junks trying to pick up survivors, the general's statement said, adding: "However, now the Chinese people and all the world sees how imperialists return evil for good." The general said the Chinese had allowed British seamen earlier to go ashore and even returned two wounded sailors.

A similar claim that the Amethyst had sunk a Chinese ship was made Tuesday in a Chinese Communist broadcast from Nanking. Answering that claim, an admiralty spokesman in London said: "Categorically denied." The admiralty said Communist artillery fire hit a Communist ship in the confusion of the incident.

Gold Market Up

PARIS, Aug. 6 (CP)—The Free French gold market this week was featured by a sharp and widespread rise Thursday which was consolidated Friay. Usually well-informed circles said this upward tren was partly due to the weakness of the pound sterling on the black market Wednesday combined with rumors of a revaluation of the buying price of gold and devaluation of British currency as well as alignment of European currencies against the dollar.

ALBERTA'S PREMIER — Hon. Ernest Charles Manning, 41, premier of Alberta and head of Canada's only Social Credit government. First elected to the legislature in 1935, he became provincial secretary in the government of the late William Aberhart. He was sworn in as premier of the province in 1943.

Stock Market At Peak Of Summer Rally

By FORBES RHUDE .....
Canadian Press Business Editor

Stock markets closed out the week at the peak of their summer rally.

The general advance was more marked in New York than on Canadian exchanges, which concentrated their attention on a broad rise in golds and base metals.

New York, after stalling for the last three days of the preceding week, moved ahead Monday, continued upward Tuesday, held tight Wednesday and Thursday, and jumped again Friday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks is at 64.2, a high since March 30, and a gain of 1.3 on the week. This compares with the year's high of 66.2 on Jan. 22.

The Wall Street summer advance has shown itself to be stronger than might have been expected. It seems to reflect increasing confidence that the American economy will avoid any serious recession, as indicated in recent increases in demand.

If American business continues to pick-up, the market should be in a position for a maintained advance. Similarly, the higher it goes, the more vulnerable it will be if the present business pick-up proves temporary, or if there is a fall let down.

Golds Rise

Toronto Stock Exchange was closed Monday for the annual Civic Holiday, and so had only four days' trading. In that time the exchange's gold index advanced 6.36 points to 106.47, featured by a 3.59 rise Thursday which got its impetus from gold-buying in New York. The gold index now is at its highest in more than 1½ years, since Dec. 12, 1947.

The gold rise springs from recurrent reports that coming international trade and finance adjustments will see either currency devaluations helpful to golds, or a higher price for the precious meal.

Such developments may indeed be in the cards for the future, though it seems doubtful that plans have been sufficiently advanced to accomplish this at any near-by date.

The price of gold lies largely in the hands of the United States and there has been no evidence that she would favour an increase —rather the contrary. If, however, she should decide for an increase, it would not be without some fair idea of what it was going to accomplish and what other countries were going to do to iron out weaknesses in their economies. On the surface at least, the picture doesn't see mto have been drawn that clearly yet.

However, the September international gatherings will be most interesting and may produce something at least psychologically encouraging to golds. In any event, they seem to have been under-valued for some time.

LARGEST ON LAKES—Largest Canadian lake freighter to be built in Canada was launched at Collingwood shipyards Thursday. The new vessel, 640 feet long, is built to carry 19,000 tons of coal or 590,000 bushels of wheat. Christened Hochelaga, in honor of the city of Montreal, the freighter, owned by Canada Steamship Lines, is air-conditioned throughout and will carry a crew of 34.

Wedemeyer Told Danger In China

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer two years ago urged President Truman to sponsor a huge new aid program for Nationalist China provided that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek first agreed to sweeping reforms in his regime.

Wedemeyer proposed that the aid program should last at least five years in order to defeat Russia's "ambitious and dangerous" plans for expansion in the Far East.

Wedemeyer recommended that the president set the new China policy in motion by asking China to appeal to the United Nations to set up a five-country "guardianship" or trusteeship over Manchuria, the rich industrial province then almost entirely under Communist control.

The United States army general's confidential report, bristling with criticism of Russia, was given to the president Sept. 19, 1947 after a two-month survey in the Far East as the head of a special investigating mission.

It was made public Friday as part of the 1,054 page white paper on China.

$4,097 In Layng Fund

TORONTO, Aug. 6 (CP)—The City Treasury Department announced Friday that $4,097 has been contributed to the fund set up to aid the family of Alfred Layn, RCAF veteran, shot down last Saturday as he attempted to halt a gunman escaping after the hold-up of a downtown groceteria. Layn left a 22-year-old widow and a four-year-old daughter.

Miss Beauchesne To Explain Rules At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP) — For the first time in nearly 25 years, a little man in a black robe won't be around to explain complicated rules of procedure when Canada's 21st parliament meets next month.

As long ago as last November, 73-year-old Dr. Arthur Beauchesne wanted to retire as clerk of the Commons. But he stayed on at the government's request.

His retirement, after 24 years and 200 days as Canada's third-ranking civil servant, was announced Friday by Prime Minister St. Laurent. He'll be succeeded by Leon J. Raymond of Maniwaki, Que., 48-year-old Liberal member of the Commons for Gatineau.

Dr. Beauchesne doesn't think parliamentary rules of procedure are complicated. But he probably knows more about them than anyone else in the Dominion.

His book "Beauchesne's Parliamentary Rules and Forms" is practically required reading for every new member of parliament. And speakers of the Commons—who make all the procedural rulings—invariably consult Dr. Beauchesne on ticklish decisions. In provincial legislatures, too, his three books on procedure practically have the force of law.

Mr. Raymond's appointment means a by-election to fill the vacancy and it cuts Liberal representation in the 262-member house to 192.

Prefers Canada

Will Visit Canada

NEW DELHI, Aug. 6 — (CP)— Prime Minister Nehru told a press conference Friday he plans to spend several days in Canada when he visits the United States in October. Nehru said he plans to arrive in the United States on October 11 and remain until the end of the month. During that time he will spend two or three days in Canada, he added.

Captain Hall And The Camera Lucida

We purchased recently a copy of a picture which is familiar to most citizens of Peterborough; it is "The Village of Peterborough In Upper Canada" and it was published in 1827 in a narration of the travels of Captain B. Hall, R.N., in this country. The picture was the sixteenth plate in his book. In the foreground of the picture is a rail fence, and behind it is a cluster of log cabins, upon the walls of which a few skins have been hung out to dry. One of the cabins might be a church; it has a very small tower. The picture is in no way impressive, but it is of the keenest local interest, for it is one of the earliest views of Peterborough in existence. In the left-hand corner of the engraving is the note "Drawn with the Camera Lucida by Captn. B. Hall, R.N."

* * *

What, precisely, was the Camera Lucida? It was, we discover, an optical instrument used for perspective drawings by engineers and draughtsmen who wanted to copy drawings or scenes, and who wanted accuracy rather than the artistic quality of a freehand sketch. It was the invention of a Dr. William Hyde Wollaston, and during his lifetime (1766-1828) he improved it in a variety of ways. But essentially it was a simple affair, described thus: "Closing one eye and looking vertically downwards with the other through a slip of plain glass, held close to the eye and inclined at an angle of 45 degrees to the horizon, one can see the images of objects in front, formed by reflection from the surface of the glass, and at the same time one can also see through the transparent glass; the virtual images of the objects appear projected on the surface of a sheet of paper placed beneath the glass, and their outline can be accurately traced with a pencil".

* * *

An instrument of this kind was small, cheap and easy to carry, and Captain Hall seems to have used a Camera Lucida extensively in his travels.

* * *

There was one catch to the Camera Lucida, however; it changed what was seen through it from right to left. Therefore, if we hope to see Peterborough in 1827 as it appeared to Captain Hall when he was not squinting through his optical instrument, we must mentally reverse everything that he has drawn. Some local historians have, we understand, identified with reasonable accuracy the spot upon which he stood, or sat, as he made his drawing; whenever we look at his picture, however, we must bear in mind that the reality was reversed. No doubt it was this inconvenient aspect of the Camera Lucida which caused it to fall into disuse. Nevertheless, we are glad to have the Captain's picture.

An Attack On Our Faith

These are days when some of our most cherished beliefs are being tested in the hot fires of doubt. Take, for instance, our faith in the intrinsic coolness of cucumbers. This belief, which we have cherished since childhood, has been rudely attacked, and by whom? By the Kingston Whig-Standard, a newspaper which we have always looked upon as a defender of established order. Listen to what it says:

Anyone who has picked cucumbers on a blazing July afternoon knows ... as limp as a stout man's collar and about the same temperature as the neck it encloses. One can, of course, put them in the freshener in the refrigerator and they come out cold and pert. So does a carrot or an old glove. Cucumbers do have some advantages over their colleagues of the garden. They usually manage to grow under the protective covering of broad leaves. Still, the pretty picture of a cucumber lolling in comfort next to the chill earth is mostly imaginative.

That is not to deprecate in any way the virtues of the cucumber, of which there are many—practically all gustatory. In vinegar, sour cream or salad, they are a calm yet crisp solace to a diner. Processed into pickles of a hundred kinds they have earned a solid place among life's necessities. They are to a meal as punctuation marks are to writing—small in themselves but adding spice and meaning. On a picnic they are indispensable—as pickles, that is. Ants leave them alone. If the hamburger falls into the ashes of the campfire, the resulting taste can be pretty effectively hidden by adding sharp piccalili.

Then, just to give a scientific flavour to its heresy, the Whig tells us casually that cucumbers belong to the family of cucurbitaceae, and are akin to melons, pumpkins, balsam apples and whatnot. We will not be comforted with such knowledge. We have long revered the cucumber as a viand especially gifted by nature with the gift of coolness; we have eaten cucumbers in hot weather, convinced that they carried their special blessing down into our fiery entrails. But now a doubt has been sown in our minds, and we will not be comforted.

Our Sickly Civil Servants

We learn from a news dispatch that civil servants are allowed a day-and-a-half a month sick leave, cumulatively; this means, we presume, that a civil servant may be unwell three half-days a month, or may pile up sick leave, and enjoy a fortnight in bed every ten months. Apparently some government employees have been abusing this arrangement, and have been working elsewhere for extra money during their statutory sick leave.

What interests us is that sick leave is doled out in this curious way. It is apparently assumed that civil servants are a sickly lot, who will be ill at least eighteen days a year. But is this true? Are civil servants, on the average, ill so much? If so they are unlike any other workers that we have known.

It has been our observation that people are not absent from their work very much because of illness. Sometimes they may be away for a day or so with a cold, but nothing like a day-and-a-half a month. We know people who are on the job every working day for years, and who never seem to be ill. Of course people have spells of bad luck, during which they may lose several weeks of work at a time, but upon the whole we do not think that we know anyone who has been ill 180 days in the last ten years.

Civil servants, apparently, are permitted to pile up sick leave. When they have a neat accumulation, they get their medical man to certify that they have an allergy to red tape, and they go to the Laurentians for a fortnight.

Perhaps this is a good system. Perhaps the ineffable wisdom of the Civil Service Commission approves it. But it seems queer to us.

Why Russians Write Nonsense

We have been sitting for the past ten minutes, sucking reflectively on a black and dirty pipe, thinking about Dr. A. Kusnetsov, the editor of Komsomolskaya Pravda, the official paper of Communist youth; we presume that Dr. Kusnetsov does not smoke a pipe, or even an occasional cubeb cigarette, for he has told his young readers: "It is only in capitalistic countries that hunger, misery and despair make a man cloud his brain with tobacco; in Russia, Soviet youth, being the happiest in the world, need not resort to tobacco".

We know nothing about Soviet youth, but we know a lot about editors. We know that hunger, misery and despair are their constant companions. We are hungry half an hour after breakfast, and we stay hungry till lunch. We are hungry right away after lunch, and we are hungry all afternoon. We are miserable because we always find it difficult to decide what we shall write about, and as we have a high regard for English prose, most of what we write makes us despair. We have never known an editor who was worth a damn who did not suffer from these occupational discomforts.

We smoke because we think it is fun, though not as much fun as eating.

We will bet anything we have that Dr. Kusnetsov writes terrible editorials. He is too happy; his brain is not sufficiently clouded for his work. He has none of the miserable symptoms of a real editor. Whales only produce valuable verdigris when they are ill; birds only sing when they have a pain in their crops; editors only write when they are hungry, miserable and despairing.

Kusnetsov is a quack.

The Catholic Church And Communism

By CECIL SPRIGGE
(By Air Mail from Rome)

THE excommunication of all Catholics who join or support the Communist Party or who profess its materialistic and anti-Christian doctrine, (rendered public in the Acts of the Holy See on July 13), takes a particularly solemn form. Those professing these doctrines are "apostates from the Faith" and they automatically incur the special type of excommunication which can be inflicted only by the Pope himself. The organ of the Communist Party in Italy gave the news very inconspicuously under the heading "New anti-Communist document from the present Pope." The intention of this unexciting title was obviously to indicate that there is nothing new about the excommunication, and that what one Pope does another may well undo.

* * *

THAT appraisal is not wholly without foundation. As long ago as 1864 the celebrated Syllabus of Pope Pius IX, in its catalogue of eighty false doctrines, included, as a single type of heresy, "Socialism, Communism, Secret Societies, Bible Societies and Clerical Liberal Societies," which were collectively described as "pestilence," and the Syllabus gave reference to five earlier Papal documents in which they had been denounced.

* * *

THERE have been a great many subsequent solemn condemnations of Communism the most notable being the encyclical of the last Pope "Concerning Atheist Communism," promulgated almost simultaneously with the encyclical "With Burning Grief" which protested against the persecution of the Catholic Church in Nazi Germany. These theoretical condemnations have been accompanied by excommunications or the threat of them, in connection with particular acts. At recent general elections in Italy, Primates and Bishops in their dioceses gave notice that it was a mortal sin to vote for infidel candidates. At the parish level the clergy passed on these warnings from the pulpit and the confessional.

* * *

THE Holy Office's decree cannot then be regarded as marking a departure in Vatican policy. It repeats old and familiar condemnations. On the other hand it does so in particularly wide application. The Communists, in their efforts to win support from people who value their membership of the Church and dread being deprived of its sacraments, cannot possibly argue in the future that the Church's condemnation is only a conditional threat, or that it does not apply to those who give political support without embracing the full Communist ideology. The decree strikes those who "support" Communism equally with those who join its ranks; also those who merely distribute or read its publications. In this sense the excommunication order is something more than just "a new document."

* * *

"A new document from the present Pope," ran the Communist comment—the word "present" being intended to suggest to the disturbed Catholic that matters often look a good deal different in the reign of a different Pope. This is not to be disputed. One may give an instance from the already quoted Syllabus of 1864. That document, issued with all possible solemnity, cited as the final and presumably crowning error the proposition "that the Roman Pontiff can and should reconcile himself and come to terms with Progress, Liberalism and Modern Civilization."

* * *

BUT times changed. It would have been unthinkable, half a century ago, that the Papacy should have made a condemnation in these terms. Progress and modern civilization, if defined to exclude certain supposed degenerations and exaggerations, are at the present moment thoroughly accepted by the Church, and Liberalism carries with it only a very small taint. Yet less than a century ago excommunications were showering on the heads of the Italian Liberals and Progressives who united Italy against the Pope's efforts and deprived him of the rule of Rome.

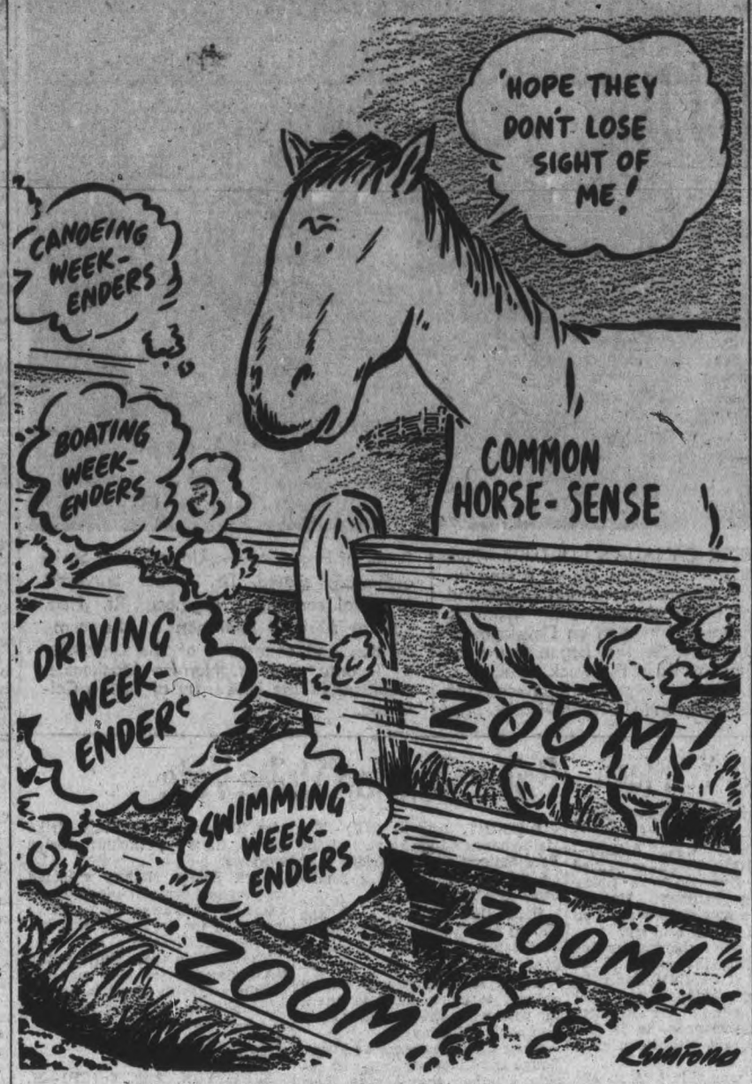
* * *

THAT famous quarrel was laid aside in 1929 when the Pope reconciled himself officially with United Italy; but long before that date men like Cavour and the original Victor Emmanuel had received the sacraments and Christian burial despite their defiance of 19th century ecclesiastical threats and penalties. The Catholic Church, in fact, if it moves more slowly than temporal, can be found, all through its history, coming to terms with accomplished facts against which, at an earlier stage, it had declared uncompromising opposition.

* * *

WILL there come a time when this month's Papal condemnation of Communism comes to have an academic air, and to fall into perspective in the same way as the 17th century condemnation of Galileo's physics or the 19th century condemnation of Progress, both of which are now explained, by orthodox interpreters, to have been much more limited in scope and much less binding for the Church than they appeared to be at the time? The Communist reference to "the present Pope" hints at ... expectation. It would take a very ... confident man to venture a prediction.

What can now be said is that excommunication of the Communists is more thoroughgoing and comprehensive than any similar denunciation of political tendencies in the last century. Its promulgation bespeaks a really great crisis in the affairs of the Roman Catholic Church, the rulers of which feel themselves beset by enemies against whom every weapon in the Church's spiritual armoury must be employed.



* * *

ONE of the aims relates to Italy. There is a small but distinct school among the Italian Catholics which is out of sympathy with any idea of a religious ban against Communism. As the extreme expression of that school there came into existence in 1944 a so-called "Catholic Communist Party", which had a brief success until it was roundly denounced by the heads of the Church. Its leader, Dr. Franco Rodano, was recently struck by an individual excommunication of a very rigorous type. A much more moderate dissentient, whose example has drawn much attention in Rome, is Dr. A. C. Jemolo, a University Professor, who has just published a monumental and widely studied work on "Church and State in Italy in the last Hundred Years." An orthodox and devout Catholic, he has allowed his name to stand alongside those of Communists in a "Peace" (i.e. anti-Atlantic Pact) campaign.

* * *

BUT the immediate occasion of the general excommunications seems to lie not in Italy but in Eastern Europe. The development in Czechoslovakia (where since the days of John Huss there has always persisted some tradition of anti-Romanism in religion) of a rebellious "Catholic Action" seeking to win priests and laity for an national Church of pro-Communist tinge, has filled the Vatican with apprehensions and with determination to make the issues plain to all Catholics. What is happening in Czechoslovakia has been foreshadowed in Poland, Croatia and Hungary, and in the small Roman communities of Rumania and Bulgaria. Therefore, in ecclesiastical Rome, there is an atmosphere of Crusade with which the Holy Year to be celebrated here in 1950 promises to be deeply imbued.

FROM THE HORSE'S MOUTH

In Contests, Beauty Suffices

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

THE habit of pasting labels on people as on tins of cleanser or bottles of ketchup, surely stems from two factors; laziness and a normal desire for order in an anarchic world. Everyone seeks unvarying patterns, easily recognizable, in people and communities. The Scots are cautious in fiscal matters; a Canadian historian describes his fellow-nationals as dour; poets are dreamy; pilots and news photographers are crazy. Labelling has gone so far that Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition is hunting for a woman who combines "something of the graciousness and stability of Maritime women; the gay vivaciousness and savoir faire of chic Quebec; the alertness and good clothes sense of women of Ontario; the free spirit of the westerners and the warm-heartedness of the female from British Columbia."

The judgment is arbitrary, as many decisions dealing with human conduct must be. None of the terms is closely defined, nor the basis of comparison given. For example, what is "savoir faire" in Quebec? In Montreal it may mean knowing how to clasp and wave a cigaret holder, or how to acknowledge with a nod the personal greeting of the head waiter in a night club. But in the suburbs of Riviere du Loup savoir faire probably means knowing how to milk the cows. The word is at best a loose one. "Alertness" when applied to Ontario or any other women is little better. Does it mean alertness at catching a husband, advancing a career, or crossing the Plaza in Ottawa? A woman may easily be brilliant at one, yet a dope in the others.

Probably the safest thing to do is to pick a lovely woman, as husbands do, without classifying her character too precisely. Women are in any case unpredictable. It would be a black mark against the judges if the winner suddenly showed so little savoir faire as to find Toronto exciting. Montreal would never forgive the Canadian National Exhibition for such a dirty trick.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him ....And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof; but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever. (I John 2:15,17.)

* * *

I will mention the loving kindnesses of the Lord and the praises of the Lord, according to all that the Lord had bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel, which he had bestowed on them according to his mercies, and according to the multitude of his loving kindnesses. (Isa. 63:7.)

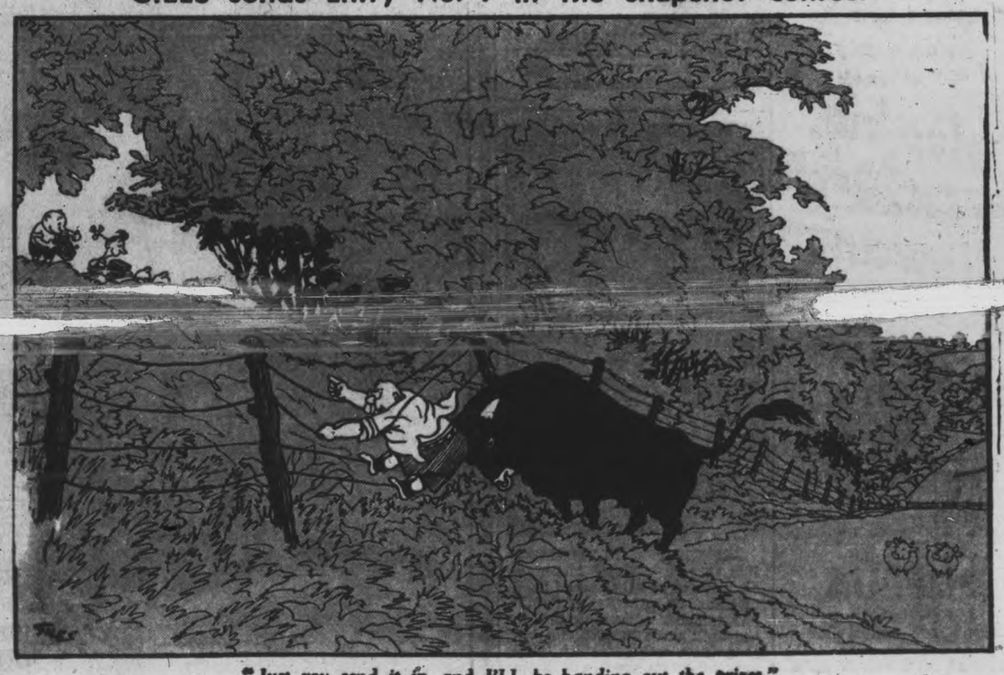
* * *

And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose ....

What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us? .....For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. (Rom. 8:28,31,38,39.)

The Winterbourne Monster

(Kingston Whig-Standard)



From Kitchener comes a tale to make the spine tingle and the hair stand on end. A brave, bold, 10-man posse, armed with rifles, shotguns, flashlights and other offensive weapons, scoured the Winterbourne area this week for a large grey animal with a bobcat's tail and a tomcat's face.

The alarm was sounded, it is stated, after a farmer in the district saw the fierce creature near his farm. He (the farmer, that is) dashed for the house, pulled down the family fowling piece, raced back to the point where the frightful beast had been spotted, saw it again and blazed away with both barrels. Score: two misses.

Two other farmers reported visits from the same fearsome nocturnal prowler. Neighbors affirmed that the animal howled like a banshee with the colic, or at any rate in a high-pitched voice, "like a wolf." Soon the whole Village of Winterbourne was on tenterhooks, everyone loking everywhere for a stray wildcat, if nothing worse. Finally the posse was organized. It went to a farm whence the Wottizit had been last reported and searched with such diligence that it finally cornered the strange beast—an alley cat!

The report from Kitchener describes it as "a common garbage variety alley cat," which implies deplorable manners and obvious ignorance on the part of the cub reporter who turned in the yarn. For, as anyone of discernment knows, no cat is common; each is a distinct individual, and, what's more, an individuallist. Anyway, this particular descendant of the Bubastis tribe made a rather unique showing. If he does as well with all nine lives, he should be a sensation.—(Kingston Whig-Standard).

GILES sends Entry No. 1 in the snapshot contest

"Just you send it in and I'LL be handing out the prizes."

London Express Service

Regatta day at our house has nothing to do with the time events are planned on the posters. It starts days and even weeks ahead of the actual day. The children sharpen up on their swimming techniques in the hope of winning some of the events. Their friends who are in good standing at the time, hint that they too would like to go and there is much weighing of values and not a few sub-rosa deals pulled on the side. As the good old "Windowblind" is made ready with gas and oil and picnic hampers come aboard, with cushions, sweaters, raincoats, the boat sinks lower and lower in the water. And when six children and two adults crowd in, after that, there is very little freeboard and the worried skipper hopes it will not be rough on Clear Lake.

We're off, pushing along like a landing barge when first one and then another shouts "Lemme run the motor half way to Young's Point, Pop," or, "Aw, nuts, SHE ran it that far on Sunday. Lemme will yu, Pop, will yu?" Finally a navigation scheme is worked out to the satisfaction of one and the disappointment of five others. And so we stagger into the Young's Point locks. The children shinny up the iron hand ladders and are gone, to race along the top of the lock gates, to help the man turn the valve wheels and to buy sweets at the store. They come back to the boat of their own sweet wills, long after it has been locked through and the Skipper is ready to chew a piece out of the bottom boards.

We are headed up Clear Lake. The waves are coming up a bit and the course is changed to a leeward shore, for safety. The young navigator-of-the-moment has become listless at his post. He passes red buoys on his left and black buoys on his right and scrapes over a shallow ledge by St. Peter's On-the-Rock.

The regatta course off Juniper Island comes into full view down the channel and we plough onto the course, by mistake, get cussed at by the judges and finally locate a berth among the hundreds of boats tied to the wharves. The kids melt away in the milling crowd while the Skipper rushes off to get pictures and racing results. Just as he lines up some smiling "cheesecake" beside the shining array of trophies, a small voice pleads, "Got a nickle, Pop?" Somehow, the smiling beauties are disillusioned about the devil-may-care cameraman.

There are so many old timers to talk to who remind you what a little shaver you were when you first attended the regatta and these pleasant visits are over all too soon. So are the races and the youngest kiddies have stomach aches. No, they wouldn't like some good, wholesome sandwiches, but another candy bar, maybe. But the skipper and his mate are flat broke and it a long way home. The boat is loaded and heads for home in the dusk and at least four youngsters are curled up asleep under the blankets and the Skipper is left alone and shivering in the stern sheets, hoping there is enough gas left to get home on. Regatta days are happy days but very tiring.

Speaking of tourist fishermen, I have great respect for those who come to the Kawarthas, know the rules and the limitations of their lures and still get their limits without any great fanfare. Tom Kirchner, John Abraham and grandson Bobby, all of Cleveland, are in that class. They were neighbors of mine for two weeks and they took a total of 60 black bass from Lake Katchewanooka during that time. All fish were keepers, of course, and they didn't seem to work too hard at it. And they showed up local fishermen who have tried since the season opened. They were also GOOD NEIGHBORS and the fact that they gave my family some fine messes to eat had nothing to do with it.

Car drivers have long since learned not to leave their pets tied inside vehicles with windows partly opened due to many cases of strangulation when the animals attempted to get out. This incident was given a new twist at YOUNG'S POINT last Monday and had to do with a spaniel and a boat. I had just finished locking through, northbound, when my wife noticed an outboard drifting away from the canal wall with a dog resting on the plate above the propellor under the stern. It dragged the boat to the opposite guard boom by the time we reached it and seemed glad to get a hoist into its own boat. The owner and his family, who had been shopping in the village, came along and explained that he had tied boat and dog to the same painter while they were away. The spaniel chewed his way to freedom, fell in the water and just about did itself in. The owner was glad to get both boat and dog back and said he hoped it would teach the pooch a lesson. "He is a scrapper, you see," he said. We COULD see for the bedraggled dog tore after a large collie with its hackles up. The incident hadn't cooled the fighter off in the least.

Visitors in our area, somewhere along the Otonabee River, have been making up a small colony for about seven years now; they are American egrets, members of the heron family. They are southern birds rarely found this far north and in the late 1800's were slaughtered almost to the point of extinction when Lady Fashion set the pact for plumed hats. The bird is about as large as the Great Blue Heron with pure white body, yellow bill, and black feet and legs. If you see any, admire them, but do not kill. A Toronto paper carried a picture of one on Friday taken by that famous wildlife photographer, W. V. Crich, FRPS, at Toronto Island. The picture cutlines referred to the above colony as being "sighted on the Otonabee River NEAR Lindsay". Tsk, tsk, how that old river has grown!

THE SCOREBOARD

Guide William Revoy of CROWE LAKE has shown some of his parties good catches, a 26-inch pickerel and nine black bass to one group and five muskies landed during the last week, the largest 16 pounds; he favors the Blairton side of the lake. While fishing on SALMON LAKE, 50 miles north of Belleville, Vic White of that town chided his wife after landing a 3-pound black bass; she turned the tables by pulling in a 5¾-pounder PLUS four others at 2 pounds each. At Percy Boom below Campbellford on the TRENT RIVER, Allen Wood of Oshawa snagged a 28-pound muskie, and another at 13 and lost the daddy of them all which he swears would have scaled 35 easily. Bill Barney of Akron O., was in the same boat with Charlie Carson of Peterborough to prove his take of a 15-pound lunge off Sheep Island, east of Gore's Landing on RICE LAKE; across on the north shore W. D. Squires of Montreal hooked a black bass more than 5 pounds off Hattrick's Point. From the HEART OF OUR BUSTLING CITY, Cliff Hutchinson, 429½ George St., landed an 18-pound lunge in Little Lake. Green ba[illegible] leading at CHEMONG LAKE with Karl Sisson, 577 Homewood, taking a 7-pound specimen by casting with frogs; hometowner Ab Bianco hauled in a 16½-pound muskie north of the Causeway, also by casting. On UPPER BUCKHORN, Jack Wright, 661 Water St., lost three muskies before nailing two more, a ten and a keeper AND two pickerel. Hector McLeod of ELIZABETHVILLE made news for Durham County when he took a ten pound, one ounce German brown trout from Jack Mercer's private pond; it may set a record; yet I hear of a trout of identical weight taken by a Mr. McCallum of Toronto in MISSISSAUGA LAKE. Can't someone get more authentic info on this one? The proprietor's wife of Tall Cedar Lodge, PIDGEON LAKE, Mrs. Fred Lachoff, landed a 22-pound lunge on Tuesday. Art Tompsett, owner of White Pine Lodge, PAUDASH LAKE, reports excellent fishing, enough to victual 70 guests twice a week for tasty fish-fry dinners, at their insistance. Garland Barkwell of Kinmount took a 10½-pound pickerel from the BURNT RIVER the other day as pal Jesse Chalmers will testify. What might be a record for LAKE ERIE waters was set up by Fraser Abbey of Simcoe, recently, with a 7-pound, two-ounce black bass from LONG BAY POINT; could also be a record hard to beat anywhere this season.

The OLD GUIDE & TRAPPER "Light Out"

Oldest Canal On Continent At Fort Ste. Marie, Midland

What is believed to be the oldest canal on the continent with the exception of Mexico, is now being unearthed at Fort Ste. Macie, on the banks of the Wye River. Wilfrid Jury, curator, Department of Indian Archaeology, University of Western Ontario, is now excavating the course of the ancient waterway, tracing out its black-stained earth due to disintegrating weed shoring that was put into place three centuries ago.

The accepted theory is that the canal was constructed about 1647, when incursions of the Hurons' hereditary enemies, the Iroquois, indicated that a war of conquest had commenced. Port Ste. Marie was the residence of the Jesuit Missions to the Hurons, and an outpost of New France, then some 750 miles from the nearest French trading settlement of Montreal, and isolated in the heart of an unknown continent.

Originally the Residence of Ste. Marie had little, if any defence; but when the Iroquois threat became acute fortifications were rushed to completion, so that the Hurons might have a rallying point for defence and safety. It is believed that the four stone bastions, that formed a double point of defence at the south-east corners of the fort, were erected about the years 1647-49.

Palisaded defences, strengthened by stone bases and earthworkh were built during the same period. The stones were transported from Paradise Point, on Gloucester Bay, about a mile and three-quarters from the south of the Wye River. It was necessary to move the stones by barges and the canal was believed to have been dug to permit them to be unloaded at the construction work.

Mr. Jury pointed out that 300 years ago, Fort Ste. Marie stood upon a shoulder of land that thrust out between marshlands. It was overlaid with white sand, about a foot deep, on a blue clay base, an ideal site for a fort. The course of the canal, proper, was 450 feet long. It ran from a feeder ditch, on the south side, between the protective twin bastions, at each end of the fort, for 245 feet, then curved northward to the river for another 200 feet, where a log bastion at the river, as well as palisaded defences, gave it further protection.

The canal, itself, widened out to 15 feet at the river, gradually closing in to a narrow point of eight feet wide and nine feet deep. Approximately 50 feet from the river mouth, Mr. Jury uncovered evidence of a stone retaining wall and log shoring. At present, it is not determined whether America's first lock was constructed here, but the fact that there was a fall of water of four inches to 60 feet would indicate that a lock was almost a necessity. The logical solution is that this may be located, near the mouth, as basin water could be obtained from the river.

The canal water was obtained from a large spring, now on the east side of the Canadian National Railways Midland line. Today the water flow is strong enough to fill an eight inch tile. The Fort Ste. Marie feeding ditch branched off at an angle to tap the spring. It was about two feet deep and less than a half-foot wide, and some 145 feet in length. It ran under the palisaded defence work, near a special log bastion built right by the CNR track fill, apparently for the purpose of offering an additional outwork defence to protect the water supply to the fort.

In addition to the canal water ditch there was an aqueduct, which touched a second spring. It was protected by being sunk some two feet beneath the surface, and a supply of drinking water was assured by filtering it through sand. The boards forming the aqueduct were buttressed in place by large stones set at regular intervals. The length of the aqueduct was more than 165 feet. Recently, a second log bastion has been found on the bank at the end of the CNR bridge over the Wye River. A palisade line was uncovered connecting this northern log bastion to the southern one, thereby affording additional protection to the water supplies.

The whole story of these outwork defences cannot be told, however, until Mr. Jury completes excavations on the opposite side of the railway tracks; but already there is evidence that the outwork occupied a considerable portion of ground and that the Canadian National has the distinction of being the only railway on the continent which runs through what was once a large fortress of the French regime.

By his discovery of the Fort Ste. Marie canal, Mr. Jury has won the distinction of unearthing the oldest canal on record in the United States and Canada. So far as can be ascertained, the first canal in Canada was constructed by French settlers in 1700, at Lachine, Que., while in the United States a canal was dug, in 1750, in Orange County, New York State, for the transportation of stones. If, and when, Mr. Jury locates the locks, he will have the added distinction of discovering the earliest lock. At present, the oldest lock was that built by fur traders at Sault Ste. Marie, in 1797. As Mr. Jury commented, "The story of Fort Ste. Marie is only now beginning to take shape."

On Friendship

Saul and Jonathan were lovely and pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided.
—2 Samuel I, 23

✧ ✧ ✧

Nothing will so much delight the mind as a faithful and pleasant friendship. How great and good it is when the hearts are prepared, wherein a man may safely bury all his secrets whose conscience thou fearest less than thy own whose words may terrify thy discontents, whose counsel can resolve thy doubts, whose mirth may dissipate thy sorrow, and whose countenance may comfort thee.
—Seneca (8 B.C.—A.D. 65).

When Zeno was asked what a friend was, he replied, "Another I."
—Diogenes Laertius, c A.D. 200.

✧ ✧ ✧

Love him and keep him for thy friend, who, when all go away, will not forsake thee, nor suffer thee to perish at the last.
—Thomas A'Kempis (1380-1470)

✧ ✧ ✧

Deliberate long before thou consecrate a friend; and when thy impartial judgment concludes him worthy of thy bosom, receive him joyfully and entertain him wisely; impart thy secrets to boldly, and mingle thy thoughts with his; he is thy very self; and use him so; if thou firmly believe him faithful, thou makest him so.
—Francis Quarles (1592-1644).

Large was his bounty, and his soul sincere;
Heaven did a recompense so largely send;
He gave to misery (all he had) a tear;
He gained from heaven ('twas all he wished)—a friend.
—Thomas Gray (1716-1779).

If words came as ready as ideas and ideas as feelings, I could say ten hundred kindly things. You know not my supreme happiness at having one on earth whom I can call a friend.
—Charles Lamb (1775-1834).

Friendship—that select and sacred relation which is a kind of absolute, and which leaves the language of love suspicious and common, so much is this power, and nothing is so much divine.
—Emerson (1803-1882).

UNEXPLORED

Is it possible that nothing real or important has yet been seen or known or said? Is it possible that mankind has had thousands of years in which to observe, reflect, and record, and has allowed these millennia to slip past like a recess interval at school in which one eats one's sandwich and apple.

Yes, it is possible.

Is it possible that every individual has had to be reminded that he is indeed sprung from all those who have gone before, that he has known this and ought not to have been persuaded differently by others?

Yes, it is possible.
—Rainer Maria Rilke.

A COINCIDENCE OF HISTORY took place when descendants of the victorious Iroquois Indians, who ravaged Huronia 300 years ago, visited old Fort Ste. Marie, Midland, to view the finding of what is believed to be the first canal, other than those in Mexico on the North American Continent. The Indians, shown above, are from the Mohawk, Caughndwaga Reserve, near Montreal, and are shown examining the canal bed which has its origin from a spring on the other side of the present Canadian National Railways' tracks, seen in background.

First Drink With a Kick Just How Did It Happen

By BOB HATTON

"If you insist, but make it a short one." Cool amber liquid gurgles delightfully into a tall glass. Two friends relax, murmur "cheers" and sip it with appreciation.

How long has this been going on? When did the first man drink his fruit juice and find something had been added?

Records of the first drink with a kick probably never existed. Probably it wasn't long after a man got off all fours and started carrying a club to deal with his mate who objected to his nights out with the boys.

Several good explanations of how it all began have been put forward. Perhaps some primitive man dropped some early form of bread in his water container. The next day he saw bubbles rising from a solid substance in the bottom of the container. Besides tickling his nose, this water had somehow become happy water. He wouldn't need much encouragement to try it again and probably didn't.

Or, the first brewery may have started with a beetle-browed hunter cutting the stem of an agave plant to get the plentiful juice. Instead of drinking it all, he may have carried some home with him in his gourd. The next time he took a swig, he found it wasn't the same drink he had before. Not by a long shot.

Alcoholic drinks are divided into two general kinds, wine and beer. In wine, the alcohol is derived from sugar by the addition of starches. A side branch is a drink made from the fermentation of lactoses on milk sugar. This was the drink of the people of animal breeders of the plains.

The most common of the wines among primitive tribes was palm wine. The wine was made by cutting down a palm tree and propping up the trunk so there was room to build a fire underneath. Next, openings about two inches in diameter were cut along the upper surface. A small fire was started underneath and the juice accumulated in the openings. The juice was then put in containers and stored for three or four days.

In the tropics there was no reason to wait all that time. Juice that was collected in the morning was fermented by noon because of the heat. The fermentation was caused by least germs in the air. The yeast changes juice sugar into alcohol and carbonic acid.

In Africa the natives had an even simpler method. Rather than cut down the tree, they simply climbed to the top and made incisions at the top where it was juiciest. Then they hung gourds just as if they were collecting maple syrup. By the next morning, instead of having palm juice, they had nicely aged wine.

Beer was a favorite drink of the Apaches who brewed it from the roots of a potato-like plant. In Bolivia the native Indians used wild honey or maize.

How the first still began to make brandy and other hard liquors, is not known, but probably the sun in the tropics had something to do with it. Tiny drops probably formed on the inside of wine containers which had a lot more punch than wine. From there it was a question of devising a container which would do the job more efficiently. Java, Siam, Ceylon, and the Malabar coast were the birth places of intricate stills and fine brandies.

A potent brandy known as kumyss was developed in central Siberia and northern Tibert. It was made from the milk of camels and donkeys and fermented with lumps of butter. Missionaries discovered it in 1253 and Marco Polo tasted it in his travel.

Almost as quickly as alcoholic drinks developed, drinknig songs grew up alongside. The dangers of drink were soon discovered and historical records are full of pungent warnings against it. But one of the best admonitions was heard not many years ago in an American Negro church. The minister said: "Do not be a can which the Lord opens only to find beer in it!"

Crescents Take 8-7 Win At Miller Bowl

By DON GRANT

Owen Sound Crescents squeezed a 8-7 win over the Peterborough Lumberjacks Friday night at Miller Bowl. After a half-hour delay due to car trouble of the Owen Sound team the game got under way with the Lumberjacks being full masters of the play in the first quarter. Owen Sound took over in the second with their slow but effective play to tie the score at half time 6-6. The second half of the game was sluggish with only three goals being scored.

Wootton for the Crescents starred in the goal in the first period limiting the Petes to three goals by Foote, Dugan and Thorpe. Only one penalty was handed out that to Bun White of Owen Sound for slashing. Allum waded through the penalty for a minute but the Petes finally got two goals 12 seconds apart. For the next three minutes the Petes overran the Owen Sound territory with Wootton holding them off. Thorpe finally scored on a pass from Howse.

Petes slackened down in the second with the Owen Sounders taking over the scoring. They took advantage of the Petes' poor checking around the net to slip in three quickies to tie the score. McNulty put the Petes one up. Again the Crescents scored three straight. Goals by Thorpe and Dootch Vitarelli tied the score. Ashbee and Arnold Smith led the Sounders with three and two goals respectively.

In the third and fourth periods the play became slower with exciting moments few and far between. Wootton and Speck of the Petes both came through with nice stops as their defences were caught asleep. Twice heated arguments took place over decisions by the goal judge. Owen Sound claimed a goal in the third and the Petes in the fourth when Arn Dugan hit the top crossbar and the judge's light flickered on.

Arnold Smith scored the only goal in the third quarter on a pass from Woods. Gillespie added another in the fourth with the pass again from Woods. With two seconds to go Thorpe scored from D. Vitarelli.

Bob Thorpe led the scorers with four points, three goals and an assist. Singles were scored by Foote, Dugan, McNulty and D. Vitarelli. Ashbee and Arn Smith each had three goals for Owen Sound while Woods had three assists. McWhirter and Gillespie each had a goal.

Thorpe also led his team defensively with Speck coming through in the trying moments. Wootton, Ashbee, Allum and Woods were the pick of the Crescents.

Mangrum On Fire In 1st Round

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP). — Leading money-winner Sammy Snead and United States open champion Cary Middlecoff Friday set chase after Lloyd Mangrum, the Midas of Tam O'Shanter, in the $20,000 All-American golf tourney.

Mangrum, who works for Tam, but shoots like he owns it, Friday whacked an eight-under-par 64 as some 200 pro, amateur and feminine golfers touched off the three-section, 72-hole event. That gave Lloyd a two-stroke lead over the first half of the field.

Topped by Snead and Middlecoff, another 200 shooters in the three divisions will complete first-round competition today. Tomorrow a well-trimmed contingent—125 pros, 40 amateurs and 30 women—will shove off in the second 18-hole round.

Mangrum's shooting of two eagles and five birdies in a 32-32 round over Tam's par 36-36—72 course was only one stroke behind the record 63 he fired last year.

Mangrum, who had only one putt over 10 feet in going for his five birdies finished, two strokes ahead of Chick Harbert of Detroit and Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N.Y., who fashioned 66's. Knotted at 67 were Jimmy Clark of Independence, Man., and big Johnny Bulla of Vernon, Pa.

Nova Scotia Champs Sweep Semi-Finals

HALIFAX, Aug. 6 — (CP). — On and off the courts, it was an upsetting day all around Friday, fifth day of the 58th Canadian lawn tennis championships.

A veteran local twosome scored a startling upset in a quarter-final of men's doubles with two of Canada's Davis Cuppers on the short end of the kill.

A gallery of 1,200, largest ever to see a tennis match in the Maritimes, rejoiced at the accomplishment of Nova Scotia's doubles champions, Don and Gord [illegible] into the semi-finals at the expense of Henri Rochon and James Macken of Montreal.

Little Britain Wins

LINDSAY, Aug. 6. — Blasting Sonya 10-2 Friday night in the deciding game of the Central group finals, Little Britain qualified for the final series for the Tri-County Baseball League crown. Sonya won the first game 5-4 but Little Britain came back to even the series 9-4.

Quakers Win 11-5

Quakers walloped the Woollens 11-5 in an Industrial Fastball League fixture Friday night at the Quaker diamond. The Quakers shoved six runs across in the third and fourth, adding five more in the sixth. The Woollens picked up a single in the fourth and four runs in the sixth.

Grattan McKlyo Wins $50,000 In Nassau Pace

WESTBURY, NY, Aug. 6 (AP) —It had been predicted by the experts that Grattan McKlyo would win the $50,000 Nassau two-mile pace and set a world record. The seven-year-old gelding came through on both counts.

Favorite over 15 other veteran sidewheelers at $6 80 for two, the ebony-hued star was timed in 4:16 4-5 at Roosevelt Raceway Friday night. He clipped 4-5ths of a second from the mark made in the same classic last year by Goose Bay, an absentee this time.

One of the rank outsiders got within a nose of upsetting the favorite, which represented Mrs. Ben F. Owen of Omaha, Neb., and was driven by Neal Houslet. Brother Harmony, owned by Harry Eckert of Mount Vernon, O., closed with a rush to be second and returned $19.90 for place. Third position in the Grand Circuit event went to Royal Man.

Grattan McKlyo's time was not the only record established. The crowd of 29,619 failed to match the 30,535 which attended Roosevelt Raceway last May 21, but they bet $1,076,601 for a track mark. The former high was the $1,067,389 of last September 11, date of the 1948 Nassau Pace.

Sets Pace

Josedale Dandy set most of the pace for the first mile and a half, with the well-liked Dr. Stanton holding the lead briefly at the end of the first half. The favorite was fifth on the early part.

Both Josedale Dandy and Dr. Stanton tired badly after passing the mile pole. The hard-hitting Doctor, with his veteran owner, W. L. (Lindy) Fraser of Forest, Ont., at the reins, stopped to a walk and eventually wound up 15th. Last year Dr. Stanton went to the post favorite in this same race and finished fourth.

With a half mile to go, Grattan McKylo charged into what seemed a comfortable lead, only to be hard pressed by the belated challenge of Brother Harmony.

In Fifth Place

The victor earned $22,500, making his all-time total $81,072.

The only other Canadian-owned horse in the race, Stewart Direct from Hugh Stewart's Peterborough stables, gave a creditable performance to gain fifth place in the bulky field.

In a pair of $10,000 accompanying fixtures, Bangway added to his already-high Hambletonian status by capturing the Volomite trot and Royal Blackstone won the Adios pace for his eighth triumph in as many 1949 starts.

Kramer Cools Off Tigers As Red Sox Triumph 9-0

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Jack Kramer's return to 1948 form with a six-hit shutout victory for Boston may be the most important development in the American League race since Joe DiMaggio rejoined the New York Yankees.

Failure of handsome Jack to measure up to his brilliant 18-5 record of last year almost ruined the Red Sox in early season. Kramer lost six in a row until he finally broke the streak—with relief help—on July 24.

When Kramer cooled off the red-hot Detroit Tigers 9-0 Friday he became the sixth straight Boston starter to go the route. Manager Joe McCarthy now has gone through his entire regular staff.

Kramer could make the difference between a pennant and an also ran to the Red Sox. Dom DiMaggio contributed his bit Friday with a double, hitting in his 32nd straight game, and Vern Stephens bashed his 26th homer.

Sweep Twin Bill

Casey Stengel's Yankees broke loose with their roughest batting attacks in weeks, sweeping a doubleheader, 10-2 and 10-5, from St. Louis Browns.

They backed up Ed. Lopat's efficient pitching with a 13-hit outburst that included homers by Tommy Henrich and Joe DiMaggio in the opener. It was Lopat's 10th victory.

Rookie Duane Pillette finally hung up his first big league victory with relief help from Joe Page who pitched the last four innings of the second game. The Yanks hits included Charley Keller's second homer and Yogi Berra's 14th, with the bases loaded.

Although Cleveland whipped Philadelphia 3-2 in a night game, the tribe dropped to three full games behind the Yanks. Boston is 5½ off the pace.

The Indians cashed in four infield errors for two unearned runs as Mike Garcia bested Alex Kellner. Manager Lou Boudreau had to call in Al Benton to save the game after Mike Guerra opened the ninth with a double.

Whip Senators

Mickey Haefner, fired by Washington for "indifferent performance" a month ago, returned with the Chicago White Sox to whip the Senators, 4-1, his first victory in his new uniform. The little lefty went all the way, allowing only seven hits. Luke Appling, Sox vet, tied Rabbit Maranville's major league record by playing shotstop in 2,153 games.

Manager Joe Kuhel of the Senators finished the game under protest. He claimed he had waived Joe Haynes to the mound to replace Sid Hudson with two out in the ninth. Hudson had given up 16 hits. Umpire Cal Hubbard insisted Lloyd Little pitch after Hubbard had summoned him to the mound. Little retired Eddie Malone for the last out.

Gerry Staley, who holds four decisions over New York, kept St. Louis in the National League lead with a 1-0 verdict over the Giants. Marty Marion drove home Stan Musial with the only run off Monte Kennedy in the sixth. It was Staley's seventh victory.

Brooklyn remained a half game behind the Red Birds with a 6-4 edge over Cincinnati. A three-run outburst in the fifth broke a 2-2 tie.

Preacher Roe needed help from Erv Palica to get out of a jam in the seventh, but got credit for his ninth victory.

Shortstop Granny Hamner's error, permitting Ralph Kiner to score in the last of the ninth, enabled Pittsburgh to squeeze past Philadelphia, 1-0, in a tight duel between Bill Werle and Schoolboy Rowe. Each allowed five hits

Boston Braves, gradually drifting out of the National League race, were given another shove by the last-place Chicago Cubs who battered Warren Spahn and three successors for 15 hits and an 8-3 edge.

Tadpole Rockets Defeat Hurricanes

Tadpole Rockets edged the Hurricanes 7-4 in minor lacrosse fixture Friday morning. In the first midget game the Petes walloped the Cyclones 15-0 while the Tigers were trouncing the Terriers 12-5.

In the Tadpole game the rockets had the edge, the scores being 3-2 at the end of the first, 4-2 at the half with the Rockets outscoring the Hurricanes in the last period 3-2. Rich Anthony scored five goals for the Rockets while Bill Rogers and Jerry Crough each had two for the Hurricanes.

Gord Hunt led the Petes with four goals and three assists as the Petes trampled the Cyclones. Sam Lagana had five goals while Wilfong had two, MacInnes three and Reid one. Pete Heffernan went best for the Cyclones.

With the exception of the second period the Tigers were evenly played by the Terriers. The score at the end of the first was 3-2. But in the second the Tigers rapped in five to the Terriers one. In the last frame the Tigers outscored the Terriers 4-2. D. Sutherland had eight points, four goals and four assists, while R. Jay had five goals and two assists with R. Keeting having three goals and two assists. For the Terriers Larry Ferguson, Ketcheson and Pace stood out.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

While the Windsor Rockets continue preparations for their fifth season in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Frank Dayus tossed a new pitch into the grid setup at Windsor Friday by announcing he will sponsor a team in the newly created Canadian-American Football League.

It brought to three the number of major sports Dayus has brought into alignment for his year-old Dayus stadium. The others are Windsor Jets of the National Fastball League and Windsor Canadians of the Michigan-Indiana Baseball League.

The international circuit was organized only Tuesday at Detroit but already has six entries, three of them bonded. The Windsor entry, the only Canadian entry, will post its $500 bond at once, Dayus said.

Other entries listed include Bay City Blazers, Flint Blue Devils, Fenton Independents, Mt. Clemens and Dearborn, all of Michigan. Buck Short of Bay City is president of the League.

The football team will play a 10-game schedule with five home games on Sunday night under the lights at his stadium. The league will embrace United States college football rules.

There is no connection between the new team and Windsor Rockets of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

At Montreal, smooth-stroking Stan Horne, Montreal Islesmere professional, Friday captured the 36-hole Quebec open golf championship with a brilliant five-under-par 139 at the Elmridge Club.

Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield captured second place with 142 while Jules Huot of Montreal Laval was third with 143.

Lloyd Mangrum, who took everything but the doorknobs at Tam O' Shanter last year, looks as if he's even going after those now. He uncorked an eight-under-par 64 in Friday's first round of the Tam golf circus.

Mangrum was head man among 120 hopefuls competing in the opening round of the all-American pro men's tournament. The second half of the field—including such hotshots as Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff—enters the gold tuck today. The field will [illegible] second round.

At St. Thomas, Jack Nash, London Hunt Club's leading shotmaker, Friday shattered par on the rolling St. Thomas Golf and Country Club course to take top honors in the Kiwanis invitation tournament.

Nash shot a shattering five-under-par 65. His first nine total of 30 compared to par 36, included a hole in one, the first in the Londoner's starry career in golf. He aced the 90-yard second hole, where par is three.

A senior hockey franchise has been granted the operating committee of the Sarnia Arena by the International Amateur Hockey Association, it was announced at Sarnia Friday. The decision will mean Sarnia will enter a team in the northern division of the league W. J. Miller, committee chairman said.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

To the veteran George Coleman Sr., and his rink goes the honor of winning the Selkirk trophy for 1949. It was a great series and they all deserve the honor. Playing two ten-end games earlier in the week and they came through with an 18-end game win Friday night. The credit is all theirs.

Another Coleman, this time the son, George Jr., was the other 3-game winner. It might well be called the "Coleman competition."

R. F. Downey's rink came in for high two wins and M. Fletcher's rink won the prize for one game winner.

The club is indebted to Vern Selkirk for the interest he has shown in this competition and for his donating the first prize.

The games were keenly contested and all enjoyed the tournament.

The winners were:

First: Selkirk Trophy

N. Routley, H. Outram, G. Soulby G. Coleman Sr. Each player received a hat.

Second

D. Anderson, T. Parker, W. Cathcart, G. Coleman, Jr., skip.—Each player receives a dress shirt.

Third

C. McIntyre, T. McCallum, Dr. Fulford, R. F. Downey, skip. Each player received a sport shirt.

Fourth

W. Wildman, B. Hutchinson, E. Mesley, M. Fletcher, skip. Each player received a tie.

In the second stage of the Provincial playoffs for District No. 14, and playing at Port Hope Friday evening, the local boys won two of the three competitions and will now meet Cannington in Lindsay, sometime next week, for the district championships. C. Renaud had a somewhat easy time with his Oshawa opponent in the singles winning 21-13 and Wm. Jeffries and Robert Gamble also walked away with their doubles game from the Oshawa pair 24-10.

In the rink games Harold Freeman's quartette went down to G Cochrane by 15-17 after a stubborn fight all the way through. The many winning shots played by the Oshawa skip were nothing short of marvellous. Everyone converted ends in his favor. Congratulations all around.

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the Family Hour tournament.

Bisons Sweep Twin Bill From Syracuse

By the Associated Press.

Buffalo Bisons aren't a great road team, but on their home lot the International League leaders are big shots.

The Bisons returned to Offerman Stadium Friday night after a 15-game road trip during which they won seven and lost eight games and nearly lost the lead.

Playing before the home folks the Bisons performed brilliantly, sweeping a double-header from Syracuse Chiefs, 7-2 and 7-1. The triumphs boosted the Bisons' edge to three games over Toronto Maple Leafs and Rochester Red Wings.

The Bisons are playing at a .660 clip at home with 31 victories against 16 defeats. Away from home the Bisons have won 33 games and dropped 29, a .532 gait.

Saul Rogovin stopped the Chiefs on six hits in winning his 11th game in the opener. Gene Markland sparked the Bison drive, banging out two home runs.

Bob Hooper set the Chiefs down on eight scattered hits in the finale to record his 14th triumph against two losses. Coaker Triplett supplied the batting punch, driving home four runs on a trio of singles.

Fall Twice

The Red Wings fell twice to Jersey City Giants 3-2 and 4-1, and dropped from second to third place, a percentage point behind the Leafs.

Jersey City won the seven-inning opener in the final inning with a two-run rally that relief pitcher Sam Webb climaxed with a game-winning single.

The Giants won the nightcap with a three-run rally in the eighth inning that was featured by Dick Culler's two-run single. Rus Derry accounted for the lone Rochester run with his 32nd homer in the eighth inning.

Toronto took a double-header from Newark Bears 6-1 and 6-0. Oscar Judd of Ingersoll, Ont., stopped the Bears on three hits in the first game and belted a three-run homer. Chet Laabs and Johnny Blatnik also homered for the Leafs.

Jocko Thompson blanked the Bears on two safeties in the nightcap although he walked seven.

Pat McClothin pitched Montreal Royals to a five-hit, 11-2 victory over Baltimore Orioles. Red McQuillen accounted for Baltimore's tallies with his 21st homer.

Dr. Harvey Clare Dies In Guelph

GUELPH, Aug. 6 (CP). — Dr. Harvey Clare, 77, widely-known psychiatrist and former medical superintendent of Homewood Sanitarium at Guelph, died at his home Friday.

Born at Tweed, Dr. Clare was educated at Stirling High School, Albert College and Trinity University where he graduated in Medicine as gold medallist in 1896.

Specializing in psychiatry, he entered the Provincial Government Medical Service shortly after his graduation.

Dr. Clare served as Superintendent of Homewood for 17 years and on his retirement in 1942 continued as consultant to the Department of Justice in Ottawa. He travelled extensively in Canada in connection with this work.

He is survived by his widow and two sons, Dr. Harvey Clare Jr. of Hamilton, and Ald. James Clare of Guelph.

Declare Agreement Not Kept By Company

QUEBEC, Aug. 6 (CP)—Gerard Picard, president of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor, said Friday that, contrary to the agreement by which the 4½-month Asbestos strike was settled several employees of the Canadian Johns-Manville Company at Asbestos, Que., had not been recalled to their old jobs.

In a statement, the labor leader said the strike settlement which had been agreed to by both the company and the workers' representatives had promised there would be no discrimination against the strikers.

Postpone Hearings

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP). —The Civil Aeronautics Board Friday announced a two-week postponement of scheduled hearings on Trans-Canada Air Lines service in and out of New York City. The hearing, originally set for July 15, was put off to August 29. Forty-nine Senators last week asked President Truman to hold up the recent United States-Canadian air agreement under which the CAB is considering TCA's application to fly regularly between Montreal and New York.

Sign Wage Agreement

ROME, Aug. 6 (AP).— Italy's big Communist-led Labor Confederation Friday night signed a major wage agreement with industry promising peace on the factory front. Millions of industrial workers are affected by the agreement signed also by the non-Communist Free Labor Confederation and the Independent Italian Labor Federation. Agreement ended more than a year of stormy negotiations marked by numerous strikes and disorders.

Set Parliament Date

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 6 (AP). — German state presidents Friday picked September 7 as the date for the first meeting of West Germany's new Parliament. Members of the legislative body will be chosen August 14. Convening of the Parliament will mark the beginning of the new West German Federal Republic sponsored by Britain, the United States and France in their three occupation zones.

Fire Razes 2 Plants

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP)—Fire Friday gutted two west-end woodworking plants and flying sparks menaced a third plant and nearby buildings. Damage was estimated at more than $75,000. Minor roof fires broke out in buildings nearly a city block away as burning embers drifted down on them.

Liquidate Capitalism

BELGRADE, Aug. 6 (CP) — Premier Marshal Tito promised Yugoslavia all capitalism will be liquidated in this country. His promise was made in a speech at Skoplje, capital of Macedonia, two days ago. It was released on Friday night by the Ministry of Information.

NEW COLLEGE—Paul Labelle, right, of St. Eustache, Que., who will train for the priesthood under the guidance of the brown-robed Capuchin fathers, talks with Rev. Eleutherius at the site of the order's junior resident college at Blenheim, Ont. The Capuchins, according to their superior general, Father Dumas, have for years hoped the Order of Friars would have their own school in the Dominion. This fall, the $50,000 structure, first of its kind in Canada, will be opened. The windmill in the background was brought from Holland by one of the Capuchin brothers two decades ago.

Hebrews When In Captivity Sang Praises Of Lord

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The writer of the 137th Psalm, in a vivid historical record, tells how their Babylonian captors required mirth of the Jewish Exiles, in Babylon, saying: "Sing us one of the songs of Zion."

Just what these songs of Zion were we do not know, for many of the finest Psalms seem to have come out of the Exile, and the post-Exilic period. Probably they were earlier Psalms, or such songs as those in which great events and experiences in Jewish life and history had been celebrated, like that of Miriam, the Prophetess, in Exodus 15, and Psalms attributed to David.

The intensity with which the Jewish Exile resented Babylonian mockery, and his devotion to the songs of Israel, was marked in his passionate outburst: "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning, let my tongue cling t othe roof of my mouth."

This marked, also, the place of song in Jewish religion, and its part in the great Jewish feasts and festivals, in which devotion to God, the Giver and Protector of God's dealings with them was kept alive.

There were many feasts and festivals, some local in character, but the great national festivals, involving all the people, were four: 1. The Feast of the Passover, followed immediately by the Feast of Unleavened Bread, during which the offering of a barley sheaf marked the opening of the reaping season. 2. The Feast of Pentecost, seven weeks later, or on the 50th day, celebrating the completion of the corn harvest. 3 The Feast of Tabernacles, the Jewish harvest home, when all had been gathered in, a joyous time when the people lived in booths, commemorating the time when Israel had lived in tents in the journeying from Egypt. 4. The Feast of the Dedication of the Temple.

Hastings' Bible Dictionary states that at these four Feasts, or Festivals, some joyous, some solemn, the "Egyptian Hallel," consisting of Psalms 113-118, as one whole, was sung. This "Egyptian Hallel" was so-called to distinguish it from the "great Hallel" (Psalms 120 to 136), and from the Psalms of praise, 146 to 148, "Hallel" meaning "praise."

What these religious practices meant, and their effect, can well be seen in the continuity of Jewish life and religion, in spite of all the trials of dispersion, exile, persecution, and disaster, and the changes in which nations and peoples, once formidable, have gone down to ruin.

The maintenance of periods and occasions of remembrances, telling it to the generation following, with religious fervor and in the spirit of devotion, and in the songs of a people—this, in the history and religion of Israel is something that other nations and peoples might well take to heart. Our national holidays tend to mean too little, or to become only interludes of pleasure, where they ought to be what a name that has lost its meaning implies—holy days, sanctified in the memory of the great things they celebrate, and in re-consecration to God and man.

Site Selected For High School

MARMORA, Aug. 6—(ENS)—Centre Hastings District High School Board has purchased a site for the new junior high school which is to be erected in Marmora. The site selected is the property of Mrs. Pearl Inkster on Madoc St., plus the east part of Albert Burridge's property. The site is comparatively level and can be made into very attractive school grounds at a smal cost.

Preliminary plans for the school have been approved by the school board and sent to the Department of Education for their concurrence. Owing to a decision of the Department not being satisfactory to the board, a strong deputation of the board, accompanied by Reeve V. M. Lynch of Marmora, Reeve C. H. Buskard of Deloro, and Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., interviewed officials in Toronto on Wednesday. It is hoped as a result that original wishes of the board will be granted.

5 Unions Sign Abitibi Pact

TORONTO, Aug. 6 (CP)—Negotiating committees of Abitibi Power and Paper Company and five unions Friday reached an agreement covering 5,000 hourly-paid workers. It was the 32nd annual contract drawn between the company and employees.

S. A. Stephens, manager of industrial relations for the company said:

"The settlement included three weeks' vacation with pay after 20 years' service and two additional paid holidays—making a total of six a year."

Producing more than 2,000 tons of newsprint daily, Abitibi operates mills at the Ontario centres of Iroquois Falls, Smooth Rock Falls, Sturgeon Falls, Fort William, Port Arthur and Sault Ste. Marie; also at Pine Falls, Man., and Beaupre, Que.

Unions involved in the negotiations were the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, the International Association of Machinists and the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The agreement is retroactive to last May 1.

Designate Two Missionaries At St. James' Service Sunday

A special service will be held in St. James' United Church Sunday morning, at 11 a.m., when Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Kitney will be designated as missionaries of the United Church Overseas in Trinidad.

Before his ordination Rev. Mr. Kitney spent two years in Home Mission work at Wanham, Alberta; after which he returned to Emmanuel College to complete his Arts course. Following his ordination at Napanee he served for two years at Montney, British Columbia, at the extreme west limit of Canadian agricultural land en route to the Alaska Highway. He was then appointed to Pouce Coupe, B.C., where he spent one year before receiving his call to Grande Prairie, Alberta, where he has just completed a most successful pastorate of eight years. Rev. Kitney became keenly interested in radio broadcasting and for several years has conducted radio services in co-operation with the Anglican Church in Grande Prairie. Rev. and Mrs. Kitney have two daughters, Lynne and Carol, who will travel with their parents. The best wishes of many friends will accompany these servants of the Church as they journey to their new field of labor at Port of Spain, Trinidad, B.W.I.

At the special service on Sunday morning, Very Rev. J. H. Arnup, BA, DD, Secretary of the Board of Overseas Missions for the United Church of Canada, will preach the sermon. Rev. Fred Craik will conduct the service.

Pet Dogs, Cats Steal Show At Park Parade

Children in the south of the city had a field day Friday and those with pet dogs and cats stole the show. The occasion was the annual pet show at King Edward Park where more than 50 youngsters ranging from tiny tots to teen-agers brought their pets to exhibit among their play friends.

An elusive member of the party was Blackie the crow, playmate of all the children in the south of the city. Blackie lives in King Edward Park and sometimes moves further south for a while to the Exhibition grounds. Just when he was wanted to line up with the other animals, he was missing and a delegation of youngsters went to coax him back.

Blackie does not really come under the category of a pet. He likes his independence too much, but he has allowed himself to be tamed and plays in the park among the children. Only if the youngsters take advantage of his condescension by touching him, does he take off in a huff.

Two Pet Turtles

Smallest of all the pets at the show Friday afternoon was Betty Baird's two turtles, Pete and Tom. Pete and Tom have a sister Myrtle, but she was too sick to join the fun. Betty, proudest twelve-year-old owner of turtles, was bitterly disappointed that Myrtle had to be left out of things on such an auspicious occasion, but what's the use of a pet show to a sick turtle.

With a basket slung over one arm, nine-year-old Gwendoline Pearson was showing off Dagwood the kitten, to the admiring party of youngsters. Dagwood's sister Blondie was left at home so he was having a fine time drawing all the attention to himself. There were other cats around, but its different when your sister's not there to keep an eye on things.

Dogs turned up in greater numbers than either cats or turtles. There must have been some bathing and brushing during the morning for there never was such a smart assembly.

The animals were judged in three separate classes by Jimmy Haggart, Gary Kearns and Joe, O'Brien.

Owners of winning pets were as follows: Dogs: 1. Jane McIntyre, 2. Patsey Carey; Cats: 1. Marilyn Hewitt; 2. Janet Kearns; Turtles, 1. Betty Baird.

The show was organized by Mary Craw, supervisor of the playground. She has supervised at the park for the past three summers, first of all taking charge of the totlot in the summer of 1947.

Both animals and children were rewarded for their entries. Miss Craw distributed six slices of bologna among the dogs and owners of prize winners had colored ribbon bows to wear. Suckers, ice creams and soft drinks were also distributed. It was a little difficult to give the turtles a treat Miss Craw thought. Best treat would be to leave them to their regular diet, she decided.

Row Of Potatoes Stolen From Garden

Who trespassed in Jack McClennan's garden at 618 Walkerfield Ave. and, under cover of darkness, stole a row of potatoes and two heads of cabbage? That is what has been puzzling Mr. McClennan since Friday morning when he discovered someone had dug a row of potatoes 40 feet in length and taken two cabbages.

Every potato in the row has been taken, Mr. McClennan told Constable Dennis Traynor.

Without wishing to be libellous against the fairer sex, Mr. McClennan believes the harvesting was done by a woman. A woman wearing high-heeled shoes, he concludes from marks in the soil.

Children Showing Keen Interest In Wonderland Reading Club

Many Peterborough school children from Grades 3 to 8 are becoming ardent devotees of the art of reading, through a project of the Public Library called the "Wonderland Reading Club," which is now in its second year of existence. The little ones are having lots of fun along with their reading, too, the highlight being a "Mad Hatter's Party" scheduled for mid-September in Jackson Park.

The project is in the efficient hands of Miss Lillian Wesley, boys' and girls' librarian, who graciously explained it all to an Examiner reporter. A similar club is also in operation at the branch library on Park St. South.

84 Registered

A total of 84 registered in the club when it opened its 1949 session on June 25 and, althought parents' vacations have reduced that number somewhat, there are still a large number participating and planning to follow through to the big party at the end. Miss Wesley said that several school teachers had told her that they had noticed a considerable improvement in the development of pupils' reading ability since the club was started last year.

Last year the theme of the club competition was cowboys; this year it is "Alice in Wonderland," drawings of the various characters of this children's classic being hung on the walls of the children's department of the Public Library.

At the outset a film based on this book was shown, with 300 children being present on this occasion. Those who registered in the club qualified for membership by taking out three books to read. When these books were returned each child was given a small notebook in which he or she was asked to write impressions on the books read.

Pictures Awarded

After five books had been read members received the first in a series of drawings from "Alice in Wonderland," suitable for framing. Additional scenes were awarded at various stages until a total of 20 books were read, by which time the whole picture was complete. After having read ten books, a library pin was presented and after 20 were read, a certificate was awarded.

A gold star is awarded for each book read after the certificate is won, and prizes will be presented at the end of the period for the most books read.

Another new project started by the Library children's department this year is an extension of the established plan whereby books are sent out to the various summer playgrounds at regular intervals. Beginning on Thursday of this week, a start was made on bringing in groups of children to the Library from each playground in turn to choose books themselves, listen to a story by Miss Wesley, and witness a couple of films. Fleming Place playground was the first to be so served, and Inverlea and McKellar Park are slated to be next. Members of each group will return in two weeks' time to exchange books and enjoy another story and movie.

Cigarettes Stolen From Bakery Shop

Three cartons of cigarettes, several loose packages and some 50 coppers were taken from Hooper's bakery on the east side of George St. Friday night, when intruders broke in through a screened window.

The screen on a window facing north had been removed when bakery staff went to the shop this morning. Apart from the missing cigarettes and coppers, everything was left in order.

Douglas Whitney Held Wilful Damage Count

Douglas Whitney, 303 King St., was remanded in custody until Monday at city police court today by V. M. Eastwood, J.P., after being arrested at his home Friday night by Constables Harold Andrew and John Conlin. He was charged with wilful damage.

Mrs. Whitney, mother of the accused, laid the charge after her son had allegedly broken her chinaware.

Vern Phillips, 332 Rubidge St., was charged with being drunk Friday night. He was arrested by Constables Douglas Farthing and Louis Rodregue. The case was adjourned until Monday.

They were awarded the Cote trophy and a total of $50 prize money for winning the two events, a special push-off race and for having the best-designed car. Clarence B. Neal Lost Thumb In Accident

Clarence B. Neal, assistant to the president and secretary-treasurer of Outboard Marines, accidentally cut off the thumb of his left hand while whittling a stake with an axe on Monday in a camp he and five friends were building 50 miles north of Mount Laurier,, Que.

A doctor was not readily available, but Larry Tremblay rushed to the party's base camp 11 miles through the bush to get a first aid kit. It was not until three and one half hours after the accident that his wife was able to get Mr. Neal to the hospital in Mount Laurier.

Mr. Neal was in the hospital two days and was brought home Thursday by his wife. He is reported recovering, although the accident was at first a severe shock to his nervous system.

A veteran camper and woodsman, Mr. Neal was helping a crew of carpenters with his friends while on his holidays. Mr. Neal was using an axe to whittle a stake as he had done hundreds of times before. The axe handle hit a block on which he was working and deflected the blade, severing his thumb of the hand holding the stake.

Country's Streams Polluted Changed Attitude Needed On Part Of Public Officials

"There is far too much pollution of streams in this country, and in Peterborough county," said Peter J. Mather, former Warden of the county, at the conservation meeting this week in the office of Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative. "This condition is far worse in some other countries than ours, but we have it right here. We know that the Junior Chamber of Commerce has started by their own efforts to clear out the Jackson Park creek, but farther down the stream other people are dumping stuff into it. There is no sense in that."

Opinion of the meeting was that some new attitude and action should be undertaken to keep the waterways free of sewage, industrial wastes, oils and general community litter.

And, in regard to Peterborough County, it was said that the action should be begun now before pollution has developed seriously.

Two Projects Underway

The City of Peterborough is now engaged on two projects toward that improvement. The laying of sewer pipe across the river will eliminate any contamination from the present method of disposal of Ashburnham sewage. The disposal septic tank on Maria St. will no longer be used when the diversion of the sewage across the river is completed, probably next month.

The other project, the enlargement of the sewage disposal plant on the Otonabee shore of the river, is in the hands of city council's consulting engineers, Gore & Storrie, Toronto.

The council cannot do anything further at present until the engineers bring some information to the council respecting the calling for tenders.

So, the City Council and the young men of the Junior Chamber of Commerce are taking steps of improving Peterborough's two main water courses. However, the conversation of the meeting this week on the topic of stream pollution suggested that preventive means should be considered and provided now to stop potential contamination before it begins.

An increasing number of people are living in Lakefield and along the Otonabee north of the village. What supervision applies to their use of the river, and whose responsibility is it?

Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, said his department does keep an eye on the river in that reach, but that duty is actually not his responsibility. Water tests are taken probably three times in the summer, but the department's concern is chiefly about the quality of the water flowing from the taps in the city's homes. Dr. Kelly told The Examiner that Peterborough's drinking water was always good.

But, as to responsible examination of the river water above the city to Lakefield and beyond, Dr. Kelly said that might probably rest with the provincial government through its health department. His main assertion and assurance was that the water as filtered and chlorinated by the Utilities Commission's plant north of the city was invariably of good quality.

Incidentally, this is a quotation from The Brantford Expositor: There is to be a meeting at Kitchener next Wednesday to discuss the pollution of the Grand River. That stream and the Thames through London are two of those which Mr. Mather must have had in mind when he said that other counties were worse than Peterborough in the pollution of streams. Hon. Russell Kelley is going to the Kitchener meeting.

This is the Brantford quotation: "While Brantford water supply taken from the Grand and then filtered and purified is perfectly safe and free from any pollution, public health authorities here have been warned that the river itself is a polluted, sewage-laden stream, dangerous to anyone bathing in it, or to anyone who swallows river water."

Broader Policy

It is mentioned in regard to the Mather implication that a broader policy of preventing pollution of streams should be begun now, before rivers like the Otonabee reach the stage of contamination that exists in the Thames and Grand. They are horrible examples compared with the Otonabee.

Peterborough authorities declare emphatically that this city was long in advance of most other cities of Ontario in its public health investments in sanitation when both the incinerator and the sewage disposal plant were planned and built before other communities began thinking in those directions. And some of them haven't yet done anything to provide disposal plants.

W. A. Anderson said,. "They tells us the river purifies itself every two or three miles."

Col. F. E. Birdsall: "They tell us that, but we don't necessarily believe it."

Frank Paterson and his assistant, Robert Bell, were drafting Friday an abridged report of this meeting for the district meeting of the representatives of four counties at Lindsay next Wednesday.

Prevention of the pollution of streams may be one of the recommendations to be written into the brief from Peterborough, Victoria, Durham and Ontario counties to the Select Committee of the Legislature at Lindsay, Wednesday, Sept. 7.

Camel Hair Coats Back Again

NEW YORK—(CP)—Remember that camel-hair coat you used to wear years ago?

Well, you'd better trot it out because camel hair is back again.

At least it was very much in evidence at the college and career collection shown today to the press.

Starring with camel hair was another supposedly bulky fabric, chinchilla. However, both materials were disciplined into smooth, handsome lines that denoted warmth but not weight.

Tweeds, combined with corduroy or velvet, were also an important feature in the show. Fluid wool jersey dresses, flannels and after-work or after-class rayon taffetas were rampant with color with warm russety timber-tan enlivening both the complete ensemble and accessories.

A brief camel-hair jacket above a straight camel-hair skirt was shown together with a belted suit of the same material—each perfect companions for either typewriter or text-book.

Most of the show was centred around versatility, so that jackets and skirts could be interchanged to make a completely new outfit.

Typical was a rust fleece suit with wide-sleeved lumber-jacket above a trim skirt. Its sister-costume was a pleated green plaid skirt, topped with a dashingly-cut jacket of gold fleece.

Daytime jerseys included a navy middy dress, a diamond-woven gray jersey with ascot, and a teal jersey dress with tight ribbed middle.

An office-to-date ensemble was a brown tweed skirt, dressed up with a topaz velveteen blouse buttoned with rhinestones, covered by a small boxy jacket.

Taffeta Dresses

Taffeta dresses were represented by a plaid and pleated skirt, topped by a waist-snug velvet cuffed sleeves and lining that matched the dress. Another black taffeta dance dress was cut bare at the throat and stitched-pleated all over. A peek-a-boo black eyelet taffeta showed a pink slip through the openwork and was sashed with velvet.

For evening wear, there was a cloud of maize net with a tight, bare-shouldered bodice and a faille jacket of the same color. A figure-making black velvet gown with a shoulder frame of ermine was paired with a draped, maroon taffeta gown.

HIGHLAND LASSIES ALL — The 11th annual Gaelic Mod, sponsored by the Cape Breton Gaelic College Foundation, saw loyal and true Scotsmen from many parts of Canada gather at the Cape Breton community of St. Anne's. The four-day celebration, designed to perpetuate the ideals and customs of the Scottish race, was attended by more than 4,000. Here a group of highland lassies compete in the mass highland fling competition, only one event of an extensive program including sword dancing, bagpipe playing and Gaelic songs.

Rose Petal Skirts Stiff Collars Fashion Features

PARIS, Aug. 6.—(AP).— Massive collars and rose petal skirts featured Captain Molyneux's presentation of new fall models Friday.

His petal skirts shown on afternoon and evening dresses were ballet affairs plastered all over with giant rose petals made of the same material as the dress.

He also used a scalloped petal finish on many of his hemlines.

Molyneux's collars, stiff as a board, stand up to ear level before sloping down to the shoulder line. He shows them extensively on stiffened double breasted box coats and suits and in a mild form on dresses.

Suits were fancy and not classic cut. Peplums were of varied length and usually protruded in front. Some were fluted and faced with leopard skin or vivid colored taffeta or satin. Pockets sat at both front and back and the waistlines were tight.

Molyneux's fitted jackets were shorter than those shown by other designers and often were teamed with swing skirts. Box jackets which seem to be growing in popularity were shown straight-cut and hip-length by Molyneux who trims them with immense fur cuffs.

Fantastic Effects Typify Schiaparelli's Showing

PARIS, Aug. 6 (AP)—Schiaparelli showed half her fall fashions in an unfinished state, probably because of the seamstresses' strike just ended. Despite difficulties, she managed to reflect her love of the fantastic.

Her 1949 fall fashion parade typifies her art of splashing color on dresses and headgear. She uses large hand-painted velvet beech leaves as decorations and fancy buttons, which look like dried figs.

Schiaparelli features wide lapels that reach to waist level at both front and back of dresses and suits. She dabbles with all types of overskirts and sets wide pockets beneath the level of jacket hems.

Sleeves on cocktail and evening wear are brief. She introduces a collar on a burgundy velvet calf length dress. It is wide and bias-cut and forms a halter around the neck, travelling under the arms to finish at hip level in the back.

Schiaparelli uses rough English tweeds for voluminous three-quarter-length jackets. One has huge pouch pockets set at the back with the head of a rabbit poking out one of them. The matching skirt is straight cut and is built up to reach nearly to the bust.

On her day dresses, she pulls the fullness to the back, leaving the front straight. Such shades as red and midnight blue are used.

In topcoats, Schiaparelli has a navy-blue suede, narrow box model with black-ribbed wool facings and sleeves. She makes wide use of the navy blue and black combination.

An evening coat of red and gold brocade is lined throughout with squirrel fur. She shows a short evening dress of deep mulberry taffeta and a neckline cut low enough to reveal an orange velvet bra. A skullcap of quilted orange velvet tops the outfit.

Marriages More Successful When Women Propose

Dorothy Dix

THE MOST curious thing in the world is that women who have fought, bled and died, so to speak, for the right to vote and for a place in the business and professional world have never had the courage to strike even a single blow for the right to choose their mates.

Yet the privilege of helping to select the President of the United States is as nothing compared to the privilege of picking out the man to spend the next thirty or forty years with; and battering down the doors that shut women away from commercial success is not nearly so important to them as breaking down the barriers that keep them away from the altar.

Not only does every normal woman want to marry, but she has a mental close-up of the husband she desires. Often she knows the very man she wants, but because of an idiotic convention that hasn't a leg to stand on, she is prevented from going frankly to him and selling him a marriage proposition that might secure not only hers but his happiness and prosperity.

As the custom now persists, the woman in love is the most pitiful and helpless of creatures. All that she can do is to sit patiently waiting on the sidelines with her fingers crossed for luck, hoping and praying that the man she wants will happen to notice her and ask her to marry him. Sometimes he does. Very often he doesn't. And she has to watch in agonized hopelessness a purblind male stumble over her without ever seeing her, into the arms of a rival who has planted herself right in his path. Or else she goes through life filled with the bitter and futile knowledge that she has missed her real affinity because she was debarred from making any effort to hold him when she met and recognized him.

No one can deny that there would be more and better marriages and far less divorces if women did the wooing and the proposing. There are many reasons why this should be so. One is that women are wiser in matters of the heart than men are. Another reason is that it is far more important for a woman to get her ideal in a husband than it is for a husband to get his ideal in a wife, because every woman is ten times as much married as a man is.

Then the woman with a husband who exactly fires her fancy and pleases her taste is always a happy woman, and a happy and contented wife makes a happy and peaceful home. Moreover, she is always on her tiptoes trying to please her husband and that rebounds to his well-being. At least 90 per cent of the peevish and nagging and fretful wives who are sloppy housekeepers and reckless spenders are women who married their opportunities instead of their preferences, and who are taking out upon their poor unfortunate husbands their chagrin in not getting the men they really wanted.

Of course, Bernard Shaw and other cynics assert that women really do the wooing and that a man is as helpless as a lamb being led to the slaughter when a woman marks him for her own and determines to marry him. This is only partially true. It is ridiculous to assume that a woman never sees a man until after he has seen her first, or that she never dallies with the thought of what sort of a husband he would make until after he has popped the question to her; whereupon she suddenly discovers that she is madly in love with him, although she had never suspected it before.

Feminine emotions are not under such control as that. Admitting that an enterprising girl who observes a man who looks good to her does her best to catch him, the custom that forbids her to make her pursuit in the open is an almost insuperable handicap to her in the love chase. To have to work in the dark, and by devious and subtle methods, cramps her style and causes many a woman to lose out, whose efforts would have been crowned with success if she could have pursued above-board methods as a man does, and told her "heart" how much she loved and admired him, or what a good cook she was, or how comfortable she could make him, or how able she was to support a husband in the style to which his father had accustomed him.

Why women should have taken it on the chin so long in respect to proposing marriage to men is one of the mysteries of feminine psychology that no one can fathom. In nothing else have they been timid and backward about demanding their rights, and we can only hope that the next step in feminine emancipation will be for the fair sex to free itself from this silly taboo.

Sculptor's Wife Refuses Food, Lives On Juices

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Aug. 6 (CP)—Only woman in Britain who refuses a ration book is Russian-born Mrs. Moore Pateleewa, wife of a London sculptor.

Mrs. Pateleewa, who is 46, doesn't eat.

She says she has not had a meal for 10 years and now lives entirely on water and fruit juices. By so doing she hopes to live to 150.

"I think food unnecessary and a waste," she said. "I have experimented with diets since immediately after the Russian revolution, when I was a medical student at Saratov on the Volga.

"I had always been keenly interested in the vegeterian cult, and the difficulties of getting enough food in those days prompted me to put my ideas into practice.

"After a few weeks I realized that I had never felt better in my life."

Nice Menu

For breakfast, Mrs. Pateleewa has a cup of carrot juice; for lunch a juice of grass and chickweed, possibly diluted with orange or tomato. If she has anything before going to bed it will be a nightcap of water—taken neat.

On this diet I lead a much more active life than most women of my age. Sometimes I spend the whole day cycling around the country. Then I dance till the early hours of the morning and sleep for about four hours.

"I need no more because my body is completely rested during the day."

Mrs. Pateleewa spends several mornings in Hyde Park every week gathering grass and chickweed, which she presses, dilutes with orange or tomato juice, and drinks.

Weighing 132 pounds, she looks so well that one or two friends have tried to adopt her meagre diet—but as she says: "It takes some willpower to cut out food altogether and few people have the desire to forgo the pleasures of the dinner table."

Allyn McSerie Thriving On Musicals

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (CP). — Life is just one musical after another these days for Canadian-born Allyn McLerie, but the slender young brunette actress is thriving on it.

She was whisked out of "Where's Charley?" a few weeks ago to play a leading role in "Miss Liberty", New York's newest musical production.

"How are you standing the pace?" she was asked in an interview in her dressing room this week, just before a matinee performance.

"I'm tired," said Miss McLerie, who was born in Grand'mere Que., and brought up in Brooklyn, "but the show is going well."

She may be tired, but there's no sign of it when she is on stage, dancing, singing and acting.

"I haven't had a real holiday since June of last year," said Allyn, who is in her early 20's.

She went into rehearsal in August, 1948, for "Where's Charley?", the musical version of the old Brandon Thomas farce, "Charley's Aunt." In that show she played the ingenue role opposite Ray Bolger.

Strenuous Pace

This Spring she stepped out of "Where's Charley?" to take one of the top parts in "Miss Liberty," the joint creation of Robert Sherwood, Irving Berlin and Moss Hart. Sherwood wrote the book, Berlin the music and lyrics, and Hart directed.

"I rehearsed for two weeks for 'Miss Liberty' while still playing in 'Where's Charley'," Miss McLerie added. "It was pretty heavy going."

States Glamor Overdone In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6 (AP) — Many stars have admitted the screen is overburdened with glamor, but Eleanor Parker is one who follows through.

To prove she is no gilded bird in "the cage," she appears pregnant and with shaved head in the role. Says she:

"Glamor is played up too much in Hollywood. They sacrifice realism just to keep the girl beautiful. Nothing irks me so much as to see a girl wake up in the morning on the screen and appear like a beautiful doll with every hair in place.

"There's nothing wrong with glamor shots and leg-art. But it's out of place in some roles. You'll find the best actresses don't give a hang for glamor. Take Ingrid Bergman—she's a wonderful actress and a real beauty. But you wouldn't call her a glamor girl."

Natural Beauty

She said excess Hollywood glamor has caused the foreign film fad. "They are all so realistic," she declared, "not just pictures of glamorous personalities. Personally, I like to see a girl come out of the swimming pool with her hair wet, I think there is beauty in naturalness."

Miss Parker will appear cue-bald by means of a skull cap; her "pregnancy" will be accomplished by padding.

"The screen has always tried to avoid the pregnant woman," she added. "It looks silly when she's shown with a slim figure. Motherhood is the most wonderful thing in the world. Why should it be hidden?"

Women Given A Place On Commission

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA, Aug. 6 (CP).—The Royal Commission on Canada's Artistic and Scientific Development had the surroundings, but not the trumpets, to make a grandiose appearance on the Canadian scene.

The fact that it had no trumpets may have been the reason that only a handful of visitors pattered across the marble lobby of the Supreme Court Building to peek into the Exchequer Court chamber and watch the opening remarks.

It was a warm day, but even fewer visitors took advantage of the air-conditioned chamber to remain through two hours of hearings that marked the commission's opening.

Place For Women

A lone woman made her way to the extreme end of the panel of five commissioners. But Dr. Hilda Neatby, Professor History at the University of Saskatoon, didn't feel out of place.

She finds her relations with the four men on the commission "ideal." There are no "clashes" of temperament and work among the team of five, headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, is going along smoothly.

Strictly from a woman's point of view, Dr. Neatby believes the smooth relations stem from the fact that the Massey Commission is a "new kind of commission."

In other such bodies established by the Federal Government, the job at hand usually concerned industry and business. This one was dealing with the intellectual development of the country and its people.

It has "great possibilities," said Dr. Neatby, then she added: "They probably wanted a woman on this commission because there are going to be a lot of women's organizations appearing later on."

The Norwegians practised whale-fishery as early as the ninth century.

Send Extra Nurses Care for Indians

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6 (CP)—An outbreak of infantile diarrhoea among Indian children in the Churchill, Man., region, 600 miles north of here, has caused three deaths since July 22 military authorities reported here Friday.

Extra nurses and supplies are being prepared for the combined services camp. An isolation ward has been set up at the military hospital to care for other victims of the ailment.

First case was reported July 22. Since then 10 native children have been admitted to hospital. In addition to the three deaths attributed to infantile diarrhoea a fourth, whose cause is not yet known, is under investigation.

6—In Memoriams

HUNTER—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mamie Alzina Hunter, who passed away August 7, 1947.
Today recalls sad memories,
Of a dear mother gone to rest,
And the one who thinks of her today
Is the one who loved her best.
—Ever remembered by daughter Jean.

POST—In loving memory of Mrs. Fred Post, who passed away two years ago today.
A loving smile, a heart of gold,
Dearest mother this world could hold.
'Tis sad but true,
I wonder why,
The best are always first to die.
She never failed to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender,
She toiled too hard for those she loved
Then left them to remember.
—Ever remembered by husband and family.

7—Cards of Thanks

Mr. and Mrs. Darsey Gallagher and family wish to extend their deepest sincerity and thanks to the many neighbours and friends who so gratefully gave assistance and so widely contributed floral tributes in the bereavement of their loving daughter, Mrs. Ilene Atchison, also the attending doctors and nurse and the Rev. Authorize Solicitor To Advertise Position

WINDSOR, Aug. 6 (CP)—Metropolitan General Hospital Board with a bare quorum of six, authorized city solicitor Lorne E. Cumming to advertise the position of hospital superintendent, replacing Horace E. Atkin who resigned at the suggestion of Judge Eric W. Cross, Royal Commissioner presiding at the recent hospital probe.

Harold M. Gregory, general manager of Walker Metal Products Limited, one of the few business men on the board, was named board chairman to replace Judge Albert J. Gordon, who resigned as chairman but remained as a board member.

Final and complete report of Judge Cross is expected to be available, perhaps before another board meeting is held.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 6 (AP) — Twenty-one-year-old Gerald Becker, charged with robbery, told officers he stole to get funds to study painting and he promised Magistrate N. H. K. McDiarmid: "Some day I'm going to pay society back with my paintings." Detectives testified Becker took some $1,000 from lockers and clothing of at least 25 employees in downtown office buildings as well as $4 from the poor box of Trinity Cathedral Church.

Double Drowning During Picnic

STRATFORD, Aug. 6 (CP)—Two Stratford district youths drowned Friday night when their canoe overturned during a picnic outing.

They were identified as Lorne Elligson, 20, Newton, and Delford Scott, 17, Atwood. Both were non-swimmers.

Mishap occurred about 9:30 p.m. as pair were returning from a paddle upriver. Cries for help were heard by residents along the north bank of river and by Herbert Locke, temporary lifeguard. Locke raced to scene but when he arrived two had disappeared beneath the surface.

Crowds watched from the banks of the river as firemen and police dragged the waters. Scott's body was found early today by Locke, who returned to the area and brought up the second body about 10 minutes later.

The youths, both employed by Donegal cheese factory at Atwood, had come to Stratford to attend the cheesemakers picnic in Queen's Park. They rented a canoe from a boathouse.

This is the second double tragedy to strike in this Stratford district this week. Wednesday night Kenneth Cross, and Rita Sloan of Seaforth died when their motorcycle went out of control on the highway.

Cowboy's Blazing Gun Kills Rodeo Judge

BIG SPRING, Texas, Aug. (AP).—Bullets from a cowhand's sixgun killed a rodeo judge and an onlooking cowboy student Thursday night.

Herb Frizzell, a Brahma bull rider from Beaumont, Texas, went gunning for Judge Henry (Buck) Jones, 45, of Ranger, Texas, before a rodeo crowd of 21,500.

A bullet from a .38 calibre gun killed Jones. A wild shot killed Carl C. Myers of Abilene, 23-year-old president of the Hardin-Simmons University Rodeo Association.

Police said the shooting ended an argument that had occurred two hours earlier between Frizzell and Jones. Frizzell was charged with murder in both deaths.

HOUSE NO. 448—It is rare indeed that house and site compliment each other to the extent they do here. Each appears to be made for the other. And the picture above fails to tell the whole story, for the rear garden reaches down, by gentle slope, to the banks of a river. This is the reason all principal rooms in the house have large windows at the back—to take in the fine vista of the river and opposite shore line. After examining the floor plan shown we believe that you will agree it reveals a layout that's hard to equal. Not shown are the many built-in features, such as the dining-room corner cupboards, and the living room book shelves. Notice that there is no basement provided, and that the utility room contains the oil furnace and laundry facilities. Roof shingles are painted blue-gray, as are the shutters. Clapboards and trim are white. For further information write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Modern Compact Kitchen Requires Careful Planning

The present-day compact kitchen equipped and planned for all season efficiency, pays its biggest dividens in convenience and comfort when the hot summer months roll around.

Plenty of good-sized windows circulate the air and help keep the kitchen cool.

Careful planning of the kitchen layout is the foundation on which cool comfort is built.

According to authorities, the axis of the planned kitchen is the sink. More than 50 per cent of kitchen time is spent here, and careful planning counts most. The height, location, design, and accessories of the sink all contribute to year-round efficiency as well as summer comfort. Preferably the sink should be under one or more windows.

In the properly planned kitchen the housewife finds is unnecessary to rush from pantry to stove to sink, wasting time and energy.

Distinctive feature of the modern step and space-saving kitchen is the generous use of adequate cabinets. Wall cabinets above the kitchen fixtures and base cabinets streamlined between them at the uniform height of 36 inches can hold all the dishes, utensil, and food needed in the preparation of a meal.

In the small home built under the National Housing Administration's new low-cost plan, where space is at a premium, the selection of standardized and prefabricated kitchen equipment will not only effect substantial economies but also speed up actual construction time.

For the kitchen in a new small home the housewife may select necessary equipment from standardized stock units which includes wall and base cabinets, cabinets under the sink, and a kitchen range so constructed to fit perfectly into the streamlined ensemble effect created by the standardized units.

Plenty Of Choice

Even though these units are made in standard sizes, they are available in such a wide range of models that there is ample opportunity for the housewife to plan a kitchen reflecting her personal taste.

Colour harmony in a kitchen, carried out in a counter material with floor covering of the same colour, will go a long way toward taking the dreariness out of kitchen chores.

Home builders are cautioned not to condense the kitchen so as to make it too small for use. A kitchen can be efficeint even thought it may not be as small as a Pullman-car kitchen.

Despite the fervor for "step-saving," a happy medium should be maintained between the Pullman kitchen and the old-fashioned kitchen.

The kitchen does double duty. It serves as a cooking centre, and at the same time it is a storage place for dishes, utensils, cleaning materials, and other household gadgets and equipment.

Sufficient space for storage is of vital importance in the planning of a kitchen for a small modern home.

"Built-in" is rapidly becoming a more important word in the vocabulary of the home owner. To say that built-in furniture, cabinets, shelves, and other items of convenience constitute a trend would be an understatement. Because these items are usually located precisely where they are most needed, and because, being built in, they are always in the same place, most progressive builders believe that built-in items will become more and more permanent features of modern home building.

Two examples of built-in conveniences are illustrated here. The fold-away ironing board fits snugly in the little cabinet, thus the chore of home pressing is vastly lightened. The built-in breakfast nook shows only one of many possible styles.

No longer are these features and others like them regarded as luxuries confined to new homes. Older homes may have them, too.

Rhodesia Has 4-Year Plan

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia, Aug. 6 (CP—Southern Rhodesia's four-year plans calls for development of her steel industry, electricity service, national housing and public works.

The plan, set forth by the government this year in a white paper provides for total expenditure of £53,000,000 ($212,000,000), apart from the cost of improving railways.

Almost one-half the cost will be covered by a £21,000,000 loan to be raised on the London market during the four-year period.

The Electricity Supply Commission is granted £5,000,000 for "very modest expansion" during the period; the Rhodesian Iron and Steel Commission receives £4,200,000.

It is proposed to expand one steel works to provide for output of 170,000 tons of pig iron yearly. It is estimated this would cover the needs of the central African territories—southern and northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland—during the next six years.

The plan also provides for further expansion of the steel industry after 1955 to meet any increased demand and cover the possibility of export.

Hastings Beats Frankford 7-6

HASTINGS, Aug. 6.—(ENS).—Hastings defeated Frankford 7-6 Friday night in a thrill-packed T. V.L. tilt, that sent the fans home talking to themselves. This was a do or die effort for both teams and the win gave Hastings 4th place in the standing, the last spot in the playoffs and blasted Frankford's hopes. Payne, pitching for Hastings, was in trouble several times, but got stronger as went along.

In the 8th Frankford filled the bases on a hit, walk and error, but Hastings settled down for the next two at the plate and the third on an outfield fly.

Boyle pitched good ball for Frankford, but Hastings bunched their hits at the right time, and were only stopped from piling up more runs by some sparkling defense work by Frankford infield.

3 City Officials Inspect Stratford's Fine Parks

STRATFORD, August 6.—Civic pride and spirit of any community can be gauged by its parks and recreational facilities, Dr. Herbert Young, chairman of the park committee of the Peterborough City Council, declared this week at City Hall.

Dr. Young, Ald. Hurrell Dodds, chairman of the Peterborough Board of Works and Armar Butcher, superintendent of Parks, Peterborough, were in Stratford to visit the city's parks playgrounds, the arena and the Board of Works.

The delegation from Peterborough was met at City Hall by T. J. Dolan, chairman of Stratford's Board of Parks management; Ald. A. B. Monteith, chairman of the finance committee, City Council; Ald. R. W. Hardwick, chairman of the planning and development committee, City Council; R. T. Orr and F. M. Gifford, members of the Parks management board, and A. G. Walsh, Stratford park superintendent.

"We are visiting numerous cities and looking over their parks and recreational facilities so as to improve ours in Peterborough," Dr. Young said.

The party visited Queen's Park, the picnic grounds, the Shakespearean Garden, the Avon River Drive, several school playgrounds, the Classic City Arena and the Board of Works department.

The Peterborough party arrived in Stratford Wednesday night.

"I always have heard Stratford is a friendly city . . . now I know it," Dr. Young declared, when meeting city officials.

The three Peterborough officials were guests of the Stratford officials at the luncheon at the Country Club.

Prior to their visit here, the Peterborough men visited St. Catharines, Kitchener and Galt.

Facts gleaned during their trip will be placed before the Peterborough City Council for action, Dr. Young said.

Would Ban Sun Dress

MONTREAL, Aug. 6 (CP)—A by-law banning sun dresses that bare women's shoulders and midriff has been drafted by the city's law department and will be submitted to the executive committee for study next week, it was learned Friday. The by-law also is aimed at outlawing shorts and types of dresses considered "indecent" by the city administration.

Property Owners Find They Can't Pay Tax

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6 (AP) — A number of Shanghai property owners said Friday they were utterly unable to pay realty tax bills presented by Communist authorities.

The taxes are, in effect, 100,000 times greater than formerly.

To try to keep up with the wildly-inflated Nationalist gold yuan, the Nationalists had assessed taxes on the 1948 basis multiplied by 100. The Communists have used this formula but are billing in Communist dollars. Since they had redeemed the old gold yuan at 100,000 to one Communist dollar, the effect is a tax multiplied by 100,000.

Beats Jimmy Brewer

SUTTON, Aug. 6.—Tom Royal, driven by C. Budd of Woodville, scored a straight-heat victory in the .228 pace at the Sutton Horse Show and Fair race committee meet here Friday. The two-day meet concludes today. Minto Direct won a thrilling victory over Jimmy Brewer in the hotly contested .218 class trot or pace.

Made Chief Officer

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Aug. 6 (CP)—Promotion of Dr. Frank D. Brent, of Kitchener, as chief medical officer of Mackenzie Hospital here was announced Friday. He succeeds Dr. Donald S. Gibbs who recently left British Guiana to practise privately in the United States. Dr. Brent, a member of both the Canadian and the Ontario Medical Associations, first came to British Guiana in October, 1947.

Car Upsets In Ditch

RIGAUD, Que., Aug. 6 (CP)—A Montreal woman was killed and two men, including her son, were seriously injured Friday when the automobile in which they were riding overturned after landing in a ditch at Dragon, three miles from here. Rigaud is about 35 miles west of Montreal. Dead is Mrs. Albert Charron, 62. Taken to hospital in Lachine, a Montreal suburb, were her son, Albert Charron, Jr., and Jean Paul Poirier, 30, of Verdun, driver of the car.

Burgled From Smart Set Now Retired In Sing Sing

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y.—(AP)—If ever a criminal had cause to regret the old French police maxim about finding the woman, it's suave, handsome Gerard Graham Dennis. Sleek-haired, blue-eyed Dennis at 29 is a retired gentleman burglar, currently residing in the steel-barred Hudson River retreat known as Sing Sing Prison. But for eight years—possibly much longer—he operated freely as one of the most efficient thieves in the history of the nation.

If he had stuck to his well-developed routine he might still be causing police consternation. But being human, Jerry Dennis became a little bit careless — about hock shops and a lady who talked.

Law enforcement officials in Westchester County, New York, the scene of his fanciest operations, frankly described him as "fabulous." They also called him ruthless, cold-blooded and cautious. By the time a detective caught up with him in Cleveland, Dennis had acquired illegally jewels and furs estimated in value between $600,000 and $1,000,000.

Perfect Operator.

"I hate to describe his operations in full," commented District Attorney George M. Fanelli, "because if anyone could write the perfect handbook on how to be a successful burglar, Dennis is the man."

For - his work in Westchester, Dennis was sentenced to serve from 18 years to life imprisonment after he pleaded guilty at the outset of his trial. He was sentenced on each of seven counts, the sentences to run concurrently, and will not be eligible for parole until after 12 years.

After that, however, he still has two years to serve in a Canadian jail, from which he escaped. Both California and Canadian officials have additional charges against him.

Briefly, Dennis used snob tactics in his meticulous operations. He watched the society pages for tips on parties of the top-drawer set. This knowledge he combined with a fine sense of wealthy neighborhoods.

Shrewd Evaluator

"The people I took from valued their jewels for the amount of envy and prestige they would create," Dennis told authorities when he was amiably co-operating in cleaning up his case.

After he learned about his prospective victims and their way of living, Dennis usually waited until a party was scheduled in the house. Then, wearing a mask and gloves and carrying a gun, he would break into the house while the party was in progress.

While the people in the house were busy downstairs, Dennis quietly entered upstairs rooms and selected the most valuable jewels with a practised eye. Occasionally he would make off with a fur coat, but it had to be extremely fine mink or better.

"He was such a neat workman that you couldn't tell later that he had rifled the place," police said. "Sometimes it was days before people realized that their best jewelry had been stolen and not just mislaid."

He never operated in New York City or other highly populated places, as far as Westchester authorities have been able to determine. He liked the wealthy suburbs and that made rich Westchester and the outlying homes of Hollywood's movie stars a target for his specialty.

Poses As Salesman

Dennis didn't stop playing it smart when he had stolen his loot. He did a masterly job of disposing of his hot merchandise by posing as a gem salesman.

Dressed in natty clothes and equipped with a casual manner, tissue-paper packets of unset stones and a phony letterhead, he called on jewelers all over the country. The unsuspecting jewelers paid wholesale prices for the stones.

For all his nonchalant frankness in telling about his burglaries, Dennis was curiously reticent about his childhood and youth in Canada. Under pressure, he did mention his father had disappeared when he was very young. His mother, a fine woman, authorities said, supported her several children by giving music lessons.

District Attorney Fanelli said Dennis had been convicted of 14 crimes in Canada, ranging from breaking and entering to assisting in an abortion. He went to jail for the first time at 16. It was on the abortion charge that Dennis was serving time when he escaped eight years ago.

It was interesting to note that the complainant in that case was a girl with whom he subsequently lived as husband and wife in this country. She has since married and police throughout have tried to shield her and the child she bore Dennis from publicity.

Abandoned Caution

The end of the road for the latter-day Raffles began when he struck up an acquaintance with a model named Gloria Horowitz, known as Howard. He posed as a Canadian who had fallen heir to some family gems. Abandoning his usual caution, Dennis asked her to sell some diamond earrings in Philadelphia.

But police caught up with Miss Horowitz there and she, frightened, told them everything she knew about the man and led them to a New York city apartment she had visited with Dennis. Police broke into the apartment and besides a roomful of Dennis' furniture, found a number of pictures of the shadowy thief in a taped desk drawer.

But they failed to have the apartment watched and Dennis dropped in shortly, saw the broken tapes and moved out his furniture.

The trail then led to his handsome home in the Bronx, where Dennis fled out the back door as police were debating in front how to crash in. At that point New Rochelle detective Maurice Kelly was assigned to the case. Kelly caught up with Dennis two years later in Cleveland — on a tip from a jeweler who had seen Dennis' picture on circular broadcast over the country.

Co-operative Now

As a prisoner, Dennis proved unusually co-operative. For a time it seemed as though every unsolved burglary in the country for years would be attributed to him. When he was arrested he had a list of movie star "prospects" in his pocket. His expensive Beverly Hills apartment turned up an attractive Canadian school teacher, thousands of dollars worth of loot and a trunk of gold, platinum and silver settings.

With a bored air, Dennis pointed out one foray.

Then, after a day spent helping police trace some of his unset gems, Dennis acted on impulse again and made a dash for freedom. Seven minutes and six shots in the air later, he was back in custody.

"This man," summed up the district attorney, "was a terrific operator. But like all other criminals, he had a terrific ego. I guess that's really the thing that caught up with him."

Avoids Collision

GALT, Aug. 6 — (CP) — To avoid a head-on collision as a car attempted to pass him and another which was approaching, Orville Dunham of Hamilton, swung his big transport loaded with steel and builders' supply to the ditch near here early today. The truck rolled over in a field, pinning the driver in the cab.

An eye-witness said neither of the motorists stopped, but Leonard Scheerer of Hespeler arrived in his truck and freed Dunham, who suffered only a bruised leg.

More American Dollars Held Vital To Remedy Britain's Money Woes

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON, (NEA)—Even n the view of the most ardent supporters of Labor, it is already too late to remedy the British situation without additional U.S. aid.

His Majesty's Government may soon have to go a third time to Washington to ask for more dollars.

Will the American people, it is asked here, give and give again? Are they ready to embark upon bigger and costlier Marshall Plans? Those who believe that the security of a democratic Europe depends largely on a strong Britain hope that the United States—for its own security if for no other reason—will be generous a third time.

In order to achieve a mythical socialism, Lenin (and Stalin after him) thought little of sacrificing the Russian people. In the Soviet "experiment," the ordinary Ivan became a tiny screw in a vast totalitarian machine. But Britain was and remains one of the most democratic states of our time.

The common people count in the concerns of those who govern them. And the British people, after a decade of austerity and belt-tightening, are physically and morally tired.

The top labor leaders are tired, too. The casualty list among them is extremely high. Little new blood has been injected into the Labor Party during the past four years. Should the present leadership be forced to retire, there would be none to replace it.

Wiser heads, like Herbert Morrison, Labor's brilliant Parliamentary whip, and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, foresaw the dangers of rapid over-nationalization. But they were too weak to resist the pressure of the Harold Laskis and the other "Marxists" who clamoured for "socialism in our time."

Thus, England is today neither socialist nor capitalist.

The well-to-do are still able to live lavishly on their past earnings and even on their present profits, however restricted and diminished. The middle class is being taxed out of existence. The standard of living of the workers—on whose behalf the Labor Government is courting all this trouble—has not declined. But it also has not improved much over the wartime austerity level.

Ever since the arrival in Europe of John Snyder, U.S. Secretary of the Treasury, persistent rumors are current, both in London and Paris, that the State Department is about to abandon its support of the "non-Communist Left," as represented by the Labor Government and Henri Queuille's middle-of-the-road coalition in France.

These rumors are partly attributed to a statement made by Henri Reynaud, former French Premier, following his return from Washington some weeks ago.

According to Reynaud, the days of the Queuille government are numbered because Congress is now on the warpath against state planning and the nationalization of industries in Europe.

Well-informed diplomats doubt these rumors. The State Department, they say, is only too well aware that the death of the "Third Force" governments would create a vacuum in Europe which only the Communists would be in a position to fill.

Ask Farm Ponds Be Developed

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 6 (CP)—An intensive investigation to determine suitable locations for farm ponds in Brant County was urged today in a brief submitted to the Ontario Legislature's Select Committee on Conservation.

The brief was prepared by representatives of Brant County, Brantford City and Township Councils, the Board of Trade, the Department of Agriculture and other organizations within the county.

County Engineer Roger M. Lee reported that the larger matters of water conservation and the regulation of steam flow were being undertaken by the Department of Planning and Development, the Grand Valley and Big Creek authorities, and the Grand River Conservation Commission.

"But the matter of farm ponds has not received sufficient consideration," the brief stated.

"We urge that the entire area be surveyed to determine the locations that are suitable and that engineering service and tax relief or some other form as assistance be given the owners to undertake this work."

Thieves Get $6,000 Payroll As Vault Cracked In Construction Office

Employees Find Robbery On Way To Work Window, Cupboard Jimmied, Police Believe Layout Carefully Studied

TORONTO, Aug. 8—(CP)—Police said today thieves stole a payroll of $6,000 and a cash box containing $500 from the frame office of Anglin-Norcross Construction Co., on the site of the new Toronto Hospital for Sick Children. The theft, believed to have been committed during the week-end, was discovered early today by employees on their way to work. Police said the thieves forced a window and jimmied a brick cupboard to get at the money.

Company officials said the money was part of an original payroll of $10,000 which had been partially distributed.

Police said a light wrecking bar was found on the floor near the cupboard. It was taken to headquarters for fingerprinting.

Police said the thieves had obviously studied the layout beforehand and are questioning company employees in connection with their theory.

The company office has no burglar alarm, officials said.

Frost, Winters Begin Talks About Housing

TORONTO, Aug. 8 (CP) — Reconstruction Minister Winters went into conference with Premier Frost of Ontario today in an effort to solve some of Ontario's housing problems.

Before going into the closed meeting, Mr. Winters told reporters no definite agreement will be reached today.

"But we want to hear what Ontario has to say. We, the Federal Government, have very definite ideas as we go into this conference, but we are making no proposals.

"We sincerely want to help Ontario. We want to hear what Mr. Frost has to say. We are not going to sit back and say, 'It's all up to you.' We will offer whatever we can."

He said he will be back to Ottawa from today's meeting to consider the discussions.

Mr. Winters, who will confer Friday with Premier Duplessis of Quebec, already has discussed housing problems with the premiers of Nova Scotia, British Columbia and Manitoba in a solution to Canada's housing scarcity.

He will travel to Western Canada the week of Aug. 21 to confer with the premiers of all the western provinces, including those he has already met. He also will meet the Maritime premiers.

Suggests Union For 7 Countries

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8—(AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.), who wants seven democratic countries including Canada to join in a Federal Union something like the United States' Union of 48 states, said today that "Congress is far behind the people on this subject."

On behalf of a group of 20 senators, Kefauver has introduced a resolution asking the President to invite Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxembourg to a "Federal Convention" to explore how far they can apply to themselves "the principles of free federal union" within the framework of the United Nations.

When asked whether he thinks the seven Atlantic powers can go as far in forming a federal union as the 13 American States did, Kefauver replied:

"Not quite that far, to begin with. But I think they might set up a common foreign policy, common defence, common currency, postal system, and trade relations."

Acheson Warns U.S. Now Open To Attack

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson to-day urged Congress to approve the $1,450,000,000 foreign arms assistance program because "the United States is open to attack on its own territory to a greater extent than ever before."

Acheson told the Senators that the Western European Allies of the United States now are so weak in military power that their situation is an invitation to any would-be aggressor to strike.

"The first line of defence is still in Europe," Acheson said, "but our European Allies do not have the military capacity to hold that line."

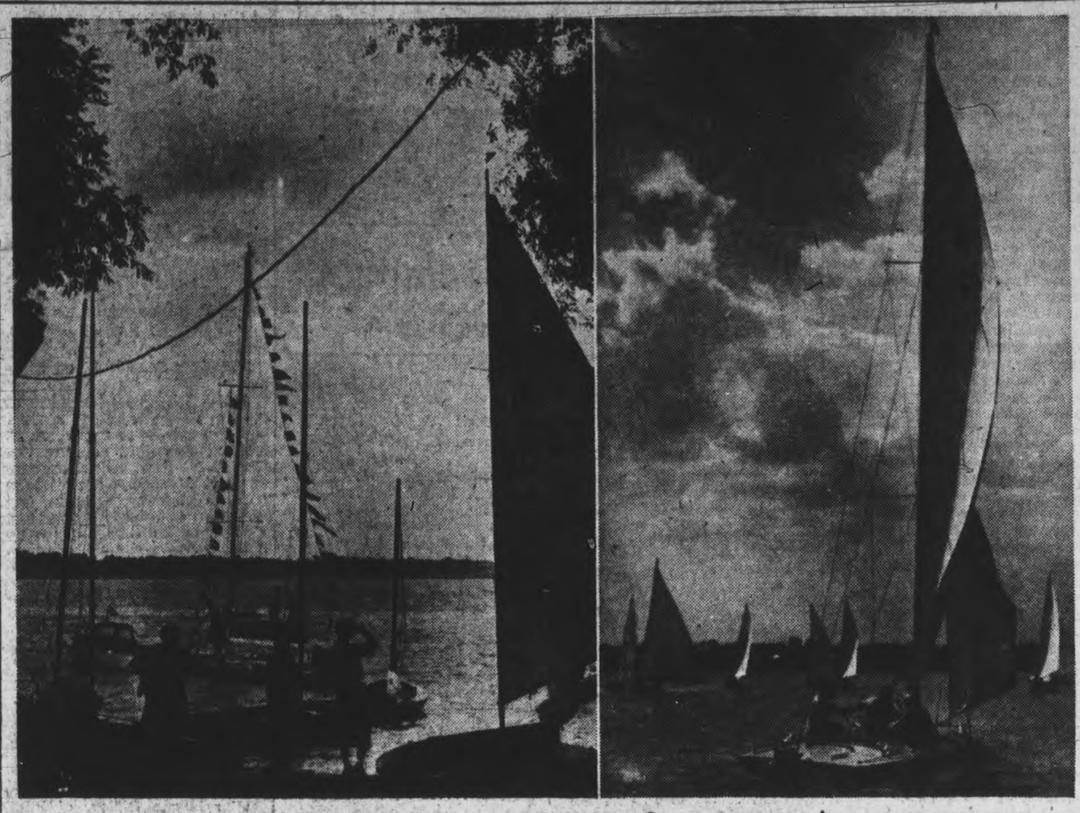
13 Firefighters Die In Montana

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 8—(AP)—Fire hundred firefighters hurled their might today at the flaming three-mile front of a timber blaze that since Friday has killed 13 Forest-Service men and burned nearly 8,000 acres.

Armed with axes and shovels, two separate battalions of smoke-blackened men attacked from the north and south on 7,500-foot Willow mountain. They struggled to seal off the fire's northeastward movement toward more heavy timber in the gates of the mountain's forest 25 miles northeast of Helena.

Wilderness area hills and small parties of fire-fighters had checked the flames in the rest of the 21-mile perimeter seared by the blaze.

Showers slowed the advance of the flames Sunday but a 20-mile-an-hour wind fanned the fire in the north-eastern section.



Fifteen smoke-jumpers, mostly college students, were trapped by fire when the wind shifted suddenly after they were safely on the ground at Mann Gulch. Only three escaped.

4 Cling To Dinghy 3 Hours Till Rescue

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 8—(CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacNichol of Orange, N.Y., and Mrs. Edward Thornton of Missouri were rescued from Lake Ontario late Sunday after clinging to a capsized sailing dinghy for three hours.

The party had borrowed the dinghy at 3 p.m. and when they did not return by 7:30 p.m., Prof. Gregory Vlastos of Cornell University, formerly of Kingston, owner of the boat, Collin Wright and David Whatham, resort operator, began searching for them.

They were found at 10:15 p.m. clinging to the overturned dinghy, nearly exhausted. They said a squall capsized the dinghy three hours earlier.

ABOUT TWENTY SAILING CRAFT of different classes took part in the annual sailing races on Saturday afternoon at Chemong Lake. Using Gordon S. Matthews' summer home as "clubhouse" and starting point, boats from Stony and Sturgeon Lakes competed with Chemong sailors. Preparations for the first event are shown in the UPPER LEFT photo as boats are rigged on the waterfront. Mr. Matthew's "Skidley" is shown jockeying for position in the open event, UPPER RIGHT. Three dinghies, close-hauled on the first lap of the first event, are shown in the LOWER photo.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Jamming Polls For Strike Vote

DETROIT, Aug. 8 (AP)—Ford workers jammed polling areas and temporarily blocked traffic near the Dearborn Rouge plant as a state-conducted strike vote began today.

Officials of the State Labor Mediation Board estimated 4,000 out of 60,000 Rouge employees had voted within the first two hours.

Voters will decide whether they will authorize their officers in the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) to call a strike. Authorization does not necessarily mean a strike will occur.

Two Hitch-Hiking Thugs Abduct, Beat Taxi Driver

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 8—(CP)—Provincial Police were still scouring Western Ontario today for two youthful hitch-hiking thugs who early Saturday beat 51-year-old James Harley Meyers and robbed him of $20 after abducting him for about eight hours. Police at Waterloo questioned two suspects but later released them after two men answering the description of the wanted pair, hired a taxi at Brantford Saturday and were taken to the twin-city.

The taxi driver said that one of the pair appeared drunk while his companion talked only about the weather along the route.

Meyers, in "fair" condition after his wild birthday ride, said through swollen lips:

"I wouldn't pick up another hitch-hiker even if it was the King of England."

Meyers gave this account of the attack:

"Between 8.30 and 8.45 p.m., Friday night I was driving my automobile from Watford to Tillsonburg and was alone in the car. I picked up a couple of well-dressed fellows, just east of London. One of them got in the back and the other in the seat beside me.

"At Ingersoll, it happened! Suddenly, I felt something poking me in the back. It felt like a gun."

Mr. Meyers, a transport driver for a Watford firm was going to Tillsonburg to see his wife.

"Head for Woodstock!" the man in the back seat ordered.

"He kept jabbing me in the back every once in a while and I knew he meant business." Meyers said.

Sometime later, Mr. Meyers was ordered to head to Paris, then to Brantford. And then, west along No. 53 highway back toward Woodstock.

About three miles east of the Eastwood junction of No. 2 and 53 highways, Mr. Meyers said his six-year-old car seized when the radiator boiled over.

"Then they forced me out on the road and started beating me. They kicked me in the ribs, punched me in the neck and face and I don't remember what else."

About 4.30 a.m., provincial police [illegible] a dishevelled, severely beaten man had stumbled to his house for help.

14 Brought To Hospital After Truck-Car Smash-Up

OWEN SOUND, Aug. 8—(CP)—Fourteen persons were brought to hospital here early Sunday following a car-truck collision seven miles east of here. None was seriously injured.

Involved were a truck, in which one girl and six young men were returning to Owen Sound from a dance at Sauble Beach, and a car, in which Jerry Wesley and his wife and five children were on their way from Owen Sound to their home at Allenford.

Norman Brown of Owen Sound, driver of the truck, suffered a broken knee-cap and Mrs. Wesley suffered a fractured jaw, three broken ribs. The others were less seriously injured.

Others injured were Mr. Wesley and the five children, whose ages range from three to 15 years, and Delores Rhodes, James Porteous and Max and George Penner, all of Owen Sound, Harvey Nuhn of Markdale and Don Irwin of London, Ont.

Members of the Wesley family had to break the windows of their car to escape. Passengers in the truck, three of whom, including the girl, were riding in the back, were thrown in every direction. The truck rolled over several times and was wrecked.

Sweltering Heat Wave Grips Western Canada

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8 (CP)—A sweltering heat-wave took a firm grip on Western Canada during the week-end, with temperatures registering above 100 degrees in sections of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Moose Jaw Saturday recorded the highest temperature in its history, 107 degrees.

A high temperature of 10.8 in Winnipeg prompted a photographer for the Winnipeg Free Press to try for the old novelty shot. He succeeded in frying an egg on the sidewalk.

Fire Damages Ferry Boat In Maritimes

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Aug. 8 (CP) — The Princess Helene, 4,055-ton passenger-cargo ferry which is a vital link in the Canadian Pacific Railway's service between New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, will be laid up a week as a result of an early morning flash fire today in her hold.

Canadian Pacific steamship officials said the vessel would go into dry dock here. No estimate of damage was immediately available. Damage was mostly smoke and water, confined to the hold.

Twenty - eight automobiles aboard the vessel were driven off under their own power and only three suffered minor damage. Fifty passengers, who were spending the night aboard, and all crew members escaped uninjured.

A company official said it would be difficult to estimate damage. The 106 tons of cargo in the vessel's hold was made up of small carload lots of articles such as cotton, sugar and cigarets.

The fire occurred about an hour and 45 minutes before the vessel left her berth here on her 45-mile run across the Bay of Fundy to Digby, N.S.

The official said the blaze was caused when a bale of cotton being loaded into the hold ignited after breaking an electric light bulb. Firemen poured tons of water into the hold during their two-hour battle to control the fire and were hampered by dense smoke.

New Austrian Army Plans Split Covernment Ranks

VIENNA, Aug. 7.—(Reuters).—Differences, so profound as to portend serious party strife in the near future, have developed regarding the nature of the new Austrian army provided for in the latest draft of the Austrian peace treaty.

The differences have arisen not only between the Government parties and the Communist opposition, but also between the People's party and the Socialists—the two branches of the coalition which forms the government.

In interviews given to the press immediately after the Paris conference communique was issued, the chancellor, Dr. Figl, leader of the People's party, said that an Austrian army must be ready for service by the time the Allied troops withdrew.

He said that the Austrian Government would ask the permission of the Allies to begin preparations by Sept. 1 for the formation of at least a part of the army, so that this part would be ready for service by the time Allied troops withdraw from Austria.

This, he explained, would prevent there being any gap between the withdrawal of the Allied troops and the formation of an Austrian army which might be used by adventurers at home, or from abroad, to try forcibly to change the political system in Austria.

From various speeches and articles from leading People's party sources, it is clear that the People's party thinks of the Austrian army—limited to 53,000 men including frontier guards, anti-aircraft units, gendarmerie and river guards—as a standing army with a solid corps of regular officers supported by limited conscription.

The Communists violently disagree with this idea.

5,000 Victims Reported In Ambato Alone; Four Towns Wiped Out

Cabinet Men Draft Emergency Measure To Begin Immediate Rebuilding; Mercy Plane Crashes Killing 34 Aboard

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Aug. 8—(Reuters)—The death toll in the Ecuador earthquake was estimated today by officials at 9,241. Deaths in the town of Ambato alone were said to have reached 5,000. The Ecuadorian cabinet voted in emergency session Sunday night to take immediate action on President Galo Plaza Lasso's plans to rebuild the stricken areas—most populous in Ecuador.

The Defence Ministry said 2,000 troops were on duty in the worst hit zones and order was being maintained.

Communications were being restored slowly as the Ecuadorian Air Force ferried doctors, nurses and medical aid to thousands of injured.

Three planes of the United States Caribbean Air Command Sunday took six tons of relief supplies from Balboa to Quito. They included blood plasma, serums and drugs.

The President, back from a tour of the ravaged areas, said some of the scenes of suffering rivalled even the "most Dantesque" imagination.

Four Towns Gone

Four towns which virtually disappeared from the map were Guano, Patate, Pelileo, and Pillaro.

Eye-witnesses returning from Ambato, largest city to receive the full force of the shocks, said the ravaged area now is only a cemetery where the odor of death is almost unbearable.

Frantic relatives who sought their way into the earthquake area in search of loved ones, found mountains of debris instead of communities.

The Patate River was blocked by a mountainslide which created a lake at the foot of the old town of Patate.

The catastrophe was responsible for another tragedy late on Saturday when a mercy plane crashed in the quake area, killing all 34 persons aboard.

The dead were identified as four government officials, two crew members, and 28 Shell Oil Company employees.

Peterborough Rinks Defeated In Toronto

Two Peterborough rinks were defeated by the same score, 15 to 13, as the fifteenth Ontario Provincial Lawn Bowling Tournament began to-day in Toronto in competition for the Eaton Memorial Trophy for four-man teams.

One hundred and twenty-eight teams from the United States and Canada started play at six Toronto clubs and it was the first time in several years that no first-day defaults were recorded.

The Peterborough skips defeated were Harold Freeman, who was matched against J. Doughney, Toronto, and George Gimblett, who lost to J. A. Herbert, Ottawa.

European Council Convenes In Strasbourg

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 8—(AP)—The flags of 10 countries bedeck this little city on the Rhine to welcome represtatives of those countries who today begin the first session of the council of Europe.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Ireland—the charter members—meet today at the medieval Strasbourg city hall, in a step toward a federated continent.

Today's conferees comprise the committee of ministers of the council. They may be compared to the government of Europe, if a federated continent comes into being.

Wednesday, the council's first consultative assembly meets. The assembly is a parliament. It is made up of delegations from the parliaments of the member countries.

To Extend Frontiers

The council is prepared to extend its frontiers into southeastern Europe with the formal addition of Greece and Turkey to the present membership.

British official sources said the foreign ministers committee, the council's executive arm, will approve membership for the two applicants at its first sitting this afternoon.

The most colorful figure in the assembly will be Britain's wartime leader, Winston Churchill, post-war enthusiast for welding together the victor and the vanquished as one strong unit.

Police Curb Zoot-Suiters

AYR, Ont., Aug. 8 (CP)—Zoot-suited, brass knuckled, teen-agers cavorated into this Waterloo County town Sunday night all set to stage a full-fledged gang war but Provincial Police had the jump on them. They broke up the gangs before the fight started.

Twelve youths from the Guelph area have been arrested and charged with creating a disturbance. Their names are not immediately available.

Police said the youths came to Ayr to avenge a beating given two of their members two weeks ago. At that time the youths had vowed they would be back with their gang.

An estimated crowd of 300 watched the rumpus.

Boy Throws So Well Closes Concession

PALISADES PARK, N.J., Aug. 8 (UP)—Sixteen-year-old Bobby Pritchard of Newark, N.J., completely cleaned out a ball throwing concession here Sunday. He knocked down 3,000 consecutive milk bottles.

The youth won every prize on the concession's shelves, for the first time in the history of the amusement park, and walked away with more than 400 assorted kewpie dolls, stuffed animals, figurines and pieces of china. He hired three cabs to take his prizes home.

The concessionaire, who had to rush to a warehouse to get additional prizes for tonight's business, said young Pritchard spent only $1, since he took many free throws in place of prizes.

Boat Upsets 4 Boys Lose Lives

Say Over-Crowding Causes Tragedy On Teen-Age Picnic

LAPRAIRIE, Que., Aug. 8 (CP) —A teen-age picnic ended in tragedy Saturday when four boys from Verdun, Que., were drowned. Their over-loaded motorboat capsized in the St. Lawrence River 250 feet from shore.

Those drowned were considered the best swimmers of the nine and had struck out for shore when they went under.

The tragedy brought to 14 the number of persons drowned in the Montreal area during the hot week-end, which saw thousands bathing in the rivers of the district. Laprairie is on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, about 10 miles from Montreal.

The dead in the accident here were: Raymond Levesque, 20, Andre Montbriant, 16, Ronald Charron, 18, and Andre Lavoie, 18, all of Verdun.

Five Saved

Those rescued were: Charles MacKay, 16, and his 13-year-old brother, Dennis; Clovis Mosiaque, 14, Jean Guy Bruyere, 18, and Jean Claude Dussault, 18, all from Verdun.

Police blamed overcrowding of the small boat for the accident.

The nine boys had been holding an all-day picnic at the summer home of R. N. MacKay, father of Charles and Dennis.

Charles MacKay was at the tiller and when the boat was about 250 feet from shore, he shouted to the boys in front: "Move back a little in case the waves start getting rough."

Two boys stood up and attempted to move back. The boat rocked and suddenly tipped, tossing all nine into 15 feet of water.

Polish Authorities RC Priest Attacks

WARSAW, Aug. 8 —(AP)—A Roman Catholic priest here Sunday attacked "attempts to discredit the priests and the Pope."

The priest was not identified because Polish authorities might regard his sermon as hostile to the government, which Saturday ordered penalties up to death for violation of a citizen's "freedom of conscience."

Churches all over predominantly Roman Catholic Poland were jammed Sunday for the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the ordination of Archbishop Stefan Weszynski, primate of Poland.

The priest who came to the defence of the Pope and Roman Catholic clergy, urged his parishioners to "pray for the Pope and the nation."

Speaking of the attacks, he said "We fully realize where such accusations come from and why and who is spreading them."

Youths Push Car Off Cliff

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 8.—(CP). —Two youths who admitted pushing an automobile over a 75-foot embankment because one couldn't afford to keep up finace company payments will be sentenced today on public mischief charges.

Archibald Sackville, 22, of Oxford St. W., and Jack Lawrence, 21, of nearby Komoka, pleaded guilty to the charges Saturday. They were remanded in custody for sentence.

Magistrate E. J. R. Wright told them: "This is one of the most stupid things I have ever heard, and you two are about as stupid as I have ever seen."

Police said Sackville gave a statement in which he said he was unable to keep up payments on the $135 still owing on the car, so he asked his friend Lawrence to help him get rid of it.

Farmhand Dies Struck By Car

BOWMANVILLE, Aug. 8 (ENS) —Stewart Bratley, 69-year-old farmhand of Darlington township, two miles west of Bowmanville was instantly killed at . . p.m. on Saturday when he was struck by a car. He was crossing the main highway to get to a side road leading to his home. Driver of the car was Philip Nedham, 11 Marquette Ave., Toronto.

Nedham told Provincial Constable R. Kowal that the man loomed up in front only 50 feet away. He applied his brakes, but had no chance to avoid hitting the victim, who had walked out from behind another vehicle which had just started off in the opposite direction.

Coroner Dr. R. McDerment of Port Hope said that the victim died of a fractured skull. Other injuries included two fractured legs and a broken shoulder. He is conferring with Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg on whether or not there will be an inquest.

Youth Is Sentenced To Jail For 15 Days

Fifteen days in jail was the sentence imposed on Lorne Fontained, 19, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, who found Fontaine guilty in police court today of stealing $2.50 and a compact from Nancy Bosworth, a visitor from West Virginia.

Fontaine, who lives at 146 Aylmer St. was charged with stealing the money at Pine Pavilion, Chemong Park. Fontaine's defence counsel, John Corkery, asked the court to be lenient and award a suspended sentence because the evidence against Fontaine was circumstantial and he had no previous record, although the circumstances were suspicious.

"They were more than suspicious," Magistrate Philp observed. He said he was keeping in mind there had been no previous record when he imposed the 15-day sentence. The magistrate said he found that Murray Nice, 581 Douglas Ave. was not an accomplice in the theft.

Drinkers Beat Mounties, Eight Arrested

WALLACEBURG, Aug. 8 —(CP)—Provincial police officers within a 75-mile radius were called to aid in quelling a near-riot on Walpole Island early Sunday after two RCMP constables were beaten when they tried to break up a noisy drinking party.

Several hours after Constables Gordon Pritchard and Dave Riddle, both of Wallaceburg, escaped from a group of 11 Chippewas, 25 provincial officers went to the island and arrested eight persons, including two women. All have been charging with assaulting peace officers.

Scheduled to appear in Lambton County Court today are Eddie Shipman, Standord Shipman, Wellington Shipman, Kingsley Sands, Noah Shipman, Mabel Shipman, Mabel Johnson and Norris Kiyoshk.

The row was the second on the reserve in two weeks. Andrew Kiyoshk, a relative of one of the men charged in the latest outburst was killed July 21 in a brawl following a drinking party. Two men were arrested in connection with his death but they were released last Thursday after a coroner's jury returned a verdict that Kiyoshk had died from injuries inflicted by persons unknown.

Constables Pritchard and Riddle were examined at Chatham General hospital following their escape from the island. Their injuries were found to be minor. Both suffered multiple bruises and abrasions about their faces and bodies.

Although the RCMP revealed few details of the affray, it was learned the constables were on a routine patrol when they heard a noise from the beach. The constables found 11 persons, including four women alighting from a small boat. Some of the group had been drinking and some still had beer in their possession.

Seek Mystery Man Asking Questions About McKays

TORONTO, Aug. 8—(CP)—A man who made inquiries about a Toronto couple later found slain is being sought for questioning. The search for the inquisitive stranger is the latest development in the investigation of the gunshot deaths of Gloria and Robert McKay, who were slain while driving from the Barrie area to Toronto a week ago tonight. Police believe their killer may have been a hitch-hiker.

On the day the McKays were shot to death, a man asked about them at a service station and a general store in the Minesing area, near Barrie, about 60 miles north of here. The McKays spent the Civic holiday week-end on a farm near Minesing.

The man first appeared at Dougall's gas station, about five miles west of Minesing, and asked directions to the Langelaan farm, where Mr. and Mrs. McKay were staying. Later the same day, about noon, the same man asked similar questions at the Minesing general store. He never appeared at the farm.

May Provide Lead

Police believe that if the man can be found, he may be able to provide some lead to the solution of the slaying mystery. So far, police have been unable to establish a motive for the killing of the young couple.

Police during the week-end questioned a farm laborer, Helge Lemmell, who rode from Minesing to Barrie with the McKays two days before the slayings. Investigators said Lemmell could shed no new light on the killing.

Meanwhile, search continues for the gunman who shot down Alfred Layng, 25, July 31 while fleeing from a robbed groceteria in east-central Toronto.

Farmers Expect Good Harvest

ESTEVAN, Sask., Aug. 8 (CP) —Farm combines rumbled down dusty country roads in the southeast corner of Saskatchewan today to golden wheat fields soon to be stripped.

The week-end's intensive heat —the mercury was over the 100-degree mark both Saturday and Sunday — has speeded ripening. Harvesting should be in full swing in the area late this week. At last the perpetual fear of drought has been replaced by farmers' confidence of a good crop. And in this district noted chiefly as a coal-producing area, good crops have not been frequent.

There still is the danger of unpredictable hail—the hail danger increases with the heat—and further ravages by grasshoppers.

Already a trickle of the avalanche of grain to come is on its way to country elevators. Threshing crews are being assembled and the drone of tractors can be heard far into the night.

Industrials Feature Brisk Exchange Session

TORONTO, Aug. 8 — (CP). — Industrials and base metals featured a brisk session here to-day. Selected industrial stocks gained steadily on advances ranging from fractions to more than one point and base metals were in moderate demand for strong advances. Golds were the only losers, sliding slightly from early firmness.

Papers held the spotlight in the gaining industrial list with Powell River leading the way on a gain of 1¼ at 39. Liquors, steels, foods and refining oils also brightened. Opening losses were wiped out as the session progressed and gains appeared steadily.

Consolidated Smelters featured base metals, adding $1 at $100 in busy dealings. International Nickel and Noranda were strong fractionally and Sherritt Gordon was the most active stock for a 10-cent advance at $2.50 after absorbing some early realizing sales.

Discusses Fund

Miss Miame Ridley, of Flint, Mich., director of the Penny-a-day Mission Fund, stressed in a talk that the penny-a-day was over and above the tithe. She reported that there were two hundred missionaries within the membership of the church either on the field or on furlough and that the mission fields of the church numbered twenty.

Rev. J. James, Kamloops, B.C., and Dr. Myron Boyd also addressed the conference briefly.

The committee on reforms reported that they felt the tendency to ignore the Lord's Day Act was lamentable and protested against further infractions. They also criticized the so-called goodwill liquor advertising, the sale and reading of crime comics and the increasing use of tobacco.

The Preachers' Male Quartet sang several numbers at each Sunday service. In the morning a service of witness was succeeded by a preaching service in which Rev. A. L. Brown preached on evangelism. He also officiated the ordination service at 2 p.m. when P. O. Millar received deacon's orders and W. J. T. Hicks and R. E. Dargan were made elders.

A missionary service which followed was adressed by Mrs. Mabel Rice, returned missionary from South Africa. This was succeeded by a service of healing conducted by District Superintendent Rev. C. W. Reynolds. In the evening the final preaching service was taken by the superintendent of the Toronto and Muskoka districts, Rev. R. G. Babcock.

Several Small Tremors

Ecuador's catastrophic earthquake was preceded by a week of minor earth tremors, a Toronto oil man returned today from the stricken country reported in Miami, Fla.

A. L. Duncan of International Petroleum Company, Toronto, felt the major shock that wreaked havoc inland, but he was out of the disaster zone. He flew here aboard the Clipper Interamericano.

"I was in Guayaquil, Ecuador, about 100 miles south of Quito," said Duncan. "For a week before the big shake there were little tremblors that shook furniture and rattled windows.

"Then came that major shock. I had just gone to my hotel room for a siesta. As I sat on the bed it began to shake and I thought something had happened to the bed. Then I noticed a table walk across the room. My door swung open. I realized then it was an earthquake."

Christie, included the driver; Mrs. James Pearson, Welland; Mrs. Archie Pearson, Cooks Mills; Miss Anita Lance, Welland; Eleanor Pearson, two, of Cook's Mills; Gail Pearson, three, Cook's Mills; James Richards, one, of Welland; and Mr. Webster, all of whom are suffering from lacerations, bruises and shock.

Alarmed by the loud sounding of the car's horn, Mr. Webster, seated on his verandah at the time, jumped from his chair and narrowly escaped more serious injury as the verandah supports toppled about him. A 10-inch pillar crashed across the chair on which he had been seated.

The driver told the police the car brakes had failed during an unsuccessful attempt to shift to a lower gear near the top of the long hill. She said she sounded the horn continuously to warn approaching traffic, and that she lost control completely as she attempted to round the sharp turn at the foot of the hill. An upbound car, which had come to a complete stop, was missed by "inches."

Call Conference Of Asian Powers

CHINHAE, Korea, Aug. 8. — (AP).—The leaders of Nationalist China and the Korean Republic called today for a conference of Asian powers to the immediate future to draft a Pacific alliance against Communism

The request came in a joint statement by Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and President Syngman Rhee of South Korea after a two-day conference here. They asked President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines to summon the powers.

In their call for a conference, Chiang and Rhee said

"We are strongly of the opinion that countries of the Pacific in general and Far Eastern countries in particular are facing a greater danger from international Communism today than any other part of the world.

"Solidarity and concerted action among these countries is more urgently needed than elsewhere It is our firm belief that the world cannot be free if Asia is to go under and mankind cannot afford to be divided into half free men and half slaves."

Social Security Spikes Reds Rotarians Told

COBOURG, Aug. 8—(ENS)—England was in the grip of an economic experiment that might in time be a pattern for other nations, Rev. A. Packman, Harrisfield, Yorkshire, told the Rotary Club here Friday. Mr. Packman is at present residing at Nobel.

He expressed gratitude to the Canadian and the American people for their gifts of clothing to the Old Country. Clothing in England was something almost impossible to replace and it was a most welcome gift, he said.

The war had introduced the Englishman to his neighbour on the same street, he said. The same war had resulted in fences being removed, some by bombs, some for convenience, but the result had been that the Englishman came to know his neighbour. The war had been won by the spirit behind the gifts from Canada and the United States. It made Britain realize that they had friends and the realization of this fact, helped England over the difficulties of war.

Bevin Sincere

Ernest Bevin, said the speaker, was a sincere man who left school at the ageof 12 and didn't throw his weight around when he came into power. Churchill had conducted England safely through the war, but he made a mistake when he attacked Clement Attlee, a man of great integrity.

The problems in England were not neculiar to that country as labour problems are world-wide and the world was suffering from a hundred years of bitter relationships, Mr. Packman said. The average industrialist in England was fair-minded.

There was a fear now that there might be a little freedom lost but as far as communism threatening Britain was concerned the guns of communism were spiked when England gave social security. What was going on in England is a cultural crisis and one that faces the world, he declared.

2 Missionaries Designated To Work In Trinidad Field

In a special service at St. James' Church Sunday morning, Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Kitney were designated missionaries of United Church Overseas. They will travel to Trindidad to join the Canadian Mission there and take over a native church.

The Very Rev. J. H. Arnup, BA, DD, Secretary of the Board of Overseas Missions of the United Church of Canada, preached the sermon, and the service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Fred Craik. Mr. R. F. Downey represented the Peterborough Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Kitney, before a large Union congregation, reaffirmed his beliefs in the church, his loyalty to the church, and his willingness to work in the mission fields. Rev. Arnup, who presented Mr. Kitney with a Bible on behalf of the Board, said that it was a great satisfaction to him to be identifned with the service, and told Mr. Kitney that the Bible would be "his chart, his charter and compass, his source of inspiration."

Rather than preach a Bible sermon, Rev. Dr. Arnup chose to tell of his own experiences with the Indians in Trinidad. He said that there are tens of thousands of East Indians there who have not yet 'seen the light,' and that although the Canadian Missions there are doing a wonderful jog, they are understaffed.

Dr. Arnup told the story of the country from 1834, when the slaves in Trinidad were emancipated, until the present day, when a complete educational system, except for university training, has been set up.

30,000 Pupils

There are 67 schools, Rev. Dr. Arnup said, with 600 teachers and 30,000 pupils enrolled. Every morning, for 45 minutes, the children receive Christian instruction. While there is no compulsion, it is significant that all the children are being taught.

Dr. Arnup told of several cases where Hindus and Mohammedans, whole families of them, decided to leave their own religions and come into the fold of Jesus Christ because of the teachings they and their children had heard in the Canadian schools.

Rev. Mr. Kitney spent two years before his ordination in Home Mission Work at Wanham, Alberta, then returning to Emmanuel College to complete his Arts Course. He then served in British Columbia and again moved to Alberta, where he has just completed a pastorate of eight years.

Rev. and Mrs. Kitney have two daughters, Lynne and Carol, who are travelling to Trinidad with them. At the conclusion of Sunday's service, after Dr. Arnup had invoked the blessing of God upon the Kitney family, and the Rev. Fred Craik wished them Godspeed, Mr. Kitney pronounced the benediction.

Social Security Spikes Reds Rotarians Told

COBOURG, Aug. 8—(ENS)—England was in the grip of an economic experiment that might in time be a pattern for other nations, Rev. A. Packman, Harrisfield, Yorkshire, told the Rotary Club here Friday. Mr. Packman is at present residing at Nobel.

He expressed gratitude to the Canadian and the American people for their gifts of clothing to the Old Country. Clothing in England was something almost impossible to replace and it was a most welcome gift, he said.

The war had introduced the Englishman to his neighbour on the same street, he said. The same war had resulted in fences being removed, some by bombs, some for convenience, but the result had been that the Englishman came to know his neighbour. The war had been won by the spirit behind the gifts from Canada and the United States. It made Britain realize that they had friends and the realization of this fact, helped England over the difficulties of war.

Bevin Sincere

Ernest Bevin, said the speaker, was a sincere man who left school at the ageof 12 and didn't throw his weight around when he came into power. Churchill had conducted England safely through the war, but he made a mistake when he attacked Clement Attlee, a man of great integrity.

The problems in England were not neculiar to that country as labour problems are world-wide and the world was suffering from a hundred years of bitter relationships, Mr. Packman said. The average industrialist in England was fair-minded.

There was a fear now that there might be a little freedom lost but as far as communism threatening Britain was concerned the guns of communism were spiked when England gave social security. What was going on in England is a cultural crisis and one that faces the world, he declared.

Rev. J. O. Ralston Campbellford Dies At Age 71

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 8. — (ENS).—Rev. James Oates Ralston, 71, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, died in a Peterborough hospital on Sunday after a three months' illness. Mr. Ralston was a well-known minister of the Presbyterian Church, having served in Canada since 1902.

Before coming to Ontario he preached in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Nova Scotia. In the First World War he served as chaplain of the 184th Battalion. He ws a member of the Masonic Lodge.

West Indies Native

Son of the late John Ralston and Elizabeth Oates, he was born in the British West Indies and educated in the local schools. Later he attended the university in London, England, where he graduated for the ministry.

He leaves his wife, the former Donalda McPhee; three daughters, Mrs. Margaret Calvin of San Gabriel, Cal., Helen and Doris, both of Toronto; and a son, K.M., of Montreal.

The body will rest in the Presbyterian Church, Campbellford, from Tuesday noon to 1.30 p.m. on Wednesday. Funeral will be from the Presbyterian Church, Wednesday, at 2.30 p.m., Rev. R. G. 2 Missionaries Designated To Work In Trinidad Field

In a special service at St. James' Church Sunday morning, Rev. and Mrs. C. G. Kitney were designated missionaries of United Church Overseas. They will travel to Trindidad to join the Canadian Mission there and take over a native church.

The Very Rev. J. H. Arnup, BA, DD, Secretary of the Board of Overseas Missions of the United Church of Canada, preached the sermon, and the service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Fred Craik. Mr. R. F. Downey represented the Peterborough Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Kitney, before a large Union congregation, reaffirmed his beliefs in the church, his loyalty to the church, and his willingness to work in the mission fields. Rev. Arnup, who presented Mr. Kitney with a Bible on behalf of the Board, said that it was a great satisfaction to him to be identifned with the service, and told Mr. Kitney that the Bible would be "his chart, his charter and compass, his source of inspiration."

Rather than preach a Bible sermon, Rev. Dr. Arnup chose to tell of his own experiences with the Indians in Trinidad. He said that there are tens of thousands of East Indians there who have not yet 'seen the light,' and that although the Canadian Missions there are doing a wonderful jog, they are understaffed.

Dr. Arnup told the story of the country from 1834, when the slaves in Trinidad were emancipated, until the present day, when a complete educational system, except for university training, has been set up.

30,000 Pupils

There are 67 schools, Rev. Dr. Arnup said, with 600 teachers and 30,000 pupils enrolled. Every morning, for 45 minutes, the children receive Christian instruction. While there is no compulsion, it is significant that all the children are being taught.

Dr. Arnup told of several cases where Hindus and Mohammedans, whole families of them, decided to leave their own religions and come into the fold of Jesus Christ because of the teachings they and their children had heard in the Canadian schools.

Rev. Mr. Kitney spent two years before his ordination in Home Mission Work at Wanham, Alberta, then returning to Emmanuel College to complete his Arts Course. He then served in British Columbia and again moved to Alberta, where he has just completed a pastorate of eight years.

Rev. and Mrs. Kitney have two daughters, Lynne and Carol, who are travelling to Trinidad with them. At the conclusion of Sunday's service, after Dr. Arnup had invoked the blessing of God upon the Kitney family, and the Rev. Fred Craik wished them Godspeed, Mr. Kitney pronounced the benediction.

Long Sentences And Sex Offences

A fortnight ago a Winnipeg magistrate sentenced a young man to life imprisonment. The severity of the penalty attracted attention and has been widely discussed. The young man had a record of sexual offences, and in the case under consideration he had pleaded guilty to having carnal knowledge of a girl of twelve, and had attempted the same offence against another girl who was a year younger. A report says that when he retained counsel he said: "If I can't be cured, give me life, because I may kill somebody some day". He has been given life, but we cannot feel that the matter ends there. The whole matter of sex crimes demands reconsideration in the light of modern knowledge of the subject, and new laws to cope with it.

* * *

The laws relating to sex crimes at present are unsatisfactory. Magistrates and judges are empowered to give sentences of varying length according to the severity of the crime. But when the sentence has been served, the offender is free to commit another, and possibly worse crime whenever the fit is upon him.

* * *

We know more about sex criminals now than we did fifty years ago. It was once thought that they were beasts who did revolting things because they enjoyed doing them. We now know that many sex offenders are apparently ordinary people subject to an aberration; many cases have been before the courts in which exemplary men have been shown as the victims of a periodical and uncontrollable urge. We also know that many other sex offenders are feebleminded, and the special problem which they present is this: they often abuse children sexually without getting into trouble until at last they go so far that their behaviour cannot be ignored; but by that time they may have committed murder or they may have done irreparable damage. These feeble-minded offenders are generally well-known to the public and to their neighbours. We know that very few sex crimes are committed in cold blood and in full possession of the senses. Most sex offenders are psychiatric cases and they need psychiatric treatment.

* * *

They do not get what they need under our present laws. They get, instead, prison terms with no attempt at reform, and then freedom to go on as before.

* * *

It has been suggested by several newspapers, including this one and the Kingston Whig-Standard that sex offenders should be given indefinite terms, during which they shall receive competent psychiatric treatment. They shall, in fact, be kept under restraint until they are cured, and if they cannot be cured they must be restrained for life. Restraint need not mean prison; it might mean confinement to a state asylum. We fully realize that what we propose is drastic, but it is not nearly so drastic as the record of ravishment, abuse and murder which our present law makes possible.

* * *

What we have said on this subject is related to what we said a fortnight ago about the necessity for mental health clinics in the larger centres. Such clinics could help in sorting the feebleminded and the vicious from the healthy; they might also, under proper circumstances, help the intelligent person with a sexual aberration to find the treatment he needed before he found himself in trouble. Many sex criminals are intelligent persons, deeply ashamed of what they do; it is probable that they feel many urges to which they do not yield. If, when they felt such urges, they knew that they could get expert advice near at hand, and in confidence, would it not save dreadful outbreaks? Many clergymen have been the recipients of such confessions; if they could direct those who seek them with these problems to physicians qualified to diagnose and treat the trouble, would it not create a more healthy and humane society?

* * *

Our present attitude toward sex crime is lazy, stupid and extremely dangerous. We have at least some inkling of what ought to be done to meet the problem. When are we going to have the good sense to act upon our knowledge?

Mole Hill, Mountain And Jim Moran

Until recently, there was a little village in West Virginia named Mole Hill. Influenced by a radio program, however, it has now taken the name of Mountain. The radio program, called Country Fair, persuades contestants to prove or disprove old sayings, and this particular program, of course, proved that a mountain can be made out of a molehill. One elderly inhabitant objected to the change; he thought things ought to be called what they are, he had seen mountains, and "this here is a mole hill."

Had we resided in Mole Hill, we'd have objected, too, but our objection would have been based on the ground that the change was wrought through a feeble imitation of a great master. Jim Moran was going about the United States proving and disproving old sayings long before Country Fair was thought of, and doing it more spectacularly. He has confounded proverbs and poets, and if we remember correctly, he is the stepmother of an ostrich.

Moran once brooded long over the command "Don't fire 'till you see the whites of their eyes", and he came to the conclusion it was pretty silly. So he advertised for a group of defenders, troubled with various forms of myopia and astigmatism, and for a group of attackers, suffering from "pink-eye", jaundice and hangovers. As the latter charged up Bunkers' Hill, he shouted the historic command, and was, it is reported, most gratified when no shot was fired.

The "bull in a china shop" saying bothered Moran, to the extent that he made the experiment in an expensive New York establishment, and the bull's personal breakage was nil, although it backed a few customers into tables and shelves with resultant damage. Moran also found a needle in a haystack in Times Square, and gave Gelett Burgess one of the major surprises of the latter's existence. Burgess, it will be remembered had written that

I never saw a purple cow
And never hope to see one . .

He saw one. Moran acquired a docile Jersey, had its hair roached and dyed purple, with the udder and faucets gilded. He then took the animal, at an early morning hour, to Burgess' apartment house lobby, and summoned the poet. There is no record of Burgess' reaction.

Those were the days before commercialism tainted Moran. Later, he tried a double squeeze on Florida and California by acquiring a beach tan on the left side of his body in one state and on the right side in the other, then intimating that a verdict of superiority was available. Still later, he "sat" on an ostrich egg in Hollywood, successfully, about the time "The Egg and I" was having its premiere. It seems a pity to see a great iconoclast sell himself in this way, but there is a little consolation in the fact that Moran, in his earlier days, had an exceptionally high average in a formidable array of non-commercial zanies.

The Season Of Fall Fairs

The announcement that Peterborough's own annual Exhibition will open on August 24 reminds us that the season of Fall fairs is close at hand. At Campbellford, Lindsay, Lakefield, Norwood, Warkworth and Roseneath preparations are being made for these annual events, some of which have long and honourable histories of achievement.

The Fall fair is an institution of long standing in Ontario, and one which we do well to preserve. It promotes a friendly and useful degree of competition, and it helps to raise standards in the breeding of stock, in farming and in horticulture. It provides recognition of the type which every man values most—the recognition of men engaged in work like his own, who know what difficulties he meets, and who recognize what he has done to overcome those difficulties. The Fall fair is, in a sense, the crowning of the year for the exhibitor, for here his produce and his stock are shown at their best to those who can best appreciate them.

Some rural exhibitions and some city ones have, during the past few years, met with difficulties, but they seem now to be in better circumstances than they have known. We wish them all every success, and hope that their 1949 shows will rank among their finest.

Of Cabbages And Kings

By—
PETER ELIOT

INQUIRING "Janeites" will not want to miss a delightful little volume, which has recently been published by R. W. Chapman, who in 1932 gave us the only complete edition of Jane Austen's letters. Neither biography nor criticism, it is entitled appropriately — Jane Austen — Facts And Problems. "Her first publishers," writes Mr. Chapman, "Thomas Egerton of the Military Library in Whitehall, published two editions of Sense And Sensibility and one of Mansfield Park at the author's expense, three editions of Pride And Prejudice at his own. He bought Pride And Prejudice outright for £110. Jane knew she was making a bad bargain. She had asked £150, a very modest demand, since she had made £140 by a small edition of Sense And Sensibility."

* * *

MAKING excuses for Egerton, she remarked, "We could not both be pleased, and I am not at all surprised that he should not choose to hazard so much." Egerton must have made a handsome profit. There is no reason, according to Chapman, to suppose that he consulted or even informed her about the second edition. Her ignorance would explain her otherwise surprising failure to correct bad misprints which she had herself detected. She made careful changes in the second editions of Sense And Sensibility and Mansfield Park.

* * *

SHE never called Egerton a rogue, but she probably would have stuck to him in Chapman's opinion if he had been reasonable. However, for some reason or other, she transferred her favours to Sir John Murray, and in her brief season of literary fame basked in the sunshine of compliment and attention from Albermarle Street. Murray offered £450 for the copyrights of Sense And Sensibility, Mansfield Park, and Emma. The offer was not accepted, and Murray published the first edition of Emma and the second of Mansfield Park on profit-sharing terms.

IN Penultima, a serious volume of Victoriana, Sir Alfred Hopkinson, one of the eldest survivors of the days of Gladstone, and a lawyer, politician and teacher, has some lighter moments. "In 1885," he writes, "I happened to be seeing a good deal of Sir Henry James (afterwards Lord James of Hereford) who had been Attorney-General. I was acting at the time as his junior in a very heavy case in Manchester. In view of the election, the Conservatives were even then adopting, as they had done in 1867, a good deal that had been regarded as distinctive of Liberalism. In one of his speeches he said: " 'These Conservatives are just like lobsters. They are really blue by nature, but they get into hot water and come out red.' "After Sir Henry had used it he was good enough to allow me the 'secondary rights' and the saying was a huge success."

LATEST advice to would-be writers is given by a veteran English author in Prodwit's Guide To Writing. A warning is given with regard to "Standard Fittings", those time saving and thought saving devices known as cliches: "You will have observed," the writer points out, "in s peech as well as in print, that an angle is always of forty-five degrees; that a layer of clay is always tenacious; that an outrage is always, even when extreme personal bravery is involved and even in the most august utterances, a dastardly outrage; that all Catholics are devout and all seamen intrepid; that all gaiety and all enthusiasm possess the horrible attribute of being infectious; and I need not remind you that the applause of the public on the occasion of any important or joyful happening, even in the dampest of weather, is invariably thunderous applause. And as for the phrase 'he gave his life' for such and such a thing (a phrase, in most instances, either of sentimental confusion or of consummate hypocrisy), one can only say that its prevalence has established one of the most monstrous of all our verbal fallacies. All of these in short, are Standard Fittings which ought to be rejected; and there are hundreds of others in the same category."

* * *

THE Guide stresses the importance of a dictionary as a work of reference, rather than a source of inspiration. And . . . "what is more important . . . a small selection of the complete works of Standard Authors. By these I mean the writing of authors (including poets) whose date of death places them and their publishers outside of the Copyright laws. This is a matter of the highest importance."

Still Lacrosse

Owen Sound Sun-Times

In each of the two last lacrosse games played here there were incidents which were particularly nauseating in the way the spectators reacted. In each case an opposing player was injured painfully—one of them receiving a severe laceration—and had to be carried from the arena.

In neither case was there anything particularly shameful about the manner in which the injuries were administered or incurred —they were simply the results of the normal hazards of modern box lacrosse. And yet these unfortunate players—just because they belonged to the visiting team—were viciously booed and otherwise vocally abused as they were being carried to the dressing-rooms.

There is, of course, always a moronic fringe of blood thirsty fans in every community.

The Menace Of Weeds

Guelph Mercury

Over a large part of Ontario, and not alone in the rural areas, there are far too many weeds. In the fields they occupy space where crops economically valuable should be growing. Along the streets in cities and towns where they are allowed to mature they detract from the appearance of the thoroughfares. They are a menace to the welfare of the province.

ANOTHER "LONG COUNT"

So He Hired A Hall

(CORNWALL STANDARD-FREEHOLDER)

"OH, go hire a hall" is a popular retort to many an individual who insists on airing his opinions in a wearisome way. Now for the first time we can recall, someone has taken the advice so often given.

This pioneering individual was Jack May, a tourist camp operator near Little Current, on Manitoulin Island. He had a number of grudges against local officials, the judiciary, police and so forth, and he was finding trouble in getting them heard in the right quarters. So he did what someone advised him to do; he hired a hall.

To make sure the public would know about it, Mr. May had handbills printed. On the appointed evening, he got up to address an audience of some 40 of his townfolk. He pulled all the stops, too; mingling uncomplimetnary refernces to those who had displeased him with a detailed account of his family history.

One of the targets of his disapproval was the local newspaper, which he charged with suppressing the news. Our sympathies here are with the lcal editor, for publication of Mr. May's charges and comments would have been good for more than a few libel suits. A great many people remain happily unaware that freedom of speech doesn't include license to utter or to publish defamatory personal comments.

Unfortunately, Mr. May made an error common to many persons who find themselves before a public gathering. He didn't know when to stop. The audience no doubt enjoyed his discussion of local affairs and personalities, but they go a little tired of his frequent digressions into his family's history. The crowd of 40 persons began to dwindle as the diatribe went on. By the time it was over, there were a scant 12 persons in the audience.

His other error was also a common one—his criticism was all destructive, for he doesn't appear to have suggested much in a concrete way to correct the abuses which he claimed existed. When Mr. May had finished his oration, there was nothing left for him and the remnants of his audience to do but to go home.

On the basis of Mr. May's experience, we are not sure that the advice to "hire a hall" is so good, after all. It is always easier to criticize than to suggest a sensible cure; to attack someone's failings than to praise his good points. Perhaps Mr. May felt better after his public performance. We hope so, anyway, because that appears to have been the only good that came out of it.

Tricks With the Customs

(Manchester Guardian)

The use of shoulder pads for smuggling currency, of which there has just been a detected example, may or may not be new, but it helps to show that the struggle of wits between smugglers and customs officers still goes on.

One seems to remember pirated versions of Macaulay's "History" coming over from the Continent under waistcoats. Governor Pitt's successful smuggling of the Regent diamond in the heel of his son's shoe has no doubt been imitated often enough in modern times. In the second half of the 18th century, when Paris decided men's fashions, clothing purchases had to be worn in order to escape the customs, and this kind of smuggling was apt to be dangerous on rough crossings in the sailing packetboats of the day, liable to be swept by waves, which cannot have been very good for finery.

Nowadays, apparently, it is the possibility of double bottoms to luggage which is watched. Returning travellers report that the first action of the customs officers is to dig down in order to compute the inside and outside depths of portmanteaux.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now therefore hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes and unto the judgements, which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers giveth you . . .

Did ever people hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and live? . . . Unto thee it was shewed, that thou mightest know that the Lord he is God; there is none else beside him . . .

Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath; there is none else. (Deut. 4:1,33,35,39.)

In the year that king Uzziah died I saw also the Lord sitting upon a throne, high and lifted up, and his train filled the temple. Above it stood the seraphims; each one had six wings; with twain he covered his face, and with twain he covered his feet, and with twain he did fly. And one cried unto another, and said, Holy, holy, holy, is the Lord of hosts; the whole earth is full of his glory. (Isa. 6:1-3.)

Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy; for I am the Lord your God. (Lev. 20:7.)

'A Horrible Thing'

(Montreal Star)

A Quebec City judge had before him a 46-year-old professional man who had pleaded guilty to a charge of drunken driving. As damage had been considerable and a youth of 22 injured the Crown asked for a severe penalty. Judge Laetare Roy remarked there was no need for the request as he considered drunken driving "a horrible thing" and he was sorry the law allowed him to impose a sentence of only 30 days in jail and suspension of the accused's driving license for three years. That was his sentence.

Within 24 hours of the accident the injured youth was dead and the driver now faces possible additional charges.

Aside altogether from the fatal ending of this case the facts in the original charge of drunken driving were sufficiently damaging to wararnt His Lordship's severe criticism. According to the press report from Quebec the car raced wildly through a suburb, struck a fire hydrant, tore the front balcony off a house, smashed a telegraph pole, struck the bystander and came to rest after overturning three times. Yet for such antics in an apparently residential area the law provided a penalty of only 30 days in jail and license suspension. Considering that people can be given 30 days for stealing a few cents worth of property there was little wonder that the Judge found the penalty provided by statute inadequate.

It is just another case of legislators taking too lenient an attitude toward motor car escapades. There are countless examples of this and the result is a tolerant attitude by both police and the public. A really drunken driver in charge of upwards of two tons of steel capable of going 100 miles an hour is truly "a horrible thing" to contemplate. Only fear of severe sentences can stop this sort of thing.

Political Storm Rumbling Across Land of Gurkhas

BOMBAY,(Aug 8 (Reuters)—Rumblings of a political storm are currently being heard in Nepal, mountain home of India's Gurkha soldiers.

Nepalis, heroes of many a battle, are claiming for themselves, in their own homeland, the practice of some of the ideals for which they fought in two World Wars.

They want a constitutional democracy in place of the benevolent autocracy of the Ranas—the hereditary line of prime ministers who govern this rugged country of 6,000,000 peasants and soldiers.

The King is only a figurehead. The real ruler is Padma Sham Shere Jung Bahadur Rana, the Prime Mnster.

As yet the movement toward a constitutional democracy is only in its infancy.

Nepal is an independent country, the only surviving Hindu kingdom in the world. But events in Nepal can have serious international repercussions.

Frontier Outpost

Nepal's main product, the Gurkha soldier, serves the British and Indian armies in large numbers. Strategists consider nepal as India's "main north-eastern frontier outpost."

Both Britain and the United States, are, and will remain, interested in Nepal's strategic position as long as the threat of Communism hangs over the Far East and Central Asia.

Nepal's "rana trouble" has been there for nearly fifty years, but only recently has it assumed serious proportions. The Nepli campaign for democratic rule now has gained the support of the Indian Socialist party and other left-wing intellectuals.

Absolute Rulers

The Ranas have ruled this mountain land with absolute power. When in 1934, Nepal Nationalists formed a Praja Parishad (People's Assembly) it promptly was banned and its leaders either were imprisoned or exiled.

The present movement for democratic rule came into existence in 1947. Its spearhead is the Nepal Congress, headed by Biswear Prasad Koirala, whose fatther led an unsuccessful agitation against the rule of the Ranas 15 years ago.

In a recent statement at Calcutta, Koirala uttered a warning that if the Ranas did not grant the "elementary rights" of the people Nepal would be plunged into "chaos and undest similar to that prevailing in China and Burma."

The Nepal government's move to introduce constitutional reforms, however, is expected to ease the political storm.

Doctor Claims Paste Mends Tooth Cavities

TORONTO, Aug. 8 (AP) — Some Toronto dentists have greeted with surprise—and, in some cases, scepticism—a report that Dr. D. F. Stedman, of the National Research Council, Ottawa, has developed a paste to assist nature to mend tooth cavities.

He was quoted in an Ottawa dispatch Friday as saying that he filled a cavity in one of his own teeth with the paste and that the cavity disappeared in three months. He said the paste was a chemical compound similar to the minerals in teeth.

Dr. L. M. Gross, president of the Ontario Dental Association, said: "The experiment is something entirely new as far as I am concerned. It doesn't sound possible. Yet, until I know more about it, I can't say whether it is plausible."

Princess Pats Top-Notch In Airborne Job

FORT ST. JOHN, B.C., Aug. 8.—(CP.—Eight months ago, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry was some 300 strong and didn't know much about parachutes.

Today, nearly up to full strength of roughly 800 men as an airborne infantry battalion, they are recognized as probably the brightest feature of Exercise Eagle, the three-day land-air manoeuvres that ended Sunday along the first 50 miles of the Alaska Highway.

Brig. "Rocky" Rockingham, of Vancouver, one of Canada's toughest and best combat soldiers in the recent war and now back in civilian life, called them "magnificent."

Top Notch Brigade

The Pats, latest version of a regiment that suffered 6,000 casualties in those two wars, are the first of three regular battalions to be trained for a role in the airborne brigade. It was the opinion of reporters, some of them former war correspondents, that if they are criterion, the brigade is going to be top-notch.

Led by able Lt.-Col. Donald Cameron, D.S.O., originally of Cornwall, the Pats are a mixture of veterans and youngsters who didn't get into the war. They are big, tough and intelligent, reflections of the high post-war standards for entrance to the army.

They are trained to parachute, to move equipment by air transport and use gliders. They did all those things in Exercise Eagle.

They came out of it with no serious injuries.

Col. Cameron chuckles that some of the youngsters' chatter about their jumps is "insufferable." But he says they generally are typical post-war soldiers, serious, solid people who have entered the army first for financial security, second to learn a trade and third to learn to jump.

Cosmos Sweep Semi-Finals In Four Games

By FRED MAYBEE

Men's City League softball semi-finals concluded Saturday night at the Bowl as Cosmopolitans doubled the score on Knights of Columbus in both games with two to spare in the nightcap, winning 8-4 and 16-7, to sweep the series in four straight.

A large crowd was on hand to see Cosmos play fine ball throughout, backing dependable pitching with good hitting and steady fielding, while Knight seemed off color throughout the series. Akers and Guilfoyle pitched.

Carpenter's homer with Dalton aboard featured in the seventh while Giardino made an amazing catch of Dalton's long foul in the first and robbed Mackness of a homer with a sensational stop of a drive in the fourth, holding the Cosmo star at second. Thomson, Carpenter and Mackness led at bat for Cosmos with three hits apiece, while O'Heron, Legrow and Conlin also played well for K. of C. in this game.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

That was a swell crowd that turned out on Saturday evening for the family hour tournament. The largest attendance so far this season. It was a great night for bowling. It was "Hello Jack" and "Hello Min"—the odd joke here and there—good fellowship all around. It puts us in mind of a couple of lines that go something like this:

It isn't the money you're making,
It isn't the clothes you wear,
And it isn't the skill of your good right hand
Which makes folks really care—
It's how you live and neighbor,
How do you work and play,
It's how you say "good morning"
To the people along the way.

The winning skips were: C. Lawrence, R. Brown, S. Shields and R. Burns.

Tonight Groups No. 1 and 2 play in the men's schedule and the ladies continue with their vice-skips' competition.

H. Freeman and G. Gimblett are skipping rinks in the provincial tournament being played in Toronto this week.

Tomorrow evening C. Renaud, W. Jeffries and R. Gamble go to Lindsay to play Port Perry in the final games of District No. 14 of the Provincial Association.

Today's thought—

The right way to kill time is to work it to death.

Wings Crush Giants Twice

By The Associated Press

Rochester Red Wings once again are in hot pursuit of Buffalo Bisons for International League pennant honors.

The Wings drove back in to second place Sunday, sweeping both ends of a twin bill from Jersey City Giants by identical 10-0 margins. The triumph moved the Wings to within three games of the Bisons and dropped the Giants from second to third place, a percentage point in front of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Johnny Yuhas stopped the Giants on four hits in the opener and George Copeland limited the Giants to four safeties in the nightcap.

The Bisons divided a doubleheader with Syracuse Chiefs, winning the nightcap 2-1 after dropping the opener 11-10.

Carden Gillenwater blasted a pair of two-run homers to spark the Chiefs in the opener.

Clem Hausmann stopped the Chiefs on three hits in the nightcap and Anse Moore supplied the margin of victory with a home run in the sixth inning.

Upset Leafs

The Maple Leafs were upset 6-4 and 5-4 by the last-place Newark Bears and dropped from third to fourth place.

Bud Haslet starred in both games for the Bears, slamming a three-run homer in each contest. Heslet's belt in the nightcap came in the fifth inning and tied the score at 3-3. Both teams scored a run in the sixth and the Bears won out in the next frame when Marty Hansen singled home Bob Thurman from second.

Montreal Royals and Baltimore Orioles split a twin bill, the Royals taking the first game 2-0 and the Orioles the second 7-3.

Clarence Pedbielan limited the Orioles to two singles in opener. Home runs by Al Gionfriddo and Kermit Wahl accounted for the Montreal markers.

Bob Young paced the Orioles in the nightcap, driving home three runs on a homer and single. The game was called at the end of six inning to allow Montreal to entrain.

Cricketers Win Over N.H. Club

By C. H. IRESON:

The Peterborough - Whitaker Cricket Club took a council match at the Oval on Saturday over New Hambledon of Toronto by 135 for five wickets (inning closed) to 87. The victory was featured by fine batting by F. Booth and good bowling by F. Dyer.

The winners batted first, opening with F. Booth and B. Roberts and they took the total to 33 before the latter was bowled for 13. Pyle was out at 56 having scored seven. W. Freeman joined Booth and the pair had the score to 89 for three wickets when Freeman was bowled for a well-played 20. Booth had been scoring steadily and with Rollwagon 6 not out, carried the score to 134 when the inning was declared closed with Booth's score at 57 not out. He played a great game both on attack and defence and hit 7 fours.

The visitors made a poor start to the bowling of F. Dyer and H. Pyle, losing two wickets in Dyer's first over before a run scored. W. King defended well and was seventh out with the total at 77, his tally being 15. He had valuable partners in J. Peacock 26, and F. Worthington 27 including 5 fours and a six, but the rest did little.

Veteran captain F. Dyer had a big day with the ball, taking 8 wickets for 48 runs and 14 of these were scored by Worthington off three successive balls. Six of the wickets were clean bowled. Booth relieved Pyle on the attack at 77 and in two overs took one wicket for two runs. Pyle had one for 36. Booth returned to the side after his tour with the Ontario team out West. In this tour he was a real success, playing in four innings with an average of 20. His best innings was 47 against Manitoba and on Saturday his 57 not out was a big factor in the club win.

Next Saturday, the club travels to Toronto to play Parkdale B in a district council match.

Summary of the scores:

Peterborough-Whitakers — F. Booth 57 not out, B. Roberts 12, H. Pyle 7, W. Freeman 20, W. Wright 5, F. Dyer 0, R. Rollwagon 6 not out, extras 12; innings closed with score 184 for 5 wickets. E. Jennings, J. Wild, H. Dibben, and E. Tomsell did not bat.

Bowling—K. Brown 1 wicket for 43 runs, F. Worthington 0 for 7, J. Hancock 0 for 19, E. Newman 2 for 22, T. Hatt 2 for 31.

New Hambledon — W. King 15, F. Newman 0, T. Hancock 0, J. Peacock 26, P. Letts 8, F. Webster 0, F. Worthington 27, T. Hatt 5, K. Bowen 22, W. Davis 2, E. Worthington 1 not out, extras 1; total 87.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The bent beak is back on the grindstone after a brief vacation but anyway we feel much perkier than several weeks ago. Enjoyed the layoff muchly and did a bit of indifferent fishing on the lake of loons, which some dope dubbed Chandos Lake. Never did see any chandos—or is it chandi?—but spotted several loons laughing eerily at the only decent bites we got, mammoth mosquito bites. Good swimming was had on the fine sand beach at Eagle Lake, and we got as far as Toronto in the other direction. Yeah, a good time flitted by and now we're into an interesting summer month, August the time et playoffs.

Bill Bennett advises that the Girls' Softball League two-of-three semi-finals open at seven tonight in the Bowl with Westclox playing Ashby's, followed by CGE vs. Marines. Wednesday has Marines vs. CGE and Ashby's vs. Westclox. Finals then are three out of five for the city title and the right to enter PWSU intermediate "A" playdowns. Victors meet Kingston here Aug. 17. Meantime, Lindsay goes against the lakeshore winners away about Aug. 17 and here Aug. 20 in intermediate "B", and the local Woollens hit into provincial junior playdowns in September. Ought to be big Bowl crowds now with playoffs on tap.

Exit The K. Of C.-ers

And Bert Bailey catches us up on the men's softball setup. Cosmos beat Knights twice Saturday 8-4 and 16-7 to sweep the semi-final series in four straight. Knights fell down on hitting and fielding, as well as missing Reg. Leether—a fine, brainy player—who fractured a bone in his hand. Knights' scrappy coach, Johnny Russelle, picked the wrong umpire to criticize in Cy Whatley and got the old heave-ho. So, it'll be Cosmos vs. Uniteds at 8.30 tomorrow eve in the Bowl, opening the best-of-seven city finals, single games being run each night unless they run out of time. Senior "B" victor meets Kingston Aug. 23.

Further checking elicits the info from Eddie Murphy that Batawa Shoemen play the Petes here Wednesday p.m. at 6.30 in Riverside. Oshawa comes Saturday and then the local COBL-ers have but one more home game ere playoffs commence Aug. 20. Petes had a couple of contests while we vacationed, splitting evenly, and Oshawa won a tilt from Batawa to keep slightly ahead of the Murphyites in the race. Lefty Dadson will likely throw Wednesday. We hear that Brown is looking real good at short since his transfer from the Canisius College crew to the locals. And Tommy Foley is looking quite natural out there in the garden again, presently in the left pasture.

Lady Luck Looks Away

Hard luck attends the efforts of the Petes' senior lacrossers. They come awfully close but can't quite get that winning marker. After outplaying St. Kitts all the way in St. Catharines on Saturday, the Creighton crew wound up on the slimmer side of a 9-8 score as the A's vaulted into third place in the standing. We're told that the Petes got a rough ride from the referees, drawing 19 penalties in a rugged tussle. St. Kitts now have won nine of their last 10 games and currently are the hottest squad in the setup. Brampton beat Mimico the same night by a 25-15 count. The Petes go to Owen Sound tomorrow, entertain Mimico here on Friday, and have a postponed game in Mimico next Saturday evening. Schedule goes just three more weeks.

Scorning hot weather, the Oshawa Red Raiders of our ORFU group are out nightly now getting in shape for the coming grid season. Coach Don Jones of the Raiders has added seven new names to an impressive roster. Three are ex-juniors of Toronto, John Brodie, Joe McGowan and Cec. Armstrong. The team now appears to be a mixture of husky veterans and equally large youngsters, and promises to be a strong contender when the leather lemons start to bloom about the autumn landscape. Orillia, Oakville and the Peterborough Panthers will be commencing training shortly, and we should have something on the Panthers within a day or two. Just to remind folks that fall is not afar off.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Windsor Rockets will launch their fifth Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union campaign on the platform of a light, fast backfield, an attack accented by passing, and with a roster of old and new players which includes negro imports.

These fatcors were outlined by Coach Art Massucci as the club finished its second week of training.

The Rockets open their 12-game schedule at home Sept. 3 against Toronto Balmy Beach. A single exhibition game before that date, also at home, will be staged Aug. 27 against a Senior B team from London.

Massucci, whose last appearance on the Canadian grid scene was in 1947 when he piloted the Rockets, returns this season under a two-season contract. Art, who maintains "we'll have a contender," is being assisted in coaching chores by Sam Sasso, who along with Mike Hedgewick, was co-mentor of the Rockets last year.

The recent announcement by rank Dayus, Windsor industrialist, that he will sponsor a team in the newly created Canadian-American Football League brought little comment from the Rocket camp other than it would "sharp-football interests" in the city.

"We will be operating Saturday afternoons," Rockets officials said. "The new team will be playing Sundays."

At Kingston, Emerson Creed of Barrie, Ont., former Queen's University student, captured top honors Saturday in both the Kingston district, Ontario Golf Association, competition and the Whig-Standard gold tournament.

He topped 119 contenders for the O.G.A. crown with a 75 for 18 holes. In the Whig-Standard tourney, he led a field of 79 with a card of 111 for 27 holes on the 18-hole, par-70 course.

Russell Kulvander, 19, of Detroit, was killed at the Windsor speedway in Sandwich West Township Saturday night when his "hot-rod" racer crashed the fence on a turn and pinned him to the ground as it rolled over.

Eyewitnesses said the stock car "seemed to be taking the curve all right when it suddenly straightened out and roared through the fence."

Friends said it was only the third race in which Kulvander had participated.

In Deauville, France, Rita Hayworth's filly, Double Rose, Sunday won the Prix De La Municipalite. The filly enriched her Hollywood movie star owner by 400,000 francs (about $1,200.)

Knights Ousted By Cosmos In Loose Fray

By FRED MAYBEE

Cosmos said it with base hits in the nightcap Saturday, punching out 19 hits for 16 runs off three hurlers to win soundly over K. of C.

Singles by Thomson, Crowe and Mackness for two runs sent Saraseni out with none away in the first and a tired Guilfoyle again took the hill for K. of C. Parsons toiled for the Dalton crew.

In the sixth, Akers came in again to do a neat relief chore for Parsons who received credit for the win. Akers stopped Knight's cold. Hunter replaced Guilfoyle in the fourth.

This game was featured by three smart double-plays, two by Cosmos. Legrow made a fine shoestring catch off Hawkes in the first to double Mackness at third for the best play of all. A heated dispute between Coach Russelle and Umpire-in-Chief Whatley in the fourth, over a reversed decision—in consultation with Umpire Les Calladine—resulted in the banishment of the fiery coach.

Brooklyn In 1st Place Tie Wallops Cincinnati Twice

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Here they come down the stretch with St. Louis and Brooklyn neck and neck in the National League race and 52 games to go.

Brooklyn, which moved into a first-place tie by twice dumping Cincinnati while St. Louis was winning a single from New York, may have a slight edge in the schedule. The Brooks have 28 home games left while the Cards must play 28 on the road.

Cincinnati was the stepping stone for Burt Shotton's men to regain a piece of first place. Joe Hatten shut out the Reds Sunday in the opener 7-0 and came on to work the last 1 2/3 innings of the 2-1 second game when Rex Barney got into trouble.

Homers by Bruce Edwards and Jackie Robinson in the first game and by Spider Jorgensen in the second, drove in eight of the nine runs. Edwards bashed his with the bases loaded in the sixth.

George (Red) Munger got the Cards back on the win path as he stopped New York with seven hits, 9-2. It was the fifth straight win for the husky righthander and his 11th of the year.

Boston broke a five-game losing streak by tramping Chicago 11-0 on Bill Voiselle's seven-hitter but fell back into its tailspin in losing the second game in 10 innings 4-3.

Double Triumph

Dick Sisler helped the Phillies to a double triumph over Pittsburgh with a three-run pinch homer in the ninth inning to take the second game 5-4 after the Phils won the opener 7-3.

Hank Borowy had an easy time in the first game, despite Ralph Kiner's 29th homer. Jim Konstanty, a daily worker for the Phils, took the second game after relieving Blix Donnelly.

New York Yankees continued to fatten their American League lead at the expense of St. Louis Browns although they had to be satisfied with a 2-2 tie in the second game. They smothered the cellar club 20-2 in the opener. Darkness halted the finale at the end of 10 innings.

As a result of Cleveland's double loss at Philadelphia, the Yanks now lead by 5½ games. They are 6½ games out front of Boston whose seven game win streak was broken by Detroit 6-4.

Phil Rizzuto collected four of the 22 Yankee hits off Ned Garver and four successors while Tommy Byrne spun a six-hitter.

Take Twin Bill

Cleveland's hopes took a double jolt from the A's with Elmer Valo and Mike Guerra dealing out the stiffest punches. Guerra's three-run homer and fine relief pitching by Charley Harris saved Lou Brissie's 11th win 5-4 in the first game. Guerra's two-run single enabled Joe Coleman to grab win No. 10 from Al Benton in the second 4-2. Guerra had four hits in eight trips.

Art Houtteman celebrated his 22nd birthday by pitching Detroit to a 6-4 edge over the Red Sox, defeating Maurice McDermott, the sensational rookie southpaw. The Sox nicked Houtteman for 12 hits.

Don DiMaggio bunted safely in the first inning, running his hitting streak to 34 consecutive games.

Chicago split a pair with Washington, the White Sox taking the opener 4-1 on Randy Gumpert's eight-hit pitching and the Senators breaking a seven-game losing string to cop the second 1-0 rookie Lloyd Hittle.

Rochon Captures Singles Title

HALIFAX, Aug. 8.—(CP). — Little Henri Rochon of Montreal, justified his ranking as Canada's top net man yesterday, capping his career of court wizardry by winning the open singles title of the Canadian lawn tennis championships.

"It was the best tennis I've ever played," said the 25-year-old Rochon after his four-set triumph over Lorne Main, brilliant 19-year-old star from Vancouver. Scores were 6-3, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Players from the United States accounted for three of the five main events with Mrs. Baba Lewis, 21st ranking woman player in the U.S., figuring in all three, a feat she also accomplished in 1946.

The powerful, free-stroking American lifted the singles crown from Patricia Macken of Montreal in straight sets, losing only two games in the process 6-0, 6-2.

Mangrum Lead Cut By Snead

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. — (AP).—Slamming' Sammy Snead, golf's top practitioner, has fallen into the squandering habit of gleefully tossing his ball to the gallery at the close of each round.

He did it yesterday in the second round of the $20,000 all-American professional tourney at Tam O'Shanter, and it plunked an unwary spectator in the neck.

And the reason Sambo did it: He just had scooted home a terrific 7-foot chip shot in the 18th green. It landed a four-under-par 68 on the neck of pace-setter Lloyd Mongrum and threw the Tam scramble into a dog-fight.

As 100 pros set out in to-day's third 18-hole round of the 72-hole test, Mangrum had a halfway total of 134. This was only one stroke ahead of Snead, whose 68 followed an opening 67.

Remember When—

Joe Burke stepped down voluntarily nine years ago today from the pedestal he occupied as world amateur sculling champion for nearly three years. NEW POST RUMORED—A new diplomatic post is being rumored for George Magann, counsellor at Canadian Embassy in Washington. Mr. Magann, 51, has been with the Department of External Affairs since 1941.

Lackey-Mahood Reunion Held In Jackson Park

Marked by an attendance of about 60 members of the two families, the annual Lackey-Mahood re-union was held recently in Jackson Park. Several of those present were attending the re-union or the first time.

The children enjoyed swimming and sports during the afternoon, while their elders watched them or exchanged reminscenses.

A family tree, prepared by Mrs. Frank Lackey, evoked much interest, particularly among those who attended the re-union for the first time. She was able to gather much new material for it from the newcomers.

Mrs. Stanley Mahood was in charge of supper arrangements, the meal being served on tables under the trees.

Mrs. Harry Lackey was chairman of a business meeting held after the meal. The following were named committee conveners for next year's celebration, to be held in Nicholls Oval on the second Saturday in June, Laurie Mahood, president; Leonard Mahood, and Mrs. Fred Watson, secretary-treasurer. They will choose their own committee members.

Letters expressing their regret at being unable to attend were received by Mrs. Donald Raddon, secretary, from Mrs. Milne of Toronto, and Rev. and Mrs. Gratton Kemp, New York.

Mrs. Hannah Smith gave a recitation, choosing a humorous one dating back to her school days.

The following attended the reunion:

Peterborough: Miss Mary Lackey, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mahood, Mrs. Archie Ackison, Mrs. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watson and Carol Anne, Miss Ellen Sanderson, Mr. Bert Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mahood, Jim, Allan, Douglas, Donna and Ethel, Mr. Ronald Mahood, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burkholder and Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrie Mahood, Glenn and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Don Raddon, Doreen Joyce, Shirley, Betty, Donnie, Mary and Barbara Ann, Mr. Leonard Mahood and Louise, Mr. George Lustic and Margaret Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mahood, Mrs. George Lackey and Janey Lackey (Toronto), Mr. and Mrs. Milton Graham, Verna, Gwen, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harryman.

Toronto: Mrs. William Davidson, Mrs. James Lackey, Miss Sarah Lackey.

Frankford: The Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Lackey, Allen and David.

Millbrook: Mrs. Sarah McFee, Mr. Howard McFee, Mrs. Hannah E. Smith.

Fraserville: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lackey and Earl, Mrs. James Lackey, Mrs. Mary Lackey.

Waterloo Man New Head Of Bandmasters

W. S. Sheppard, Waterloo, was elected president of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association at the concluding session of the association's 18th annual convention in the Empress Hotel on Sunday morning. He succeeds Lieut. E. Reg. Hinchey of Belleville.

Most important item of business disposed of at the convention, which opened Friday afternoon, was a decision to name a special committee to prepare a syllabus for examinations which band members could write to improve their qualifications. Members of the committee are: James M. Gayfer, Mus. Bac., command bandmaster, Central Headquarters Canadian Army, Toronto; Lt. W. T. Atkins, L.R.A.M., director of music for the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto; and Lieut. Peter C. Allan, bandmaster of the Windsor Regiment, Windsor.

Officers Elected

Other new officers of the association are: First vice-president, Martin Boundy, London; second vice-president, Captain W. H. Peryer, Peterborough; secretary-treasurer, A. L. Robertson, Kilworthy (re-elected); directors, W. E. Clancy, Brantford; W. L. Manning, Woodstock; M. D. De Celles, Quebec City; I. L. Coulter, Wheatley; P. C. Allan, Windsor; E. M. Brett, Stratford; E. M. Johnston, Toronto. Captain John Slatter, M.B.E., Toronto, was re-elected honorary president.

Another leading feature of the convention was the playing for the first time of a new overture specially composed for the convention by Lieut. Peter C. Allan, Windsor, entitled "Gauntlet." The number was played by the Belleville Community Band at a concert in Nicholls Oval, on Sunday afternoon, it being the first number on their program. Lieut. Allan is one of Canada's leading composers of band music.

Improve Standard

The proposed syllabus to be drawn up by the special committee will outline the qualifications necessary for various degrees or fellowships which the association proposes to set up in an endeavour to so improve the standard of band music that it will become more popular with the general public. The association feels that it is time something was done to counteract the long-held impression that brass bands are largely something to march to in a parade. The committee will report back to the Board of Directors at its next meeting in Toronto in October, and it is planned to put the scheme in operation immediately thereafter.

Highlight of Saturday's sessions of the association was a civic banquet tendered the delegates by the City of Peterborough. Chairman of the dinner was Alderman Adam Sands and an official welcome was extended by Ald. Hurrell Dodds in the absence from the city of Mayor Swanston. Entertainment was provided by the Liftlock City Quartet and Miss Mignon Mayneord, whistler, accompanied by Mrs. Mildred Hubbell. The retiring president, Lieut. Hinchey, thanked the citizens for "the magnificent treatment" the delegates had received while in the city. He said the association had grown from a membership of less than 100 in 1940 to 300, largely due to the efforts of the secretary, Mr. Robertson. Following the dinner the delegates attended the final performance of "Rebecca" at the Summer Theatre.

The Saturday afternoon session was given over to addresses by Jack Dane, director of the Peterborough Recreation Commission; Eugene Lang, commentator, Belleville radio station; and James M. Gayfer, Toronto, command bandmaster, Central Headquarters Canadian Army. In addition David S. Adams, representing Boosey and Hawkes, Toronto, played 14 transcriptions for band on a record player, which he recommended as suitable for band concert programs.

Mr. Dane outlined the work of the Recreation Commission, reviewed the history of Canada's Physical Fitness program, and offered suggestions as to how bandsmen could fit into the program. He said that last year 25,000 people attended band concerts in Peterborough, and that 160,000 visits were paid to the various recreational and leisure time projects sponsored by the commission.

Make Public Band Conscious

Mr. Lang said that his remarks were based entirely on reactions he had picked up among the listening public, as he was not an authority on band music himself. He urged the delegates to try to make "the public band conscious" and he outlined various ways by which he thought this could be brought about. One thing he stressed was that the bandmaster must choose his programs not entirely according to his own taste or the tastes of his bandsmen, but with primary regard to the public taste. He urged conductors not to go through too many gyrations, as this tends to distract the listeners away from the music. Conductors should also become thoroughly familiar with program selections and their composers' lives so that they could be explained to the bandsmen and the audience; in this way better playing would result, as well as better listening. Frequent changes of key were also desirable.

Mr. Gayfer described the general set-up of military bands in Canada, with emphasis on training methods. He said that the quality of band music was still far behind that of the symphony orchestra. One of the reasons for this was that, as a rule, bandsmen have not the same opportunities for training as orchestra members. Another factor was that there are very few original compositions for bands, most of the music played being transcriptions of orchestral works.

Mr. Gayfer said the Canadian Army is giving much attention at present to the proper training of future bandmasters, this being done to a large extent in summer Reserve Army camps. He stated that a well-thought out syllabus is used, which includes the correct way to play "God Save The King", the most impressive rendition of The National Anthem to which he has ever listened.

INVOLVED IN CRASH

Neither driver was hurt, although one car was badly damaged, in a collision which occured five miles north of Apsley on the Coe Hill road at 7:10 p.m. Saturday. The cars were driven by Jerome Murray, Barrie's Bay and R. J. The drivers, neither of whom was hurt, were Clifford R. Bryers, 26 Stewart Ave., St. Catharines, and Martin D. Welch, 166 Beech Ave., Toronto, the latter car the property of Stanley Buxton, Bridgenorth. The crash occurred when Bryers' car stopped at a stop sign, the other car running into his car from behind. ONLY A SUGGESTION

There's a slight suggestion of coolness in the progress of the installation of the ice-making machinery at the Civic Arena. Harry Beatty's men are placing transformers on poles at the rear of the building.

FLORAL NOTE

Reynolds Given Contract For 100 Houses

One hundred rental houses will be built for Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in Peterborough by E. Reynolds and Son, contractors, the Toronto office of Central Mortgage released Monday. The contract was awarded Friday.

Estimated rental of the houses will be $34.50 a month for four room bungalows and $37.50 for five room storey and a half houses. The rent is based on the estimated cost of building the houses and is subject to change if the actual cost is found to vary from the estimate.

Fifteen of the houses will be bungalows and the rest will be a storey and a half. As much variety as possible will be given to the exteriors by use of several different types of sidings. None of them will be brick because of its high cost. The siding used will be aluminum, asbestos shingle, wood clapboard, stucco and cedar shingle.

The houses will go up in Ashburnham and in the south and west of Monaghan Rd. Reynolds construction company is already building 226 under a previous contract and they will continue along with the new houses without a break. About 200 of these previous houses have been started with 100 completed and families living in them. Foundations for the first of the new hundred will probably be dug in the next few weeks.

The same type of houses have been built in other cities and towns and rent for about the same amount.

Man Leaves Hospital, Car Is In Crash

MILLBROOK, Aug. 8 (ENS)—A car driven by Richard Wood, in which Mrs. Wood and his brother, Harvey Wood, were passengers, turned out too far when meeting a car driven by Cliff Hudson on the Millbrook road just east of the quarter line, about 1½ miles from town, and overturned at 11.30 p.m. Saturday. Dr. M. E. Hobbs, Jack Kellet, the local constable, and Provincial Constable D. W. Coffey were called to the scene.

Mrs. Wood and Harvey Wood were bruised and shaken up. The latter was just out of hospital after a recent unexplained accident when he was found sitting on his verandah in a dazed condition suffering from a broken collar bone, concussion and broken shoulder blade.

Chemong Lake Dinghies Win Big Events

Chemong Lake dinghies swept top honors with the best showing in Kawartha Lakes sailing competitions Saturday and Sunday in Chemong Lake, just south of the causeway, against entries from Stony and Sturgeon Lakes and Lakefield.

The scene around the boathouse owned by Gordon Matthews was no place for anyone Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning who didn't know a jib from a centreboard. From early afternoon people strode purposefully about looking for tools and checked rigging from stem to gudgeon. Pretty girls in brief shorts who were also racing tried successfully to distract the men from their work.

who looked every bit as nautical as the work-stained variety, lolled comfortably on lawn chairs or stretched out on the grass. At appropriate times they murmured quiet words of sympathy to the unlucky and loud congratulations to the winners.

Frank Somerville, a Toronto sailor spending holidays at Chemong, and his crewman, George Gray of Peterborough, were the top sailors in the regatta. In their 14-foot international dinghy they won the Kawartha Lakes Challenge Cup in open race and the dinghy race, both run Saturday afternoon. Sunday morning they were second in the Chemong dinghy race which was run as an open event with handicaps. The winners of this race and the cup that went with it were Jimmy Collins and his brother Robin as crewman, of Peterborough. First boat home in the event was the Kestrol skippered by Lyman Crawford-Brown.

Good Sailing days

Both days were fine sailing days, although the wind Saturday was gusty and tested the competitors thoroughly. The race was run from in front of the Matthews' cottage south of the causeway. The first leg of each race headed almost directly into a south-west wind and quickly strung out the field, although each race saw strong competition for the winner from two or three other craft.

The races were accident free, although there were several spills. Starter Graham "Red" Eastwood got the boats off to good starts.

Large Entry List

Three tows arrived from other lakes to give the Chemong craft a fight for the prizes. Harold "Keeler" Knapman, president of the Stony Lake Aquatic Association and long-time sailor on the Kawartha Lakes headed a float of 10 boats from Stony Lake. David Flavell arrived with three dinghies. George Cook brought down two dinghies from Lakefield.

There was a good sized field in each race. Thirteen took part in the first race, 18 in the second and 20 competed in the Sunday morning event.

Both George Cook, Lakefield, and Jimmy Collins, Peterborough, were among the leaders in all the races. Besides winning the Sunday morning open, Mr. Collins and his brother Robin as crew, finished third in the first race, George Cook sailing with Tony Clark, Peterborough, placed second in the first race and third in the second.

In the second race which was for the Kawartha Lake Challenge cup, Karl Duffus with Bill Davidson crew placed second. Jack Matthews with Jane Gillespie crew was third in the final race run Sunday morning.

MAKE HEADLINES

J. Campbell, Brantford city clerk, and H. A. Dorrance, Brantford parks superintendent.

Home Economists

Miss Doreen Kelly has been appointed county home economist for Essex, Elgin and Kent. She is a daughter of the Rev. George F. Kelly and Mrs. Kelly of Lakefield, and graduated this year in household economics from the University of Toronto.

Miss Jean Noble of Shelbourne has been given a similar post for the Counties of Durham, Northumberland, Peterborough and Victoria, with residence at Bowmanville. She also was graduted from the University of Toronto this year in home economics.

Canning Plant Will Not Open

The canning plant at Canada Packers will continue idle through the tomato and pumpkin season. There won't be any local pack this year, and that includes the pea season which also stayed dormant. The canning industry of the province did such a big job last year, so it is said, that the carry over was too heavy to warrant resumption of canning in all the plants this year.

However, three canneries started work last week in Prince Edward county, two weeks earlier than usual. The crop is better than was expected, but the acreage is smaller than last year, and the volume will be down.

Here's Credit For Little Atlas Obscure Pint-Sized Gadget That Shouldered A 40-Ton CGE Rail

By HARRY THEOBALD

There was something comic in the contrast of a groundling hydraulic jack, a pint-sized Atlas, and the big 60-ton crane, high up under the roof of the new building at the Canadian General Electric works, in their respective contributions to the assembly of a huge machine Saturday morning. The crane is part of the new equipment, giving the plant greater lifting and carriage power than ever. It immediately catches the eye of the layman with the small boy's susceptibility to the attraction of cumbrous moving parts. The crane is patently obvious, but the more you watch it, the more are you amazed at the fineness of its mechanism, a delicacy of operation as when you suddenly become aware that it is lowering a spreading 40-ton section of a machine so slowly and carefully that the movement is almost imperceptible.

On second thought, of course, that is an essential capacity and attribute of the crane. It lifts and lowers anything up to 60 tons with the precision of a giant and sensitive hand. Even the layman realizes that there mustn't be any awkward and loose bumping in that process. The man at the electrical control in the crane cage up against the skylight laid the 40 tons right on the line, and with facility that is still surprising after every concession has been allowed to the essential necessities of the job.

To the shop employees that is a commonplace performance, and, besides, the reference to it, or rather the preoccupation with the crane, is neglecting the hydraulic jack. And this is the jack's story.

The visitor would look around a long time before he would notice that little jack. Gaping at the crane, you could stumble over the jack because it is only ankle high, a most inconspicuous gadget.

Transferring Boring Mill

Any way, they have been transferring the big 45-foot boring mill from the old machine shop to the [illegible] arate story. Only incidentally is the shifting of the big mill mentioned. One of its parts is called "the rail," which weighs about 40 tons. That gives you an idea of its heft. This is one of the jobs that devolved to the crews of which Dave Menzies Sr. is in charge. It should be said that they had to dismantle the huge boring mill, the show piece of the machine shop for more than 20 years, and get it over to the new building and then set it up again.

William Anderson is the foreman of the crane work. Well, the crane crew had got this 40-ton part of the mill into position close up against two big supporting columns of that machine, in the business of putting it together again.

But, the rail wasn't quite level. Somebody must have suggested, "Bring on the jack." When you are watching that kind of rebuilding you don't poke your nose over the men's shoulder. You stand back at circumspect distance, where Ian McRae, works manager, was also watching the progress of setting the huge parts of the big mill back in order. He was calmly content to leave the business to the men.

So, there is some final levelling of the rail to be done. One of the men picks up the humble looking jack, that deserves to be called Ajax, and places it in position under the end of the rail that has to be upped three or four inches.

This jack consists of two small parts each about the size of a quart milk bottle, with a connecting steel hose line, and a handle sticking out from one of the parts. Actually you don't know what is going on until it is all done. One of the men begins pumping the handle, and then you notice the gradual upward movement of the lifting part and surface of the jack. It is identically the same type of raising operation as jacking up the rear end of your car.

And as you are marvelling about the hydraulic power of that modest gadget, the works manager mentions that 40 tons are nothing for it. That jack can lift up to 100 tons. But, you'd never imagine it to look at it. In fact you wouldn't have noticed it, nor have recognized it for what it is.

While you were wondering about the mechanical similitude of little Ajax or Atlas and some roughly corresponding human values, some one called: "Wope," and the levelling detail was complete.

Then, because most of the element of comedy is in contrasts, you find yourself laughing at the incongruous aspect of that progress part of the re-assembling of the big boring mill; and at yourself for concentrating on the big crane's job with its lifting capacity, and not even knowing that this little jack was around the place, ready to be dragged out of its floor obscurity when its powerful shoulder was needed for the finishing touch of levelling the big rail.

4 Boys Enter Oshawa Derby

Peterborough boys are preparing to enter the soap box derby in Oshawa this Wednesday. Four boys, Herbie Jackson, senior 1949 Soap Box Derby champion, David Jackson, [illegible] Pollard, Junior 1949 champion, and Richard Miller, Senior 1948 champion and winner of the Invitation Meet last year in Oshawa, will be entered in the Oshawa Invitation Meet Wednesday night.

The Oshawa Derby will be Canada's largest Soap Box Derby with 96 entries. Not all these will compete in the actual racing events on Wednesday as the cars have to pass a strict inspection. Derby officials expect that there will be 32 entries in each class, junior and senior.

The Derby day starts at 9 a.m. Wednesday with a parade. Actual racing begins at 10 a.m. with a heat being run every five minutes until one o'clock. Beginning at two the heats continue until the winners are declared.

In the evening the first four in each of the classes of the Oshawa Derby will compete in a special invitation meet against champions from other cities in Ontario which the Peterborough boys won last year.

ESCAPES INJURY

Involved in a car-train accident in Brantford Saturday morning, S. Kachek, RR 1, Port Hope, escaped injury. Mr. Kachek was in a car driven by B. Charwcke, of Toronto, when the vehicle was hit by a Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway yard engine. Charwcke and Kachek were taken to the office of Dr. C. R. Rudolph for treatment, but neither was seriously hurt. The car was dragged 50 feet along the tracks by the engine.

Teachers Hold Conference For Five Days

By KAY REX

OTTAWA, Aug. 8— (CP) — While Canadian youngsters are lapping up the few remaining weeks of summer holidays, their teachers have settled down to a five - day grind of convention meetings.

The 26th annual conference of the Canadian Teachers Federation, which speaks for close to 60,000 public, separate and secondary teachers in the Dominion, opened today with a series of closed executive and directors meetings.

The convention proper will get under way Tuesday when delegates gather for the first general session and Mayor E. A. Bourque of Ottawa, will officially welcome the group to the capital.

Teachers from every province will attend the sessions, together with interested observers and representatives of labor, business, and Canadian and American education organizations.

Discuss Aid Drive

The teachers' current federal-aid-for-education drive will highlight most of the functions. In a telephone interview Saturday, C. J. Oates of Vancouver, CTF president, expressed optimism about the outcome of the campaign.

He felt that as far as national defence is concerned, and Canada's position in the world of trade, the Dominion, in future, will be "dependent on the education of her citizens, not on their numbers."

Dr. O. V. B. Miller of Fredericton, newly-appointed director of education services for New Brunswick will report Wednesday on the recent conference of the World Organization of the Teaching Profession which he attended at Berne, Switzerland. Discussion will follow on the CTF policy with respect to WOTP.

Directors of the Federation will be asked to approve the report of a survey which the CTF conducted in April and May on living and working conditions of teachers across Canada.

Quebec delegates attending the convention are expected to ask for Dominion standing for teachers. The Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers has long urged that teachers with recognized certificates based on completion of high school and at least one year of professional training, be enabled to teach in any part of Canada.

August Month of Plenty Make Sure Surplus Saved

By MARY MOORE

We have a friend who every year puts away a big pack of grape conserve.

I wish I could be certain that my family would be so constant. But no sooner do they rave about my wonderful pack of black currant jam than I hear "Golly, mum, didn't you make any black currant jelly?" or Pete will come up from the basement with that hunter's look in his eye and say "Where have you hidden the strawberry jam this year?" It just happens that I was out west during strawberry season and the Moore's just will not have any of same this year—unless they buy it; for there were eight jars left from the 1948 pack and I was discouraged over it.)

But this is a cookery column so let's get on with the cooking. It is canning today.

I am aware that I am repeating myself but I always feel surer of myself if I reread instructions—especially for a job that only comes once per year.

There are a great many of us who can our own peaches, pears, plums, tomatoes; and who make our own chilic sauce, pickles, grape juice and peach conserve. So I will try to go through the method of making each one of these, and maybe a few others—depending on how many requests I receive for other things.

Canned Peaches

Use fully ripened fruit or it is difficult to peel. For underipe peaches the canning industry uses lyie peeling of peaches. If readers would like instructions for this please write to me.

Plunge ripe fruit into boiling water for one minute or until skins slip easily and may be removed. Plunge into cold water and peel. Cut in halves and remove pits. Pack into hot sterile jars; fill to almost overflowing with boiling hot thin syrup (1 cup sugar to each 3 cups water). Jars should have previously been fitted with sterile rubber rings. Put on sterile tops, and put on rings, adjusting to within ¼ turn of tight. If hot water bath is used process both quarts and pints 20 minutes. Invert after tightening seal. Never loosen seal — even when you are tempted to because jar contains air space.

Pears — Home Canned

Bartletts are the choicest variety, because of their superior flavour and because they ripen so well, and consequently do not need to be precooked before sealing.

Wash, pare an 1 cut into halves; core, being sure to remove all of the core lining. (I use a potato-and-melon-ball shaper for this.) Drop immediately into cold salt bath (4 teaspoons salt to 1 gallon water) to prevent discoloration while you work. Pack into jars, having round side of fruit to outside of jars. Pour over boiling hot thin syrup (1 to 3) to nearly overflowing, having previously put sterile rubbers on jars. Put on sterile top, and seal to within ¼ turn of tight. Process in hot water bath 20 minutes. Tighten seal and invert. NOTE: If peaches or pears are processed in pressure cooker pints or quarts require 10 minutes at 5 lbs. pressure.

Canned Plums

These are usually canned whole and skins should be pricked after washing well. Pack into hot sterile jars, fitted with sterile rubber. Pour over thin (1 to 3) or medium (1 to 2) syrup to nearly overflowing; put on sterile tops, put on ring and tighten to within ¼ turn of tight. Process 15 minutes in hot water bath or 10 minutes at 5 lbs. pressure in pressure cooker. Tighten seal and invert.

Yes, the old proverb applies to planned saving too! The persistent practice of systematic saving strengthens your defences against all that is unpredictable in life . . . helps to make your plans for the future.

Few things confer such benefits as the practice—the habit of saving. It creates a growing self-confidence. It opens up opportunities that would never be yours, but for cash in the Bank.

For nearly a hundred years The Bank of Toronto has helped men and women save by helping them to plan their savings to their own best advantage. With time, planned saving becomes so easy that it's almost automatic. It may seem difficult to begin saving but even though the start be small the essential thing is to make that important first deposit.

We invite you to begin the practice of saving the easy way—with the friendly aid of The Bank of Toronto.

Divorce Is No Disgrace Better To Tell The Truth

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man 30 years of age. Married five years. No children. During the last four years I have had the care of my wife's parents constantly and part of the time other of her relatives and because of this have been unable to assist my own widowed mother and sisters. My wife is pretty, sweet and attractive and as long as things move along her way everything is lovely, but when she is crossed she goes into the sulks and our home becomes a place of misery. When I go to see my mother it takes her two weeks to recover from her peeve. Last winter I started a course in night school, but had to give it up as she objected to it in order to keep the peace. Recently I again suggested night school and at this time we are merely on polite speaking terms in consequence. What shall I do?

J. W. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, you have to decide first whether you are going to be a man or a mouse, whether you are going to assert your own independence or meekly submit to being walked over by a petty domestic tyrant.

There are a lot of men in your fix, son, who are afraid of their wives and who jump every time wife speak to them. Of course, they are cowards, but I don't know that you can blame them overmuch. They get so much fighting out in the world they don't feel equal to coming home and having another battle, so they just give in and let wife roughshod over them. They are for peace at any price, even if the price is their manhood and their personal liberty.

But, believe me, a man makes a mistake when he surrenders to his wife. In the first place her tyranny grows by what it feeds on and the more you let her domineer, the more she will, until finally she will not allow you to have even an opinion of your own. In the second place, while she will rule you with a rod of iron, she will have contempt for you for letting her do it. No woman ever really loves the man she henpecks because she doesn't respect him. And in the third place, you will inevitably come to hate her yourself. No man ever yet loved his jailer.

So my advice to you is to read the Riot Act to the lady. Don't sneak off to see your mother. Go openly and above-board. You know that you should go to night school and improve yourself. Don't consult her about it. Simply put on your hat and go.

If she passes into the silence and won't speak to you, just let her sulk. Don't try to win her out of it or make any attempt to cheer her up. If you won't notice it she will quit, because, to be effective, a grouch needs an audience.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I agree with your theory that girl might keep a boy jealous, but only to a certain extent. It is all right some time, but not all the time. I and a lot of other boys would like to know what you think of this.

JACK

ANSWER: You've got me wrong, Jack, if you think that I advocate jealousy in any way, shape or form. Nothing is farther from my thought. I don't think that jealousy is an indication of love. I think it is the enemy of love and that any girl who deliberately rouses the green-eyed monster in a man's breast deserves what she generally gets, and that is to be forsaken for some other girl in whom he has more faith and who is surer of her sentiments.

But perhaps you are jealous of your girl friend without cause. If you are engaged to her and the weddinn day is in sight, you have a right to expect her to devote all of her time and attention to you, and not go out with other dates unless you approve.

Now suppose you monopolize a girl while she is at her most attractive age and most likely to make a good marriage. You keep all the other men away. You prevent her from marrying some man who could give her a good home and take care of her, but you have no intention whatever of marrying her yourself, and finally, when you have tired of her and she is not quite such a good-looker as she used to be, you simply kiss and ride away. And that ends it so far as the girl is concerned.

Now don't you see what an idiot a girl is to fall for such an unequal bargain? Don't you see that if she has any intelligence at all she will not tie herself down to one man until he mentions why she should go around with wedding day in sight, you have a number of boys, and keep the door open for eligibles, so to speak?

And don't you see why no boy has a right to be jealous under the circumstances?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend keeps asking where my father is. I tell him that he is dead. My parents are divorced. Shall I tell him the truth?

D. L.

ANSWER: Of course. Evidently he suspects that there is something wrong and he probably imagines it to be something far worse than it is. It is always a mistake to make a mystery about your personal affairs. It sets people guessing and they always guess the worst thing possible.

There is no disgrace in being divorced.

French New Look Costs Husbands Just as Much

By ED CREACH

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—(AP)—Park your coats on that hitching post, gents, and let's amble down Fifth Avenue while the women folks are finishing their marshmallow sundaes.

The big stores with the chrominum-plated floorwalkers broke out a few million dollars' worth of female Fall finery over the weekend, and you might as well see what you're going to get nicked for.

Pay no mind to all that fancy advertising. Here's what it boils down to:

The French New New Look is battling it out for the national fashion title with the American Back-to-the-1920's look.

You should worry which one wins.

Either way, it's going to cost you.

How does the New New Look differ from the old New Look?

Well, the hem hangs higher. Thirteen-and-a-half inches from the floor. Remember that! You might be asked about it on a give-away program.

Also, the new look has something called a floating panel, not to be confused with floating power. The floating panel is a kind of misplaced bib. It hangs down from the waist, apron-wise.

Now then, in the next block, the new old look.

Gad, what memories it brings back—the Charleston, Clara Bow, Prohibition.

The tight, or hobble, skirt is back. Short, too—'way up what we used to call the limb. And get that waistline, half-way down the hip.

Let's face it, men—the oatmeal box figure may be on its way back.

Social Situations

SITUATION: You are expected to make an introduction but you cannot remember the name of one of the persons who should be introduced.

WRONG WAY: Don't make the introduction.

RIGHT WAY: Apologize for forgetting the name, so that you can make the introduction. It is better manners to admit that your memory is poor than to avoid introducing two persons when it is obvious that they have not met and should be introduced.

Mincing Steps in Vogue With New Sheath Skirts

By FLORENCE MILLS

PARS, Aug. 8—(AP)—Mincing steps were in vogue when Jacques Fath Sunday night gave a three-hour Fall fashion show. The sheath skirts he showed for evening wear were so tight the mannequins looked as though they were being wheeled along instead of walking.

Fath features the sheath skirt throughout his collection but those he showed for day wear, made walking more feasible.

He varies it by buttoning either a full-cut goder or pleated panel onto the back or front. This treatment makes it look half pencil-straight, half flared. He slits up one side of a black moire cocktail dress and buttons in a bodet or tulle.

Fath shows no tailor-mades but prefers thigh-length loose jackets belted slightly into the waist, giving a blouse effect to the back. All are teamed with tight pencil skirts. He makes them in soft tweeds and woollens, in shades of grey, beige, palma and violet.

One dazzling suit was built on this style and smothered with gold sequins.

Fath shows a lot of flying panels that grow down from bloused back bodices and over-skirts that are short in front, long at the back and set over sheath skirts.

He introduces demure choir-boy collars which he sets on plain navy dresses with huge pocket flaps set beneath the bust. He even uses them on bronze or gold sequin shirtwaist blouses that are teamed with sheath or tulle ballet skirts.

One-Burner Dinner
Sliced Jellied Veal
Sweet Pickles
Corn on the Cob
Sliced Tomatoes and Cucumbers on Lettuce
Mayonnaise
Ice Cream with Butterscotch Sauce and Peanuts
Cookies Coffee

Directions

The pickerel fillets should be broiled with salt and paprika sprinkled on—no butter. The tomatoes should be sprinkled with buttered crumbs and broiled at same time as fish.

The special meat loaf recipe is worth repeating: If your butcher will do it ask him to grind 2 pounds meat together: 1 part beef, 1 part pork and 1 part veal. Mix these with 1 grated onion, 2 cups soft breadcrumbs, 2 eggs, 1 can condensed mushroom soup, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, Worcestershire sauce. Mix all well, and pack into greased ring or round mould. Bake about 1¼ hours at 375 deg. Fahr. then turn out on large pie plate; spread with dilute catsup. Return to oven to bake catsup into surface of meat. Lift onto hot platter with two long egg turners or spatulas.

Are you remembering that it improves baked new potatoes if you spread them with butter about 10 minutes before they are finished baking?

Peach Cream Pie

Filling for baked crust: Heat 1 pint whole milk in top of double boiler. Mix together dry ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon salt and then stir in 2 egg yolks. Add a little of the hot milk to this and stir to a paste, then stir this into the hot milk until thick. Cook about 15 minutes, stirring. Remove from heat and cool. Add about 2 cups sliced peaches and pour into baked shell. Cover with leftover egg whites made into meringue with 4 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Bake in very slow oven to bake merinue. Bananas or cocoanut may be use d in place of peaches.

Mix together ¼ cup catsup, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, a few drops Tabasco, juice ½ lemon and shake of salt. If desider very finely chopped celery or onion may be added to this, and plenty of paprika for a very red tinge.

Curry Sauce

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, stir in 3 tablespoons flour, then stir in 1½ cups hot homogenized milk, until thick. Add 1 teaspoon each salt and curry powder, and ¼ teaspoon white pepper.

QUESTION: You mentioned going to a Chinese restaurant when you were out west. Would you print some Chinese recipes some time. Could I have recipe for Egg Fou Yong.—Student

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Egg Fou Yong

For each person to be served beat 1 egg slightly with 1 tablespoon water, shake each of salt and pepper. Cut 1 small onion in thin slices and cook 3 minutes in 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add ¼ cup canned and drained or raw bean sprouts and ½ cup raw beef, pork or chicken cut into small fine strips and cook this, stirring frequently, until meat is cooked through. Put 1 teaspoon fat in small frying pan about 6 inches in diameter. When hot put in 2 tablespoons egg mixture, shake it around cover with 2 tablespoons of meat mixture and with remainder of the egg mixture. Cook slowly until brown on bottom. Turn like a pancake and brown on other side. Continue until all meat is used. Serve individually and immediately on bowls, garnished with lettuce leaf. Some people pass soy sauce, but the Chinese do not use it themselves on this.

I will print Chinese recipes in the next month or so.

MITCHELL—In loving memory of a dear husband, Robert Mitchell, who passed away August 8, 1947.

To remember my whole life through.
But the sweetness will linger forever.
As I treasure the image of you.
—Always remembered by his wife.

MITCHELL.—In loving memory of Robert Mitchell, who died August 8, 1947.
You're not forgotten, dear father,
Nor ever shall you be
As long as life and memory last
I shall remember thee.
—Sadly missed by Elsie, Jim and family.

MITCHELL, Robert—In fond and loving memory of our darling dad, who passed away two years ago, August 8, 1947.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true;
There's a token of our love dear dad,
And a heartache still for you.
—Sadly missed by son and daughter Bob and Bea and grandsons Bill and Alan.

TAYLOR—In loving memory of a darling son, Winston Taylor, who was drowned August 10th, 1947.
Two years have passed dear Winston,
Since you were called away,
The evening star shines o'er the grave
Of the one we loved and could not save.
The call was sudden and shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sweet little flower of heavenly birth,
He was too fair to bloom on earth.
—Sadly missed by mother, Emma Taylor.

St. John's Triumph

In an exhibition lacrosse tilt at Miller Bowl on Saturday afternoon, St. John's of Toronto edged Peterborough midget All-Stars 12 to 9. Play was close at all times with both teams trying hard and at times a little over-anxious. The game was well handled by Referees Whitnall and McMaster who handed out nine minor penalties to St. John's while Petes collected three.

Walsh and Franzak with four each, Hickey with two and Green and Romick with one each scored for St. John's. Scoring was well divided amongst the Petes with everyone working hard, Chapman playing a nice game in goal despite the score.

The return game will be played tonight (Monday) at St. John's and the Petes are hopefull of a win.

St. John's: Powers, Walsh, Hickey, McDonald, Franzak, Baski, Becket, Green, Hogan, Besange, Bouley, Brassur, Romick.

Petes: Chapman, O'Reilly, Galley, Caravaggio, Daniels, Fortaine, Allen, Brioux, MacIlmoyle, Outwater, Cupoli, Jones, Woodgate, Brown, Batley, Doris, Deck, Johnston.

Referees: Joe Whitnall, Fred McMaster.

Ask Parliament To Ratify March Budget

OTTAWA, Aug. 8 (CP)—The first session of the 21st parliament opening Sept. 15 will be asked to ratify the same budget that Finance Minister Abbott presented to the last Commons March 22.

A finance department official said there will be no changes in the budget, which has been in effect since Mr. Abbott read his tax changes to the Commons. Mr. Abbott will not re-read the budget speech to the new Commons elected in the June 27 general federal election.

Most of the budget tax changes were made retroactive to Jan. 1. As a result many people who paid income tax from the beginning of the year to March 31 are owed money by the government, the tax changes having knocked them out of the income tax brackets.

But the refund cheques cannot be sent out until the budget had been ratified by the Commons.

Pay Cheques

A matter of particular interest to members is the question of how much they are going to be paid this year. The last session sat from Jan. 26 to April 30. For that the members received $4,000. The old and the new members will receive an additional $4,000 if the fall session last 65 days.

Besides the indemnity, members are entitled to $2,000 as sessional expenses, payable at the end of the year.

A finance department spokesman said that members defeated in the general election will be entitled to about $650 out of the $2,000. Members re-elected will be docked about $300, because of the lapse between prorogation and election day. New members will be given the allowance—which works out to about $5 a day—as from election day.

Roy Hamer Retires As Production Head

OTTAWA, Aug. 8—(CP)—Roy Stokes Hamer, 65, director of production services in the Federal Agriculture Department, will retire Aug. 14, it was announced today. His successor has not been named.

A native of Bradford, Ont., Mr. Hamer is a son of a Simcoe County farmer. He graduated in 1907 from the Ontario Agricultural College and was one of six men selected by the Ontario Department of Agriculture to inaugurate its agricultural representative service.

He joined the Federal department in 1911, serving in the livestock branch until his appointment in 1940 as Director of Production Services.

Record Boosted

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 8—(CP)—The official Canadian endurance record for motorless aircraft was boosted to six hours and 16 minutes Sunday when London's gliding enthusiast, Al Pow kept his slender-winger "Homesick Engel" in the air almost two and a half hours longer than he ever had before. He held the previous record. The flight was made from the Kingston airport, and Mr. Pow flew from there to Brockville and back.

Find Youth's Body

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 8—(CP)—The body of Charles Robson, 17-year-old Stamford township youth missing since Monday, was found Saturday in a bush beside the Queen Elizabeth Highway, two miles from his home. His head had been partly blown off. Beside him was a shotgun believed to be the one he was seen carrying. The youth was reported missing after his dog returned home without him.

Says Magnificent Does Good Job

OTTAWA, Aug. 8 —(CP)—A naval headquarters spokesman said today that Canada's aircraft carrier the Magnificent is "adequate" for use in an anti-submarine role on the North Atlantic.

He was commenting on a Saturday dispatch from Sydney, Australia, in which the Sydney Sunday Herald questioned the operational value of Australia's new aircraft carrier Sydney, a sistership of the Magnificent.

The Herald said the Sydney had to abandon air exercises because the carrier could not produce enough air speed to launch planes.

No similar trouble in launching the navy's Fireflies from the decks of the Magnificent has been experienced, the naval spokesman said.

It was found, however, that in launching the Sea Fury, a heavier aircraft, wind speed was needed in addition to the speed of the carrier.

"But it is a rare day when you don't find a good wind on the Atlantic," the spokesman added.

Say Missionaries Safe

NAME BOXING CHANGES

The Canadian boxing championships, which will decide the make-up of the British Empire games mitt squad, will be held Oct. 6-8 at Fort William, Ken Yost, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, announced at Winnipeg Saturday night.

Competition will be staged in eight weight divisions and it is expected that a minimum of five fighters will be named to the B.E. squad.

Recession Talk Dying Out In United States

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (CP)—Talk of a bad recession in the United States has died down among Washington and New York business analysts, but there isn't much wildly optimistic talk, either.

Some prominent Washington experts express belief the economy has become steadier since falling away from last fall's boom level, but they say it hasn't settled on firm ground yet.

Things will stay about as they are or improve a little through September, they predict, then slide off for perhaps nine months —moving toward solid ground so gradually and piecemeal that the direction of movement may at times be hard to tell.

On the other hand, it's hard to find a man in New York who thinks the country is in for more than a moderate and short-lived readjustment before business in general steps ahead again.

One Washington economist says it's silly to describe present conditions in the United States as a recession when they represent "just what we were hoping and praying for so long—an end to or correction of the inflation." He and other Washingtonians say the distortions of inflation haven't been wiped out yet and that further dips in employment, production, incomes and prices are probable.

Encouraging Tendencies

However, these encouraging tendencies have been spotted in Washington:

Easy credit and low interest rates; no panic among consumers, business men, banks or government officials; industries apparently going through with plans for new plants and equipment;

Consumers keeping up purchases despite slight decline in incomes; an encouraging spurt in home construction and buying; a levelling-off of the decline in personal income (down only two per cent from last year's peak); renewed buying of lead and copper;

An increase in scheduled steel production late in July, for the first time in several months; auto production keeping at record rate; "some recovery" recently in textile markets.

5 RCAF Planes To Provide Air Manoeuvre

RCAF authorities at Trenton are sending five of their new planes, including a Vampire, as a display at Peterborough Exhibition on the afternoons of Thursday and Saturday, G. A. Gillespie said today.

They will be in the air over the city some time between 3 and 4 o'clock.

"We are all set for a good show," the manager said. "We are hoping for good weather, and that includes sunshine that was not so hot as last year. We have a lot of entries for the horse races, but the live stock exhibits will not be reported before the end of this week.

We have a carnival show that is coming well recommended. That is one feature the directors were particularly careful about, and we feel certain from all accounts that it will meet with public approval. Our new building will be completed in time for the Exhibition, and practically all the space in the former drill shed has been taken."

Deny Guelph Men Murder Suspects

GUELPH, Aug. 8 (CP)—Officials at Guelph Reformatory said today there was no basis for a report that police had questioned three prisoners here in connection with the slayings of Robert and Gloria McKay of Toronto.

Toronto reports recently said city and provincial police questioned three men convicted of stealing rifles, revolvers and weapons from a sporting goods store at Barrie.

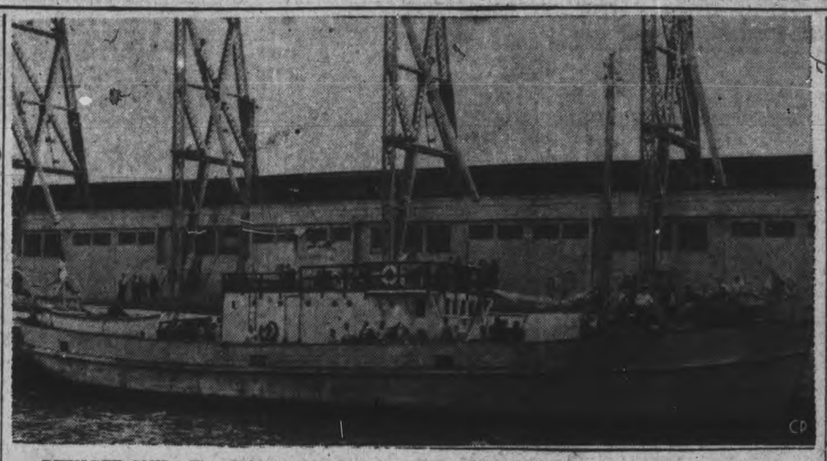
Mrs. Welles Dies

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, Aug. 8—(AP)—Mrs. Sumner Welles, wife of the former United States undersecretary of state, died in her hotel here Sunday night, hotel officials disclosed today. The former undersecretary and his wife sailed for Europe a month ago on a trip planned to restore his health, which was damaged by exposure when he fell unconscious one Christmas night in a snow-covered field near his Maryland estate.

SET HIGH JUMP RECORD

Lanky David Blair, of Montreal, set an official Canadian high jump record Saturday at the 63rd annual running of the Caledonian games at Vanvouver.

With a leap of six feet, 4¼ inches, the 22-year-old McGill University student smashed the record set in 1932 by Jack Portland, of Hamilton, at six feet, 4⅛ inches.



Two Societies Join For Show

The door prize at the flower show this week will be a CGE deluxe refrigerator. Mayor Max Swanston will make the draw on Saturday evening. Many other prizes are also offered.

District Gladiolus Society is joining with the local Horticultural Society in this week's exhibition. This is the second time they have joined hands, and with the space at the Armouries so much greater than at the Market Hall, there should be a fine show.

This appears to be a gladiolus year, judging by the wealth of color on the market Saturday. Exhibits will be received Thursday from 1 p.m. to 10 p.m. Judging will begin Friday morning. William C. Wilks says there have been promises of displays by outside growers. He is hoping that many new exhibitors will enter this show. Special committees have been set up to assist them. Containers will be supplied except baskets and vases. Potted plant specimens must be pot grown, not lifted from the garden, "as this causes wilting."

Another point to parents is that this will be the only show for children this year. Copies of the prize list may be obtained from Mrs. J. H. Leslie or Mr. Wilks.

REFUGEE SHIP—The 250-ton ship Parnu, a former Canadian minesweeper, brought 134 Estonian and Latvian refugees to Canada after a rough 17-day Atlantic crossing from Sweden. This is the second refugee ship to reach Halifax within the past few weeks. The Skipper of the Parnu, Capt. Joseph Suksdorf, told Swedish port officials he was sailing for Norway, but set a course for Halifax instead.

LONDON, Aug. 8 (Reuters)—Home Secretary James Chuter Ede today refused to grant a reprieve to John George Taigh, self-confessed murderer of nine acid-bath victims. Haigh, 40, is scheduled to be hanged Wednesday morning. Ede said "There are not sufficient grounds to justify recommending any interference with the due course of the law.

Mrs. Dionne has promised to bring the Dionne quintuplets, now 15 years old, to Lourdes next year, it was learned Sunday.

Mrs. Dionne stayed in Lourdes from July 31 until Saturday but no reporters or photographers were able to contact her.

Bolt Of Lightning Kills Ball Player

URBANA, O., Aug. 8 (AP)—A bolt of lightning Sunday struck a baseball diamond here, killing Donald Jensen, 20, first baseman for Urbana's semi-pro team, and injuring seven other Urbana players.

Witnesses said players were knocked off their feet by the bolt, but none of the crowd of about 400 was injured.

A similar accident last Sunday killed three semi-pro baseball players and injured 50 other persons at Baker, Fla.

Ban Marriage Ads

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Marriage advertisements have been banned from Czechoslovakia's newspapers because they "made marriage a capitalistic business transaction," the Communist organ Rude Pravo said Sunday. But ban or no ban, some lonely hearts are finding ways of meeting by employing such ruses as advertising for housekeepers, the paper added.

Surprise Two Thieves

WHITBY, Aug. 8.—(CP). — Police said today two thieves surprised while breaking into a Whitby store early today, made their getaway by jumping through a plate glass window and were lost in the early morning mist. Police said the pair were apparently trying to steal a 600-pound safe when they were surprised.

C.P.R. Engineer Dies

TORONTO, Aug. 8 — (CP) — Maxwell Gordon Strachan, 63, Canadian Pacific Railway engineer, died Sunday. He was with the CPR 35 years and his run for some time was from Toronto to Teeswater. He was a native of Magnetawan, Ont. His widow and a daughter survive.

$125,000 Barn Fire

TORONTO, Aug. 8 — (CP) — A $125,000 fire early Monday destroyed the magnificent three-storey tile and brick barn built by the late Sir Henry Pellatt, many years ago at King City, 20 miles north of here. Owned by the St. Augustine Fathers, the structure was erected by the man who built Casa Loma in Toronto.

Canadian War Museum Wants Exhibits Centre

OTTAWA, Aug. 8—(CP)—The Canadian war museum, a little one storey stucco building tucked away in a corner of Ottawa, today went on the warpath for a new war-exhibits centre at least three times as big as the one it has.

Officials of the museum in a brief prepared for presentation to the Massey commission on art and science development, asked for erection of such a structure to "provide an adequate record of Canada's tremendous effort in two word wars."

Although located in the north section of Ottawa, away from the main streets, the museum was attracting wide attention. Officias said more than 100,000 persons visited the museum last year, its seventh year of operation.

The five-member royal commission, headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, former Canadian high commissioner to the United Kingdom and now chancellor of the University of Toronto, opened public hearings here last week.

The museum officials said that lack of space meant trophies and weapons were scattered across the country and there was no certainty that they would be cared for at these centres "indefinitely."

Destroyed By Fire

Museum officers noted that "a very large quantity of German, Japanese and Italian" war equipment had recently been destroyed by fire at Camp Borden.

There were other items which the museum wanted on display. In the historical sections of the navy, army and air force were papers "of immense interest to Canadians." These could be turned over by the defence department to the museum's custody.

It was "not an unreasonable idea" if war paintings, depicting scenes from both world wars, could be given greater display in the museum. Many of these now were in the National Gallery.

The museum with its meagre single display hall, could only hang some 160 photographs of the First World War out of a collection of 800 or more stored in the Dominion Archives.

Valuable museum material in private hands, such as uniforms, weapons and military documents, were trickling in to the museum. It was almost certain that this flow would steadily increase if it became known that such exhibits were wanted and could be preserved in suitable surroundings.

Shooting Turns Out To Be Hot Argument

OWEN SOUND, Aug. 2.—(CP).—Police investigating a reported shooting, said to be replete with shots and shouted threats, traced it to two men drinking and arguing in a truck.

The report originated early Sunday with 21-year-old George Nicols, who said he heard gunshots and saw a man stagger out of a truck, his white shirt covered with what appeared to be blood.

Five police cruisers searched the area until they found the truck and the two men. The reported "shots" were believed by police to be backfiring from the truck.

Recapture Prisoner

TORONTO, Aug. 8 — (CP) — Joseph Farmer, 35, of Toronto, who escaped from Burwash Prison Farm near Sudbury July 23, was recaptured Saturday at Simcoe, Ont. He was brought here by Toronto detectives, who said he will be tried at Sudbury on a charge of escaping custody.

Have Housing Plan

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 8—(CP)—Premier Byron Johnson said Saturday that the Department of National Defence has plans for a $14,000,000 housing program in Greater Victoria. The plans call for 1,600 houses of from four to seven rooms. Details will not be disclosed until later.

Remove Chest Tumor Big As Man's Head

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 8 (AP)—Two-year-old Judy Rae Carpenter was given a better than even chance to live after surgeons removed from her chest a tumor "at least as big as a man's head."

Staff members of University Hospital said Sunday it was the largest tumor of its kind they ever had seen. It has the bodily components of another child.

Dr. Vernon L. Boersma, of the hospital pediatrics departement, saiad the disorder was known to the medical profession as "the included twin."

Doctors believe that if there had been a normal development Judy would have had a twin.

Last Hotel Closes

PAISLEY, Aug. 8 (CP)—When residents of this Bruce County village last spring voted down a proposal for sale of beer in a beverage room, they paved the way for closing the community's last hotel. True to his promise that if the referendum was defeated he would close his place because of operating losses, R. E. Armstrong, proprietor of the Central Hotel, announced he was selling out.

Truck Smashes Bridge

BRECKENRIDGE, Que., Aug. 8.—(CP).—The 53-ton weight of a heavy tractor truck carrying a steam shovel smashed a bridge across a creek on Provincial Highway No. 8 Saturday but 15 men on the truck escaped without injury.

Ecuador 'Quake Worst Since '39

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(AP).—The Ecuador earthquakes Friday, in which the death toll may exceed 4,600, is South America's worst tragedy of its kind since 1939.

In that year, 30,000 were killed in earthquakes in Chile.

Only other recent quakes on the southern continent were last April, when 44 were killed in South Central Chile, and in November, 1947, when 60 were killed in Central Peru.

Other major earthquake catastrophes of the last two decades:

1948—3,238 killed at Fukai, Japan, more than 1,000 killed at Lihwa, Sikang province, China.

1939—Erzingan, Turkey, 23,000 killed.

1935—Quett, India, 60,000 killed.

1934— India, more than 6,000 killed.

1933 — Honshu Island, Japan, 1,535 dead.

1932—Kansu, China, 70,000 killed.

1931—Managua, Nicaragua, 1,000 killed.

1930 — Southern Italy, 1,404 killed.

The greatest toll of lives taken by earthquakes this century was in 1920, at Kansu, China, when 180,000 were killed.

WMS To Help Send Clothing To Europe

WESTWOOD, Aug. 8.—(ENS).—An evening meeting at the home of Mrs. Ernest Warner was enjoyed by members of St. Andrew's Women's Missionary Society on Wednesday.

Mrs. Gordon Warner took charge of the worship service and also read an interesting letter from a nurse who made a mercy flight to the Arctic regions.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Ernest Warner and stressed the desperate need for food and clothing in Europe and Asia. A special offering will be taken for this cause at the September meeting.

Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge will be hostess for the next meeting on Tuesday evening, September 6.

Correspondent Dies

OSHAWA, Aug. 8.—(CP). — Richard Stuart, Oshawa correspondent for the Toronto Globe and Mail, died today. A diabetic since his service in the Second World War, he was taken to hospital Sunday and never regained consciousness.

Police Turning To Science In Fight Against Crime

By MICHAEL O'MARA

LONDON, Aug. 8—(CP)—Short of manpower, London's police force is turning more and more to science in its fight against post-war crime.

Still several hundred less than established strength of 20,000, the Metropolitan police authorities are conducting a brisk recruiting drive. But crime figures, too, continue to mount.

In 1938 there were 95,280 indictable offences known in the London area. The 1947 figure was 127,458. Expressed as crimes per 1,000 of population, this means an increase of from 10.9 to 15.5.

The answer is to make one constable today do as much as two did 10 years ago. And for this he must be backed by more communications, faster vehicles and more highly skilled laboratory technicians.

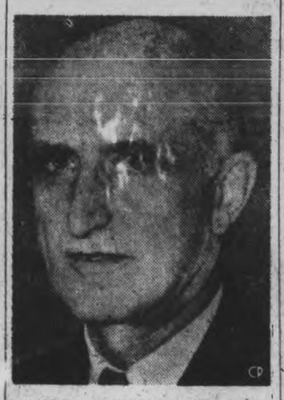
An elaborate teleprinter network augments telephone links between New Scotland Yard and every sub-divisional station. The police force also covers the metropolis with its own system of wireless telephony.

A fleet of 725 cars and 319 motorcycles is maintained in top running order. Police drivers are among the most expert on the roads. In 1948 they suffered only 274 accidents in covering 18,514,620 miles—often at high speed in pursuit of fleeing criminals.

More Police-minded

The public, too, is becoming more police-minded. "Dial 999" is the catchword for getting rapid police action and from a total of such emergency telephone calls of 47,908 in 1938, the figure rose to more than 83,000 in 1948. Nearly 10 per cent of these calls led directly to arrests.

For instance:



At 3:30 a.m., the desk sergeant at Saines police station on London's western outskirts was told two men travelling in a black car had offered two bottles of whisky in exchange for gasoline at a local all-night garage. The proprietor suspected the liquor was stolen.

By 3:44, the Yard's central information room was droning out its message to three squad cars in the area.

The three converged on their quarry. When the leading police car drew within 20 yards, the fugutives began hurling whisky bottles at it, hoping to puncture its tires.

The end was sudden. With all four cars travelling at about 80 m.p.h., the black car crashed into a parked truck and the police cars squealed to a stop.

Hardly had the men been handcuffed when word was received from the surrey police that they were wanted for breaking into a country club and stealing a quantity of liquor. Each got a lengthy sentence.

NEW SPEAKER—W. Ross Macdonald, K.C., Liberal member of Parliament for Brantford City since 1935, will be the Speaker of the House when the new Parliament convenes September 15. He was Deputy Speaker and chairman of the Commons in committee in the last House.

Launch Drive To Clean Up Social Evils In Africa

JOHANNESBURG, Aug. 8 — (Reuters). — In an effort to rid South Africa of "social evils," the Congress on Social Evils of the Dutch Reformed Churches has launched a drive against "sex appeal" and "sweater girls."

The new campaign by the Reformed Churches comes at a time when police are intensifying their attack on many social evils, including drinking, gambling, and abortion.

C. R. Swart, the Union Minister of Justice, in an appeal to churches, welfare organizations, temperance bodies and the other agencies to help the police to clean up Johannesburg as far as they can, said the churches would be consulted regarding the revision of the liquor law.

He added that the government already has stopped one form of gambling evil—football pools — which had been imported from overseas, and police are taking active steps to combat gambling.

Swart said he would support the recent decision of a Johannesburg Supreme Court judge who imposed a light sentence on offenders convicted of keeping a brothel because the house had been conducted in a quiet and orderly manner.

Abortion Clean-up

Police also are intensifying the drive against abortion and almost every large centre in the Union has one or more persons appearing in court on charges in this connection.

One speaker at the Reformed Churches Congress, Mrs. G. Groenewald, said sex appeal was being exploited by unscrupulous businessmen who were turning womanliness into an article of commerce. She also reminded women that cosmetics and provocative clothing had their origin with prostitutes of olden times.

Another example of the debasement of womanliness, she said, are the sweater girls, who compete in "artificial accentuation of the upper part of the body." They are putting themselves on the level of the sensual Asiatic and barbarian, she said.

The Congress demanded a censorship of books published in South Africa, urging that they be censored in manuscript, because any ban after publication only acts as an advertisement.

But while attention is being centred on social evils in South Africa, the majority opinion here is that these evils are no worse in Johannesburg and the remainder of the Union than they are in cities elsewhere in the world — perhaps not quite as bad.

Many Taboos On Liquor Ads

By JACK R. RYAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — Taboos against many forms of liquor advertising in the United States are getting a thorough sifting as distillers step up their race for customers.

Such taboos, for example, as one state's ruling that small dogs like terriers may not be shown in liquor ads, but big dogs like mastiffs and St. Bernards are okay. The reasoning apparently is that children's attention might be attracted more by the little dogs than the big ones.

With more post-war aged whisky becoming available, and competition for the consumer's dollar increasing sharply, alcoholic beverage-makers are searching for ways to intensify and broaden their ad campaigns.

But they're finding the going rough. Ever since the end of prohibition in the United States, advertising of liquor has been more carefully regulated than that of any other product group.

For years there have been taboos against using women or children in hard-liquor ads. The United States flag cannot be used, by implied reference to the armed service, religious symbols, or anything symbolic of religious holidays.

Until a few weeks ago, when a major firm broke the tradition, liquor ads had appeared in Sunday papers only in isolated instances. Most distillers believed such advertising should not go into the home on Sunday.

Rescues Dog

STREETSVILLE, Aug. 8 (CP) —Roy Mathews of Streetsville dashed in front of a fast-moving twin-engined freight train today to save a dog tied to the tracks. Roy was working when he noticed the animal was held to the tracks by a leash which apparently caught on a railway spike. He snatched the dog free only seconds before the engine thundered over the spot.

Not Many Stars Can Stick To Retirement

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 8 (AP)— Ingrid Bergman's announcement that she will retire from films has been duplicated in Hollywood history—but not often.

Actors die hard. Stars seldom abandon the silver screen as long as theer are people who want to see them. Many movie "retirements" have been involuntary—by stars who have made their pile and would rather quit before sliding to the bottom of the ladder.

This is not true of Bergman. In last year's popularity polls, she was still the No. 1 film actress, despite a couple of unsuccessful pictures. If she stays retired—which many people here doubt—she will be passing up a possible salary of $20,000 a week.

Most recent example of a film retirement is Fred Astaire. He became just plain tired of dreaming up new dance routines and quit after "Blue Skies." But a couple of years later he regained his enthusiasm and is back working harder than ever. He recently said he is "through retiring."

One That Stuck

A few stars have retired and made it stick. Jane Bryan, a rising young actress, quit films to marry drug magnate Justin Dart. Her friends doubted that she would stay out of films for long. Spencer Tracy bet Bette Davis $100 Miss Bryan would come back. Tracy lost.

Montreal-born Norma Shearer stopped making movies in 1941. She had made a couple of bad films but she still had a following. But she chose to devote her life to her family.

Greta Garbo retired in 1941, but that was largely due to loss of the European market. About half of the profits from her films came from abroad. She will soon start a new film in Europe.

Ramon Novarro, the great screen lover of his day, was earning $10,000 a week when he retired 12 years ago. Novarro came back to pictures in recent weeks, as a character actor, and now has even returned to the studio (M. G.M.) where he started in 1920.

Slow Retirement

Toronto-born Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., retired gradually in the '30's. They were still box-office names, but never hit the peaks of their silent days. Their co-starring flop, "Taming of the Shrew," didn't add to their popularity.

Dolores Costello left pictures when she married John Barrymore. When their marriage broke up, she made a comeback. Harold Lloyd never announced his retirement, although he was off the screen for more than a decade. Now he is back before the public.

Among others who retired at varying degrees of popularity are: Colleen Moore, Billie Dove, Corinne Griffith, Norma and Constance Talmadge, Priscilla Lane, William Haines, Clara Bow and Marion Davies.

Say By-election Likely Soon In Gatineau

OTTAWA, Aug. 8—(CP)—Political observers believe the government will lose little time in calling a by-election in the Quebec constituency of Gatineau where a Commons vacancy was created through the appointment of Leon J. Raymond, the sitting members, as Clerk of the Commons.

The government, now holding 192 of the 262 seats in the Commons, is in a position where it does not have to fear the outcome of by-elections. In the last parliament the government held a majority of only a half dozen seats and it was in frequent danger of being defeated on the floor of the House. A defeat like that probably would have been followed by a general election.

Mr. Raymond succeeds Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, for 33 years clerk of the Commons.

Liberal Seat

The Gatineau constituency, formerly known as Wright, has been Liberal ever since Confederation, except for the 1917 wartime election when a Labor candidate was elected.

Mr. Raymond a 47-year-old lawyer first entered the Commons in the 1945 general election. Following his appointment to the clerkship, it was rumored that he has been training for the post for more than a year.

Defence Talks

There's little sign of a let-up in the series of defence talks that have been going on in the capital.

Francois Erasmus, South African defence minister, was here last week. This week it's Lewis Johnson, United States defence secretary.

Mr. Johnson is coming to Ottawa Thursday for what Defence Minister Claxton says is "an exchange of views on matters of mutual interest."

These "matters of mutual interest" probably include things like the Atlantic pact, hemisphere defence, clarification of how Canada fits into President Truman's proposal to arm western Europe and standardization of Canadian-U.S. defence equipment.

Million Dollar Gold Racket Operating In Cairo Lanes

CAIRO, Aug. 8 (Reuters)—The narrow, winding, dirty, cobbled lanes of Cairo's centuries-old Sagha district, have become the Middle East's clearing house for the illegal million-dollar gold and silver traffic to the Far East where smuggled bullion brings the highest prices in the world.

The Sagha, adjoining the famed Mousky Bazaars, is the main bullion market of the Middle East. Behind wooden counters in small shops, an estimated $60,000,000 worth of gold and more than [illegible] 000,000 worth of silver is sold each year.

Gold and silver funnel into Cairo's markets from neighboring Levantine countries, but ingots also find their way from the Netherlands, Italy and Switzerland.

Until a few months ago, there was no restriction on these imports, but now the government permits imports only from sterling areas. All exports are banned but there is no government control over local merchants' activities.

Gold Changes Hands

Despite the export ban, considerable quantities of the gold that changes hand in the Sagha are smuggled out, mainly to India and the Far East where gold—the most trusted metal—brings the highest prices in the world. Since India barred gold imports two years ago, Bombay prices took an upward swing, giving added incentive to smugglers.

The British gold sovereign is perhaps the most popular with smugglers because it is easy to conceal and is universally accepted as a medium of exchange.

Apart from sales destined for the smuggling trade, much of the previous metals sold in Cairo passes into the hands of the Fellaheen—peasants—who, after selling their crops, invest their earnings in jewelry which they hide in their primitive homes rather than trust banks.

Ask Germany Be Admitted To Council

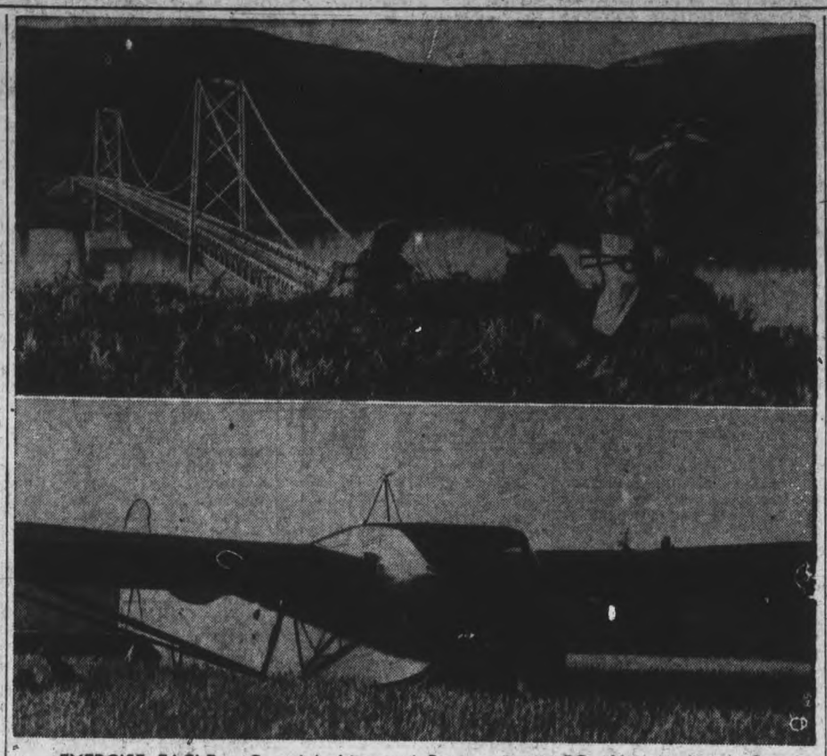
Invite 3 Other Lands To Sign Up; Churchill Delegate

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 9.—(AP).— Winston Churchill was to arrive today to press his appeal for admitting western Germany to the newly-created Council of Europe.

Foreign ministers of the 10 founding countries opened their first session Monday by inviting Turkey, Greece and Iceland to the Council, which sponsors hope may some day grow into a full-fledged European union.

Churchill, chief advocate of European union, will take his place as a British delegate at the first meeting of the Council's Consultative Assembly Wednesday.

Associates said Britain's wartime prime minister is expected to propose inncluding western Germany—as soon as its government is established after elections this month—in the Council.



The 10 charter members are Britain, France, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium, Luxembourg, Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Ireland. Greece and Turkey are expected to take their seats in the assembly tomorrow, bringing the membership to 101 delegates.

Iceland, which will have three delegates, is expected to await ratification by its parliament in the fall before joining.

The Council of Europe was established by the founding states as a forum bringing together leaders of almost all political groups except the extremes of Communism and Fascism. For the present it can only recommend policies to member governments. But its most ardent supporters hope it will pave the way for a United States of Europe with genuine executive powers.

The council is divided into two parts: the consultative assembly (parliament) and the committee of ministers made up of the foreign ministers of the member states. The committee of ministers has the authority to choose the subjects for debate and action in the assembly.

The ministers Monday approved a first year's budget of $500,000. Members will be assessed on a sliding scale according to population and economic conditions, with France, Britain and Italy each paying about one-fourth of the expenses.

EXERCISE EAGLE — Canada's biggest peacetime army manoeuvres were held during the week-end and military observers are still assessing the results. The operation was designed to test the country's ability to defend far northern places against the enemy. One of the points of attack was the Peace River bridge near Dawson Creek, BC. Here in the top Canadian Army photo, glider-borne troops of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are taking over the approach to the bridge seen in the background. In the bottom photo is one of the gliders used to land troops near the bridge. Soldiers can be seen taking cover after landing.

Lady Bullfighter Gets Rough Ride

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—(CP).—New York's would-be lady bullfighter today returned from Spain, still enthusiastic in spite of rude contact in the bull ring.

Instead of a paair of ears — bullfighting's victory symbol—young Mrs. Edith Laurie-Entin brought home a couple of sore spots where a young bull scored a point for Spain.

"But that's all right," she said. 'You've got to learn some time. I was so busy watching my footwork I forgot to look at the bull."

Mrs. Laurie-Etin fell in love with bull fighting on a trip to Lima Peru, before her marriage. She studied some more on her honeymoon in Spain, and spent another five weeks at it on this trip.

500 Men Win Fight Against Montana Fire

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 9 (AP)—Man was winning his fight today against a fire that has killed 13 persons and devastated 6,000 woodland acres.

The flames were being checked by 500 men, tired and grimy after a four-day struggle. A. D. Moe, Helena National Forest supervisor, said the blaze should be entirely controlled by Wednesday.

A final three miles of fireline will be built today. Mop-up work, in this case one of the toughest phases of the battle, began Monday night as crews worked portions of the fire's extreme edges.

Plane Crashes In Street, 4 Uninjured

TIMMINS, Aug. 9 (CP) — A float-equipped plane crashed Monday night in a residential street in nearby South Porcupine, but its pilot and three passengers, bushland guides, walked away uninjured from the wreckage.

The plane ripped down telephone and power lines as pilot John Timmins guided it to a pancake landing. None of the townspeople was injured.

The plane, owned by Northern Aviation Ltd., was bound for Griffin Lake in the bush country, 62 miles north of here. It crashed shortly after taking off but did not catch fire. The pilot found that, due to a strong downdraft, he could not maintain altitude.

Airline officials described the crashed plane, bought only recently, as "a total loss."

Citizens of the gold-mining community of South Porcupine praised the pilot's skill in landing the plane without loss of life or damage to property.

An eyewitness who saw the plane come to earth described the accident to reporters:

"The plane was headed almost straight up and I could see that the pilot was in trouble. I thought I heard the engine cough several times and then the plane seemed to slide into the ground."

Red Halton, works department employee, sighted the plane seconds before the crash.

"It dipped sharply," he recounted. "The wing clipped the telephone lines, struck the boardwalk and nosed over. The tail caught in 220-volt lines overhead.

Police Put Down Revolt In Small Slovakian Town

PRAGUE, Aug. 9—(AP)—Police have put down a "revolt" in a Slovakian town where Roman Catholics defending their priest from threatened arrest had set up their own local government, a Communist weekly news magazine reported today. Aroused villagers led by a band of fighting peasant women had beaten up the chairman of the Communist-controlled local executive board, Svet Prace, weekly magazine of the Czechoslovak Communist party, said.

Two persons were reported wounded and "several" arrested in the incident at Strecno, in northwestern Slovakia.

The magazine gave no precise date for the clash but said the offending village had its electric power cut off for several weeks, apparently as punishment.

Strecno is in the Zilina district of Slovakia where fighting between Roman Catholic villagers and Communist-controlled police broke out about six weeks ago. Whether this was a new incident or a report on details of former fighting now coming to light could not be definitely established.

Beat Up Chairman

Svet Prace gave this account of the incident:

The townspeople of Strecno beat up the chairman of a Communist-controlled local executive board from a neighboring town "who was just passing through their village."

The attack started because the Strecno villagers claimed they heard the official was going to arrest their priest.

"Thereupon the women of Strecno gathered in front of their parson to defend him. They were joined by some men armed with flails and scythes."

The aroused villagers then began attacking every automobile which passed through the village. When security police and workers' militiamen arrived late that night they were met by peasant women ready to fight.

"However, there was no firing and there have been no 'martyrs.' The 'revolution' was ended in five minutes and several disturbers were arrested."

U.S. Complaints Worry Britain

LONDON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Public and official concern is mounting here at the growing volume of complaints in the United States Congress and the American Press about Britain's recovery efforts.

Official British sources say they believe many of the complaints are based on lack of knowledge of Britain's problems and achievements since the war's end.

Some informants expressed the view that much of the criticism of Britain's labor government stemmed from dislike of President Truman's over-all economic or political policies. This, they said, explained why Britain has become the target of attack by Republican and Isolationist newspapers and spokesmen in the United States.

The U.S. government, these sources say, has never formally or informally charged that Britons are not working hard enough.

"When an American newspaper or Senator attacks this country for pampering its workers or using good American dollars for its social services," said one informant, "in reality they are attacking Paul Hoffman (European Recovery Program administrator) because they don't like ERP, or they are attacking President Truman because they want him to reduce foreign aid expeditures and of course, international taxation."

Operation Successful

MONTREAL (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton said today he felt that "Operation Eagle," just concluded by the Army and the Air Force in Alberta "was successful." "It was not an exercise for aircraft," Mr. Claxton said. "It was an exercise for paratroops, and as such was held to be a success."

Find Chicago No Longer Mob Happy Hunting Ground

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9 — (AP). — There has been a change in Chicago's underworld.

You don't hear the bang, bang of gang pistols and machine guns nearly as often as you did 20 years ago. But there are other, and more subtle, differences between the era of Al Capon and the present time.

Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the Chicago Crime Commission, a civic agency that has been the city's "watchdog of crime" for 30 years, compared the two periods.

"There isn't as much Wild West style shooting among gang elements as during the '20s and '30s," he said. "There still are killings, but not to the same extent."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation reported Chicago had 326 murders in 1948. That was the highest number for any city in the United States. But—and this is one of the big points of difference between the Capone and post-Capone periods—only a few of them were mob jobs.

The Commission's files showed that gang murders averaged 55 a year in the violent 1926-1932 epoch. The number was down to seven in 1946, three in 1947, 10 in 1948, and only two in the first half of this year.

There were as many gang murders on one day in 1929 as there were in one recent year, 1946. Seven men were executed by firing squad in a north-side garage on St. Valentine's Day 20 years ago.

"During the Capone gang heyday operations were much more brazen than to-day," Peterson said.

Chicago has not been such a happy hunting ground since businessman Martin H. Kennelly became Mayor in 1947.

Goes Berserk Slashes 4 In Winnipeg

Ex-Mental Patient Throws Glass At Everyone In Sight

WINNIPEG, Aug. 9. (CP)—Police said a man they rescribed as a "mental case," went berserk shortly after midnight Monday night and slashed four persons with a piece of jagged glass. Later apprehended by two unidentified men in North Winnipeg, he was arrested and taken to jail.

The man, believed to be Peter Slusarchuk of rural Manitoba, and reported to be a former patient of a provincial mental home, terrorized north-end Winnipeg for some 15 minutes. He inflicted severe flesh wounds to a passing woman whom he beat to the pavement; threw chunks of glass — taken from a shop window which he had kicked in — at a moving trolley bus and a taxi; and injured another woman and two men.

In Fair Condition

In "fair condition" in hospital is Mrs. Florence Smith, 45, suffering deep cuts to her right shoulder and neck and loss of blood. The most seriously wounded victim, Mrs. Smith, a mother of 14 children, required two blood transfusions. Treated for stab wounds but not detained at hospital were Peter Hughes, cut on the shoulder; Mrs. E. Pensak, with cuts to her shoulder; and Phillip Bender, 42, cut on the hand.

Two others, Mike Kowalchuk and Mrs. Helen Hryorchuk, reported they were chased by the attacker but managed to escape.

Kowalchuk told police the man kicked in a front window of a bicycle and motor shop and proceeded to throw the broken glass at passing cars and people.

Later he chased Kowalchuk along the street to where he was overpowered by the two unidentified men. He was held on the bridge until police arrived.

Lie Optimistic On Peace Hopes

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 9. — (AP).— Secretary-General Trygve Lie of the United Nations has advanced a six-point program to strengthen the world peace organization and reduce the dangers of war.

The program is outlined in Lie's fourth annual report published Monday night. The report, by far the most optimistic yet written by the secretary-general, said the fear of war has definitely decreased since his last report.

Lie called the past 12 months "a year of progress towards a more peaceful world." Biggest factor in the improved atmosphere, he said, was the lifting of the Berlin blockade.

At the top of his six-point program was continued consultation and conciliation among the big powers. He offered to help bring the East and West together in such outstanding world problems as the German, Austrian and Japanese peace treaties, atomic control and creation of an international police force.

"It is essential," he said, "for the great powers to keep in contact, to talk things over, and seriously to negotiate with one another."

300 Farmers Scour Lakeshore For Boy 2

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 9 — Two-year-old Kenneth Reid of Beamsville was the object of an extensive three-hour flashlight search on Monday night as 300 farmers and cottagers scoured the steep Lake Ontario bank before finding the missing tot.

Son of Mr and Mrs. Harry B. Reid, vacationing at the beach just north of Beamsville, the boy wandered away from their cottage at 8:30 p.m. and was not found until almost midnight. When found, Ken was perched on a rock with his still-shod feet dangling in the water.

At that point, about 500 yards from the cottage, the bank is 25 feet high, but the earth is soft, and it is thought the lad may have rolled or slid down the slope without suffering any injury.

Beaver Dams Broken, Trapper Fined

NORTH BAY, Aug. 9 (CP) — Convicted Monday of breaking 15 beaver houses and several beaver dams, Joseph Friday, Temagami trapper and guide, was fined $200 and eight of his beaver pelts were confiscated.

Two other charges, one of being illegally in possession of a gill net and another of being in illegal possession of a muskrat pelt, were withdrawn.

Friday was charged by officials of the Department of Lands and Forests, under the Game and Fisheries Act. Through his counsel, Norman Lickers, of Brantford, he pleaded innocent. After hearing evidence that lasted more than three hours, Magistrate M. G. Gould made a finding of guilty. The fine was $100 plus costs.

Frank Sullivan, of the attorney general's department in Toronto, prosecuted.

He produced six witnesses to back up his story that Friday had broken the houses and dams last December. One witness, John C. Burnham, of St. Cahrles, Ont., testified that he had the trapline immediately south of Friday's in the eastern half of Prado Township, near the south end of Lake Temagami. Shortly after the beaver season opened last Dec. 15, he made an inspection of his trapline with his brother, Leonard, and found six beaver houses chopped open with an axe and several dams broken.

Later, with Conservation Officer W. Cote, he made another inspection of the area. Nine other beaver houses were found broken open on Friday's trapline, and investigation pointed to Friday's having been in the area shortly before.

Heartrending Suffering Told By Rescue Workers

By BEN MEYER

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Aug. 9—(AP)—This brave little country went gamely about the task today of doing what she could for her earthquake ravaged areas, which include some of the richest agricultural land in the country. Citizens have caught up the phrase of youthful President Galo Plaza Lasso, who said: "The situation is horrible, but this is no time for lamentations. Let us shed the money of Ecuador, not the tears."

That seemed to size up the situation and the need of a country for help in a tragedy wherein thousands lost their lives and tens of thousands their homes.

Heartrending tales of suffering are being brought back by rescue workers who have visited the stricken areas.

One member of the medical brigade said many living persons still are trapped beneath the ruins of their homes.

Hear Cries of Trapped

"The most heart-tearing experience I had," he said, "was hearing the cries of men, women and children still imprisoned while relatives, helpless to aid them, stood by."

That happened in Pelilea, a town which formerly had some 3,500 residents and where not a house stands today.

President Plaza said only 300 persons in Pelileo survived the quake.

Weary from their long stay in the quake area the medical brigade returned Monday night.

One of them Jaime Barredo, a medical student at the University of Guayaquil, said it was impossible to estimate the death toll.

"No one knows how many are dead. "And they probably never will."

Die In Cathedral

Barredo said Ambato, a town of 50,000, hardly has a block without some house or building destroyed.

One of the biggest buildings in Ambato, a cathedral, was torn asunder by the quake. At least 200 persons are believed to have died in that incident alone.

One reason for the heavy damage is that most houses are constructed from a mixture of lime and earth, which the quake cracked easily.

Only Three Buildings Left As Population Evacuated To Val d'Or

Villagers Powerless To Battle Blaze Storm Quenches Fire; Ask Red Cross Aid 12 Homeless Families

VAL SENNEVILLE, Que., Aug. 9—(CP)—Only the church, a store and the Presbytery remained whole in this northwestern Quebec village today after a fire which made the handful of people who make up Val Senneville's population homeless. And villagers, surveying the ruins of their homes in this hamlet some 15 miles east of Val d'Or, said even their church would be gone had it not been for rains which halted the fire at 7.40 p.m. Monday.

"It was something of a miracle, the rains coming as they did," said M. Freeman of Val d'Or.

The fire, sweeping into the village from the surrounding forest where it had burned over a fairly wide area, was so fierce villagers were powerless against it.

Destroyed were 13 homes—all the houses in Val Senneville, three stores, a hotel and a garage.

The population was evacuated Monday night to Val d'Or where a Red Cross appeal was started today after that organization provided clothing for the 28 children of Val Senneville. All the children are between one and three years old.

Telegraph and telephone communications from Val Senneville were cut off by the storm that helped save half the town and only meagre reports were available.

Early today telephone company officials reported that all wires leading into the town and many of those to Val D'Or were still down.

It is believed the bush fire—which later worked its way into the village—was started by someone burning brush.

One Side of Street Gone

The fire gutted buildings along one entire side of the village's main street and only the arrival of heavy rains and the efforts of the firefighters prevented the flames from jumping across the street.

At one time the fire also threatened a group of veterans' land act houses under construction on the Canadian International Paper Company's private road near Val D'Or and bulldozer crews cut protective belts around the area.

FIGHT BUSH FIRE

ST. HUBERT, Que., Aug 9 — (CP).—Stubborn bush and grass fires, blazing in the peat-like undersurface of the land today were smouldering through an area three miles by one mile near this village 10 miles south of Montreal.

Several farm families were evacuated Monday from the area as the blaze threatened their homes. However, no one was reported injured and early this

Two Brothers Drowned Out Swimming

ENGLEHART, Aug. 9 (CP)—An attempt to "escape the heat" ended in double tragedy Monday when Daniel Lachance, 22, and his brother Sydney, 18, were drowned in the treacherous waters of the Blanche River about 10 miles north of this northern Ontario railway and farming centre.

Both non-swimmers, they left their farm home in Chamberlain Township after supper and with a neighbor, 22-year-old Neilly Bevinn, walked to the river five miles away.

Ontario Provincial Police at Kirkland Lake who investigated the case said the trio planned to go out to an outcropping of rock in the river. Bevinn, a swimmer, swam to the rock and the Lachance brothers started to wade out.

Step Into Hole

A short distance from shore the two suddenly stepped off into a deep pot-hole and were whisked away in the current. Bevinn turned and could only see Sydney struggling on the surface. He swam back to help him but almost lost his own life in the attempt. Sydney grabbed Bevinn around the legs and threatened to pull him under in his panic. Bevinn broke away from the drowning youth and when he turned around the boy had disappeared.

The accident occurred about 9 o'clock. Provincial Police at the Englehart detachment were out on an urgent call at the time and assistance was obtained from the Kirkland Lake detachment.

The victims are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Adrien Lachance and worked on the family farm located seven miles north of here.

Murder Search Being Pressed

TORONTO, Aug. 9 (CP)—Police are doggedly sifting leads in the search for the slayers of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKay and Alfred Layng.

Chief Inspector Albert Ward of the Ontario Provincial Police said today that the McKay investigation "is not at a dead end by any means." He said that new information uncovered Monday in the Barrie-Minesing area, 50 miles north of Toronto, is "extremely important." He did not elaborate.

Meanwhile, Professor Joslyn Rogers, criminologist attached to the Ontario Provincial Police, said the killer rode in the front seat with the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. McKay before he disposed of them in a North York gully and a city parking lot a week ago.

Police, working on the theory that the killer of Alfred Layng, 24, lives in a east-central section of the city known as "Cabbagetown," made a door-to-door canvass in that area Monday.

Discuss Details Of Housing Plans

TORONTO, Aug. 9—(CP)—Officers of the Federal and the Ontario governments met today to discuss the details of Dominion-Provincial proposals to solve Ontario's housing problems. With Monday's ministerial discussions ended, David Mansur, President of the Dominion's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, met with C. S. Walters, president of the Ontario Housing Corporation, and other Ontario government officials.

Frost Reports Need 30,000 New Houses

TORONTO, Aug. 9.— (CP). — Premier Frost and officers of his Ontario government Monday placed a summary of Ontario's housing needs before Reconstruction Minister Winters in one of a series of Dominion-Provincial conferences on Canada's housing problems.

Both Mr. Frost and Mr. Winters said frankly before the meeting that they expected no immediate agreement to develop since the talks largely were for an exchange of ideas.

Mr. Frost was reported to have told the minister that Ontario needs 30,000 new houses a year and proposed a system of federal assistance to the province for home building, including:

1. Federal aid from equivalent to one-half of local improvement costs for veterans and civilian housing, predicated upon the Provincial government continuing to pay the present 50 per cent. Both payments, as subsidies, would not be charged to the property or included in the amortized costs.

2. Federal aaid for payment of land, by way of subsidy but not charged to rentals or amortized costs.

The conference also discussed payments to municipalities of their normal taxes based upon upon an assessment on the ordinary municipal rate—a procedure to guard against over-assessment.

A FINE BRACE OF FISH were taken from the Otonabee river a short while ago to scale 19½ and 16½ pounds. The pair of muskies were taken a mile from each other by Harold Campbell, LEFT, and Bill Franks, RIGHT. Harold's father, Fred, CENTRE, claimed a portion of each fish, having guided the two younger men to the "right spot".—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Must Approve All Interviews

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9 (AP)—Advance approval of "all interviews" with United States Army, Navy and Air Force officials is required uner a new order of the unified military establishment.

At the same time, officials said Monday, reporters can try to get interviews on their own. Those who grant such interviews are asked to tell the deparment's press section about it so it can answer questions when the interview appears.

The press desks of the three services—all in one room under the reorganization—now have a form, "request for interview." This is to carry the reporter's name, organization and the "subject" of the requested interview. The requested time, the approved time and the name of the person who makes the arrangement are to be recorded.

The advance approval must come from Lee Hargus, chief of the department's press branch.

William Frye, information director, said it was not an attempt to control news but rather a method through which the department press section can keep informed of what is going on.

Ontario Uses Traps To Wipe Out Lamprey

TORONTO, Aug. 9 (CP)—Ontario has been fighting the sea lamprey by placing traps and weirs at the lampreys' favorite spawning area along Lake Huron. Lands department experts have found the little Thessalon River, near Thessalon on the north shore of Lake Huron, a particularly good spot to trap lampreys.

W. J. K. Harkness, chief of the department's fish and wildlife division, said Monday night that his organization, in co-operation with United States researchers, also has started research into the complete life cycle of the lamprey to find another—and perhaps better—method of attack.

No Record Kept Of Marriages

The vital statistics which have been issued monthly from the office of City Clerk Outram are about to lose their customary piquant flavor, the record of marriages, leaving just the bald count of births and deaths.

Under a provincial statue, Mr. Outram said today, clergymen will forward a copy of wedding details to the Ontario Government at Toronto, and it will no longer be necessary for the ceremony to be reported to the municipality.

"We'll still issue marriage certificates, but we will not have any other information than that."

So the course of cupid and his conquests will no longer be counted monthly and compared with corresponding figures for the previous year.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

MOTORING WEST

Reeve M. H. Johnston and his son Clifford of North Monaghan have been putting mileage between themselves and the home farms since Thursday on their motor trip into the west. With the weather reports from Winnipeg indicating excessive heat around 107, a friend here said that for the present they were hopping out of the drying pan into the fire. They will be absent about a month.

POURING CONCRETE

"The men began pouring concrete at the Civic Arena last night at 9 o'clock," Ald. Dodds informed the Examiner today. "They have to keep it going without any interruption for 18 hours, when the job will be finished. It's worth your while to see it. This concrete floor is being laid over the pipes of the freezing system, and will be finished with the terazza top."

ALEX McKINNEY HERE

Alex McKinney of Brampton, staying at Harwood, decided Monday that, if there were any Rice Lake fish foolish enough to think of eating in that heat, he didn't want it. So he cam up to Peterborough to call on Frank Paterson and several other friends. This week end he will be at Manitoulin Island. One of the most widely known farmers in Ontario, Mr. McKinney gets around a lot and manages to keep his farm one of the best in the province.

2 Heavy Fines For Assault On Chief Samis

An attack on Lakefield's Chief Constable Garnet F. Samis cost Reginald Harran $141.75 and his helper Myrtle Jacobs $29.25 after they were convicted today in police court by Magistrate W. R. Philp, K.C. of assaulting Chief Samis July 24.

Chief Samis testified he had been called to investigate the conduct of Harran near the Trent Locks. He came upon Harran sitting by the canal with Myrtle Jacobs and some children. When he had called Harran up to the road where the Harran car was parked, he told Harran he was going to search his car. Then, according to Chief Samis, the accused used even more abusive and belligerent language. Samis told Harran he was under arrest, where upon Harran lunged at him and struck him on the ear. After considerable wrestling on the ground in which Chief Samis was trying to put handcuffs on Harran, the police officer said Harran had tried to get the Chief's gun. Chief Samis then struck Harran on the face and was able to get handcuffs on him.

Went To Help Harran

While the two men had been tussling, Harran had called for help from Miss Jacobs who tried to pull Samis away and had then attempted to strike Samis on the head with a large piece of rock. She was stopped by Ronald Loucks who had accompanied Samis.

Denies Assault

Harran testified Samis had struck the first blow, hitting him on the right eye while Harran had his back to Samis. He said he swung at Samis and fell and Samis came down on top of him and struck many blows while on top of him. He said he had reached back and grabbed Samis' ear. He said he didn't know Samis had a gun.

Harran's lawyer, R. J. Chandler, said the only man who seemed to suffer any real effects of a blow was the accused. He pointed out that it was usually a blow which started a fight. He said he thought there was sufficient doubt about how the tussle had actually begun to warrant the Magistrate's dismissing the case.

Magistrtae Phil said there was no cause to doubt the testimony of an independent witness such as Mr. Loucks, who had corroborated Chief Samis' story.

Harran was also found guilty of causing a disturbance at Lock 27 at Lakefield by swearing at some people in what he thought was an American motor launch tied up above the dock. Lockmaster Jack McFadden, Lakefield, testified Harran had used the worst language he had ever heard a man use and that there had been several ldaies present. The fine was $10 and $8.50 costs.

Future Fire Hazards Can Be Determined

In conjunction with the Dominion Meteorological Services' weather forecasts an instrument known as a fire danger meter, in use for two years, can enable forestry officials to determine what future fire hazards they can expect. At this moment the fire meter indicates that the Trent District is entering a period of extreme fire hazard weather. This condition will continue at that level until there is a decided change in the weather.

Scientific studies of such factors as wind velocity, temperature, humidity and the number of days since the last rainfall are evaluated to determine today what the fire hazard will be tomorrow or for some greater period.

Forestry officials have issued a warning that great caution must be exercised at ths time. Their records showed up to July 31st that campers and smokers were responsible for 33 fires, or 62 per cent of the total, and all of these could have been avoided.

Students Need Rooms

TORONTO, Aug. 9 (CP)—The 14,000 students registered for the next session at the University of Toronto may have a hard time finding housing accommodation. Charles Iliffe—dean of the students' administrative council reports that the need for furnished or unfurnished quarters for both single and married students is "extremely critical."

morning no farm buildings had been burned.

Hundreds of firemen, air men and other volunteer workers, using gas masks and bulldozers, found their job hampered by the fire under the surface. Firemen said in some places the fire had gone down as much as 15 feet under the surface—ruining farm land as burned.

The flames were carried on the surface by bone-dry trees and scrub brush.

It was on this surface growth that firemen were concentrating streams of water from five miles of hose stretched out along No. 1 highway. A dozen neighboring fire departments have sent water pumps into the area.

Base Metals Show Irregular On Exchange

TORONTO, Aug. 9 — (CP). — Base metals moved irregularly here to-day into slightly higher ground and industrials bucked profit-taking to barely hold steady. Golds appeared strong early in the day but faded into minus territory as the session progressed.

Industrials moved in a narrow fractional range with key issues bouncing between the plus to minus columns. Papers continued stronger, featuring the board. International Paper was a mid-session highlight, suddenly adding 1¼ at 55 following declaration of a $1 quarterly dividend.

Golds appeared to tighten in early dealings but renewed realizing sales cut into recent advances. Seniors slackened fractions and junior producers relaxed. Base metals turned actively for small changes.

Strike Hard To Halt Indian Looting

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 9 (AP)—President Galo Plaza Lasso's government today took stern measures to prevent looting and disorder in Ecuador's earthquake area after the army reported that some Indians had threatened to go on a looting rampage.

The cabinet authorized military rule wherever necessary in the stricken area. The threat of Indian trouble plagued authorities struggling to house and feed 100,000 persons made homeless by Friday's earthquake.

The destruction of water systems brought threats of public health problems. An airlift continued flying supplies into the stricken region.

A spokesman for the President said the government had not yet been able to compile a death list, but estimated that the toll was between 2,000 and 4,000. Earlier estimates of the dead had ranged up to more than 9,000.

Some persons thought a complete tabulation might never be made.

Strike At Looters

The authorities were prepared to hit hard against looters. Civil guards and police said they would shoot without questioning anyone caught pillaging ruined buildings and fields.

A special cavalry detachment was ordered to the Pelileo area, one of the most heavily damaged regions, to control the Salasacas Indians.

Army officers said they learned from Salasacas Indians that members of the tribe planned to loot the ruins. Indians of that tribe have a reputation for trouble-making when they drink heavily, it was said.

The government planned to issue $11,700,000 worth of bonds to finance quake reconstruction. Newspapers said the country might obtain a loan from the United States.

Plaza said that in the ravaged city of Ambato 75 per cent of the houses still standing must be torn down.

He said the government had asked the American republics to rush tents to the area and that the United States already was sending emergency shipments of canned foods.

Plaza said his previous estimate of $20,000,000 property damage might go much higher. The government plans a survey to get a definite figure.

Most of the victims in the town of Peilleo were caught in buildings that collapsed. Landslides from the mountains accounted for others.

Farmhouses were flattened against the ground and fields were ripped apart by huge crevices.

Water So Low Beach Useless

Melting away in Peterborough's latest heat wave, citizens went to the beaches Monday evening. Those without cars were forced to go to the canal, Riverside or Inverlea. The water at the Inverlea beach was so low that the children had only the rough stony bottom to walk on.

The water started dropping in the afternoon until at 7 p.m. the floats for the non-swimmers were in several inches of water. The wall in the non-swimming area was out of the water, which was about three and a half feet deep. From the rafts children were diving into the dangerous waters.

At Riverside the water was not as low as at the northend beach. Two people received cuts. John Murray of 435 Mark St. received a badly cut foot during the evening. He was taken to the clinic where three stitches were used to close the gash. Another boy scraped bottom receiving a small gash on the shoulder. The lifeguard sent the boy home to have the cut attended.

In the absence of Mr. T. J. Ryan, Trent Canal superintendent, who is out of the city, it was learned from several of the power dam operators that they have been experiencing water shortage for nearly several months.

They have been forced to the expedient of "juggling water" to get as much power as possible from the volume in flow. From their own vacation observations they have noticed generally the evidence of low water in the system caused by the long dry period since spring.

Won't Help Stunters

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 9 — (CP)—City council has adopted a "hands off" policy as far as stunt men are concerned. It endorsed a suggestion by City Manager W. S. Orr that all departments be ordered to take no action in connection with persons injured in stunts. The action followed a barrel trip through whirlpool rapids by Major Hill, who was hauled out by the fire department when he got into difficulty July 30.

Campbellford Merchants, Farmers Oppose Parking Meter Installation

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 9 (ENS)—A deputation of over 60 business men and farmers waited on the Town Council Monday night to protest against the operation of the newly-installed parking meters. W. A. Hogle, speaking for the deputation, presented Council with a resolution that had been passed by the Business Men's Association.

The resolution requested that the meters be removed as they were detrimental to business. Fifty letters of protest were attached to the resolution.

Ray Bright, a farmer, spoke strongly in favor of the new system and a shoe merchant claimed that his business had increased since the meters had been installed.

Frank De Carrol charged that the meters did not affect one member of the Council.

Blames Merchans

"The business men," stated Councillor MacMillan, "were responsible for the meters. They took up practically the whole available parking spaces with their cars and trucks."

At this point the mayor had to call for order.

Some business men thought the old parking bylaw would have solved the traffic problem had it been rigidly enforced.

"A number of business men," stated Councillor Wilson, " had been fined for infractions of the old by-law and they had petitioned the Council to notify the police to lay off. That was why the by-law failed."

Deputy Reeve Locke objected to certain sections of the present parking bylaw because it granted outside transports double parking privileges while local trucks were deprived of that privilege.

Mayor Donald voiced his opinion that the parking system would not work if deliberately opposed by the business men.

Councillor MacMillan said that the Council had a contract with the Micro-Meter Co. of Montreal and that it would cost the town plenty to break it.

H. A. Hogle pointed out that he understood the city of Ottawa had broken a similar contract.

"I requested Council to take some cognizance of the business men when the contract was signed," said W. Kingston. "We would have found ourselves in a happier situation today if the salesman hadn't been leaving for Halifax in two days."

"If we have to pay to get a bag of sugar we will stay clear of the town," shouted a farmer.

Must Back Farmer

"Two-thirds of my clients are farmers and we must encourage the farmers' trade," said Mr. Lipson. "The Council will lose face, no doubt, but is that more important than losing business?"

Councillor Wilson thought the meters should be given at least a thirty days' trial.

"Wilson is a new man in town," said T. L. Diamond. "He should be ashamed of himself."

The Council agreed to give the business men a definite answer in two weeks' time.

It was decided that Fred Rutherford be notified to tidy up his lot behind the public library.

Councillor MacMillan reported that the weed nspector had handed in a favourable report.

Deputy Reeve Ralph Locke said that two-thirds of this year's taxes had been paid to the collector.

The treasurer was authorized to pay $14,199.65, the balance of the grant, to the Memorial Hospital.

MacKell Leaving Air Force After 35 Years

OTTAWA, Aug. 9 (CP) — Air Commodore Dave MacKell, specialist in the recruiting problems of air forces and hockey teams, is leaving the RCAF after 35 years.

Now 51 and deputy air member for personnel, Air Commodore MacKell is one of the original members of the RCAF who joined when the service was formed in 1924.

His retirement was announced Monday night in an Air Force list of transfers among four senior officers.

A popular sportsman—and an outstanding football player two decades ago — Air Commodore MacKell is president of the Ottawa Senators who won the Allan Cup and the Canadian senior hockey championship this year.

He also is honorary president of the Ottawa Rough Riders, Eastern Canadian football champions. He was one of the men behind the RCAF flyers in 1942 when they won the Allan Cup and when they were reformed in 1948 and won the Olympic and world hockey championships.

Helped Reorganization

At Air Force headquarters, he has played a large part in the recruiting and reorganization of Canada's post-war air force.

He will be replaced by Air Commodore F. C. Walt, now commanding the RCAF group at Halifax. Air Commodore R. C. Gordon, of Harris, Sask., air attache at the Canadian Embassy in Washington, will take command of the Halifax group.

Air Commodore W. E. Bennett, of Halifax, now deputy air member for plans (organization), and Air Commodore J. G. Bryans, of Ottawa, now at the Imperial Defence College in Great Britain, will exchange appointments.

The retirements and new appointments take effect later this year.

Air Commodore MacKell served overseas as a corporal during the first world war. He was commissioned just before the second war and held a number of senior positions at Air Force headquarters. His own fondness for sports was largely responsible for the emphasis put on competitive sports for the service since the war.

HAPPY GUESTS—These two happy youths, getting a few pointers from RCMP Constable A. E. Levigne of Ottawa, are among a group of 50 British schoolboys now visiting eastern Canada as guests of W. Garfield Weston, Canadian industrialist. Sixteen-year-old Peter Reed, left, of Macclesfield, Eng., and John Boudie of Scotland, were chosen to come to Canada as a result of a promise made by Mr. Weston when he was Conservative member of the British Parliament for Macclesfield, to bring such groups to the Dominion.

Council Defers Decision On Insurance

COBOURG, Aug. 9 (ENS). — After some argument on the justification of the proposal, Town Council last night laid on the table a suggestion that the town employees be permitted to enter a group insurance plan which would cover them when off duty, half of the cost of which would be borne by the town.

Councillor Victor Climo said that the total cost would be around $1,600 a year for the 23 employees.

Councillor William Cooper and Councillor Frank Lapp took exception to the idea.

"There are people in this town too poor to buy their own insurance, so why should we expect them, as taxpayers, to help donate insurance to town employees. The men who are on the town's payroll have security and all-year-round employment, which is more than lots of those who cannot afford insurance," said Councillor Cooper.

Not High Pay

Mayor Joe Smith said: "I don't think 75 cents an hour paid some town employees is very high pay."

"It is not a big sum to pay, and it helps procure loyalty from your town employees," said the Mayor further.

Councillor Charles Johnstone pointed out that most of the factories provided group insurance, and at no cost to the employees. There were over 700 factory workers participating in this insurance and they would not begrudge the same treatment to the town employees, he said.

On motion the matter was laid over to the next meeting.

Freight Rate Guide Devised By Campbellford Man In Use All Over Canada

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 8 (ENS).—Manufacturers and mail order houses across Canada reckon their freight costs with speed and accuracy by using a rate-index system and McKeel's Standard Freight Rate Guide.

A chunkily-built man, Ernest C. McKeel of Campbellford, conceived the idea of simplifying the manufacturers' emthods of arriving at freight expenditures back in 1928, and the idea worked.

The rate-index system comprises a series of sheets containing the necessary vital information which gives the manufacturer command of freight rates and control over freight expenditures. The sheets are incorporated into a binder in book form.

Custom-Built

The system is custom-built to each client's requirements based on a survey of their special traffic problems. "It gives purchasing departments of manufacturers a ready reckoner," said Mr. McKeel, "for computing freight charges on inbound raw material."

In 1935 he conceived another method of freight rate simplification known as "McKeel's Standard Freight Rate Guide."

This covers freight and express rates from Canada's industrial centres to every official freight station in the Dominion. It is a compilation of thousands of rates and allied information and involved over four years of intense effort.

It deals with outbound freight and is installed in sales departments from Halifax to Vancouver.

The day The Examiner called on Mr. McKeel, orders were received for his publications from Moncton, N.B. and Nanaimo, B.C.

Simplify Problems

Both the rate-index system and guide condense and simplify freight rate problems of manufacturers who otherwise would have to depend on complicated railway tariffs.

Contracts for McKeel's systems include keeping all information up-to-date. This is accomplished by compiling new rates on loose-leaf sheets which are sent to clients to replace obsolete ones.

Mr. McKeel's offices are on Pellisier Street and are modernly designed and have the latest office equipment. All printing is done in his plant with the latest machinery. He services every type of business from babies foods to motor cars.

Mr. McKeel recalled his experiences in marketing his systems. "I was no salesman," he said, "and often I would walk around the block several times before I could work up enough courage to approach a business executive. However, it was easy selling," he stated, 'because the systems practically sold themselves."

"Half the people in Campbellford," Mr. McKeel said jokingly, "do not know whether I operate a legitimate business or a bootlegger's joint."

While Mr. McKeel specializes in these two publications, he also acts as a freight traffic consultant, and has handled several cases before the Board of Transport Commissioners at Ottawa. On one occasion he was highly complimented on the manner in which he presented his case.

Ernest C. McKeel travelled through the United States and South America searching for the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, but he found it here in his native Campbellford.

Doubts Foul Play In Exeter Death

EXETER, Ont., Aug. 9 (CP)—After performing an autopsy, Coroner E. A. McMaster said Monday he doubted if there was foul play in the death of Mrs. Lillian Goldie Perry, 39, whose body was found on a couch in her living room here on Sunday.

External injuries were a broken nose and facial bruises, but Dr. McMaster said there was "a very strong possibility that the woman choked to death while asleep." It was reported that the mother of a five-year-old boy had been subject to epileptic seizures.

Ernest Perry found the body of his wife about Sunday noon. Police said the couple had attended a drinking party.

A Fateful Date For Germany And The World

On Sunday next Western Germany will have its first election since the war, and the first autonomous German government will be chosen since the downfall of the Nazis. The decision will be a fateful one for Germany and for the world. Yesterday the Ministerial Committee of the Council of Europe met in Strasbourg; tomorrow the Consultative Committee will join it, in order to discuss the possibilities of a union of ten European states under a form of federal government. The success or failure of that conference will be deeply influenced by the outcome in Germany next Sunday. There can be no stable Europe without a stable Germany; there can be no peace in Europe unless Germany wants peace. What will Germany have to say for itself?

* * *

The pre-election speeches of some of the party leaders in Germany have not been reassuring. Consider, for instance, the case of Dr. Schumacher, the leader of the Social Democrats; he demands that "the arrogant guardianship" of Germany by the Western Allies should end"; he resents also the fact that the German people are held responsible for the rise to power and the misdeeds of the Nazis. In short, Dr. Schumacher wants Germany to be completely free, and exonerated from all blame for the war. He wants the world to pretend, as far as possible, that the history of Germany from 1933 to 1945 never happened.

* * *

There are signs that Schumacher speaks for many Germans when he makes these absurd suggestions. Apparently a great many Germans are incapable of learning the lessons of history, even when those lessons are rammed home by two appalling wars. We have drawn attention in these columns to the unpopularity of one of the greatest of living Germans, the author Thomas Mann, who has been trying to convince his countrymen that they were responsible for Nazism, and that the only proper course for them to take is a course of co-operation with the rest of Europe. But for over a century Germany has fed on the illusion that she must dominate Europe, or else be cheated of her full national rights. It looks as though this belief were still cherished by many German people.

* * *

The Germans—a brilliant, industrious, efficient and in many ways admirable people—seem oddly lacking in a sense of national responsibility. The art of compromise and of getting along with other nations is little studied by their statesmen and little admired by their citizens. But it lies in the power of the Council of Europe to tell them that the road of collaboration is the only safe road for them to follow, and that the road to any future attempt to dominate Europe is closed. Britain and France, both of which control zones in Occupied Germany, are the leaders of the Council; Britain and France will speak also with the power which they derive from their association with the U.S.A. It is possible for Gemany to take the right road this time. Whether she will do so or not remains to be seen.

As Others See Us

The American magazine Holiday, which is directed solely at the travelling public, has an excellent article on Canada in its current number. This is the sort of publicity which should turn the minds of American travellers toward our country not only this year, but in years to come. Already great numbers of our neighbours think of Canada as a place to go; if they learn to think of Canada as a fashionable place to go it will be even better. It will mean, of course, that we will have to offer a somewhat more fashionable welcome; much of the accommodation and entertainment provided for tourists in Canada at present it, to put it mildly, dimple. Not simple in the attractive sense; simple in the sense of bleak, unhandy and improvised.

What does Holiday say about us? The article begins thus:

"After two centuries of painful and confusing growth the consciousness of a separate Canadian character has begun to dawn on the people of Canada. The awareness has been slow, and, until recently, imperceptible. As long as they can remember, Canadians have been so busy trying to prove to America that they are not blind followers of Britain, and to Britain, that they are not 'Americans' that they have had no occasion to think out what it means to be a Canadian, or why it is that a Canadian can mean four or five different things in as many different parts of the country."

This is excellent, for it takes account of our emerging individuality as a people: we are not provincial Americans, occupying a status somewhere between the solid citizens of Kansas and the less solid citizens of Mississippi; we are not British colonials, expecting every new idea to come to us from the Motherland. We are a diverse people, capable of great things in our own land, and capable also of surprising the rest of the world by the part we take in the councils of nations. We are still very much in the making; such kindly appraisals as the one which is quoted here encourage us in the difficult work of making a nation.

Is A European Parliament Possible?

In our Third Column today we publish an article written by a member of the French Senate, M. Michel Debre, in which he discusses the meeting of 87 delegates from ten European countries at Strasbourg, in the hope that a European Parliament may be formed. The ministers of foreign affairs assembled on Monday for a preliminary discussion; tomorrow the main body of delegates will meet. Dare we hope for anything from such an assembly?

It is widely agreed by people who are not in a position to make it a reality that some sort of world government is desirable. The League of Nations was an attempt (and a courageous and intelligent one) to establish such a power; the United Nations is another. But these supra-national bodies which are so good in theory cannot overcome the desire of every nation to have its own way in everything which concerns it intimately—they cannot overcome nationalism. And although the evils of nationalism have been exposed time and again, it looks as though nationalism in our modern world were on the increase.

On the face of it, the chances for a workable supra-national organization in Europe seem good. Canada and the U.S.A. both give examples of federalism at work. The most moderate group among those who will meet at Strasbourg are those who hope that they will be able to lay the foundations for a constitutional structure which will gradually be able to extend its power, uniting the ten states in ways which will improve their economics and their defence. There are other groups which hope for greater things, but we hope that they will not insist upon grandiose and essentially unworkable schemes. The disputes which divide the countries of Europe are numerous and old; only the utmost tact and reasonableness can unite peoples who have been so long divided.

She Has Been There Before

A popular pastime among those whose hobby is calamity is predicting the dissolution of the British Empire, the downfall of Britain, and the eventful emergence of England as a third-class country, about on a par with Greece in the councils of the world. We have a little more faith in the Old Girl than that. She has seen better days, but she has also seen hard times before. About a century ago, in fact, she was having a hard time of it, and it was then that the great American, Ralph Waldo Emerson wrote of her:

I see her not dispirited, not weak, but well remembering that she has seen dark days before; indeed, with a kind of instinct that she sees a little better in a cloudy day, and that in storm of battle and calamity, she has a secret vigor and a pulse like a cannon. I see her in her old age, not decrepit, but young, and still daring to believe in her power of endurance and expansion.

Seeing this, I say, All hail! mother of nations, mother of heroes, with strength still equal to the time; still wise to entertain and swift to execute the policy which the mind and heart of mankind requires in the present hour, and thus only hospitable to the foreigner, and truly a home to the thoughtful and generous who are born in the soil. So let it be! So let it be!

Not twenty years after Emerson wrote that, Britain began upon the greatest adventure in expansion ever seen in the world's history, and stayed on top of the heap until 1914. History does not repeat itself, you may say. Perhaps not, but a country which has recovered from as many hard knocks as Britain is always capable of giving the world another surprise.

Council of Europe Meets Tomorrow

By MICHEL DEBRE

ON August 8th the first session of the Council of Europe opened in the old cathedral town of Strasbourg which has belonged to France since the time of Louis XIV. The Ministers for Foreign Affairs of the ten signatory powers will first meet. They will form the committee of ministers. Then the delegations of the members of parliament of each nation will form the consultative assembly. Will the Council mark a date in the history of the world? We cannot say.

ONE cannot deny that in the countries of western Europe a feeling of "smallness" and of "isolation" is widespread among the people. Whether they are concerned with their security, their economic stability, their influence abroad or their social problems, the peoples of Europe have a definite impression that they are more or less powerless, or, at least, that their means are insufficient to meet these problems. It is therefore a normal reaction which drives them to take stronger measures than those of an alliance and form themselves into a sort of union. The idea of a federal European union had already been put forward by Briand before the second world war. And at a very grave moment during that war Churchill had proposed the founding of a permanent union with France which was to be the nucleus of a much greater union. It is natural that the same desire should make itself felt in this post-war period which is so troubled and so full of care. And the agreement which was reached in London during the course of the year which created the Council of Europe, is the answer to a movement that is both old and deep-rooted.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT the road between the proposition of a union and its achievement is both long and difficult. A rivalry often exists between the economic systems of the western countries, and the search for suppliers and markets is sometimes a cause of antogonism. Marked differences in ideas as to the recovery or the foreign trade balance and financial stability lead to the construction of completely different national economies. Lastly, each nation hesitates to commit itself in a definite fashion on account of its particular situation, its interests and its foreign ties, which, at first glance at least, are not always favourable to a European union. Moreover, the first steps made towards the new organization have been really very modest. The sovereignty of each participant is wholly respected and even affirmed. The parliamentary assembly is not only a consultative assembly; numerous provisions are a guarantee against unconsidered action and strict governmental control. In spite of its name and outward appearance, this parliamentary assembly is very like an academic conference.

◇ ◇ ◇

THUS one may rightly ask oneself if the peoples of Europe are not laying a disappointment in store for themselves. Supposing, and this is not altogether impossible, that the discussions of the assembly are chiefly concerned with questions concerning rules of procedure and use the declaration of rights as a basis of the judicial principles of the new organization, and that fine speeches will be the only results of its labours. Have we not reason to fear a great disillusionment?

◇ ◇ ◇

IN our century the nations are exacting. They are becoming weary of international discussions which remain fruitless. They care less about declarations of rights and proclamations of freedom than about effective means to safeguard these rights and this freedom. They also have the feeling (though it is not always realized) that the great problems are left to find their own solution. Of what use are great proclamations to men who fear invasion and poverty? Let us not overlook the fact that there is a grave danger; a failure may bring about a movement away from the idea of a united Europe which is at present welcomed. And this movement would encourage nationalism to re-emerge amongst the nations. This is a hypothesis which must not be rejected lightly. And it is as well to remember at this point that the creation of an European association united politically, economically and socially, is the only way of preventing the rebirth of Germany from renewing the German danger. Thus the pacification of the western half of the continent of Europe depends on the creation of a freely accepted political authority which will be placed above national authority.

◇ ◇ ◇

A PROPOSAL placed before the second Chamber of the French Parliament suggests measures which could prove interesting. It contains two main ideas. The first suggests that the Council of Europe, to achieve something concrete, should select fields of activity where effective action may be taken at once, is desired by a great number of people and will have results. In this way the feeling will arise that these undertakings which were too great for one nation to tackle single-handed, will be brought to success through their united effort. The second proposes the establishment of specialized European authorities. The principle of the sovereignty of each nation which has always been affirmed must of course be respected. But it is conceivable that the governments will be willing to temporarily delegate certain of their powers, for the completion of a well-defined task.

◇ ◇ ◇

THUS the proposal envisages the creation of "European Reconstruction Commission" which will have a six-year existence and will be renewed at least once, and a "European Commission on Movements of Population". In either case, the new authority would have sufficient administrative, financial and technical powers to put a big piece of work into effect. The proposal also foresees other fields of action — education, public-health and modernization of agriculture? Once public opinion is convinced of the utility of the new organization, the various governments will be able to discuss economic and military problems with greater success.

◇ ◇ ◇

ARE we dreaming of Utopia? Perhaps. But the decisive problem has been set. If we are to believe in the use of the Council of Europe, it must prove its value without delay. No organization can exist without a purpose and the whole future of Europe will depend on the first decisions of the new assembly.

Canadians Better Off In 1948

(FORT ARTHUR NEWS-CHRONICLE)

THIS may sound strange in view of the never ending "beef" of people that they're having a barrel of trouble keeping their heads above water in this day and age of high living costs but last year the average Canadian earned more money, spent more money, and wound up saving more money than he did a year before.

This may not have applied to you as an individual, but it stands true for most Canadians and the source of our information is the authentic and reliable Dominion Bureau of Statistics. If you didn't fall in the category of those who were better off in all pecuniary ways in 1948 than in 1947, the following dry-as-dust but nonetheless illuminating paragraphs may not cheer you but they should certainly prove that Canadians were mighty well off in a world generally beleaguered by financial worries.

In 1948, Canadians' personal incomes totalled $11,960,000 000, as compared with $10,390,000,000 which they made in 1947. Incidentally, this has little to do with the comparison in question, but in 1939 Canadians only earned $4,291,000,000.

In 1948, the people of this country spent $10,000,000, or 83.6 per cent of their incomes, on goods and services. They saved $1,146,-000,000 or 9.6 per cent. of their incomes. In 1947, by comparison, they spent $8,949,-000,000, or 86.1 per cent. of their incomes, and managed to save $850,000,000, or 6.2 per cent. of what they took in.

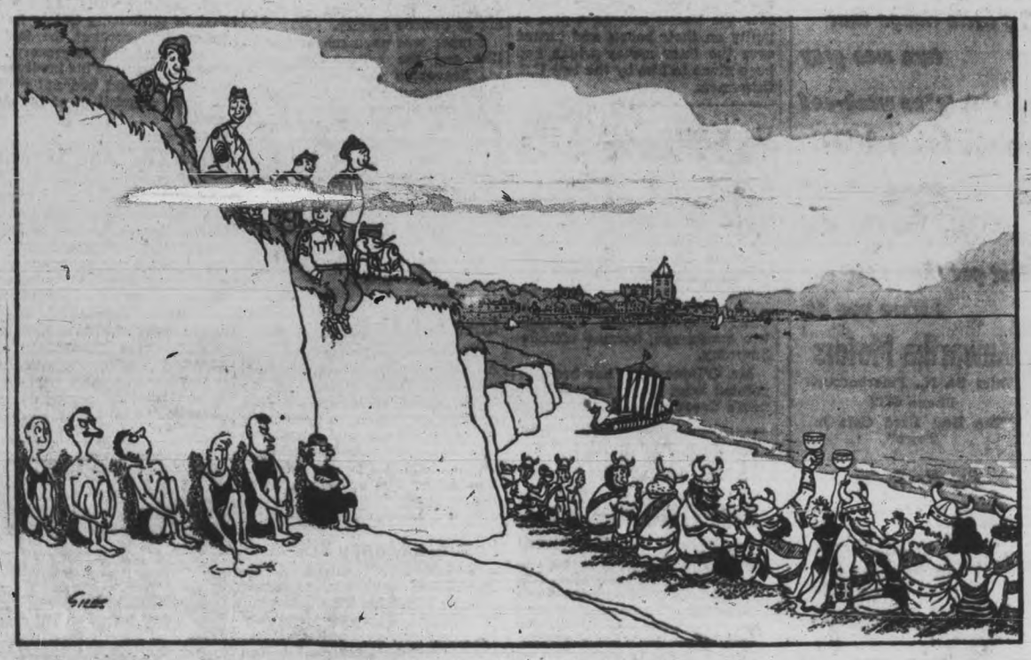
The fact is that in 1948, although Canadians spent more on goods and services than they did in 1947, the proportion of their spending to their total incomes was less than it was the year before. And, furthermore, not only were they able to save more in 1948 than they did in 1947, but the proportion of savings to total earnings was greater in 1948.

In taxes, the citizens of this country also had a break in 1948. In 1947, 7.7 per cent. of their p... ...s went to the government in the form of direct taxes. Last year, this figure dropped to 6.8 per cent.

The Worst Never Happens

(EDMONTON JOURNAL)

AN extraordinary letter which Sir John A. Macdonald wrote to a friend in India in the spring of 1867, a few days after the British Parliament had passed the British North America Act, has been recalled by Maclean's Magazine. One paragraph reads as follows:



"A brilliant future would certainly await us were it not for those wretched Yankees, who hunger and thirst for Naboth's field. War will come some day between England and the United States, and India can do us yeoman service by sending an army of Sikhs, Ghurkas, Beloochis, etc., etc., across the Pacific to San Francisco and holding that beautiful and unusual city and the surrounding California as security for Montreal and Canada."

Grotesque as this letter sounds today, it would not have speared so in 1867. Most Canadians at that time believed that an Anglo-American war was inevitable, and lived in terror of a U.S. invasion of Canada. The idea of turning an army of "Beloochis" loose on an unsuspecting San Francisco would probably have seemed to most of them a brilliant piece of strategy. They would have been astonished beyond words had they been able to foresee the change that has come over the relationship of the English-speaking peoples in the last 80 years.

Sir John's fears and plans, back in 1867, are not without their lesson for us today. We too live in dread of a variety of national catastrophies, atomic and otherwise. Yet in 2049, these fears may seem as absurd as the British-American war our first prime minister envisioned.

As Mark Twain once put it, half the troubles of the world never happen.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

When therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples than John, (though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples,) he left Judaea, and departed again into Galilee. And he must needs go through Samaria....

There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water; Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink ....Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? for the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans.

Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water....The woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.

Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither. The woman answered and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband: For thou hast had five husbands; and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in that saidst thou truly. The woman saith unto him, Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet....

The woman then left her water pot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men, Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ? (John 4: 1-4, 7, 9, 10, 15-19, 28, 29.)

Some Ugly Words

Is "organizational" a good word? Herbert Morrison, Lord President of the Council, wants to know.

In a letter to the London Times, he wrote: "In recent years, the word 'organizational' has come into increasing use. It is, I admit, ugly and unnecessary.

"Can you or some of your readers tell me whether there is any real justification for the use of the word?"

R. A. Butler, Conservative, blossomed into print next day with a word that probably gave Morrison new chills. In a Commons debate Butler spoke of "parcelation" of land —meaning the dividing of lands into small units.

Butler is president of the Modern Language Association.—(Canadian Press).

Alchemists' Dream

The dream of the alchemists may have been made to come true. Modern science can now produce gold by artificial means. This was revealed by Sir John Cockcroft, director of Britain's atomic research establishment. He was speaking to delegates attending the Empire Mining and Metallurgy Congress held in London.

He stressed that only small quantities can so far be made in this way. "We are often asked whether we can produce gold artificially. We can in fact do this. But since we have to start from platinum and the process is rather expensive we are not likely to put the gold mines out of operation in the foreseeable future."—U.K. Information Office.

Bottles Thrown Into Pools Harm Children

Just to have been 12 or 14 years old again and be on that swimming dock at Riverside Park Monday with one of the 75 youngsters diving from the dock or the springboard into fairly deep water, was the thought of Ald. Herbert Young as he remembered his own teen years when he used to float down the river on log drives heading for the booms of the sawmills at Little Lake.

"Is there anything wrong with that swimming spot?" was the rhetorical question of the chairman of the parks committee. "And we made it ourselves. What we should have, is another at the Jacks, and a third at Inverlea Park, just south of Park Hill Road bridge."

The Riverside dock was put solidly together by the parks committee employees under the direction of Armar Butcher, superintendent. He used the timbers of the "H" wharf the Lions Club built a year or so ago, and then discarded. It looks to be 25 or 30 feet long and four or five feet wide, with stout flooring.

Gordon Buck, Collegiate Institute student, is lifeguard, appointed by the Recreation Commission, whose job on he supervising perch is hardly an enviable responsibility.

The water at the foot of the dock is about up to the neck of the average youngster, allowing a narrow safety margin, but just to take no chances, Mr. Buck excludes from that part of the Riverside front boys and girls who cannot swim. There is shallow water for them upstream.

Accommodation Good

As the young folks were diving from the springboard and swimming out to a sandbar about the middle of the river, Dr. Young remarked that this accommodation appeared to him so satisfactory that the amusement and healthful exercise it provided was ample reward for the work involved in a committee chairmanship.

"There is only one thing wrong," he remarked to The Examiner. "This place is supervised until 9 p.m. Adults arrive any time after that. The result has been that Mr. Buck found it necessary to examine the river bed every morning and fetch up empty beer and whisky bottles."

The booze trail reaches right into this spot that has been made for the youngsters. It is understood that the reason the Lions Club abandoned their "H" wharf was the neighborhood complaint of night nudist swimming parties. Now, it was beer bottles. Possibly, it has been suggested, the police might be able to crack down on these older nuisances, but Ald. Young knows it would not be an easy police job.

"They might swing in here on their night rounds and see if we can keep things orderly. I suppose we can't prevent people from swimming here, even if it is not supervised, but what worries me is the bottle report. However, Mr. Buck has been doing a fine job, the young people are enjoying the swimming, and we are doing our best to see that it is kept safe."

What Ald. Young did not say, but what may be inferred from his comment, was that parks committees have to be prepared for discouragement in their spending of public money to help beautify the city and also to provide recreation for the children.

Whisky bottles flung recklessly into a swimming place, skating rink shacks more or less wrecked, and flowers snatched from the park beds, a wretched composite pattern of petty vandalism.

May Change Cable Rate

LONDON, Aug. 9 —(AP)—A Commonwealth and United States delegates Monday began talks on possible changes in overseas cable and radio rates. A brief announcement from the British general post office said the United States asked for a review of present prices, which were set up at a conference in Bermuda in 1945, "in view of changing conditions today."

In Serious Condition

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 9 (CP)—Gordon Salter, 61, of Oshawa, who received severe head injuries in a traffic collision at the "Devil's Funnel" underpass on No. 2 Highway a week ago, still is in serious condition in hospital here. Recovering in hospital are his wife, 17-year-old daughter, Eleanor, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brady of Detroit, Mich., who were travelling in the second car involved.

HELD FOR MURDER — Edward Richards, 33, of Hamilton, is being held by police on a charge of murder in connection with the shooting of Richard Slifka, 25, also of Hamilton, during a brawl in Saltfleet Township on Hamilton's outskirts. Richards, a former professional wrestler, was manager and bouncer of the place where the brawl took place.

Make It Easier For Business, Borrow Money

NEW YORK, Aug. 9—(CP)—The United States Government is moving to make it easier for businessmen—and itself—to borrow money.

The idea is a double-barreled one to put a brake on the recession and make the treasury's start of deficit financing less painful. It comes at a time when buying-on-time and past-due accounts are increasing, and taxes are at an all-time peak.

The Federal Reserve Board is going to free $1,800,000,000 of bank reserves in a four-week trickle, at a time when businessmen presumably should be looking for bank loans to prepare for fall and winter trade.

Some skeptics doubt if this will do much to brake the recession. They say that business loans are down $2,700,000,000 from the first of the year, and that the $16,000,000,000 rise 10 days ago from the year's low scarcely indicates any great demand for business loans which the banks can't meet easily as it is. These observers contend that the banks already have plenty of money to lend, and that the real shortage is in borrowers.

Fights Deflation

However, by freeing the reserves at this time, the Federal Reserve Board once more makes it plain it has switched from fighting inflation to fighting deflation, and will make certain that money is easy, and presumably stays cheap or gets cheaper.

The moves comes at a time when consumer credit is on the increase. The Federal Reserve Board reports that at the end of June total credit outstanding to consumers was $16,141,000,000 higher by $1,472,000,000 than the total a year earlier.

Against the rise in consumer credit, the Credit Research Foundation reports that in the last six months there has been a definite slowing up of collections in the manufacturing and wholesale fields.

Make It Easier

By setting bank-reserve requirements at the lowest point since October, 1941, the Federal Reserve Board will make it easier for the treasury to sell its securities to the banks. They will have more idle money to put to work. If the demands of business for loans doesn't take up the cash, the banks are expected to turn to government securities. And the government wants to sell them more in the months ahead.

The treasury ended its fiscal year June 30 with a deficit of $1,800,000,000. This year's deficit has been estimated at $3,000,000,000 or more. To get the cash it needs, the treasury is expected to offer the banks about $1,000,000,000 a week in treasury bills. This will be from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 more each week than it needs for retiring previous issues as they come due.

The treasury is making sure that the banks have the money to take up these offerings as the treasury precedes down the road of deficit financing.

Deny Tax Forms Sent Tourists

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP)— A Revenue Department spokesman Monday said the Department was not aware of United States residents holidaying in Canada receiving income tax forms.

He was commenting on a Fort Erie, Ont., report in which Mayor Louis Ziff said revenue officials at Hamilton were alarming U.S. tourists by mailing them income tax forms.

The spokesman said so far as he knew no forms had were sent Instead the U.S. resident holidaying in Canada is asked to fill out a questionnaire, specifying whether he is a U.S. citizen residing in Canada or whether he is on a holiday.

The questionnaire is used for income tax purposes. By remaining in Canada less than 183 days, a U.S. resident is not subject to Canadian income tax.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

New Names in the NORTH

THERE'S new activity in Ontario's bushland north of Lake Superior. Marathon and Red Rock, Terrace and Heron Bay: they all tell the same story. New towns have arisen, old ones expanded. Only five years ago on the site of Marathon, for example, there was nothing but bush; today a new community beside a new pulp mill is contributing millions to Canada's export trade.

Such spectacular developments in the north are matched by continuing industrial expansion in the older established communities. Throughout Canada today ever-widening avenues of opportunity await the enterprise of young Canadians.

With newsprint production 50% above pre-war levels, Canada today has an output five times that of any other country, and accounts for three out of every five newspaper pages in the world.

"Canada is a land of opportunity . . .

There is a field for almost anything one can think of, and anyone with a willingness for hard work has a good chance to achieve success", says Donald J. Smith, President of Hornet Industries Limited, Guelph, Ontario.

Hornet Industries Limited, which was founded in 1945, has in this short time achieved remarkable success in the manufacture of chain saws and combustion engines. More than half the production of the plant reaches markets outside Canada. From a staff of only a half dozen men in 1945, Hornet Industries Limited has expanded to three plants in Guelph, employing 296 workers.

CGE and Westclox Winners To Open Girls' Semi-Finals

Westclox and CGE girls lead by a game in the best-of-three Girls Softball League semi-finals after taking victories last night to open the series at the Bowl. Westclox won 7-4 from Ashby's as CGE took a 4-2 win over Marines before a fair-sized playoff crowd. Both were snappy games, and these same squads tangle there tomorrow night as the semi-finals resume.

Ashby's errors and passed balls hurt their cause, though they were held to six hits by Marg Selkick, who fanned half a dozen. Doris McFadden whiffed five in a fair show but her side didn't show quite the hustle the Westclox lasses did, the latter team's errors not hurting. J. McIntyre, I. Clarke, E. Simmonds and J. Reynolds went good defensively. Jean Vass had a double and three singles, while Marg Hawthorne hit a triple and two singles for Westclox. Dot Callan led Ashby's with two doubles. Teams:

Second Game

The Electrics had lots of pep and good pitching to earn their win, while Marines slipped for one bad inning of a fine fixture. Mary Perrin threw five-hit ball and struck out four as Eleanor Whittaker gave up 10 bingles and fanned three. E. Boyce and T. DeCarlo went best in the field for the victors while M. Behan and V. Mitchell looked good for Marines. B. McMahon and A. DeCarlo topped CGE at bat with two safeties each, none of the losers getting more than one hit. Doubles were clouted by M. Behan, H. White, Marg Perrin and T. DeCarlo. Teams:

Bankers Cut Short In Try To Reach Final

Duffus' team in the Civic League coasted to an easy 15-6 victory over the Bankers to cut short the latter's chances of reaching the league's finals. Brown started on the mound for the Bankers but was relieved in the third by Mason when the Duffus men started to connect. Tyler pitched steady ball for the Duffus men throughout.

In the third inning the Duffus squad broke loose for nine runs cashing in on the poor playing of the Bankers' infield and outfield. Each team scored three runs in the fourth inning. Duffus added three more in the fifth with the Bankers getting three in the sixth. The game was called due to darkness at the end of the sixth. Lineups:

Bankers—Ethier, 2b; Stillman, 1b; Mason, lf, p; Brooks, c; Rollins, ss; Bailey, cf; Brown, p, lf; Crawford 3b; Gerow, rf.

Duffus — Anderson, 3b; Manbeck, 1b; Smith, ss; Hatherley, 2b; Hill, c; Tyler, p; Logan and Cain, rf; Malenfant and Douglas, lf; McCarthy, cf.

Grant & Loucks Win

Grant and Loucks blanked J. K. Hughes 11-0 last night in a Civic Softball League encounter. They had too much power at the plate behind fine flinging by Riches, who fanned eight and had good support. The victors broke through for three runs each in the first, fourth and seventh innings, with two counting in the sixth. Teams:

Grant and Loucks—Dracup, 3b; Craig, c; Riches, p; Byers, ss; Gauthier, lf; Doucett, rf; Chenier, 2b; Berchenar, 1b; Little, cf.

Hughes—Panter, ss; Berwick, c; Reid, 1b; Dyer, p; Anderson, 2b; Bannon, cf; Minors, lf; Morgan, rf; Dearle, 3b.

Tied For Championship

CALGARY, Aug. 9. — (CP).— Hamilton Westinghouse's fast, aggressive eleven ran North Vancouver's North Shore Club into the ground Monday night to take a 2-1 victory and tie the Dominion Association football championship at one game each. Third and deciding game of the three-game series will be played here Wednesday night.

Request Dissolution

TORONTO, Aug. 9 (CP)—The annual meeting of the Dominion Football Association in Calgary is expected to consider a recommendation from the Toronto and District Soccer Association calling for dissolution of the Ontario Soccer Commission. A resolution endorsed by the Toronto group states that its directors "dissent from any and all assumed powers of those who have delegated themselves as representatives of Ontario soccer football at the annual meeting of the DFA."

Minor Lacrosse

All Saints eliminated Legion 12-2 last night in bantam lacrosse semi-finals, led by Kearns with seven points, Bloom and Delahaye with four each and Drury and Perry with two apiece. Hunt and Sutherland went best for the Legion as they dropped the series in two straight. All Saints now meet the winner of the other semi-final bracket in finals. Teams:

Legion: Hunt, Sutherland, Mullins, McGrath, Keating, Crow, James, Saunders.

All Saints—Sutherland, Bloom, Perry, Delahaye, Kearns, Drury, Heard, Ketcheson, Johnson, Peason.

Referees, J. Whitnall and F. McMasters.

United Electric won 8-6 from J. K. Hughes to even up their semi-final bantam series at a game each. Cournyea counted six points for UE while Kelly and O'Rourke were in on two each. T. Hunt scored three for Hughes and McDougall had a goal and an assist in the keen contest. Teams:

Hughes — Kirkley, Rowley, Boyce, Cullen, G. Hunt, T. Hunt, Orde, Ryan, Ferrin, McDougall.

UE—Simmons, Hobart, Galvin, Cournyea, Kelly, Roberts, O'Rourke, Rockwell, King.

Queen's juveniles won by default from Firestone, and these teams meet for the second of their two-of-three semi-finals on Wednesday night.

Bell Victorious

Bell Telephone took a 7-5 win over Duffus in a keen Civic Softball League tussle last evening. The winners had a 15-10 margin on hitting but had two errors to one and it was nip-and-tuck most of the way, with a lot of walks seen. Bell got four runs in the sixth after one in the third, and added two more in the eighth, while Duffus counted one apiece in the first, fourth, sixth and two in the fifth. Teams:

Bell: Conroy, 2b; Greatrix, cf; James, c; Ackford, ss; Harrison, lf, p; Gillespie, 1b; Tushingham, rf; Wood, 3b; Boyce, p.

Duffus: Anderson, 2b; Manbeck, 1b; Mitchell, ss; Corkery, 3b; Hill, c; Tyler, lf; Douglas, rf; Sharpe, cf; Hatheriy, p.

King Clancy To Coach Cincinnati Team

CINCINNATI, Aug. 9.—(CP).—Frank (King) Clancy has stepped down from his job as chief referee in the National Hockey League to accept a coaching post with the new Cincinnati entry in the American Hockey League.

Announcement of Clancy's appointment came as a surprise. Although many names had been mentioned in connection with the Cincinnati coaching spot, Clancy's was not among them. Only a few weeks ago the former N.H.L. defenceman signed a two-year contract as chief referee for the N.H.L.

No mention of salary was made, but it is believed the Cincinnati owners had to go pretty high to coax the Ottawa Irishman to leave his N.H.L. position. Clancy was reported to have drawn $10,000 a season from the N.H.L. last year and the new contract he signed recently was said to call for a substantial raise.

It will be the second try at coaching for the 47-year-old Clancy, one of the league's most colorful performers in his heyday as a star defenceman with the old Ottawa Senators and Toronto Maple Leafs.

The King had a brief fling as coach of the now-defunct Montreal Maroons in the 1936-37 season. This time he again will be associated with a Montreal club —the Canadiens—who will operate Cincinnati franchise as their No. 1 farm team.

In all, he played 17 seasons in the big league, 10 with Ottawa and seven with Toronto.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

"As long as this extreme hot weather continues, we're doing no afternoon bowling." That was the statement made by many of our bowlers last evening. In fact we heard rumors that several bowlers who intended going to outside tournaments on the half-holiday have cancelled their entry. Just too hot.

So now on Wednesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock, we are having a mixed rink tournament. Draw from the board, and the fee is only 15 cents. Come on out and help swell the crowd. It will be cooler when the sun goes down.

Today's thought

Midgets Triumph Over Toronto 9-8

The local midget all-stars pulled out a 9-8 exhibition lacrosse win over St. John's last night in Toronto. Checking was close and feelings high at times with a donnybrook breaking out in the second and again in the third, but Referee Whitey Frick kept control. Neat passing was shown and both goalies stood out, Chapman being real good. Walsh and Bouley shone for St. John's, with Brioux, McIlmoyle, Batley and "Hopalong" Cupoli the pick of the winners.

Green and Bouley scored in the first but Brioux got both back. Farley, McIlmoyle, Galley and Cupoli scored in the second for the Petes, as Walsh, Besoigne and Boeske tallied for Toronto. Walsh got a pair in the third as Caravaggie scored for Petes. Walsh added one in the fourth but Brioux tied it up and Batley got the winner. Teams:

Petes: Chapman, O'Reilly, Galley, Caravaggie, Danieis, Fontaine, Allen, Brioux, McIlmoyle, Cupoli, Doris, Brown, Batley, Farley.

St. John's — Powers, Walsh, Hickey, McDonald, Frainzak, Boeske, Becket, Green, Hogan, Besoigne, Bouley, Romick, Brasseur.

Referee, W. Frick.

Post Office Wins

The first of the two-of-three Foresters Softball League semi-finals last night saw Port Office pull out a close win over A & P. The Posties took an early lead but A. & P. whittled it down and a fifth-frame drive put them out in front. Coombs hit a four-run homer in the eighth to get Post Office back in the hunt again. The last inning was close but, with two out, O'Toole got into trouble and an error resulted in the winning run. He had gone good on the grocers' mound while Wallwork replaced Coombs in the eighth for Post Office. These teams go again at 6.45 p.m. Thursday at King Edward Park.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Spike Matthews, Panthers' starry backfielder, has been named playing coach of the local ORFU gridders for this season. He should be an inspiring leader on the field, knowing the game thoroughly. Another interesting football item comes from Prexy Hilly Yudin of Panthers—the club will play night games here this autumn under lights in Morrow Park. Covered stand there is ideal for large crowds and the field ample for this game. An open meeting of all prospective players next Monday eve at seven in the Riverside dressing room, and the following Wednesday—that's Aug. 17—the first practice session will be held. Team is in an ORFU setup again with Orillia, Oshawa and Oakville.

Batawa Shoemen come here to play the Petes at 6.30 tomorrow (Wednesday) night in Riverside, a COBL fixture. Men o' Murphy have but three more home games, counting this one tomorrow and the one here Saturday 'gainst Oshawa Merchants. Latter are currently atop the heap by two games or four points and the Petes will have to drive hard from here in to take over first place and get the league playoff bye. Schedule concludes Aug. 20 with playoffs following, and then the provincial playdowns. The Wednesday eve tilt is a good opportunity for fans who work in stores Saturdays and thus miss most of the senior ball games during the season. Ed Murphy says Lefty Dadson will likely pitch for the Petes this time.

Loyal Lacrosse Fans

Lacrosse fans of this borough are backing the Petes up real good this OLA senior "A" semester. Even though the Creighton crew have been flirting with the cellar right along. However, folks know that they're seeing some fine frays and the Petes have had rotten luck lately to lose a number of hot tilts by one or two goals. Refereeing hasn't been good at all, as the veteran arbiters seem to resent a new club making a showing in senior "A" their first season up. The work of Joe Murphy and Lu Vipond has generally been pretty fair, but the others—nix. Team is off for Owen Sound tonight, takes on Mimico here Friday and goes to Mimico next night.

Comes the finals once again in the men's City Softball League at the Bowl. Cosmos open 'em up tonight at 8.30 under the arcs against Uniteds, weather being right. Single games will be run throughout, if possible, in the four-of-seven serial. Uniteds looked impressive in finishing the schedule in front, but Cosmos certainly came on in the semi-finals to sweep Knights aside in four straight. Ought to be a dandy series this week and next. Senior "B" winner plays Kingston Aug. 23, while the intermediate "A" crew goes in September, and the junior "A" bunch meets Oshawa on Aug. 25, first game here.

Hammer And Tongs

Playoff time is worth waiting for usually, as games are really good then, and certainly important. Two girls' semi-final playoffs last p.m. in the Bowl proved right interesting, and the twin bill tomorrow will be even more so as elimination faces two teams. Westclox won 7-4 over Ashby's last gloaming as CGE edged Marines 4-2, and another win for these victors will rub out their opponents and bring on the finals. But it wouldn't surprise us at all to see Marines take CGE in the seven p.m. tilt tomorrow and Ashby's wrest one from Westclox. Both losing squads were out-hustled a bit in the openers and the winners deserved the duke in each case.

* * * * * *

Latest OASA bulletin lists some intermediate "C" playdowns for Aug. 15 as follows: Fenelon at Lakefield, Warkworth at Wooler, Campbellford at Hastings and Frankford at Stirling. Return tilts two days later. Next rounds then on Aug. 22 and 24. Convener for this zone is Bert Bailey, 575 Douglas Ave., Peterborough. Floodlight games may be played for first two home tilts in any playdown series if the home club makes the arrangements, but third games cannot be played under lights unless both teams agree, and lighted tussles must not start till at least an hour after sundown. All bats must be taped for 12 inches, and only OASA umpires used. Rained-out games go the following day, unless the convener agrees otherwise.

Open Tourney in Golf At Peterborough

The third annual Ontario Golf Association open tournament at the Peterborough Golf and Country Club will be held this coming Saturday. It is three-flight handicap competition, 1-10, 11-20, and 21-30, with good prize put up. Two years ago, this tourney drew 137 from various parts of the province, with almost as many last year, and even more expected this time. Post entries will be accepted, but entries should be received either by the OGA office in Toronto or at the Peterborough Club by tomorrow morning.

Len Lawrence has been named general chairman for the big tournament, President Milt Hardill advises. The course is being put in first-class shape for the invasion of golfers, including many from the Peterborough and Kawartha Clubs. The draw will probably be published by the OGA in the Toronto morning paper on Friday.

Brampton Edges Hamilton 11-9

By the Canadian Press.

Brampton Excelsiors and St. Catharines Excelsiors have strengthened their grips on first and third place, respectively, in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior standing.

Brampton's brothers Harvey and Carl Madgett starred in an overtime victory over fifth-place Hamilton Tigers 11-9 on Monday night.

Tony Damico and Don Frick, each with three-goal displays, paced St. Catharines to a lopsided 11-5 win Monday against Weston Lions. Harry Wipper added a pair for the victors.

Harvey Madgett accounted for three goals. Carl scored his only goal in overtime to shade the Hamiltonians.

Elmer Lee, with two goals and an assist, starred for Hamilton. The smooth forward suffered an injury to his left leg when hit by a stick in the same spot broken last year in Mann Cup finals.

Playoffs Commence In Minor Lacrosse

Petes beat Terriers 7-4 last night to open their best-of-three minor lacrosse semi-finals. Paul Davis sparked the winners with two goals and an assist as A. Reid and G. Hunt each got two markers. Pork Ketcheson scored a pair for the losers. Teams:

Petes: Hunt, MacInnes, Davis, Hunt, Murphy, Atkinson, Reid, Hill.

Terriers: Hefferman, Pace, Casey, Cavanagh, Hickson, Doris, Ketcheson, Ellis, Rowatt, Roode, Saunders.

Cyclones just outed the shorthanded Tigers 13-12 to open their semi-finals, Tigers putting up a terrific fight with all going good. Pete Hefferman shone for Cyclones going either way. Morgan was their big sniper with Hefferman next and then Kent. D. Sutherland had five and three assists for the losers, but all looked fine. Teams:

Cyclones: Roberts, Heffernan, Curtis, Morgan, Silvetri, Coombs, Fitzgerland, Kent, Halcrow.

Tigers: Lloyd, Sutherland, Jay, Keeting, Hutton.

Rockets were too good for Spitfires and won 11-1 in their minor match. Though not top scorer, Ralph Morton was the best player on hand. R. Anthony led the scorers with an impressive tally of seven goals, Hendron getting the lone one for the losers. Teams:

Spitfires: Hunt, Rowatt, Barry, Downer, Hendron, Reid, Fleming, Pace, McKay, Wilfong, DeNoble.

Rockets: Heffernan, R. Anthony, Stickle, Patterson, Chimenti, Morton, Mountney, Murduff, Innes, Billingsley, Chapman.

Referees: J. Foote and B. Hobart.

Slaughter Sparks Cards Helps To Wallop Reds 9-3

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Enos (Country) Slaughter, the St. Louis Cardinals' "ball player's ball player," is a living proof that baseball experts are a funny race.

In pre-season polls, the majority of scribes ignored St. Louis as a pennant threat because "they were too old." Thus, they pointed the finger at Slaughter, who at 33, was the oldest regular on the club.

To-day, these same experts predict that the Cards will win the National League flag. Why? Because of the presence of this same Enos Slaughter.

Slaughter's current batting average of .331 is exceeded only by Jackie Robinson's .364. Enos enjoyed one of his biggest "days" Monday night when he walloped two home runs and drove in six runs to lead the Cards to a 9-3 victory over Cincinnati Reds.

The Redbirds needed the triumph to maintain their first place tie with Brooklyn, as the Dodgers already had nipped New York Giants 2-1.

Those were the only games played in the majors.

Helps Pollet

Slaughter's one man foray enabled Howie Pollet to register his 15th victory although he was touched for a dozen hits. The Cards could get only five safeties off loser Kent Peterson and three successors, but took advantage of seven bases on balls.

Big Don Newcombe pitched one of his best games of the year in beating the Giants with four hits. The negro righthander had a three-hit shutout until the ninth when Whitey Lockman sent his first serve over the right field screen to spoil his shutout bid. Newcombe retired the next three men for his 11th victory. He has lost only three.

Jackie Robinson was the big gun for the Dodgers. He slashed his 13th homer in the second and set the stage for the winning run in the eighth with a single that sent Carl Furillo to third. With the bases loaded and two out, loser Dave Koslo walked pinch-hitter Bruce Edwards to force Furillo over the plate.

New York Yankees resume the pennant operations to-day when they engage the rampaging Red Sox in a three-game set in Boston. The Yankees, leading the American League by 5½ games, will be without the services of two of their big guns—First Baseman Tomy Henrich and Catcher Yogi Berra. Both were injured by pitched balls Sunday. Henrich, with a bruised right forearm, is expected to be back in a couple of days, Berra, however, probably will be sidelined for about three weeks.

Jethroe Leads Royal Sweep Of Doubleheader

By The Associated Press

Sammy Jethroe is the Jackie Robinson of the International League.

The mercury-heeled Negro outfielder of Montreal Royals is the top man in four departments and among the leaders in most of the others.

Jethroe, a sure bet to graduate to the Majors next year, is out all by himself in stolen bases. In 113 games he has pilfered 68 sacks, and is on his way to set a new league mark in that department.

He owns the most hits, 159; the most runs scored, 119; nd the most triples, 12. He trails his teammate, Bob Morgan, in doubles, 30 to 29, and has hit 14 home runs. He's driven in 62 runs, a phenomenal figure for a leadoff batter. His batting mark is .339.

Jethroe enjoyed one of his best nights Monday when he cracked out seven hits in eight times at bat to help the Royals sweep a doubleheader from the cellar-dwelling Newark Bears, 7-5 and 15-1. The double triumph moved the Royals into fourth place, a half game ahead of Jersey City Giants.

The star centrefielder got three hits, including a double, and stole his 68th base in the opener. He was overshadowed by the stick-work of George Schmees and Chuck Connors, who each hit three-run homers for the Royals. Dan Bankhead won his 13th game in relief.

Very Busy Man

Jethroe added four hits including a double in the nightcap, scored four times and drove in three runs as Clyde King registered his 15th triumph with a nine-hitter. King has lost only three.

Jersey saw an early 2-0 lead go up in smoke as Toronto Maple Leafs tallied two in the eighth and the winning run in the 10th on a walk to Chet Laabs and a triple by Bill Glynn.

Alex Carrasquel, shipped down recently by Chicago White Sox, made his first start for Buffalo a successful one when he pitched the league-leading Bisons to a 5-2 triumph over Baltimore. Carrasquel set the Orioles down with seven hits.

Second-place Rochester defeated Syracuse Chiefs behind the eight-hit pitching of Jim Hearn, 7-2. Russ Derry smacked his 35th homer for the Wings.

Marchildon Looks Good In 5-1 Victory

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 9.—(AP).—Phil Marchildon, bothered with a sore arm most of the season, looked good in pitching Athletics to a 5-1 victory over Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game before 7,750 fans here Monday night. The Penetanguishene, Ont., right-hander held the National League Pirates scoreless for six innings before he retired in favor of Les McCrabb in the seventh.

The American Leaguers did all their scoring off Ray Poat, who gave up 10 of the dozen hits and all the runs in seven innings.

Bill Boyd Finds Television Big Gold Mine

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 9 (AP)—After 30 years in Hollywood, Bill Boyd is enjoying his greatest success, thanks to Hopalong Cassidy and television.

He rose to film fame as the star of "The Volga Boatman." Hitting a slump in the 30's, he began playing a western character named Hopalong Cassidy.

The series was a success as horse operas go. But nothing compared to what happened when Cassidy hopped to television.

Boyd realized the power of the new medium when he took a recent eastern tour. He was mobbed everywhere he went. Last week at a charity baseball game, he drew bigger applause than other so-called "big names."

A kid-turnout estimated at 15,000 showed up at a department store here this week to see him.

TV Is Great

"I've never seen anything like it," says Bill. "Television is the greatest thing that has ever happened in this country. It is bringing families back together again and it's giving people more entertainment than they've had before."

Boyd, who says he hardly ever uses his own name anymore, has been preparing for this triumph for nine years. That was when he heard that Hoppy's creator, Clarence Mulford, would not relinquish television rights to the character.

The actor figured there must be a reason. So for nine years he tried to wrest the film rights to Hoppy away from producer Harry Sherman. For two years he didn't work in the series.

"I almost didn't eat," he said. "It's pretty tough for an actor to be out of work that long."

Finally he got Sherman out of the picture and made a deal with the author to share profits. The westerns are now showing in 30 television cities. Many parents now discipline their children thusly: "If you don't eat your carrots, you don't look at Hopalong tonight."

Was Office Boy 29 Years Ago Heads Biggest Trading Concern

By DON GILBERT

LONDON, Aug. 9 (CP)—It took Sir Geoffrey Heyworth just 29 years to climb from office boy to head of the world's biggest trading concern.

Ten of those years he was in Canada or with the Canadian forces overseas. And before he returned to Britain he acquired a Canadian wife.

As chairman of Lever Brothers and Unilever Limited, Heyworth runs a business empire which operates more than 500 companies and subsidiaries in 43 countries.

Last year the group did more than £600,000,000 ($2,400,000,000) worth of business in soaps, margarine, toilet preparations and a score of other products.

Heyworth's career has a bit of Horatio Alger in it. His widowed mother kept a school boarding house in Dollar, Scotland. Geoffrey was the eldest of five children in a family of meagre means.

Gets Him Job

The mother called on the first Lord Leverhulme, founder of Lever Brothers, to ask a job for the boy. She couldn't get into the great man's office but lay in wait for him in the corridor and won a promise of an interview for Geoffrey.

Lord Leverhulme told him: "If you are anything like your mother, you must be good."

Lord Leverhulme kept an eye on him and two years after he joined the firm sent him to Toronto as assistant accountant ni Lever Brothers' office there. That was in 1914. Next year Heyworth joined the Canadian army and went overseas.

From 1918 to 1924 he held various jobs in Lever Brothers' Canadian subsidiary. Then he was called back to Britain. In the meantime he had married Miss Lois Dunlop of Woodstock, Ont.

Remembers Lower Ranks

At the top Heyworth remembers those in the lower ranks.

"There should always be ideas coming from lower down—and someone at the top ready to listen to them," Heyworth says. "Otherwise the energy which is generating ideas will peter out. And that is bad for any company."

Sir Geoffrey is of stocky build, shy, with a tough nervous system. Associates say he is a man born to make decisions and exercise authority.

"He never wastes words or time," says his colleagues.

He reorganized the company's marketing methods. When he was through, 50 selling organizations had been boiled down to five.

Harwood WI Plans Sale Of Home Cooking

HARWOOD, Aug. 9 — (ENS)—Mrs. Brodie of Toronto, who has a summer home at Roseneath, was the guest speaker at the August meeting of the Women's Institute held Friday in the Community Hall. Mrs. Brodie urged all mothers to be at home when their children returned from the school, and to know at all times where they were and what they were doing. Mrs. Brodie mentioned a 14-year-old boy, a next-door neighbor in Toronto, a brilliant, bright boy, who disappeared, and has not been heard of for two months or more. This boy's parents were both dead, and no one seemed to take the interest that should have been taken.

There were 21 members and 13 visitors present, and three new members joined. It was decided to have pressure cooker demonstration on August 23 at 7:15 p.m. when Mr. Robertson will give the demonstration. A dinner will be served to the Institute members and their friends in the Community Hall.

A birthday tea and sale of home cooking will be held on Thursday, August 11. Committee in charge to be Mrs. Ellis Isaac, Mrs. George Isaac, and Mrs. Donald Herriott.

Find Brantford's Sewage Dumped Into Grand River; Favor Parks' Commission

"Brantford hasn't a sewage disposal plant to its name," said Ald. Hurrell Dodds in a comment today on his visit to several cities in western Ontario last week with Ald. Herbert Young. "I couldn't help but laugh when I thought of all the criticism that goes on back in Peterborough, and also in Otonabee Township, and if those folks could be brought up there and learn that sewage flows directly into the Grand River.

On the other hand Kitchener has something to show us. They began their sanitary planning for the community a little before we did, about forty years ago perhaps, because they did not have a river running through their city.

"The Kitchener plant is what we have in mind, and it looks to be what we need. But, that is the difference between two municipalities."

Cities and towns along the Grand River will have to do something about preventing its pollution according to the discussions which have been going on with the provincial department of health.

Favor Parks Board

Ald. Dodds said he was inclined to subscribe to the conversion of Ald. Herbert Young to the commission plan of management of parks. They both said they found parks boards in most of the cities they visited, Brantford, Kitchener, Galt, Stratford, St. Catharines.

"The board is entitled to requisition the council for one mill in the rate, as in Stratford, for instance, and then they are on their own. But, they also are permitted to keep any park funds that come to them," Ald. Young said.

"The parks board has charge of the sports arena, and they can keep that revenue. The result is that they are in a position to build up a fund which they can use on more permanent improvement of their parks or buying new ones, if they are needed."

Peterborough city council might not sanction that financial heresy of diverting Civic Arena surplus from the municipal treasury from which the monies were taken to build the arena and now to equip it with ice-making machinery.

Ald. Dodds and Ald. Young were hospitably received on their several days tour and especially in Brantford and Stratford.

Mrs. Al Clark Tops Field Of 60 Golfers

Peterborough lady golfers took four prizes in a tournament at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club, Belleville, on Saturday. Mrs. Al Clark, of the Kawartha Golf Club, competing in a field of sixty, won the Mead-Johnson Trophy, for the championship of the district. Clubs from Ottawa in the east to Peterborough in the west were represented.

Mrs. Clark, in the first flight, had a low gross of 91. The runner-up, Mrs. Lionel Ross, of Cobourg, carded a 93. Low net of the first flight was tied by Mrs. Dent, Kingston, and K. Keenan, Cobourg, both with 83's.

In the second flight, Miss M. Cook, Belleville, and Mrs. G. Faulkner, also of Belleville, tied with a low fross of 96. A Peterborough girl, Miss Jane Abbott, placed second in the low net in this flight, with an 82. The winner, Miss M. Stobie, Belleville, had a 71.

Third flight low gross was won by Mrs. G. S. Wonnacott, Belleville, with 108, and runner-up was Mrs. Grange, Napanee, with 114.

Mrs. F. G. Hall, of Peterborough, won the second flight in the putting division. The first flight was won by Miss C. Mitchell, Kingston, and the third by Mrs. G. Bradford, Belleville.

Another Peterborough lady, Mrs. G. S. Hall, took the second flight in driving. First flight was Mrs. Niddery, Trenton, and third Miss Johnson, Port Hope.

Miss Caroline Mitchell, mentioned above, is the Canadian Ladies' Golf Union representative for Ontario.

Summer Theatre Enters Realm of American Farce

By ROBERTON DAVIES

In its production of Norman Krasna's "John Loves Mary" the Peterborough Summer Theatre enters a realm which it has hitherto neglected, the realm of American farce. It has given us "George and Margaret" which was English farce, and "Blithe Spirit", which was farce on a very high level, but the Broadway article, in which everyone is expected to maintain a condition of near-hysteria from start to finish, in which half the exits are made at a run, and in which the humour of the lines is doubled by doubling the power of the voice, was a stranger to the local stage until Monday night.

Plot of Play

The Krasna play is a good play of its kind. It is about an American soldier who returns from war and is unable to marry his fiancee because he has, for the best reasons in the world, married another girl who must first be disposed of. It is such a good play of its kind that it could have stood a somewhat less rampageous performance than it was given on the first night; no doubt a greater serenity will descend upon the actors now that the first performance is over.

The acting ranged from good to something less than good, which was surprising in this company, which has maintained a remarkably high and even level in its other plays. Easily the most accomplished performance was that of Mr. Bill Needles as an American Senator; he had authority and style, and he was convincing at all times. He was very ably seconded by Miss Christine Thomas, who also showed that a certain artistic restraint is no disadvantage in a farce. An excellent performance as a tough sergeant was given by Mr. Hugh Taschereau, and John Primm and Sheila Craig contributed very good character bits to the play; farce depends heavily upon such small performances for its total effect.

Miss Anna Cameron and Mr. Frank Perry played effectively as the lovers of the title, but the effectiveness of their playing will be doubled when they calm down; oddly enough these experienced players seemed to be in the grip of a bad fit of nerves. Mr. Gerry Sarracini seemed to be similarly affected, though it is obvious that he has great gifts as a comedian. As an armchair general Michael Lynd was hampered by a heavy makeup which did not quite transform him from a personable young man into a podgy old one; his potentially excellent performance was obscured by a singular appearance of localized dropsy; one less sofa pillow in the pants will allow this pleasing actor to make his effects. Miss Pat Atkinson was good as an English war bride, but a little more variation and a little less hurry will improve her performance.

These criticisms are not meant to suggest that the play is not well done. It is, and it will be much better from now on. But the change of style had put this gifted company a little off its stride on Monday evening.

Main Street Topics

SAYS IT WAS 110°

A main streeter avers (a word connoting veracity) that the thermometer at LeBarr's store on Charlotte St. showed 110 degrees in the sun at noon Monday. He is in business on George St. and he believes the LeBarr mercury to be reliable.

John Fisher, CBC commentator, will give a talk in the recreation hall of Hotel Sylvan at Belmont Lake on Wednesday evening. The public is invited to listen and see him in person; he is a summer visitor in that area.

FIREMEN SAVE CAR

Thanks to quick work on the part of local firemen, a car which caught fire at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan Sts. at 1.15 p.m. Monday was saved from destruction. The blaze was caused by a short circuit and damage was confined to the wiring. The car is owned by H. Schoter, 38 Chester St.

CARS ABANDONED

Provincial Police today re-issued their warning that cars left abandoned on main highways for an undue length of time before being towed away are liable to be taken to a garage by the police, with the towing bill charged up to the owner. One such car was found Monday on No. 28 Highway near the waterworks and another this morning on the River Road at Nassau. Actions such as this are a definite violation of the Motor Vehicle Act.

LIFTLOCK ATTRACTION

Several hundred spectators lined the banks of the canal Monday evening watching the passage of an American launch through the liftlock.

FLORAL NOTE

There are several grand beds of golden rod and blue sailors in town, but if they were mentioned to any member of the municipal authorities, City Engineer Chalmers, Armar Butcher, or Mayor Swanston, they might drop work immediately and start out with a sickle to lay them low.

ELECTRIC FANS SCARCE

J. E. Sullivan of Grant and Loucks received today a telephone call for an electric fan from a banker friend in a northern county whose wife is a patient at Civic Hospital. But, fans have become scarce, so the one on Mr. Sullivan's desk found its way to the hospital, for reinforcing breezes against the heat, until it is no longer needed.

DIES IN TORONTO

Well-known in Toronto legal circles and an active Liberal, Daniel Joseph Coffey died in Toronto General Hospital Monday after a short illness. He was a member of the legal firm of Coffey, McDermott, and McMahon, and had practised law in Toronto for 35 years. Mr. Coffey was well known in Peterborough for his political speeches.

Orangemen To Mark Derry Day Saturday

Derry Day, a day important in the lives of Orangemen everywhere, will be celebrated in Millbrook Saturday, August 13, by the Knights of the Royal Black Preceptory with a parade at 1:30 p.m. and a sports program.

The CGE pipe band will attend to lead the 500 marchers. Several speakers will also take part and there will be bingo.

The celebration commemorates the lifting of the siege of Londonderry in 1689 after the town had been besieged four months by James II. The previous year it had become the stronghold of Protestant forces of Northern Ireland.

Suggest Bonuses Tree Planting

The idea of bonuses and subsidies to farmers planting trees was suggested in briefs from Waterloo and Norfolk counties to the Select Committee of the Legislature on conservation at Woodstock Friday.

"Waterloo recommended that subsidies be paid to owners of woodlots in lieu of municipal tax exemption with payment to be the responsibility of the river valley conservation authorities".

The Norfolk proposal was: "A plan for bonuses to private owners who plant trees at least sufficient to cover cost of fencing woodlots from cattle".

Man's Ancestry Nears Solution Scientist Says

CAPE TOWN, Aug. 9 — (CP) —Dr. Robert Broom, South African anthropoligst and palaeontologist, believes this year will be the most important in the history of the world in solving the riddle of the ancestry of man.

"How man evolved is almost a question of religion" he said recently. "The world wants immediate results, and we must get them because so much depends on it.

Dr. Broom, who is to lecture in the United States and Britain, said that he and a party of American scientists made a number of important discoveries at Swartkrans, in the Transvaal, four months ago including the lower jaw and the bigger part of the upper jaw of a "missing link." Sections of another prehistoric man's jaw were also found there late in February.

"The skull is the largest yet obtained," he added. "We have still to find a brain case, but, from the size of the lower jaw, I think that the brain may have been up to the lower, human standard."

The cave at Swartkrans in which Dr. Broom and the Americans have been working is older than any previously discovered, and the specimens are unique.

Criticizes Commission

"Unfortunately, I am not allowed to take any of the specimens to the United States," he said. "In the meantime, I am only allowed to take casts. The Historical Monuments Commission wishes to look over all the finds, and then they will say what may go. Evidently, they want all types of ape-men to remain in South Africa, and we will only be able to send a few duplicates and a good deal of rubbish to America. I think the policy of the Historical Monuments Commission is rather foolish and short-sighted. I will discuss the matter with the Americans and possibly they may succeed in getting wiser counsels to prevail.

Dr. Broom says there are thousands of caves extending in age from 2,000,000 BC to comparatively recent times, in the formation of dolomite that runs round the Transvaal and down to near Prieska, in Cape Province and it is almost certain that when all the cave deposits have been worked out the world will have the history of the evolution of man.

"We in South Africa, single-handed, are quite incapable of working all our deposits in 1,000 years," he went on. "America is only too willing to help us with money — apparently unlimited money—to get the results for which the world is impatiently waiting."

The members of the "missing link" race, according to Dr. Broom were comparative giants who walked erect and used their delicate "hands" for the manipulation of weapons and tools. Their teeth were of typically human structure, but rather longer than those of man. The brain was relatively small, sometimes not larger than the brain of a gorilla.

Do You Know...

if lightning can strike the same place twice?

Despite popular belief it has been proved that lightning can and does strike in the same place more than once. Any substance or building which attracts a discharge of lightning once will probably attract it again and again. The Empire State Building, for example, has been 'struck' by lightning scores of times — sometimes more than once in the same storm.

Do You Know . . . that each flash of lightning is not necessarily followed by a crash of thunder? Silent lightning is not unusual.

Do You Know . . . that lightning often comes up from the earth? This happens when charges of electricity shoot up from the ground, meet discharges from the clouds and cause lightning flashes.

Do You Know . . . that lightning does not zigzag, as it is popularly believed? Scientific investigation has shown that lightning travels in a long irregular, ribbon-like line — it is never acutely angled.

Do You Know any interesting and unusual facts? Our "Advisory Panel" will pay $25 for any authenticated readers' submissions if they are usable. All letters become our property. Write Black Horse Brewery, Station L, Montreal, P.Q.

Grown-up Children Upset Widower's Second Marriage

DEAR MISS DIX: An old maid, 50 years old, married a widower 60 who has two daughters, married and living in another county. The wife is a splendid woman who does everything to make her husband comfortable and to help him and they would be very happy together except that his daughters have made the man feel that he did very wrong in marrying again and putting somebody in their mother's place. They flood him with letters filled with "Mother" and how they miss her, about her sufferings, her death, her grave, how they can never get over her death and so on and to please them he buys costly floral designs with the word "WIFE" in large letters to place on her grave. He never gives his wife a flower or present of any kind. Everything goes to the cemetery. This makes my friend very unhappy and she says if this goes on she is going back to her old home and leave him to his daughters and his first wife's memories. What do you think she should do? A FRIEND.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I think she should first have a plain talk with her husband and try to make him see what a folly his daughters have driven him into committing and then she should tell him frankly that she doesn't intend to play second fiddle to a grave and that he can take his choice between a live wife and a dead one.

The real villains in this case are the daughters whose jealousy, mixed with morbid sentimentality, is making them wreck their father's life. They feel that it is romantic for their father to go on mourning their mother and keeping her grave decked in flowers. They don't want him to be happy. They don't want him to forget. And so they keep stirring him up all the time about their mother's death and that is a mean and selfish thing to do.

When children interfere with their middle-aged parents' marriage and prevent them from taking suitable mates, as they often do, they do a very wrong and foolish thing and one that very often becomes the boomerang that annihilates themselves.

For when they keep father and mother from marrying and maintaining their own homes, they automatically acquire father and mother as permanent fixtures in their own homes and that seldom makes for the peace and harmony of the establishment. For sons-in-law and daughters-in-law are not keen about having their husbands' and wives' parents live with them.

A widower is a particularly helpless creature. He is like an animal that has been housebroken and who does not know how to take care of himself when he is thrown out again into the wild. He is accustomed to the comforts of his own home, to being the head of the house, to having a wife take care of him and to feminine society and he is miserable without these whether he tries to live in his children's homes or in clubs or hotels.

So if children really loved their father they should be glad and thankful that some nice woman of his own nage had taken him in charge and made a home for him. Many a stepfather and mother saves a man's and woman's own home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Is a man of 67 too old to marry? Should he marry a woman less than 40?

A. B. C.

ANSWER: Certainly a man of 67 is not too old to marry. That is the prime of life now, and if a man is strong and healthy he has many years of life yet to look forward to.

I think that middle-aged people are very wise to marry, because they need companionship during the last lap of the journey more than they do at any other time along the road. The young can step out and go places and do things. They can find amusement and society, but when we get to the time of life where we want to stay put we want somebody across the lamp to whom we can say: "Do you remember?"

But I think a woman under 40 is too young for a man 67, unless she happens to be of a particularly staid disposition. Otherwise she would not have the same interests nor have the same background as the man.

But after 30 age does not count. It is a matter of disposition and character. I know men and women in their 80's who are still mere laughing, light-hearted lads and lassies, and I know others in their 20's who are as old as Methuselah.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: What do girls think of the married man who flirts with them? Would they marry such a man knowing what he is? Do they pity his wife?

DISILLUSIONED

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Depends on the girl. Sometimes she thinks the married man who flirts with her is easy money and good for good times. Sometimes she thinks he is a contemptible beast who makes her putting up with his lovemaking the price of holding her job.

Many a girl marries such a man because her vanity makes her believe that she can hold him even if his wife couldn't. Many other girls have seen so much of flirtatious husbands that they have lost all faith in men. Some girls pity the married flirt's wife and thank God they don't have to live with him.

MAJOR MOVE — One of the largest moving jobs attempted in Canada has been successfully completed with the moving of the massive four-storey stone Oblate Fathers' Monastery at Cap de la Madeleine, Que., 261 feet six inches to a new site. The building was mounted on 13 steel runner beams which moved along a specially constructed track. The friction was absorbed by 200,000 ball bearings. Hydraulic jacks moved the 3,000-ton load five feet at a time. This aerial photo shows the building near its new site.

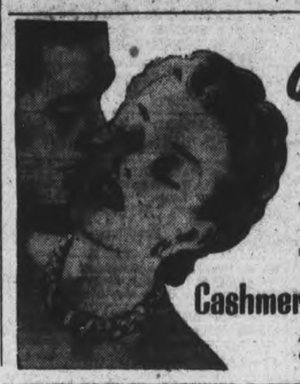
Twenty Plus Club Holds Corn Roast

Sixty members of the Twenty Plus Club held a corn roast and dance at Wallace Point Friday evening. Until dusk the party swam and took advantage of the diving facilities. Then a fire was lit and corn was put in a huge kettle to boil.

The roast was followed by dancing in the hall adjacent to the property. The PA system was trucked from the YWCA in Peterborough.

Doug Landry was MC, and Bob King, introduced as Miss Roberta Kingsdale and wearing a bathing suit and kerchief, entertained with songs.

Harry Tasker, who organized the corn roast, announced that plans for the camp next weekend are well under way.



King's Nephew Weds in Fall

LONDON, Aug. 9—(AP)—The Earl of Harewood, nephew of the King, and his Austrian-born commoner sweetheart will be married Sept. 29 in Chapel Royal of St. James Palace, it was reported today. The King and Queen are expected to attend the ceremony, which will be London's most fashionable wedding since the marriage of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in Westminster Abbey in 1947.

The date and site of the wedding have not been formally announced. Spokesmen at Buckingham Palace and Harewood House in Leeds, the earl's seat, declined to confirm or deny the reports of the wedding plans.

The Chapel Royal at St. James was the scene of the marriage of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert in 1840. The late King Edward V and Queen Marry were married there while he was Duke of York.

The engagement of the 25-year-old earl, son of Princess Royal Mary, and Miss Stein, 22, daughter of a London music house representative, was announced several weeks ago with the approval of the King.

Let's be frank about Fitness—
It's smart to be healthy!

"Jane — you should check these dull, listless spells. Nowadays, demands are heavy on your time as well as mine. So, with the children, we both need to be keen and sharp. And that's where steady health counts — we should keep fit."

To keep "up to par" you must feel right. You can't if you have trouble caused by "irregularity" due to lack of bulk foods in what you eat.

For the whole family Post's are better Bran Flakes that provide gentle, laxative action. Help make food wastes move promptly — keep you feeling fit.

Enjoy wholesome wheat nourishment too—POST'S BRAN FLAKES are made with other parts of wheat.

Popular, appetizing Post's Bran Flakes — grand to eat every morning. Large or regular package. Insist on Post's — they're better Bran Flakes.

Expect Report In Week's Time

TORONTO, Aug. 9 (CP) — A three-man arbitration board considering the recent labor dispute at the Massey Harris Co., Ltd., farm implement plant here probably will release its recommendations next week, it was learned today.

The board, composed of Mr. Justice W. D. Roach, representing Labor Minister Daley, J. C. Adams, for the company, and Charles L. Dubin, representing the union, met Friday and reserved judgment. It will meet again Thursday in private session.

Among the recommendations will be whether Steve Anco, whose dismissal brought about the strike of 4,000 workers, should be returned to his job. Anco is president of the Local 439, United Automobile Workers, (CIO-CCL).

In dismissing Anco, the company charged he had repeatedly violated terms of collective bargaining agreements, and had instructed two workers not to perform a job which had been assigned them.

Two Polio Deaths In 18 Cases Admitted

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 9 (CP)—First case of poliomyelitis admitted to Kingston Isolation Hospital from the city is a 14-year-old Cornwall girl, a visitor.

She was taken to hospital Monday, and is thought to have been exposed to the virus before reaching Kingston.

Of the 18 cases which have been admitted to the isolation hospital since July 26, two, a boy, 7, from Thomasburg, Hastings County, and a girl, 15, a visitor in the district from Renfrew, have died. Most of the cases have been from Hastings. Only three are from Frontenac County. One of these, a boy, 7, is a resident of Kingston Heights.

Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, medical officer of health, said today only six cities in the province have hospitals which are set up as treatment centres for poliomyelitis. These are Windsor, London, Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa and Kingston.

The 18 cases which have been treated here have come from 16 different communities.

The woman was found by police Monday wandering around in west end Sunnyside Beach. She told them she did not know her name and address and could only remember the names "Rita" and "Willy." Police believe these might be her first name and the name of a brother.

The woman is described as being five feet five inches tall, weighing 155 pounds with dark brown hair streaked with gray, fair complexion and brown eyes. She wore a blue and white print dress a black shorty coat and white shoes. She carried no purse or hat.

The "zoot-suiters" will appear in Galt court, Thursday, charged with creating a disturbance.

10,000 Workers Walk Off Job

DETROIT, Aug. 9 (AP)—Some 10,000 Packard Motor Car Company workers today walked off the job in a dispute over the discharge of a foundry worker.

Local 190, United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.), called a mass meeting to plan further action.

There was nothing to indicate it was other than a "quickie" walkout such as those which have previously cropped up at Packard as the result of minor disputes, quickly settled.

The company fired Jesse Green, charging he had struck his foreman in the foundry. The union claimed Green had not struck him.

Early today 1,100 foundry employees walked out when Packard refused to reinstate Green. The remainder of the work force left their jobs shortly after 10 a.m. EDT.

Packard charged the walkout was in violation of the contract.

Keeps Flame Of Freedom Burning Through 10 Years Under Heel Of Soviets, Nazis

(Editor's Note—For security reasons, in case any of this woman's friends or relatives still survive in Russian-occupied territory, all names of people there and here have been deleted and any other information which might give the NKVD any clue to her identity.)

By JEAN STENTON

This is the story of 10 years lost out of a human life. Ten yeas of torture, hunger, fear and heartbreak. Ten years of incredible sights imprinted on memory forever. Yet because she refused to let the flame of freedom go out, a courageous woman has found sanctuary in the British Commonwealth of Nations. She has turned her back on the past and is setting her sights on the future—a future she hopes to build in Canada.

Twenty years ago when the sun of peace shone brightly across the world, two teen-agers began an enduring friendship across the world by letter. One lived in a small European country, the other in Canada. As their letters accumulated during the years, each developed a strong affection for the other and a deep respect for the democratic heritage both shared. The thunderclouds of war gathered and a sudden bolt of lightning touched off the holocaust. For 10 years . . . deadly silence. Then 10 years later, almost to the day, a letter reached Peterborough this week giving an incredible account of heroism and faith. Because she refused to believe liberty could be dead, a weary woman of 39 has found freedom. But the price has come high.

Before the storm broke in 1939, she was a happy girl. She had graduated from the university and had received her B.A. degree. She became a teacher in a large school and had carved out an enjoyable career. Within a few months, the Soviet army overran her country, killed or deported her friends to Siberia and began war on the educated people of the country who harbored liberal thoughts.

Hide In Woods

"I was ordered about from one school to another, each transfer more humiliating than the last. My sister, who was studying medicine, had to give it up. At last by the end of 1941, I was a nervous wreck and I came home to my parents. Within a short time, terror began to stalk the land as the dreadful deportations began to Siberia. There were 65,000 of our people deported in two nights. They were packed into cattle trucks. These wagons were terrible, without any sanitary facilities. The doors were locked and people left there for days without food and water.

"Many people died. Many became insane. There were workers, intelligentsia, farmers, women, children, old people over 80. It is too terrible for words to describe all that horror which took our people. We got a warning from one of my father's friends and we took to the woods. We lived there for more than three weeks in constant danger until my father collapsed. We thought that he would die then and there without help. At last the German troops marched in and we could come out and find a way back to work. The Germans were very nice to us at first. My father was taken to hospital and he recovered."

For a time things seemed better, and the family lived quietly in a country place. The battles went on and gradually her country became a battlefield. The state was destroyed and its economy shattered. There was no time for recovery as the Germans demanded enormous taxes and rations. They had to meet the costs of a very expensive army. But the worst had yet to come.

New Purge

For six months they had only to deal with the military forces. After that, the party regime was installed and the new purge began. They began mobilizing men and women for labor. The citizens, she says, showed a great resistance, but there was no escape. She and her sister got a break and received permission to stay at home and support their parents and look after the place. All went well until 1943. Then her sister was called up to work in a hospital because she was a medical student. She had a dreadful time working right on the front near Leningrad.

The teacher received her orders to leave home in 1944. She was given only three days to settle her affairs and report to the capital. She had hoped to be able to arrange to remain at home and care for her parents, but fate intervened. She never saw her home or her parents again, nor will she in the future.

Gets 3-Year Sentence

"I was deported to Germany, sentenced to three years hard labor because of my English sympathy and education. I was taken near Berlin where I worked in a factory. It was a dreadful time full of humiliation. The air raids were terrible and we had to work on under falling bombs and German whips. Then I decided to run away. After many attempts I succeeded. I had a cousin in Berlin. I thought she might help me. She was too afraid to keep a runaway. Anyway she gave me money and clothes and I travelled to Dresden near the Czech border. I had some references and thus I obtained work in a library as a charwoman."

Fate, apparently deciding that she had been buffeted enough for the present, gave her a breathing spell. There were so many air raids in Berlin and the communications so bad, that no one troubled about her. The librarian was a charming old German who hated war and hated Hitler. He took pity on her, and finding that she spoke many languages, he got her settled as assistant librarian.

"I found this period a most interesting one. I could bury all my sorrow in books and live only for my silent friends. In July 1944, things went from bad to worse and the Soviets came forward and conquered my country again. Now all hope was lost of ever returning home. My sister had escaped and came to Dresden. She was put to work in a dreadful factory where they made vaccines for all kinds of diseases. It was dangerous and she became seriously ill and therefore was permitted to leave work.

"Dresden was beautiful, but it now became the transit camp of refugees and retreating troops from the East. In February 1945, a terrible air raid hit the city. It destroyed everything and 90 per cent of its inhabitants were killed. We escaped through fire and bombs in our nighties. We lost everything."

Held As Spy

Undaunted, the two women struck out boldly. They suffered hunger and all the horrible results of a disaster. Hungry, they tramped the roads for weeks westward as the Russians were nearing. They came as far as Thuringia and here their luck deserted them. The teacher was caught and kept in prison three days as a spy. At last they got going once more. They decided to go to Hamburg where they had some friends. Half way there, the police caught them in Magdeberg and they had to work in the streets cleaning stones. Her sister was very weak from starvation, so one night under falling bombs, they ran away and caught a military train going to Hamburg.

At Ludwigslust, the train was hit by English bombs and they had to tramp on foot once more. It was cold and they had only scanty clothes and no shoes. But hunger was the worst. At last, they arrived in Hamburg and found their friends. They had nothing themselves but shared the little they had with the pair. The girls had their first wash in four or five weeks and some potatoes to eat. Every night, they had to sit five or six hours in the shelter. They had a week's rest and then the German Labor Exchange caught up with them. They had either to work in Hamburg harbor or in the country. They chose the farmer as the lesser of the two evils. They were sent several miles outside of Hamburg to a quiet country place. Though it was hard work, they had plenty to eat. After three months of peace, the last battle began.

"In May, the war came to an end and a Scotch regiment settled in our village. The Russians were just on the other side of the Elbe. We were so afraid of them. We were still with the farmer until my sister became very ill. I had to find some way to help her. So I took my courage in both hands and went to the village commandant. He was a very kind Scotsman and so I told him our story. He did everything on earth to help us. My sister got good care and recovered from tuberculosis which had attacked her. I became an interpreter for the same regiment. It was a lovely time. After a while I was transferred to the military government in another centre".

Gets Her Chance

From then on, life became more bearable for the two homeless women. Her sister became secretary for a senior medical officer and she was finally taken into another government agency as a welfare officer. After the army was demobilized, she became an area education officer with UNRRA. There was a vast field of work to look after DP children and arrange facilities for their education.

"I worked day and half the night without any leave. I had one promotion after another until I finally became the regional training officer and advisor on DP education. I had a good salary and high honors. But these posts had no future and UNRRA was nearly done. So I decided to follow my sister who had already entered one of the British Commonwealth countries under the domestic service.

Not Easy Task

"After a long fight over restrictions, I finally obtained a job as welfare officer in a worker's camp. This did not satisfy me. Finally I was offered a position as English teacher for DP workers by my present firm. My sister has gotten a job as a copy typist. We wanted to come to Canada but there are several difficulties. As you know, we have to find a Canadian who will guarantee $170 and there must be a job and accommodation, in your country. The money is only nominal in case of emergency. The job must be one allowed by the Labor Exchange for Refugees. We are saving up passage money, but at the moment we do not have anyone to help us.

"I am so happy to have found you again. My country is lost to enemy occupation; my career is finished and my sister and I are roaming about with millions of unhappy, homeless refugees. It is hard to understand why fate has punished us the most. We loved peace and did nobody any harm. But we are the victims of this horrible war. However I am on the way to becoming normal once more and hope some day to see you in your Canadian home."

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

A solution to the controversial problem of paid-amateurs was called for Monday at the opening session of the Dominion Football Association's annual meeting in Calgary.

Professor O. J. Todd, DFA president, urged more than 25 delegates from across Canada to end the "pretence and hyprocrisy of the present amateur-professional problem in soccer."

He said he was confident other major sports, also plagued with the same problem, would welcome such action and "would tend to fall in line."

Dr. Todd, professor of classical languages at the University of British Columbia, said there were three alternatives to the problem.

1. "Honestly living up to our rules and possibly disrupting football."

2. "Shutting our eyes to the manifest infractions."

3. "Changing the rules to make them practicable and enforceable."

The problem is expected to be dealt with in a committee meeting today.

When it comes to being almost identical twins Roger and Bruce Wilson are hard to beat. Both entered a 25-mile bike race in Edmonton Monday and crossed the finish line in a dead-heat to share third place honors.

Arthur King, 134, British Empire lightweight champion from Toronto, scored his 10th straight ring victory at Philadelphia Monday night by winning an eight-round decision from Aldo Minelli, 143, Milan, Italy, at Toppi Stadium. A crowd of 3,101 paid $4,936 to see the card.

Five world boxing champions will appear on a charity card at Comiskey Park in Chicago Sept 2.

The Illinois Boxing Commission approved arrangements for the show submitted by promoter Fred Irvin.

The champions, each to stage an exhibition performance of four rounds are heavyweight Ezzard Charles, middleweight Jake LaMotta, welter Ray Robinson, lightweight Ike Williams and featherweight Willie Pep.

Irvin said he hopes to gross $100,000: 40 per cent of it going to charities.

At Owensboro, Ky., Callidico and Liberate combined Monday for a $2,407.20 daily double on the first two races at Dade Park. Calladico took the first race and paid $55 for $2 to win. Liberate in the second paid $14.40.

The first day of the 15th Ontario Provincial Lawn Bowling Tournament ended Monday with the 128 entries in rink competition sliced to an exclusive 16 teams.

Early Promotion Seen For Yangtze Officer

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(Reuters).—An early promotion to commander is being considered for Lt.-Cmdr. John Simon Kerans, who led the dash to safety down the Yangtze of the Royal Navy sloop Amethyst, it was learned today.

It was understood this promotion may be gazetted ahead of the next half-yearly list due at the end of December.

Such a promotion would give the 35-year-old Lt.-Cmdr. Kerans a substantial advance in seniority and make him one of the youngest British naval commanders.

Promotion other than by the half-yearly list in peacetime is a comparatively rare event.

Special Dutch Service

BRAMPTON, Aug. 9 (CP) — Special religious services are being arranged for Dutch immigrants attempting to learn English. The Christian Reformed Church, affiliated with the Reformed Church of Holland, provides services that blend the native tongue with the English language. Most of Ontario's Dutch residents are employed on Peel County farms and each Sunday a bus makes a 100-mile round trip to pick up immigrants for the various services.

Corporal Fires A Perfect 50

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, SOUTH MARCH, Ont., Aug. 9 (CP)—A 37-year-old RCAF corporal who has been shooting for only 18 months, Monday fired a perfect 50 in the Tyro match at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association Shoot.

He is A. T. Sharp of Edmonton, a member of the RAF for 12 years who came to Canada in 1946. Since then he has acquired a wife and two children.

Shooting under sunny skies, nine other marksmen beat the tricky west wind that blew in gusts over these ranges, 14 miles west of Ottawa, to post scores of 49—one less than the posible at 200 yard. They included WO 2 A. S. Etter, Kingston, Ont.

Twenty-five shot 48s and 55 shot 47s.

Seven crack riflemen pumped 10 shots into the bull's eye from 300 yards—perfect scores—to tie for first place in the Tilton match, first event to count in the grand aggregate scoring. The top 18 in the grand aggregate will be chosen to represent Canada in the 1950 Bisley Empire shoot in Surrey, England.

Bush Fire Hazard Mounts Near Sault

SAULT STE. MARIE, Aug. 9—(CP). — Forestry Branch officials said to-day the bush fire hazard is again mounting to "dangerous levels" for the second time this summer.

Fire tower rangers in Algoma district have been warned and aerial patrols stepped up as the warm-dry weather continues.

"The bushlands in our immediate vicinity are becoming tinder-dry once more," said forest protection specialist Tom Woodside. "I guess our summer holidays are over."

Heavy rains early in July gave the department some respite from a fire-watch that has been maintained for more than a month and a half.

Report New Find Of Pitchblende Supply

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Aug. 9 (CP)—The Prince Albert Daily Herald in a newspage story Monday reports a large discovery of pitchblende, in the goldfields area of northern Saskatchewan.

The story, by Burton Lewis, editor, who has just returned from the area, states that it is the largest single exposure of "massive pitchblende" found in any part of Canada other than in the Great Bear Lake region of the Northwest Territories. Pitchblends is the chief course of uranium finds in Canada.

In an interview, he said the boost in living costs could be attributed in part to "the removal of controls and of the excess profits tax."

3 Funds Grow For Widows

SUDBURY, Aug. 9 (CP)—Three funds for the widows and families of four men killed in a gun battle here on June 18 are still growing.

First established and largest of the funds is that being gathered by the Sudbury Police Association for the widows of Constables Gerard Dault and Edward Terrell, killed in the two-hour June battle. This fund now totals $11,252.

Voluntary donations, benefit concerts, softball games and numerous other types of donations have helped build this fund.

Soon after the police fund started, various groups showed an interest in assisting Mrs. James Germa and Mrs. Clarence Brosseau. Brousseau was the man who barricaded himself in his home at tht city limits and shot two policemen and Germa before turning his gun on himself.

A combined Brosseau-Germa fund stands at $1,105, while a Brosseau fund totals $738.

Harris Has Secret Mission With Small-Mouthed Bass

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—(CP).—Sir Arthur T. Harris, wartime chief of bomber command, was in Ottawa yesterday with the glint of adventure in his eye, and as in wartime, his mission was top secret.

He was making his first expedition into inland Canadian waters—for the small-mouthed bass.

The former marshal of the R.A.F., who sent thousands of bomber planes over the continent during the war, now is directing the activities of a shipping firm in the Union of South Africa. He said he was in Canada partly on business, partly to press a conviction that there should be a more even balance of trade between Canada and South Africa, and most enthusiastically because he wants to go after Canadian fish.

"Bomber" Harris didn't say where he was going for his week's search of bass, except that it was inaccessible by automobile—"I'll have to drive a horse and buggy."

A big-scale hunter of the Second World War, he didn't think inland fishing was tame.

"It's all a matter of proportion," he told a reporter, "whether you go after the big fish with a big line or a little fish with a little line.

"Of course," he added, 'I think the ideal sport would be to get big fish with a little line."

Policemen Decide Advice Not Good

DAVENTRY, Northamptonshire, England, Aug. 9 (AP) — Peter Connerty, 14, took the policemen's advice and flew a kite. It fell across 11,000 volt power lines and caused:

A breakdown of all BBC's overseas broadcasts from Daventry transmitter.

Blacked out all movie houses in the district.

Blocked electricity supplies to 40 villages.

Police Constables Jack Fenton and Norman Woods, who started the kite-flying craze to keep the kids from playing in the streets, now are compiling a list of "don'ts" for kite fliers. Main advice is don't fly them near power lines.

Six Plead Innocent

SARNIA, Aug. 9 (CP) — Six Walpole Island Indians pleaded innocent Monday to assaulting two RCMP officers and a seventh pleaded guilty to a charge of assaulting the Wallaceburg fire chief in a Sunday riot. All were remanded to Aug. 15, the six for trial and the seventh, Norris Kiyoshk, 27, for sentence. The officers were reportedly beaten by a group of Chippawa Indians during an attempt to break up a noisy drinking bout.

Pays Police To Keep Quiet

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9 (AP)—A description of a brothel "circus" by a Calhouse madam who said she paid police protection at the rate of $50 a week for each girl, came to light officially Monday in hitherto secret grand jury testimony.

It was the 2,141-page transcript on which former Police Chief G. B. Horrall and four other police officials recently were indicted.

Miss Brenda Allen was quoted in the transcript as saying she received from $20 to $500 from customers, splitting with the girl. If a customer wanted a girl for the evening, he paid by the hour.

Miss Allen described a "party" or "circus" at the request of a grand juror. She said there would be a group of girls and paying customers in the living room of her establishment. All would be in the nude. Police officers, she said, would watch the show, without paying.

UNESCO Slow So Teachers Plan To Leave

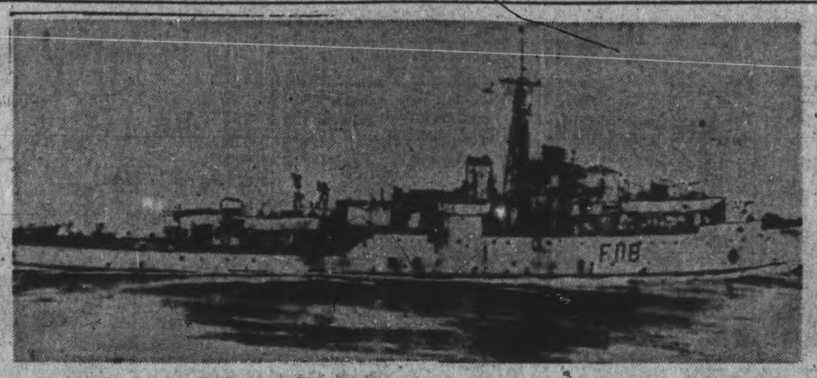
OTTAWA, Aug. 9 (CP)—Dissatisfied with progress being made by the Canadian Council for Reconstruction through the United Nations Educational, Scientific and and Cultural Organization, the Canadian Teachers Federation has withdrawn its representative from that organization.

George Croskery, secretary-treasurer of the federation, in his annual report prepared for delivery to the C.T.F. convention, criticized C.C.R.U.'s high administrative costs and lack of action.

From the beginning of the joint appeal of C.C.R.U. and the United Nations Appeal for Children, until just before a wind-up meeting in June, 1949, Mr. Croskery said he acted as a member of the joint management committee.

He also was a member of the operating committee which directed the affairs of the council in between executive meetings.

Nothing To Show



"It was a source of great concern to our C.T.F. executive that almost a year after the funds had been collected, there still remained in the bank a sum of approximately $530,000 with nothing to show for our expenditures except plans (apart from the school supplies and food and clothing packages that had arrived overseas).

"While the money held in trust (by the C.C.R.U.) is practically all allocated for worthy projects, we contend that there has been unnecessary delay in executing plans and we deplore the fact that so large a proportion of funds collected from the public is thereby being used for overhead expenses."

On the subject of superannuation, the report said gains were made during the year in teachers' pensions, with almost entirely new acts in Ontario and Nova Scotia.

The income tax question, however, did not meet with the same success.

The federation had asked the government to permit the expense of summer-school courses taken by teachers as a condition of employment to be deducted from their taxable incomes.

Coffee Club Odds Placed On Dobbin Plan

Believe Pipe Will Float When Placed in Water

Coffee Club odds on the Dobbin pipe line job were shortened to 3-5 Monday, reflecting an increasing opinion that may be it can be done according to buoyancy specifications.

Sentiment was considerably the other way when the Utilities project was first outlined, and Ross Dobbin found himself in a heavy atmosphere of doubt, that more or less reached right back to the Utilities Commission. Somehow there has been a veering toward convincement that may be the proposed method will hold water or won't, whatever the metaphor should be. The glooms are now in the minority as indicated today.

The Dobbin plan which will be put to test next week has already been described, — welding the pipe joints, plugging the two ends of the pipe line, then hauling it over the dredged trenches into the river bed, and finally lowering them by gradually letting in air. That's the rough idea.

Some of the Club men in their hazy notions of such matters are inclined to believe that the pipe will not float, at least not on the surface, but may rest partly submerged. The aforementioned glooms have to be shown. They contend the welded line of pipes will sink to the bottom, leaving Mr. Dobbin high and speechless on the dredge.

The Coffee Club has got around to the point that most of the members are going to try to wangle time off to see the performance, and in spite of that 3 to 5 quote with no takers they are almost unanimously and secretly expecting that the manager will find that he should have used waterwings.

70,000 Workers Back As Coal Mines Opened

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 9—(CP)—More than 70,000 workers made idle for the last six weeks by a country-wide coal strike, Monday went back to work.

The return to jobs was the first big result of the army's working of open-cut coal mines in New South Wales as a counter to the strike of Australia's 24,000 miners.

Tuesday and Wednesday the miners will hold mass meetings called by their central council in response to growing pressure for reconsideration of the strike.

Out Of Chaos In Dairy Industry Came Ontario's Milk Control Board

Out of the chaos that existed in the dairy industry in the early thirties rose the Milk Control Board, William G. Ovens, former mayor of Peterborough, told the Rotary Club Monday. He was speaking on the Milk Control Board at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club.

Mr. Ovens added that during this period milk was sold for any price a person could get for it and the quality was the last consideration. The result of this was that farmers were slowly going broke.

"In 1934 Legislation was passed forming a milk control board in an endeavor to find a solution to this major problem. As the years passed the government gave this board power over the producer price, the consumer price, the method of delivery, the area of delivery and the uses of the milk," Mr. Ovens said. "Our neighbors to the south were having a similar experience and formed what is known as State Milk Commissions."

With the coming of the war, he added, the milk industry picture changed entirely. The producers had little help to milk cows or farm and the result was there was not enough milk to meet all the requirements of the armed forces and the domestic needs. The United States, he said, was paying large prices for cows and therefore left the producer in an even more important position.

With the inauguration of the Wartime Prices Board the two bodies worked together to divert the milk into the right channels.

In describing the framework of the Board, Mr. Ovens said, it consists of a chairman, a secretary, office staff and five field men. In addition, he said, there were two men appointed from one of the producing organizations and one from the dairies.

As the result of public hearings on the milk industry in 1947, Mr. Ovens said the government decided to appoint a Royal Comission to study the milk industry in all its phases. In the report of the Commission it was stated that the powers of the Board should be cut.

Unable To Regulate Prices

The board is an administrative and licensing body. While it has power to pass regulations and administer same, it has not the power to regulate prices," Mr. Ovens said.

For the past year, he explained, the method of arriving at a price payable to the producer is by arbitration or similar to the labor legislation. Both groups are given two weeks to arrive at an agreement and failing this a neutral arbitrator is appointed. His decision is final and binding, Mr. Ovens said. The decision, he continued, covers the terms of payment and the condition of sale.

Mr. Ovens said that the Board still has the power to control transportation, processing and distributing the milk in Ontario.

Mr. Ovens was introduced by Jack Arnott and thanked by E. A. Outram.

Police Car Tangles With Weston Driver

A provincial police car was badly smashed Saturday at 9.30 p.m. at the junction where Reid St. turns into the Chemong highday.

James H. Jones of Weston was driving into the city on the Chemong highway. He told police he didn't see a curve sign or the overhead caution light and thought the highway continued straight through on Stewart St. When he reached the middle of the road he was struck by the police car driven by Provincial Constable David Coffey.

The police patrol car had its front end completely smashed in. The bumper, grill, headlights, radiator, front fenders and the right front wheel were all damaged. It was sitting squarely in the middle of Reid.

The Jones car ended up on a lawn, on Stewart St., 149 feet south of the point of impact. Both doors on the right side were smashed in.

No Relief Sighted In Heat Wave

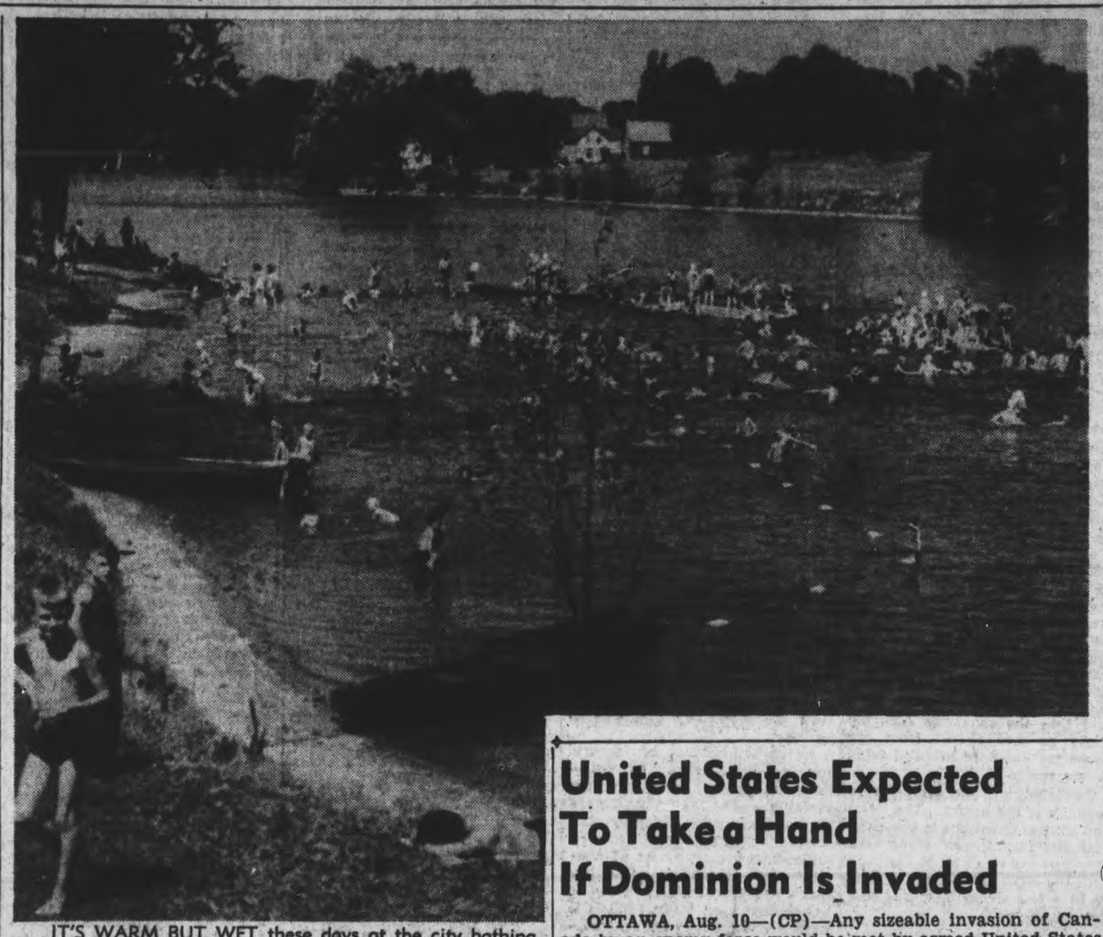
Toronto Swelters Under 99 Degrees; West Some Cooler

By The Canadian Press.

Oppressive heat and zooming temperatures have gripped Ontario for the third time this summer. While the rest of Canada enjoys normal summer weather, the mercury climbed to record highs in many parts of Ontario Tuesday. And weather officials say: No relief, no rain.

In other parts of the Dominion, week-end heat wave that brought a record of 105 degrees to Winnipeg abated slightly as cool air masses moved southward from Northern Canada. Most sections of Quebec and the Maritimes received relief from a scorching five-day heat spell as a broad stream of cold air flowed from the Arctic.

Western Canada generally is experiencing temperatures ranging from the mid-70s to the mid-80s.



But Ontario appears to be the focal point of a hot air flow from the Central United States that brought record high temperatures —99 degrees in Toronto and Hamilton, 97 in Ottawa.

The mercury hit 92 degrees in Peterborough.

Halifax also recorded an August 9 high when the mercury reached 88.

Despite the intense heat, there were no deaths in Ontario attributed to the high temperatures, and there were few cases of heat prostration, probably because of relatively low humidity.

At Sarnia, residents hoped to cool off in the waters of Lake Huron, but they did not expect to find shore-water temperatures at 80 degrees.

IT'S WARM BUT WET these days at the city bathing beaches. It appeared on Tuesday from a survey that pools were less crowded than orinarily due to the extreme heat. The above photo, taken at Inverlea Park, proves that such pleasure spots attracted fewer bathers and that the coolest spot was on the shady banks.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Chieftain Asks Self-Government

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(CP). — Nii Kwabena Bonne III, a tribal chieftain from West Africa's gold cost, relaxed today in a London hotel room and talked about his stomach, his wives and self-government.

Swathed in red-and-green travelling robes aid wearing a 'crown' decorated with a crescent moon and stars, the six foot ruler of 100,000 African natives saidhe has come to London to demand self-government "by constitutional mean."

He hopes to see the king, colonial secretary Arthur Creech Jones and Winston Churchill, leader of the Conservative Opposition.

Kwabena Bonne arrived by air Tuesday night from Accra, capital of the gold coast, where he maintains a 56-room castle. While here, he wants to find out about Britain's national health service.

"I've heard all about it," he said. "and I really came about my health."

Among other things, he said he would like a pair of glasses — free under the health plan. If British doctors could do something for his stomach, which had been acting up lately, that would be fine too.

15 US Passengers Killed In Flaming Bus Wreck

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Aug. 10—(AP)—Fifteen charred bodies were recovered from the wreckage of a Greyhound bus which burned today after hitting a bridge abutment near here. None has yet been identified. Coroner Robert W. Lyons of Monroe County said 15 would be the death toll. Twelve other persons were injured in the crash and are in hospital.

Driver Wayne Cramer of Indianapolis, one of the survivors, said a front tire may have blown out, causing him to lose control of the bus. After striking the abutment it skidded 150 feet down the winding highway and came to rest on its left side, blocking the emergency door.

Flames enveloped the vehicle almost immediately. The driver said he and "two or three" passengers got out the front door. The other survivors escaped through a rear window which a passenger kicked out.

The bus was still smouldering hours after the wreck. The centre section was burned down to a mass of twisted metal in which charred bodies could be seen. It was feared identification would be a slow process. Some of them, officers said, would have to be cut out of the wreckage with torches.

Minister Slain Indian Uprising

Word has been received of the death of the Rev. Norman Dabbs, 38, Canadian Baptist missionary in Bolivia. He was killed Tuesday during an uprising of Bolivian Indian tin mine laborers, according to a cable received by the Rev. John B. McLarin, general secretary of the Baptist Foreign Mission, Toronto.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP). — Rev. Norman Dabbs, 38, and 11 other persons have been slain by a bandit band at Melcamaya, newspaper reports reaching here said to-day.

A classmate of the Rev. Ian Morgan of Murray Street Baptist Church, Mr. Dabbs was a graduate of McMaster University and served in churches at Bracebridge and Weston before going to South America. He had just opened a new church in Oruro, said to be one of the finest Baptist missions in that field and had recently been appointed head of the new Baptist College at Cochabama, originally started by the Rev. Alexander Haddow of Peterborough.

United States Expected To Take a Hand If Dominion Is Invaded

OTTAWA, Aug. 10—(CP)—Any sizeable invasion of Canada by an enemy force would be met by armed United States intervention, informed sources said Tuesday. That basic fact of continental defence planning is underlined by plans now being made for joint manoeuvres of Canadian and U.S. forces next February along the Alaska Highway, scene of big Canadian manoeuvres last week end.

It was disclosed as part of the official reaction to press reports on the exercise—known as Exercise Eagle—which criticized the state of Canadian defence preparedness revealed by the exercise.

Defence department sources said reporters were wrong in suggesting the exercise involved all the troops the Dominion could muster to meet a diversionary raid—the only likely type of invasion.

Small-Scale Exercise

"It was not an operation to test Canadian defence...." one source said. "It was a small-scale controlled exercise on a battalion level to find answers to some of the questions that face us."

Reporters covering the exercise generally agreed it answered many of those questions. But they criticized the type and quantity of equipment used.

A defence official said Canada is quite capable of dealing with "pockets" of enemy troops — he did not elaborate on their size—but said any big invasion would immediately bring U.S. forces into the fight.

Exercise Eagle involved tests of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, first battalion to be trained for the proposed airborne brigade. It also tested the R.C.A.F. in a support role.

It was held as Canada was being suggested as a member of a four-power high command of Atlantic pact countries.

Johnny Greco Decides To Retire From Ring

[illegible] today the Montreal boxer definitely is going to retire.

Greco, Canadian welterweight champion, lost a non-title fight last week to Laurent Dauthuille.

DeZwirck said Greco seemed unable to get into condition for the Dauthuille fight.

"After the fight Greco was very sick, physically, and taking all these things into consideration, we urged him to quit the ring," said DeZwirck. "He has reluctantly consented to do so."

Greco left the welter division to fight as a middleweight against Dauthuille in a 10-round bout which ended with Greco being knocked out in the fifth.

The 26-year-old Italian-Canadian was for a long time a big drawing card in New York Madison Square Garden and has held the Canadian welter title since 1947 when he defeated Dave Castilleux of Montreal.

Sloop Capsizes 3 Save Selves

TORONTO, Aug. 10 —(CP)— Two men and a woman, dumped into Lake Ontario 12 miles offshore when their sloop capsized Tuesday night, clung to the craft for two hours before righting it and paddled for six more hours with their hands and a small paddle before reaching shore early today.

The trio, Chris Fedderson, 30, owner of the boat, Doreen Wallace, 22, and Grant Mason, 33, were given first aid and allowed to go home.

Police said the sailors started from Toronto's Centre Island for an hour's sail on the lake. There was little wind and they started drifting. About 9 p.m., they got into difficulty and their boat rolled and capsized. The two men managed to lift the girl on top of the boat and they clung there for about two hours. Then they managed to right the boat and started their long paddle to shore.

3 Killed, 7 Injured In Quebec Collision

QUEBEC, Aug. 10 — (CP) — A collision on Sir Wilfred Laurier Boulevard in suburban Sillery took three lives early today and left seven persons injured.

The collision between a station wagon and a taxi-cab from Donnacona, Que., occurred at the intersection of the two-lane boulevard and Maguire Street which leads to Sillery's main shopping district.

The dead are: Frank Monaghan, 23, Mrs. Henri Darveau, 28, of [illegible], Gilles Darveau.

The dead woman's husband, Henri Darveau, and two other children, seven-year-old Paul and three-year-old Denise Darveau were among the injured.

The collision was described as "violent". Witnesses said both vehicles appeared to fly through the air after they smashed together.

Drowned were: Morris and Alfred Oullette, and Albert Morin. The police report said the three men were pulling themselves across the rapids in a punt fastened from each bank with ropes when the rope snapped. The men were thrown into the rapids.

Pair Being Deported From Canada Feared Reprisals

MONTREAL, Aug. 10 (CP)—A daring bid for freedom by two European refugees being deported from Canada has ended in death for one and jail for another.

Leonard Galwitza, 24-year-old Austrian passport clerk, and his Polish friend, Paul Radowicz, jumped from the freighter Anunciada into the St. Lawrence River early Monday near St. Nicholas, Que., 130 miles downstream from Montreal.

Galwitza struggled ashore where R.C.M.P. took him into custody and placed him in immigration detention cells in Quebec. The young Austrian said his friend had drowned in the darkness.

The two, who unsuccessfully sought admission to Canada as political refugees, were deported Sunday night aboard the freighter which brought them here in July. Both were known to have said before leaving that they would try to get back to Canada in some manner.

Helped 1,000 Refugees

Galwitza claimed to have helped spirit more than 1,000 of his countrymen out from behind the Iron Curtain. He said the Soviet police were looking for him and expressed belief before he was deported that they would both be put in jail when the Anunciada reached Antwerp.

The two fled Austria earlier this year dressed as women. Reaching Antwerp, they learned the Anunciada was Canada-bound and hid aboard her in a pile of hay.

Upon reaching Canada the two were turned over to immigration authorities and given a hearing after which their deportation was ordered.

Jump Overboard

Tuesday night the two friends stood in the stern of the ship, shook hands, and plunged overboard.

"We were a short distance from the ship when I heard Paul call for help," Galwitza said. "I shouted to him to try and keep going—that we were near shore—and freedom. I was only a few feet away from him. When I turned around I saw him smile weakly. His pale face was lighted by the glare from a navigating light that went on and off.

"Then he disappeared," Galwitza said. "I felt weak when I thought he had drowned. I swam around for three hours, calling his name. But I could not find any trace of him.

"By then I was getting weak myself. I could see the little lights twinkling on the shore. They looked so welcome, particularly since they were still part of the Canada I was trying to cling to. I took one last look at the spot I saw Paul, then turned towards shore."

Long Swim

The swim was a long one, Galwitza said he had to untie the small suitcase that contained his worldly possessions and which he had tied around his neck. Then he had to take off the smart

Order Miners Work

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 10—(CP)—Australia's striking coal miners will be ordered to resume work next week, R. Hamilton, Acting President of the Miners' Federation, announced today. He said Union leaders will issue the order Friday. The strikers' decision was regarded as a virtual vote of no-confidence in the Union leadership.

Churchmen Drive 'Evil Spirit' From Boy 14

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP) —An "evil spirit" which a Washington couple said "possessed" their 14-year-old son appeared today to have been cast out.

This information was relayed to the Society for Parapsychology by a Washington clergyman who said the family had obtained for the boy "the ritual of exorcism" from clergymen of different faiths.

The minister told the society that mysterious noises, creeping furniture and violent rocking of the boy's bed were observed by the family beginning last January.

He said he took the boy to his home where he witnessed these "phenomena":

The mattress on the boy's bed "vibrated." He was then placed in a chair. The chair crept back against a wall and "when it couldn't move any further, it started to tip slowly.

Then the boy was placed on a blanket in the middle of the floor. "The boy and the bedding slowly moved under the beds and there was no evidence of the boy's body moving."

Then last March the boy's father took him for a visit to a midwestern city. During the visit, Roman Catholic priests were asked to see him. They placed a statue of St. Michael in his room. Afterwards he said he had seen "a vision of St. Michael chasing the devil away."

Clergymen of different faiths called in later gave the exorcism rituals, the minister reported, and the strange goings-on stopped.

Hold Railway Porter For Station Shooting

TORONTO, Aug. 10.—(CP).—Robert Willis, 46-year-old railway porter was charged today with shooting with intent to maim following an attack on another porter, 21-year-old Robert Smith, University of Tennessee student, at Toronto's Union Station Tuesday night.

Smith probably saved his life by falling flat on the tracks as a shotgun was fired at him.

Police said Smith had been keeping company with Willis' daughter. Smith said he had tried to find Willis for the past three weeks to try to straighten out ill feeling that had developed.

Believing Willis was armed, Smith dashed down the platform and through a train. He looked back just in time to see a gun pointed at him and dropped to his stomach just as he heard the blast, police said.

PARTIES TO UNITE

BRUSSELS, Aug. 10.— (Reuters).—The Belgian Liberal party tonight agreed to join the Social Christian (Catholic) party in a new two-party government, ending the country's 45-day-old cabinet crisis.

2 Men Killed As Trucks In Collision

2 Children Injured In Smash-Up West of Woodbridge

TORONTO, Aug. 10—(CP)—Two men were killed today and two children injured, neither severely when two heavy trucks collided at a highway intersection just west of Woodbridge, 12 miles north of here.

The dead, both truck-drivers, are Douglas Raine, 30, of Streetsville, and Harold Deans, 30, of Holland Landing.

Injured are Raine's two children, Robert, seven, and Linda, five, who suffered shock and cuts. Raine had taken them along with him in his truck "just for the ride."

The trucks, both three-ton vehicles, collided at an intersection which lacked traffic control lights but had a caution flicker light. Deans' truck, in which he was driving to Oakville to pick up a load of baskets, burst into flames, but Deans himself was thrown clear of the wreckage. He suffered injuries which resulted in his death a short time later.

Leo Maloney, 22, a third truck driver who saw the accident as he approached the intersection, pulled Raine and his youngsters from his truck. A passing motorist drove the children to hospital, where their condition was described as "not serious." Raine, too, died shortly after the accident.

Church Rector Dies Suddenly

BRANTFORD, Aug. 10 (CP) — Ven. Archdeacon A. L. G. Clarke, rector of Grace Anglican Church here since 1931, and archdeacon of Norfolk, died early today at his summer home near Forest, Ont.

He was one of the most distinguished clergymen of the Church of England in Canada. Following the death of Bishop Seager of Huron some months ago, he was prominently mentioned for the post of bishop of the diocese.

At a joint convocation of the University of Western Ontario and Huron College, held at London, in May of this year, Ven. Archdeacon Clarke was one of four distinguished leaders of the church who received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Since his ordination to the priesthood by the late Archbishop Williams of Huron, Dr. Clarke had been in charge of four parishes in the diocese of Huron.

British Vampire Killer Hanged In Prison

LONDON, Aug. 10—(AP)— John George Haigh, self-confessed vampire slayer of nine persons, was hanged today at Wandsworth prison.

The 39-year-old business executive was convicted July 19 of murdering a well-to-do widow, Mrs. Olivia Durand-Deacon, 69, for her money.

A jury rejected a defence plea of insanity and sentenced Haigh to death.

With the execution, Scotland Yard closed the record on England's most sensational murder in years. At the brief trial a defence mental specialist testified Haigh was driven insane by dreams of blood.

13 Cars Derailed Block Line 16 Hours

NORTH BAY, Aug. 10 (CP)— A 13-car freight derailment three miles south of Trout Creek Tuesday blocked the Canadian National Railways main line between North Bay and Toronto for 16 hours.

Intense heat buckling the steel rails may have caused the accident, but C.N.R. officials are still investigating.

The derailed cars were in the middle of a 48-car freight train, whose engine and other cars stayed on the track.

33 Yugoslav Children

BELGRADE, Aug. 10. (AP) — Yugoslavia accused Russia Tuesday night of holding captive 63 of this country's children sent to the Soviet Union for education after the war ended.

It described the youngsters as between 10 and 13 years old—most of them either war orphans or boys who served as army messengers during the fight for liberation.

A formal statement issued through the ministry of information said that the children have been permitted to speak only the Russian language, that they are no longer allowed to receive letters from home.

It added the children have been "terrorized in various ways". That they have been deceived about conditions in Yugoslavia, that their pictures of Marshal Tito have been seized.

Reds Throw Fresh Troops Into Battle For Kiangsi

CANTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—Communists today threw fresh forces into a fierce battle on the approaches to this Nationalist capital. The Kiangsi provincial government fled Kanhsien, only 215 miles from Canton.

The big battle raged northwest of Kanhsien in south-central Kiangsi, perhaps as near as 50 or 60 miles to Canton. Reports said the Reds had put a new division into the fight.

Kiangsi's provincial government transplanted the capital to Hweichang, 50 miles southeast of Kanhsien.

The Nationalists claimed Tuesday 11,000 Communist troops had been surrounded near Suichwan, 50 miles northwest of Kanhsien.

It was not clear whether the fresh Red division was thrown into this sector or elsewhere on the Kiangsi front where the Communists have penetrated as close as 315 miles northeast of Canton.

Transfer of the capital of Hunan Province, which joins Kiangsi on the west, also was disclosed. The government set up shop at Chihkiang, 210 miles southwest of the capital city of Changsha which was handed over to the Communists by turncoat Gen. Chen Mingjen.

Far to the northwest of the Hunan-Kiangsi front, the Nationalists admitted further setback in Kansu Province, stronghold of Moslem warlord Gen. Ma Hungkwei.

3 Top US Military Men Carry Report To Congress

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)— The three top military men of the United States carry to Congress today their on-the-spot report of Europe's need for arms.

Their combined testimony is certain to have a strong influence on lawmakers studying President Truman's $1,450,000,000 military aid program.

The joint chiefs of staff—Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the army, Admiral Louis Denfeld and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg of the air force —returned Tuesday from a round of conferences with Western Europe's military chiefs.

After they witnessed the signing of new military unification legislation, they had two duties with Congress.

They were called first before the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees. Later they were due to follow State Secretary Dean Acheson into a closed-door session of the House of Foreign Affairs committee.

These two conferences, Senate leaders agreed, will go a long way in fixing the size and scope of the arms bill which finally is passed by Congress.

Their report comes at a time when Congress is wrangling over the amount of military aid that should be given to North Atlantic pact countries, plus Greece, Turkey, Iran, the Philippines and Korea. These are the countries tagged for aid under the new arms program.

Hugh C. MacLean Publisher Dies In Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 10. (CP) — Hugh Cameron MacLean, 83, who rose from typesetter on a country weekly newspaper to a prominent place in the Canadian magazine publishing industry, died Tuesday. He was the founder of Hugh C. MacLean Publications, Limited, which publishes a variety of Canadian trade and business journals.

Born at Crieff, a village near Guelph, he was a son of a Presbyterian minister. The death of his father left him and his brother, John Bain MacLean, on their own resources.

Hugh MacLean soon found a job as a compositor on the weekly Chesley Enterprise while still in his teens. Printing at that time was a laborious process with hand-set type and hand-fed presses.

His next job was with the old Toronto Mail as a compositor in that newspaper's job department.

Started In Winnipeg

He made his first venture into the publishing business in Winnipeg soon after the turn of the century. He published the Winnipeg Commercial and other business papers.

In 1908 he returned to Toronto and bought the Mortimer Publishing Company, doubling its business during its first year under his guidance. From this enterprise grew the present Hugh C. MacLean Publications, Limited.

Service at various times with the Queen's Own Rifles, the Prince of Wales Rifles and the 48th Highlanders earned Mr. MacLean the rank of major, and many of his business associates referred to him by his military title.

For 46 years following 1900, Mr. MacLean helped to develop the Muskoka Lakes district about 75 miles north of Toronto, as a summer resort area.

Kills 4 Children Then Mother Takes Own Life

MAKINAK, Man., Aug. 10. — (CP).—A murder-suicide pact between a 44-year-old woman and her four sons, which Tuesday resulted in one of Manitoba's grisliest killing orgies, is believed to have been prompted by the mother's demented anxiety to save her children "from the fire."

Dead following the multiple slayings in a small farm house near this Northwestern Manitoba village are Mrs. Mary Walz; Kenneth and Gordon, 12-year-old identical twins; Lucien, eight; and Leon, four.

Dr. R. L. Gendreau, district coroner, said a crudely written suicide note, apparently dictated to one of the boys by his mother, who could not write, said:

"I am sorry to have to do this to the children, but if I didn't they would be in the fire in a few days."

The note was signed "Mary."

Died Willingly

Dr. Gendreau, who opened an inquest Tuesday night, then adjourned it pending completion of the R.C.M.P. investigation, said the children apparently died willingly at their mother's hand.

Officials could not explain what was meant by saving the children "from the fire." Dr. Gendreau said Mrs. Walz had been mentally ill for about six months and he had advised her husband to take her to a mental home. This suggestion had been turned down.

Jacob Walz, the 61-year-old husband, a dairy farmer and the distret's handy man-carpenter, told the police that he found the five bodies in the upstairs section of his two-storey stucco farmhouse. Walz, almost totally deaf, said that the shootings occurred while he was absent from the house for about 10 minutes early in the morning.

Two shotguns and a rifle were found near the bodies. The twins and Lucien were shot in the chest with shotgun pellets while the youngest boy was shot in the back with the rifle. Mrs. Walz, said to be ill a few weeks ago, was shot through the neck.

Walz said the shootings occurred shortly after the six members of the family had breakfast. When he left the house, Mrs. Walz was busy washing the dishes and the boys were outside in the yard.

On his return to the house he discovered the bodies sprawled around the bedroom used by the three older boys.

Walz set out immediately by foot for Makinak, about two miles from his farm. There, the story was relayed to an R.C.M.P. at Ste. Rose Du Lac, a short distance away. Walz was taken to Dauphin for questioning.

Teachers Promise Campaign For Federal Education Aid

By MAY REX

OTTAWA, Aug. 10.—(CP). — Temperatures soared Tuesday as the Canadian Teachers' Federation studied salary schedules at the first session of its 28th annual conference.

Men delegates worked in shirtsleeves amid the droning of electric fans in the downtown hotel where the five-day meeting is in progress. The mercury hovered around 90 as they discussed reports from the various provincial organizations.

Today most of the sessions will be given to study of C.T.F. international activities. Dr. C. V. B. Miller of Fredericton, newly-appointed director of educational services in New Brunswick, will report on the recent meeting in Switzerland of the World Organization of the Teaching Profession.

Promotion of a Canadian National Commission for the United Nations educational, scientific and cultural organization also will be studied.

Seek Commission

In his annual report as C.T.F. secretary-treasurer, George Croskery of Ottawa saaid the Federation executive has continued to press the government for the establishment of such a commission.

He also told members that "not only U.N.E.S.C.O., but also the work of the United Nations and all of its specialized agencies should be brought before Canadians and that teachers are among those most capable of interpreting the great work of these international organizations to the ordinary Canadian citizen and the youth in our schools."

Salaries Up

At yesterday's meeting, Tom Parker, Halifax delegate, reported an improvement in teachers salaries in Nova Scotia.

T. M. Chalmers of Vancouver reported that the British Columbia Teachers Federation this year has met with "more stubborn opposition" from school-boards on the matter of arbitration.

E. C. Ansley of Edmonton, said that in Alberta there were 16 unsettled disputes about salaries for next September.

Speaker at the C.T.F. annual dinner Tuesday night was Dr. J. G. Althouse of Toronto, president of the Canadian Education Association and chief director of education for Ontario. He told the group that federal aid for education is coming gradually.

Crop Prospects Varied In West

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 —(CP)— Farmers in Manitoba, eastern and northern Saskatchewan, southwestern Alberta and the Peace River district have started harvesting "good" crops.

But elsewhere on the prairie grain belt, many farmers will be lucky if their parched fields return the seed they planted last spring.

Harvesting should be general within a week—except in central Alberta where conditions are variable — the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Tuesday in a regular crop report.

There was no estimate of western crop production. The bureau's first crop estimate is due to be released next week. But it is expected that heavy drought earlier in the year will cut yields below last year's.

brown suit given him by the Salvation Army before sailing from Montreal on Sunday.

An hour later he reached the beach near St. Nicholas where he dropped unconscious until morning.

As dawn broke over the village Leonard, still weak from his long swim, struggled to the nearest farmhouse where Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Benoit were making the breakfast for their 10 children.

But Galwitza's liberty was brief.

Word trickled through St. Nicholas and less than 12 hours after he landed on the beach the police took him into custody. He was said to have been taken to Quebec where he is being held by the Immigration Department.

Before sailing with the Anunciada, Galwitza wrote a letter to a friend in Ontario.

"With God's help," he wrote, "I will get the freedom in Canada that I so much desire. My friend Paul feels the same way. We know that God is on our side and will help us through."

MAIN ST. TOPICS

SEASONAL REMINDER

Those blankets in some of the store windows must signify something unfamiliar since the first of June, snow blowing against the panes and crunching under the feet of pedestrians and verandahs cracking with the constriction of severe frost.

START PAVING WORK

Preliminary work in connection with the paving of the eastern end of Sherbrooke St. is now underway, with excavators hard at work today. Work is expected to start soon also on the paving of King St. west of George St.

EXAMINE WAGE SCALES

A convention of district UE-CIO locals to examine wage scales in the area is being called for a date not as yet set. UE headquarters in Toronto has asked that various districts hold these conferences. John Morton, president of local 524 has sent out letters to other locals suggesting the convention, but arrangements are still indefinite.

PARADE PRACTICE

After Monday evening's workout no one would ever question the enthusiasm of Alex Milne's band. They put in a couple of hours up and down the broad pavement on the south side of the Park St. lawn of CGE and Monday night was just about as hot as last night. Apparently all the drummers and pipers were out for the rehearsal with an audience outside the fence.

GARBAGE DUMPED

A complaint was received by Provincial Police Tuesday night that two cottagers on the shores of Chemong and Stony Lakes had been seen dumping garbage into the lakes from boats. The offending parties were warned by a member of the force to desist from this practice or be reported to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who oversee inland waters.

NUDE BATHERS

Provincial Police received a complaint at 7.30 Tuesday night from residents of the Crawford's Grove area, just south of the city, that several adults were seeking relief from the extreme heat by bathing in the nude in the Otonabee River. By the time two constables had reached the scene the offenders had been scared away by others.

DRIVER CHARGED

Provincial Constable A. L. Kitching, Bowmanville, placed George Mutton, 21, of 22 Albert St., Bowmanville, under arrest on a charge of drunken driving Tuesday night after the accused had hit another car and run his own car into the ditch. Mutton was granted bail Wednesday morning pending arraignment before a magistrate on August 16. The accident happened one-quarter mile west of Newcastle. The driver, who was alone, escaped injury.

Highway Costs Ottawa $150,000,000

OTTAWA Aug. 10. —(CP).— The first session of the new parliament, due to begin Sept. 15, will be asked to ratify legislation providing for the construction of a trans-Canada highway, it was learned Tuesday.

Reconstruction Minister Winters said the legislation will provide for a federal financial contribution toward the multi-million dollar project.

No financial agreement has yet been reached with the provinces, but Mr. Winters estimated that the federal contribution will run between $150,000,000 and $200,000 000. Total cost of laying down a 5,000-mile hard-surfaced highway is expected to run about $400 000,000.

Work will be under the jurisdiction of the provinces and is expected to start next spring. It is estimtaed that it will take about five years to complete the route in most provinces.

Mr. Winters said he considers the project as part of a public investment program. It will provide employment in the provinces and will also open up the country to further development.

The route for the highway has not yet been selected. The provinces have not yet reached an agreement on that point.

Board Prevented From Meeting In Library Bldg.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 10. — (ENS).—Prior to a meeting of the Board of Education on Monday, notification was received from the Library Board terminating the Board of Education's usual place of meeting in the library. Some resentment was felt by the members on receiving such short notice; they met in the public school.

Al Moore, Trenton, discussed the heating plant he had installed in the public school. The plant had never functioned properly, but he promised he would put it in good working order.

Plaster Ruined

The roof of the public school was partly covered with steel when the last heavy rain fell. The water seeped through and removed the plaster on the ceiling of the nurse's room. It is estimated that it will cost approximately $250 to repair the damage.

Applications for the position of assistant principal of the public school were read. The secretary was instructed to contact Richard Goard, Fenelon Falls, offering him the position, John Peacock, writing from Toronto, received second choice.

Hospital Chapel Plans Discussed

The chapel in the new Civic Hospital was discussed by the building committee on Tuesday. James Craig, architect, presented plans of the chapel suggesting there be a marble floor, four pews capable of seating three people each, a stain-glass window and a black marble base around the plastered walls. The committee chose to have a carpeted floor which would help maintain silence in this special room. The black base was approved and the stain-glass window left until a later date.

The committee accepted a firm price of $82,100 for the two elevators and two dumb waiters.

Bids for screens, costing $804, for the psychiatric rooms on the first floor were accepted by the committee. The screens will be on the inside of the rooms to prevent patients from breaking the glass in the windows. There are two rooms, each having double windows.

Those present at the meeting were John Marshall, John Hornal, James Craig, Thomas Rodgers, I. F. McRae.

Man Gives $400 For Operation

MONTREAL, Aug. 10—(CP)—A Montreal business executive contributed $400 and today the hospital bills which the family of four-year-old Bertrand Rancourt were unable to pay will be met.

The boy, whose family live in the eastern townships village of St. Samuel, had a screw removed from his lung in Boston last week by Dr. A. Overholt.

The Boston doctor did the job free but other expenses, such as amounted to $1,000 and the Ran travelling and blood transfusions, court family could not pay them.

The citizens of Mergantic which is near St. Samuel subscribed some $600. J. M. Boulard, President of a Montreal screw manufacturing firm, learned the fund was $400 short of its objective and made up the necessary amount.

"After all," he said. "We manufacture screws."

Car Ferry Tied Up Cobourg Men Worried

COBOURG, Aug. 10.— (ENS).—Not an alarmist publication by any means, considerable concern is expressed in the Chamber of Commerce bulletin over the fact that car ferry Ontario No. 1 is tied up. It all goes back to the few weeks before federal election when it was rumored that the Ontario Car Ferry Co. planned to discontinue the ferry service between Cobourg and Rochester. At the time it was labelled election talk, but this is what the Chamber of Commerce bulletin, retail merchants' section, has to say:

"The retail merchants' section should take definite interest in the again repeated story that the ferries are to be taken off the Cobourg-Rochester run. This was branded last June as political talk but just how true it was will be seen after Labor Day. These two ferries have meant much to King street merchants. It is an import matter and one which should receive attention."

Wage Requests Brings Order Of 13-Cent Cut

VANCOUVER, Aug. 10 (CP)—British Columbia's $300,000,000 forest products industry today appears to be headed toward disturbing times. It's the direct result of a new approach by logging operators—carrying the battle of the wages to the workingman's doorstep.

Thirty-two thousand coastal loggers, seeking 15-cent-an-hour wage raises through their union, the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O. - C.C.L.), were told by the operators to take a 13-cent-an-hour wage cut or face partial closure of the industry.

The operators presented their stand in a brief submitted to a conciliation board Tuesday. The board, currently hearing the dispute, adjourned until Thursday to allow the union to consider the emphatic alternative. Union statement was not long coming.

Tuesday night, in a bulletin to its coastal loggers, it termed the wage-cut counter proposal "preposterous" and announced that if the conciliation board returns an unfavorable decision "we are in for a fight."

Loss of Ground

For the first time since the depression, operators are asking that union loggers take the wage cut, work longer hours and accept other contract revisions that would mean a loss of ground gained through costly strikes since 1946.

Coastal firms, operating 165 camps told the conciliation board that 4,000 less men and 39 fewer plants are working this year.

Reason given was that the wage scale, raised to 95 cents in 1947 and $1.08 last year, is too high in the face of the falling United Kingdom market.

Swimmer Rescued Off Cobourg Pier

COBOURG, Aug. 10 (ENS)—Fax Beattie, 17, employed at the C.G.E. plant here, was rescued last night by lifeguards when he was stricken with cramps while swimming off the east pier. The swimming is part of the Red Cross trials and at the time Mart McGuire, lifeguard, and Bob Cooper, recreational director were patrolling the area in a rowboat. McGuire went to Beattie's assistance but had trouble with him and Bob Cooper plunged in and gave him aid. They brought Beattie to the boat and then hoisted him up on the pier. He quickly recovered.

Succumbs To Ordeal

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 10 — (AP)—A 13-day ordeal in a mountain wilderness proved fatal last night to 76-year-old John Harrison Tracy. He succumbed to starvation and exposure after being lost almost two weeks. Rescuers found Tracy on Mt. Hood Monday, lying in a hut and too feeble to move. He had disappeared on a search for gold.

Dominion And Province

Mr. St. Laurent has made plain his attitude toward the problem of Dominion-provincial relations: "There are different angles affecting the different parts of Canada; a general conference is more apt to be fruitful if they are discussed in advance", said he. These discussions have already begun in Ontario; at this moment a conference to clarify the responsibilities of Dominion and province in the matter of housing is in progress. It is reported to be proceeding well. There will be other discussions of other disputed points in the future. When Ontario's attitude is known, perhaps it will be easier to make an amicable arrangement with Quebec. And when, at last, another Dominion-Provincial conference is held, we may hope for some effective result.

* * *

The first Dominion-Provincial conference was held eight years ago and nothing came of it; the second conference, in 1945, was equally fruitless. The present agreements on taxation between the Dominion and the Provinces end in 1952, and it is desirable that some agreement on such matters as taxation, expenditures on public works, housing and social betterment be reached before the last possible minute.

* * *

Although the issue of provincial rights has been inflated until it seems to be an insuperable barrier to progress, we think that Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Frost will find ways of letting the gas out of the monster, reducing it to manageable size. Both men know that an agreement is keenly desired by their electors; there is nothing to be gained by obstructionism or shows of political strength; there is much to be gained by reaching a working agreement. And once Ontario has shown itself friendly toward Ottawa, we do not think that it will be long before Quebec, too, is reconciled to the central power.

Feet Of Clay

After many years of assistance, amounting in money to two billions of dollars, the State Department in Washington has repudiated the Chinese Nationalist government and its leader, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. No one can say that the Nationalists have not been given a chance to prove themselves. No one can say that the utmost co-operation, assistance and admiration have not been accorded to Chiang Kai-shek. But at last Washington has decided that this idol has feet of clay, and has abandoned his cause.

Chiang has always had his critics. Many a U.S. official, travelling in China during the past ten years, has reported in dismay the slovenliness of organization, the graft, and the reactionary principles which have been found everywhere in the Nationalist forces. Chiang was aware of these things, but he condoned them. His ability as a military and political leader was attacked. General Stilwell (Vinegar Joe) referred to Chiang as "The Peanut" in all his communications to President Roosevelt until the President ordered him to desist. Chiang used to be a hero to the people of the U.S.A. (and to Canada, too) but his stature has dwindled. It may safely be said that if he had not had the assistance of his remarkably able, diplomatic, persuasive and beautiful wife, Chiang's credit here would have shrunk even sooner. But now the U.S.A. will support him no longer.

That leaves the question: what is to be done about China? It cannot be ignored, nor does it seem proper to abandon it to the Communists.

We do not know precisely what Communism in China means. It stems from Soviet Communism, of course, but the Chinese Communist forces have won their own victories and, so far as we know, have planned their own strategy. Are they really standing shoulder to shoulder with Russia, or are they simply another group of Chinese adventurers, anxious to run that mighty country for their own benefit, as so many other conquerors have done before them?

It is feared that the victory of Communism in China will inspire Communist revolutions everywhere in the East. But again we wonder how much allegiance a group of Asiatic Communist states would give to Russia? Asiatics are great realists, and ferocious nationalists; we doubt if the native Communists of Asiatic countries have that wide-eyed admiration for Russia which characterizes the Western Communist.

One thing is clear, however. A group of Asiatic Communist states, whatever their attitude toward Russia, would not be friendly toward the Western democracies. Just what the West should do in the present situation is still a mystery. In abandoning the Chinese Nationalists, however, the U.S.A. has done the only possible thing, for there was no hope in that quarter for China or anything else.

A Proper National Gallery

Now that the Massey Commission is at work, enquiring into the status of the arts and sciences in Canada, we hear many familiar voices pleading and protesting, as they have done for years, on behalf of projects which would undoubtedly advance the arts and sciences, but which do not interest our overwhelmingly Philistine Parliament. Mr. H. O. McCurry, for instance, has stated once more our need for a national art gallery. Mr. McCurry is the director of the present makeshift, which is in the east wing of the National Museum; he knows better than anyone else how badly Canada needs a national gallery—a building of appropriate design, properly situated to house our present collection of pictures and the pictures which will be bought for the nation in the future.

Why does Canada need a national gallery? Because Canada needs a collection of fine pictures, representative of the best work that has been done in the world of art, for the delight and education of Canadian people, and for study by our own artists. It is fitting that such a collection should be properly housed at the nation's expense. Canada has billions for experiments of one kind and another in the field of social betterment; she can well spare a few millions for the artistic betterment of her people.

It is untrue to say that a nation cannot live without art; a majority of people in Canada do so, and of the remainder a large proportion is content with bad or second-rate art. But Canada would be a better place if good pictures were as easily available to people who want to see them as, for instance, good music now is. A man who badly wants to hear good music in this country can hear quite a lot of it over the radio and on the concert stage. But the man whose interest is in pictures is ill-served. A national gallery would be his Mecca and it is safe to say that a proper national gallery would greatly extend the service of travelling exhibitions which the present gallery now gives.

It lies in the power of the Massey Commission to bring the needs of Canada's artists and her art-lovers forcibly home to the whole nation. We do not suggest that the nation should take over the whole burden of encouraging the arts; nothing would stifle real artistic development more quickly. But the possession of an appropriate national gallery is something which Canada, at a nation, owes to itself.

Moth And Flame

A curiously evasive piece of information reaches us from the proprietor of a business which does invisible mending; he says that there are fewer moth holes in clothes today than their were 40 years ago, but more cigarette burns. In the early days of his enterprise moth holes accounted for 90 per cent. of his business; now moths make only 20 per cent. of the holes he mends, and cigarette burns supply the others.

This is one of the most unsatisfactory statements we have ever had to deal with. Does he mean that there are fewer moths today than 40 years ago? Or does he mean that cigarette burns have increased so much in 40 years that what was 90 per cent. of his business then is only 20 per cent. of it now? Does he imply that women are better housekeepers than their mothers, or that people are more careless than they used to be?

We wish people would say what they mean.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A New England woman is suing her husband because he hit her with a black cat. Superstitious, probably.

Australian scientists report the discovery of a giant earthworm which sometimes reaches a length of eleven feet. Query: how long does a worm have to be before it graduates and becomes a snake?

A London Letter

From Conrad Frost

AT last, ill timed and too late, our news broadcasts have contained the laconic and almost forgotten comment: "Rain stopped play." Buses are stranded in roads suddenly become rivers. A fifth of all the rain we can expect in a month falls in a day. The cafes, cinemas, pin table saloons and theatres get a sudden boom. They put the "House Full" notices up outside the Casino, where Frances Day makes an emergency 'understudy' appearance in her original role, motoring the 130 miles back and forth from Malvern where she is rehearsing Shaw's new play "Buoyant Billions." The bookings rise so sharply at the Lyric theatre that the cast of "The Beaux Stratagem" have their notices withdrawn. But if the theatres make hay, the farmers won't! The rain, which has come too late to fill out the root crops of potatoes and sugar beet, has flattened thousands of acres of wheat waiting the combine-harvesters. Much of the flattened crops will now have to be cut by scythe.

* * *

THE rain comes too late, too, to be a face saver to the Ministry of Health, whose 5,898 employees blush a little with embarrassment at their holiday sun tans. For it isn't tactful at Mr. Bevan's Whitehall HQ to discuss blisters, burns or peeling skin. You might well suppose that the £361 million a year national health scheme would benefit from a sun soaked summer, that the national health would improve, and the doctors' bill go down. But that's not the way Nationalisation works! The local Doctor collects 15/- a year from the State for each patient on his register. He also collects, if he practices in a resort, 15/- for each holiday making patient who also has his own doctor at home. This year the seaside doctors are netting a rich harvest from visitors, worth fifteen bob a time, who come to them for sunburn treatment. Other years, of course, the sunburnt paid cash for cheap remedies at the chemists! But Mr. Bevan, if his face is getting red, will have to pay good Italian cash for the appropriate treatment. Unless the Italian Government, whose guests he and his wife are, will take pity on him and offer him cut rates—as the management of a French hotel is doing for Foreign Secretary Bevin, occupying one of their best suites.

WHILST the most serious economic crisis in British history blows up like an ominous storm cloud, the Labour leaders indulge themselves in the luxuries they condemn. The men who vilify the soft living of the rich, scuttle off to the pleasure grounds of the wealthy they are soaking out of existence. The Chancellor of the Exchequer does not use the National Health Scheme, but goes to a Zurich nursing home. There is Bevin in France and Bevan preferring Italy to his mining hometown. The Attorney General takes a yachting cruise down the French Coast. The Lord President of the Council, Herbert Morrison, reportedly plans a three week trip to the South of France, where the President of the Board of Trade, Harold Wilson is on a motoring tour. The Secretary for Overseas Trade slaps a Swiss label on his luggage. The Minister of Pensions is off for France, and the Minister of Civil Aviation enplanes for Eire where the eating is so good. But perhaps this new aristocracy will come back converted Tories!

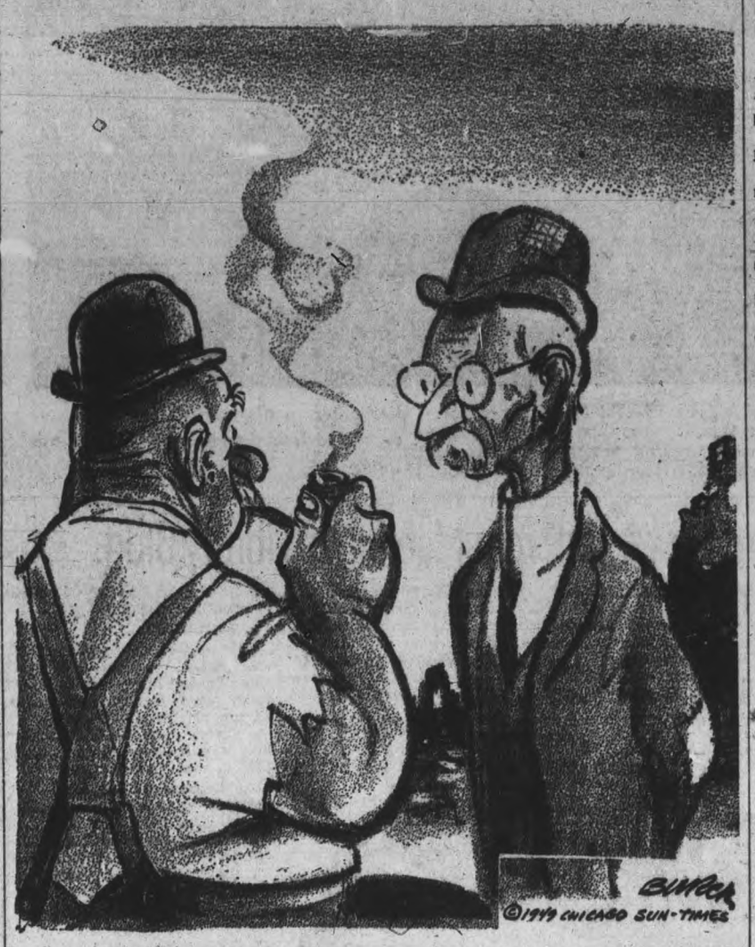
MEANWHILE "Morrison's Folly" is providing yet another daily spectacle for those thousands of Londoners who travel "the world's most interesting journey". The story of that journey goes back to 1936 when the daily bus trip to work over Waterloo Bridge became a matter of speculative interest for years whilst we watched the old Waterloo Bridge being demolished, and the new one built. When the new bridge was opened the fun of watching "Men at Work" continued as the steel girdered temporary bridge was demolished.

* * *

NOW we see the "Men At Work" on the South Bank Festival of Britain site, a free London side show that will go on until 1951. This year's wages bill will be £147,177. The new river wall will cost £750,000. The whole scheme will cost many millions. Mr. Morrison will see his pet project for a new South Bank achieved, taking priority over badly needed homes, schools and factories. But most of the actual Festival buildings will be mere facades of temporary fabric. Of course, this exciting London show is only free if you are not a ratepayer.



* * *

THE London Scene changes in other ways, too. Across the river, experts are cleaning the 70 foot Cleopatra's Needle, and the black grime gives way to a delicate pink. In the dry-cleaning shops, notices announce that dying restrictions have been lifted and clothes can now be dyed through a whole range of 30 colours instead of the previous half dozen. And as colour schemes everywhere get brighter, a battle to survive breaks out in the West End amongst the restaurants and night clubs. Ciro's Club closes its main restaurant this week for redecorations which will make it "the most luxurious in Europe." In Oxford Street, where the traders have ganged together to bring back the reputation of "the finest shopping street in the world," a ban has been put on fun fair arcades and pin table saloons. The tawdry and cheap sideshows which mushroomed up on bombed sites are vanishing, ten having been closed down in the last year. And to such good use are the bombed sites elsewhere being put, that when the International Allotments and Gardens Society had their annual dinner at Simpsons in the Strand, guests from eight countries abroad ate, with their chicken, green peas and potatoes which had been grown on London blitz areas.

They'll be the "little women," with the usual 5ft. 4 in. minimum....This week it becomes legal to drink up till 2 a.m., but the concession has meant little change. Lord Jowitt's Pursuit Of Beauty

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

FEW will blame Viscount Jowitt, Britain's Lord Chancellor, in that he missed a division in the House of Lords on the steel nationalization bill because glamor girls at the Wimbledon tennis championships lured him from his duties. The press, taking account of his absence from debate, concluded that he had "differed profoundly" with Lord Addison, government leader in the Lords. Lord Jowitt indicated that if he did differ with Lord Addison, it was not necessarily on the steel bill. "If on the one hand," he said, "I am confronted with glamour girls at Wimbledon, and on the other with Lord Addison, whom should I follow?" The question answers itself.

Lord Jowitt is not the first man to prefer the chatter and sight of pretty girls to the ponderous debate of solemn-faced statesmen. Many centuries ago Homer remarked in the Odyssey, "in beauty's cause illustriously he fails," and more recently Oliver Wendell Holmes pointed out that "beauty is the index of a larger fact than wisdom." No doubt here in Canada even on Parliament Hill, there are political leaders who privately hold with this view.

As chairman of the judicial committee of the privy council, Lord Jowitt is a man who sets precedents. His preference for the pursuit of beauty rather than Lord Addison has no force in law, but there is enough to commend it to make it possible that other statesmen will more conscientiously follow Lord Jowitt's example than, perhaps, they have hitherto. One may well imagine a future meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers being postponed, not because of disagreement, but because the conferees have adjourned to take in the Folies Bergeres or the Rockettes. Such an event could probably do no harm, and might place everyone in a better mood for working out a modus vivendi.

makes his first trip to Scotland in a few days. Birkhall, Scottish home for the heir to the throne since it was bought for Edward VII, has had a nursery installed....A Blackpool ice cream 'king' has sold out his business for £70,000. Ice cream has been big business here for weeks. Every degree onto the temperature up to 75 degrees means an extra 200,000 ices sold for one big London firm alone. At 80 degrees this firm says they could sell 6,000,000 ices a day, if they could get the milk, sugar and fat to make them.

* * *

YESTERDAY price controls were lifted from radio, television sets and gramophones. But there are no price changes in the shops today....New this week too, is the introduction of a cartoon character "Mr. Cube." Creation of Fleet Street artist St. John Cooper, Cube, descriptively named, appears sloganising on the domestic sugar ration packet. Says he from my grocer's shelf: "State Control will make a hole in my packet and your pocket." As pert as Cube's cry havoc are the chalked up wisecracks of a street flower seller doing a roaring summer business in High Holborn. Today he chalked up: "If your mother-in-law is at death's door, our flowers will pull her through."

Mediocrity

The 1949 Syme Oration, a memorial to the late Sir George A. Syme, one of Australia's greatest surgeon, was delivered in Brisbane to the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons, by the Professor of Fine Arts in the University of Melbourne, Professor Joseph Burke. Points:—

The dangerous cult of mediocrity is spreading throughout the world and we must guard against it.

One of the symptoms is the hostility increasingly shown to personal distinction in manner, speech, dress, intellect. No nation seems to be exempt.

In the United States and Great Britain second-rate film actors, writers and even crooners are mobbed as if they were national heroes.

In Soviet Russia painters who perpetuate the worst academic traditions of the 19th century are hailed as masters of the modern movement.

The uncommon artist, writer, scientist is increasingly isolated and in some countries actually proscribed. And yet it is precisely on such uncommon men and women that the future progress of humanity depends.

The history of surgery is particularly rich in examples of great men whose discoveries have been thwarted and denounced by the rigid and standardized opinion of their contemporaries.

It is surely a matter of some concern that the broad tendencies of society today are more favourable to the virtues of shared mediocrity than those of unshared excellence.

Surgery, so often a matter of life and death cannot afford the price of mediocrity.

And what is art but an attack of mediocrity of living?

The profession of surgery is an aristocratic one, and can never be otherwise. It will always call for the best in a man's ability and achievement.

In an age so favorable to mediocrity, it shares a mission similar to that of art, a mission of preserving the standards that are threatened by mass tendencies.

It is also committed to a defence of tolerance and free inquiry. These are the values of the eighteenth century.

If these values can be preserved, and if man can master his machines, may we look forward to a new and wider age of reason, in which the common man will recognize and respect, both in himself and his neighbor, something which is uncommon?

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

There was a man of the Pharisees, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews: the same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God....That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit....

Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe, if I tell you of heavenly things? (John 3: 1-3, 6, 11, 12.)

Unconsidered Trifle

In a discussion on women's styles in an American quiz show, an elderly man was one of the contestants. He was asked: "I suppose you are old enough to remember wasp waists?

"Remember 'em," he exclaimed bitterly. "That's when I got stung."

Western Germans Will Decide Most Powerful Man In Republic

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 10 — (AP). — Western Germans will decide next Sunday whether a one-armed, one-legged victim of Hitler's torture chambers, or a scholarly, aloof lawyer will be the most powerful figure in the new German Federal Republic.

On that day Western Germans will elect their first central government since Hitler. It will be their first free election on a national scale in 17 years.

The election will set up a new European state uniting the British, American and French occupation zones with a population of more than 45,000,000 Germans west of the Elbe.

And it will make one of these two men the biggest figure in the new republic.

Dr. Kurt Schumacher, 54-year-old leader of the Social Democratic Party. The Social Democrats are Left-Wing Socialists.

Dr. Konrad Adenauer, 73-year-old head of the Christian Democratic Union. This is a Conservative Party favoring private enterprise.

Has Crusader Spirit

Schumacher, the Socialist leader, lost a leg in the First World War. He languished in Nazi concentration camps for 11 years. Nazi torturers mangled one of his arms. He later lost it. But he has lost none of his fiery, crusading spirit.

Adenauer is a politician with a professor's mannerisms. His high cheek bones and sphinx-like expression make him resemble a proud North American Indian Chief. He, too, was tossed behind bars by the Nazis—on three occasions.

Both Adenauer and Schumacher are mentioned as possible choices for the first President of the fledgling republic. The President will be named after the election by the Bundestag (the Lower House of Parliament) and the 11 West German states. But their power flows from their positions of leadership in Western Germany's two big parties.

Will Be Key Figures

Schumacher and Adenauer are among some 1000 candidates seeking 400 seats in the Bundestag. The party controlling the Bundestag will name the Chancellor, and will determine government policy.

And the man who controls the dominant party will be the key figure in German public life.

Schumacher and Adenauer are opposites — politically and personally.

Schumacher's Social Democrats want the government to take over big industries, banks and insurance companies. Adenauer's Christian Democrats call for promotion of private enterprise and protection of private property.

Schumacher has made plain that he regards the election as a straight contest between the social welfare state and private enterprise. Aside from this issue, the campaign pivots on everyday problems — high living costs, adequate housing, rising unemployment. Voters can vote only a straight party ticket.

Of the smaller parties, the Free Democrats are the strongest. This is a Right-Wing group, calling for more business profits and lower taxes as incentives to business. They polled about eight per cent of the votes in the last state elections.

Have Second Cardinal

GUEBEC, Aug. 10 (CP) — Canada will in all probability have a second Roman Catholic Cardinal before 1950 in the person of Archbishop Maurice Roy, of Quebec. The dispatch said creation of new cardinals is almost certain before December, to give Pope Pius a full and active staff for the start of the 1950 Holy Year.

Cosmos Beat Uniteds, 8-7 To Open Men's City Finals

Coming from behind on a four-run rally in the eighth, Cosmos edged out Uniteds 8-7 at the Bowl last night to take the first of the four-in-seven City Softball League final playoffs. The same squads clash again there Thursday. A record crowd for their season so far saw a loose but exciting and hard-fought fray with Uniteds leading most of the way but kicking the game away with poor fielding. They had 10 miscues, but kept it close with a couple of fast double plays. These and a pickup by Harrison featured for them, while a catch by Mackness—who later had a costly error—and a pickup by Hawkes featured Cosmos' fielding.

Bob Crowe led at bat for Cosmos with three in five, one a homer, Thomson getting two hits and Hawkes a triple. Harrison and Douglas topped Uniteds with three for five each, the former having two doubles, and Wade one two-bagger. Ron Akers improved as the game progressed and he had a little mound edge over Bob Greenlaw, who was a bit wild this game, Bob also getting poor support throughout.

An Early Lead

Uniteds got two runs each in the first and third, with three more in the fourth, but didn't get a man to second after that. Cosmos got one in the third, three in a loose fourth frame and four in the big eighth, three errors, two wild pitches, singles by Crowe and Pryde, with Hawkes' triple, doing the trick. Cosmos argued heatedly in the fifth when Dalton claimed he was interfered with coming into the plate when he tried to steal from second after a fielder had missed touching the bag there on a force.

The box score:

Bowlers Take Honors In Record Go

By HERB MARTIN

Charlie Renaud won in singles while Bob Gamble and Bill Jeffries also of Peterborough, took the provincial lawn bowling District No. 14 championship in Lindsay on Tuesday night. Renaud was playing C. Skells of Cannington in the singles final where the player scoring 21 points first wins. He bowled in brilliant fashion to finish up 21-4 in 14 ends, and he will no doubt be hard to beat for the Ontario championship.

In the doubles final, Allan and Letcher of Port Perry took a commanding lead over Jeffries and Gamble. They scored nine on the first four ends and by the time the ninth end was reached, it was Port Perry 18, Peterborough 1. Then the pair came up with a big five on the 10th and the game continued. It was 22-9 in the 14th but on the next four ends, Peterborough counted 12 points to make it 22-21 on the short end for them. It was most exciting at this time as the long playoff grind continued. Jeffries and Gamble were really hot by this time to score two to tie it up as the crowd hung around. Beginning the extra end, Gamble played a bit short on the first bowl but his second was a dandy. He trailed the kitty back to within two feet of the ditch with his bowl frozen to the kitty.

His opponents tried hard to reach it but just couldn't quite make it. Jeffries played his four bowls to perfect position and the unusual game was over. A pair of practically beaten bowlers had suddenly come to life to take a thrilling extra-end playoff with wonderful bowling. Mangrum, Snead Renewing Feud

CHICAGO Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Fresh from the battle of three-foot putts in the all-American professional meet, triumphant Lloyd Mangrum and vanquished Sammy Snead Thursday will square off for really big money in the $35,200 "world" championship of golf.

Mangrum Tuesday continued his amazing wizardry on his home Tam O'Shanter course with a 13-sub-par, 276-stroke all-American triumph.

Mangrum coolly dropped in a three-footer on the 72nd green after Snead some 90 minutes earlier had fizzled a tap from the same distance on the final hole. That $1,000 miss cost Snead a chance to force Mangrum into a playoff for the top $3,333 swag.

Sambo, who started the final round five strokes behind Mangrum, uncorked a brilliant closing 68, but it was only good for 277 and runner-up money of $2,333.

Snead whose season's winnings now are $25,893, and Mangrum third with $20,548, top a 64-player field which will set sail Thursday in promoter George S. May's lush "world" showdown over 72 holes. This meet pays off $10,000, $7,000 and $5,000 for the top three places.

Bell Beats Co-Ops

Bell Telephone triumphed over Co-Ops 8-3 last night in a Civic Softball League scheduled tussle. They shoved over a brace of markers in the first, adding one next time up, four in the fifth and another in the sixth. Co-Ops got their three in the sixth of a lively tilt. Teams:

Bell: Conway, Gillespie, James, Ackford, Harrison, Tushingham, Boyce, Reynolds, Wood.

Co-Ops: McAuliffe, Trayling, Creighton, Berwick, Edmison, McLennan, Coulter, Perkins, Vyse.

Frankford Wins

HASTINGS, Aug. 10.— (ENS).—Frankford defeated Hastings 11-6, forcing a sudden death game in Hastings on Wednesday to decide fourth place in the TVL the winners to go against Campbellford. Boyle on the mound for Frankford gave up three hits and two walks in the first for three runs, then settled away and was never in trouble again till the ninth, when Hastings loaded the bases on two hits and a pass with none out, but Hastings pushed three runs across, then died on the paths.

D. West started for Hastings but was hit hard and lacked support, and was relieved by Payne in the 3rd after allowing six runs. Payne pitched steady ball, but his support wavered when the chips were down.

Minor Lacrosse

IRWIN-Godson midgets of the PMLA eliminated Cavanagh's 4-3 in two straight last night and now meet the winner of Americans-Kiwanis in the best-of-five finals. They played good lacrosse in a keen fixture with a two-goal edge in the second. Deck and Legrow from Outwater counter in the first while Cupoli and Buchan scored in the second as Buchan and Deck got assists. Noble from Daniels and Batley scored in the third but Buchan got the winner from Brown in the fourth. Teams:

Cavanagh's: Crough, Daniels, Outwater, Batley, Elliott, Noble, Legros.

Dunn notched markers in the third quarter, and Caravaggie broke loose for three to take the tilt for Kiwanis in the lively final frame. Teams:

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Oshawa Merchants figure they can clinch first place in the COBL this week as they play in Batawa tomorrow and here Saturday. The Petes are down just two games and can still grab that coveted top rung, having a good chance to partly close the gap when they tackle Batawa here at 6.30 tonight in Riverside Park. Dadson will throw and the Petes should take this one. If they can win again Saturday here 'gainst Oshawa, their chances will look brighter. It's been a real senior ball race all season betwixt Merchants and the men o' Murphy, and the playoffs are looming in a couple of weeks. Weather being okay tonight, this tussle should draw a hefty twilight crowd.

An interesting item from Brantford: "We read where an eagle pounced on a golf ball during a game in England. The judge ruled no penalty would apply, inferring it was an act of God. Another freak play which called for some cogitation was seen at a ball game in Massena, N.Y. During a game, a dog ran on the field and was hit by a batted ball. The ball got away and the batter reached first. After a heated argument, the runner was allowed an extra base. The umpire ruled the dog was a 'spectator' and should not have been on the field of play." Things like that are what age the rule makers.

May Play For Queen's

Queen's sends out an interesting booklet for '49 on football. We note where Bob Elliott is one of the assistant coaches to Frank Tindall, and also where Curly Krug in 1935 won the most valuable player trophy at Queen's. Three local boys are mentioned thusly: "Morris Richardson, quarter, of Peterborough, caught the senior team in his first year at Queen's, repeated last year and is expected to shine on the gridiron this season. An Arts student"; "Jack Sisson, half from Peterborough, where he played Collegiate; ineligible last year, Jack will be amongst the most likely prospects this season. Second year Arts"; "Orm Weir, end, played last two seasons with Queen's Comets. Home town Peterborough, and Orm is an outstanding basketball player with the senior team. Fifth year Medical student."

Saturday sees the start of the PMLA finals in Miller Bowl. Tadpoles open at two, followed by peewees, and then bantams. The midgets go at seven p.m., followed by juveniles. Lou Vitarelli coaches the juvenile all-stars, Jack Foote the midgets, while Ira and Barney Dundas will look after the bantams. Fans at senior games here have had many thrills watching the minor lacrossers perform between periods, and they can see the pick of these future OLA stars in action by meandering Mill Bowl-ward this week-end. Meantime, PMLA semi-finals continue this week as scheduled.

Crescents Go Ahead

Owen Sound Crescents took a firm grip on second spot in the OLA senior "A" standing at home last night as they beat the Petes 18-8, keeping ahead of St. Kitts but back of Brampton. The locals were shy a few players and lost a chance to close the gap toward the last playoff spot, though they're not out of the race yet. Schedule goes till two weeks from next Saturday, with possibly a few postponed games to be worked in then. The Petes will have to hustle and try hard to take that one from Mimico here Friday eve and again in Mimico the following night ere time runs out on them. Some minor lacrosse info in elsewhere and we learn that Walt Murphy is OLA convener up this way for the bantam, midget and juveniles, these local teams playing Huntsville and Orillia early in September.

Cosmos are one up in men's city softball finals, after nosing out Uniteds 8-7 last eve before a big crowd at the Bowl. Next one of the four-in-seven serial is Thursday at 8.30 p.m. there. An exciting joust it was but Uniteds kicked the cabbage all over the patch to offset pretty fair pitching and some hard hitting. Cosmos started slowly but came on strong near the finish as Akers tightened up to throw good last-half ball but Uniteds helped 'em out muchly with buttery fingers. Greenlaw was a little wilder than usual. Crowe, Thomson, Harrison and Douglas led the clouters. A keen contest and it shapes up as a sizzling series ere the city title is settled.

Buffalo Dumps Orioles In Twin Bill

By The Associated Press

Buffalo Bisons once again enjoy a comfortable margin in the International League pennant race.

Only a short time ago the Bisons, who have paced the circuit for the greater part of the season, held only a one-game lead over the Rochester Red Wings.

Tuesday night they increased their advantage over the Wings to five games by taking both ends of a twin bill from Baltimore Orioles as the Wings dropped two games to Syracuse Chiefs.

The Bisons tamed the Orioles, 4-3 and 4-1, while the Red Wings were laced 5-4 and 10-5.

Bob Hooper posted his 15th victory, against two losses for the Bisons in the opener. Coaker Triplett drove home the winning run in the final inning with a single.

Home runs accounted for all the runs in the finale. Triplett, Cy Block and Gene Markland homered for the Bisons and Pitcher Jim Wilson for the Orioles.

Homers Pile Up

Four-baggers also ruined the Wings. The Chiefs won the first game when Frankie Drews homerdd with the bases loaded and Bob Usher with the sacks empty in the fourth inning off Tom Poholsky. Russ Derry parked his 36th homer for the Wings in the second.

Usher and Eddie Shokes clinched the nightcap with a pair of two-run homers in the fifth inning as towering Hank Parkowski coasted to his ninth triumph.

Jersey City Giants climbed from fifth to third place, taking both ends of a twin bill from the Toronto Maple Leafs 9-6 and 6-3.

The Giants scored all their first game runs in the second and third innings. Red Hardy went all the way for the Giants, granting eight hits including homers by Vic Barnhart and Chet Laabs.

Lefty Roger checked the Leafs on three hits in the finale to gain his 11th victory. One of the Toronto hits was Laabs' 17th roundtripper.

The defeats dumped the Leafs into fifth place, a game back of Montreal Royals.

The Royals whipped the last place Newark Bears 6-3. Pat McGlothin scattered 10 blows in recording his 11th victory. The Royals banged out 11 safeties, including Bobby Morgan's 16th circuit drive.

Minor Baseball

Albert Watkins, secretary of the City Baseball League, announces the minor ball games for the balance of this week. In peewee, east plays north end at the Orphanage on Friday at 6.15. If north wins, the same squads meet at 10 a.m. in the Bowl on Saturday in a sudden-death game. If east wins, it'll be east vs. south at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Bowl to open the best-of-three finals.

East City bantams play south end in two of three finals, starting at 6.15 p.m. Thursday at Trojan Field, the second being there probably Monday.

North and east midgets open their two-in-three finals at 6.15 p.m. Thursday in Riverside.

The south end juveniles wind up their schedule with East City at 6.15 p.m. Friday in Rivers.de, the south end still having a chance to make playoffs.

Westclox Victors

Westclox won 9-1 from Woollens in a fastball fixture last night with McElroy pitching fine ball and raving good support at bat and afield. They counted two in the first frame, four in the third, and one each in the fourth, fifth and ninth, as the losers shoved one over in the eighth. Teams:

Crescents Win OLA Tilt Against Petes

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Aug. 10—(CP)—Owen Sound Crescents rolled to an 18-8 Ontario Lacrosse Association senior "A" triumph here tonight over the cellar-dwelling Peterborough Lumberjacks. The victory strengthened Owen Sound's hold on second place in the league standing, behind Brampton who won their last start over the fifth-place Hamilton Tigers, giving Crescents a three-point lead over St. Catharines Athletics. Mimico are still in the race, while Weston are in front of the last-place Petes.

The Lumberjacks were a little shorthanded and found the going rugged at times, fading finally as the count rolled up, and the Crescents played sound defensively to protect their lead and add to it when opportunity presented.

Tonight, St. Catharines play at Brampton, and Hamilton goes to Mimico. Weston is at Owen Sound on Thursday, while Mimico plays in Peterborough on Friday night.

Hamilton Man Tops Rifle Shoot

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, South March, Ont., Aug. 10 (CP)—Sgt. G. B. Kay, of Hamilton, placed first in the prize list for the Macdougall match Tuesday. He shot a 50-48 for a total of 98 out of a possible 100.

Baffling fishtail winds caused the most trouble for the 37-year-old winner, a member of this year's Canadian Bisley team. And the burning sun did not make shooting pleasant at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association's annual shoot.

Five other sharp-shooters posted 98 scores. A shoot-off may be necessary to decide the winner of the Macdougall challenge cup.

The match was fired over two distances, 500 yards and 200, with 10 counds at each. Kay won first prize money because of his possible 50 score on the tough 500 yard range.

RELATIONS WITH CHINA over the past century are recorded in this bitingly-critical United States "White Paper" held by Philip C. Jessup, State Department Ambassador-at-Large. The 1,054 page document includes the long-suppressed Wedemeyer report and a statement by State Secretary Dean Acheson that Chinese Communists can take over the rest of China any time they want.

Oil Market Scramble More Intense

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 (AP)—The oil cauldron is bubbling over again in the United States.

The scramble for markets is getting more and more intense. Companies which produce oil in the United States see their production cut back while oil is being imported from rich foreign fields.

At least the consumer can take heart from the situation. The oil men are suffering because there's so much oil. All concerned promised that this winter there will be plenty to supply the huge American market for home-heating, transportation and industry.

The cauldron bubbles today with the following developments:

1. Standard Oil of New Jersey, the biggest oil company in the United States, announces it is importing no more oil from Arabia.

2. Jersey's Canadian affiliate, Imperial Oil, is reported planning a 1,200-mile pipeline next spring to bring oil from its new Saskatchewan oil fields in the mid-west United States market.

3. The Independent Petroleum Association of America says in Tulsa that oil imports now are at an all-time high. This, it says, "is a threat to the domestic petroleum industry."

4. The Trans-Arabian Pipeline Company says it hopes to complete in January, 1951, its 1,067-mile pipeline bringing Arabian oil to easy reach of tankers at the Mediterranean port of Sidon.

The importation of oil from the Middle East, which now has more than 40 per cent of the world's known reserves, started in the oil-shortage winter of 1947-48, when shivering easterners welcomed oil from any source.

Jersey Standard contracted last year to import Arabian oil, fearing another shortage in 1948-49. But the winter in the eastern United States proved mild and there was a surplus of heating oil.

ADVERTISING PAYS, declared Charles Donaldson, 21, of St. Joseph, Mo., who holds his fiancee, Irene Krebbs, 18, also of St. Joseph, on his lap after announcing that they would be married last week. He placed an advertisement for a wife in a newspaper five days ago because he wanted tn be married in a double ceremony with a friend who had planned to marry.

Yvonne DeCarlo Refuses To Feud With Montez

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—(AP).—Barbara Stanwyck gives out with another reason her decade-long marriage to Robert Taylor has lasted.

The actress was asked on the "East Side, West Side" set if she would co-star with her husband. Her reply: "We're letting well enough alone."

"We don't want to tempt fate too much," she added. "Besides, we just don't have a desire to work together. We did one movie together years ago, and it was terrible."

No Feudin'

Gossips have tried to whip up a feud between Maria Montez and Vancouver's Yvonne DeCarlo, since the Canadian girl replaced Maria in Universal's exotic epics. But the two are pals, and Yvonne will visit Maria on her European trip, which she will start as soon as "Buccaneer's Girl" is finished.

La Montez has apparently abandoned Hollywood. She finds the money and the living pleasant on the continent. At present she is in Venice making "The Thief of Venice" with George Sanders and Paul Christian.

"Tarzan" fans may be shocked to see Lex Barker get kissed by a slave girl," Denise Darcel in his next film. "Long and lingering," the studio adds. The ape man usually goes kissless in his films.

"Sword in the Desert" may cause a reaction in Arab and British quarters. It deals with the Jewish side of the recent Near-East conflict.

Workers Back On Job After Three Hours

DETROIT, Aug. 10 (AP) — After a three-hour walkout, Packard Motor Car Company workers voted Tuesday to return to work on the afternoon shift.

The vote was taken at a mass meeting called by Local 190, United Automobiles Workers (C.I.O.). The dispute involves the discharge of a foundry worker.

Packard agreed to meet with the union in an effort to iron out the dispute.

Britain Wants To Fix Prices

LONDON, Aug. 10 (CP)—Proposals for fixing the prices of selected raw materials by international agreement are almost certain to be advanced by Britain when she resumes financial talks with the United States and Canada in Washington early next month.

The purpose would be to stabilize returns for such Commonwealth products as rubber, wool, jute and tin. In return, Britain would agree to import stated quantities of such United States products as cotton, sugar and tobacco.

These commodity agreements, it is believed here, would help to bolster the income of the sterling area by assuring stable prices on exports which recently dropped in value in world markets.

A spokesman for the Treasury said that such commodity pacts would help to solve only part of the problem. He said Britain still feels the real root difficulty is that it is impossible now to maintain a balanced trade with the United States—and to some extent with Canada—because the things the United States wants are so small compared with the things other countries want to buy from her.

The spokesman said the Treasury's "back-room boys" are working on an agenda for the September discussions with the thought in mind that United States now is in the position Britain occupied 100 years ago. At that time Britain had a large export surplus which she largely plowed back into investments all over the world.

The old world then acted as a workshop and the new world as its granary. Two world wars, impoverishing Europe and stimulating production in the United States and Canada, changed the picture.

Where Hens Eat Diamonds

KIMBERLEY, South Africa, Aug. 10 (CP).—The biggest man-made hole on earth, the "big hole" at Kimberley, is not producing diamonds any more, but production has begun again at Du Toit's Pan, not far off.

Tall stories are told about diamonds in Kimberley, and delegates to a recent congress of scientists were very sceptical. But most of them are true.

One tale they were told was that diamonds are sometimes found in the streets of Kimberley. The finding of such diamonds is common enough not to be mentioned by the local newspaper.

Another verifiable tale is that people find diamonds when they are digging their vegetable patches in the back yard. That story is also true, and common enough not to be mentioned except very casually.

It is true, too, that chickens have been killed with diamonds in their gullets. The birds are apparently attracted by the glitter of the stones.

Not long ago, a Kimberley man was putting up an out-house when he found two diamonds. He handed the diamonds over, as everyone is obliged to do by law—and paid for the whole building with the 10 per cent of their value he received in exchange.

As to the diamond-in-crop story some people maintain that the best way of scouring the surface gems is to let chickens run over it for a time. Of course, you have of any piece of ground for the to kill and eat the poultry yourself afterwards, to make sure nobody else gets whatever diamonds there are.

Generally speaking, the diamonds found are so small as to have little value and anybody who is thinking of buying a house in Kimberley on the off chance of paying for it from casual diamonds in the back yard is taking a long chance indeed.

Diamond are difficult to recognize in their rough state without special knowledge.

Evacuated Families Ready To Go Home

ST. HUBERT, Que., Aug. 10 — (CP). — Evacuated farm families to-day were ready to return to their homes after hundreds of volunteer firemen in this area 15 miles south-east of Montreal managed to bring a peat and brush fire under control. The fire has been burning a week, biting deep into farm lands near here, and Monday it flared into a dangerous blaze. A change in wind Tuesday aided the firemen in their efforts. RCAF bulldozers and pick and shovel crews are attempting to dig trenches to halt the blaze. No injuries have been reported to date.

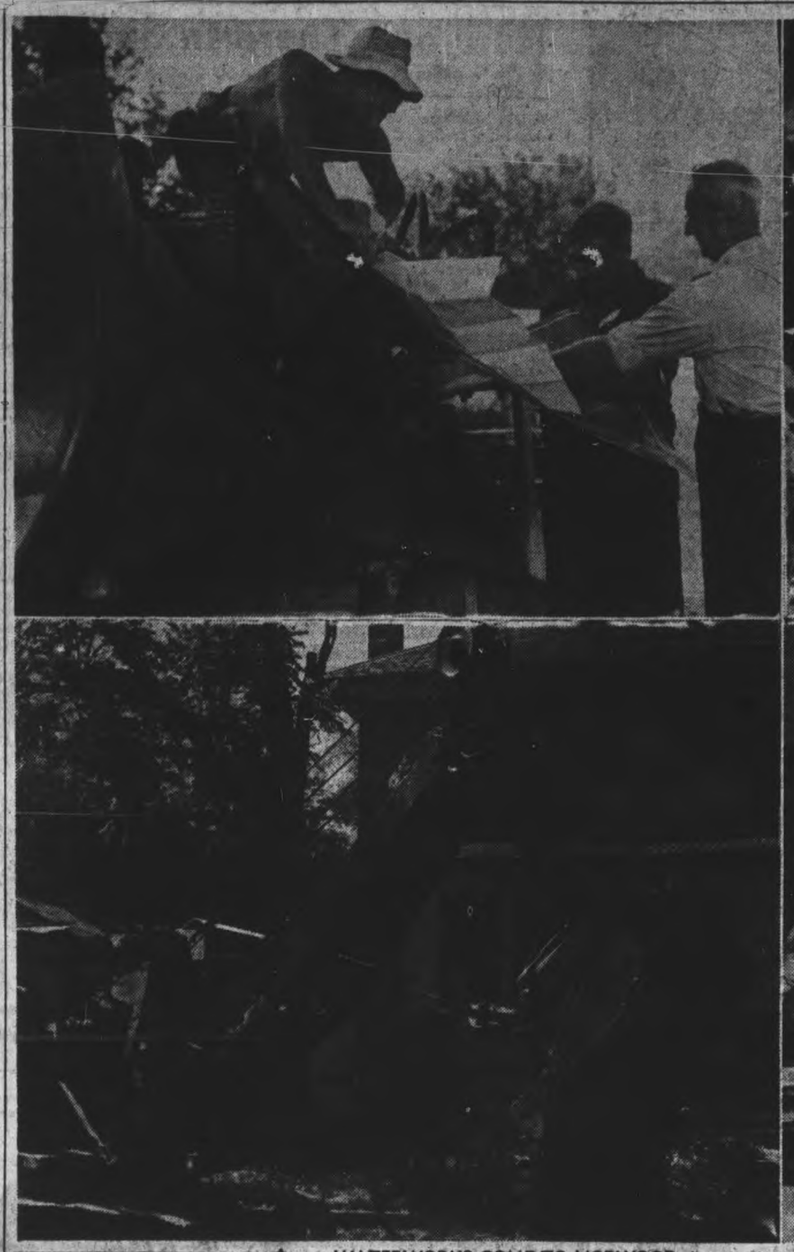
92-Degree High Equals Record July 3

Peterborough is right on the hot weather firing line these days and it would be hard to find any place that was not. Official temperatures from Filtration Park on Tuesday were 92 high and 68 low this morning, thus equalling July 3 of 92. Last night's low was one degree less and today by 9 a.m. had risen to 75 degrees again.

These figures will cause a lot of controversy to be sure, because many city thermometers registered much higher. Take the Examiner instrument, for instance, whcih registered 95. Although it stands in the shade until almost 4 p.m. the heat bouncing off the pavement all day gives an inaccurate picture. The same reason accounts for the 110 reading at a Charlotte St. cigar store on Tuesday; this site is in the full sun glare for many hours each day. The heat was so great that crowds were thinner at the two Otonabee river bathing pools in the afternoon and children soon found it was cooler to sit in the shade and look at the water.



The official weather bureau in Toronto gave a little hope of cooler weather in telling of a cold polar air mass pouring down from northern regions. The sticker was that it did not get far and soon dissiptaed in the overall heat mass which will leave everyone sweltering, with no relief in sight. Canada's cool spot on Tuesday was Prince Rupert that registered a high of 57 degrees. Nowhere else came near it by several points.

Children Gather 4 Baskets Of Broken Glass

This is safety week on the playgrounds.

All the eight playgrounds supervised by employees of the Recreation Commission are endeavouring to keep their accidents down to a minimum. At Confederation Park playground the supervisor and children have made a large sign with the words, stop, look and listen on it. The sign has been placed at the exit of the park. At Fleming Place the children in an effort to cut down the number of accidents caused by broken glass held a hunt which netted them four six-quart baskets of glass.

At the end of the week each child on the playgrounds will be given a pamphlet with the safety advice, stop, look and listen. A scroll will be given to each playground for their efforts during the week and a certificate will be given the playground with the least accidents.

WATERWORKS COME TO NORWOOD to service approximately 250 homes at an estimated cost of about $100,000. Starting a week ago Monday, contractors have laid 3,000 feet of pipe on the Dummer Road and Ridge St., with the hope of completing the job in about three months. Planning carefully as they go, bulldozer driver Frank Haddlesey, LEFT, Harry Kelly, superintendent, and Const. W. B. Parcels, inspector, check blueprints in UPPER LEFT photo. Part of the excavation is shown UPPER RIGHT on Ridge St., and the power shovel in operation at the same site, LOWER LEFT. A lot of headaches went into the initial planning for Village Clerk R. A. Dean, shown at the left, in LOWER RIGHT, as he goes over details with Councillor J. G. Nixon.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Labor Council Study Replies

Answers received by the Allied Labor Council to its letters to various city and federal government officials requesting they do all in their power to bring pressure to bear on government building projects and other schemes to ward off effects of unemployment in Peterborough were held over until the second meeting after Labor Day celebrations, by a Council meeting Tuesday night.

One of the letters received was from City Clerk E. A. Outram, outlining the unemployment situation in the city. Another from the clerk told the ALC city council had rejected the suggestion of establishing a ward system as a retrogressive system illsuited to the advancement of the labor cause in the city. The contents of other letters were left undisclosed until the meeting picked to deal with them.

The ALC received permission from the city to hold a Labor Day parade at 10 a.m. Sept 5 as it had requested. The Labor Day committee was authorized to approach the Bobcaygeon Boys' and Girls' Pipe Band to supply music for the parade. Use of the CGE Pipe Band is also being investigated.

The ALC is going to ask the Lions Club for its carnival equipment for the celebration day.

Norwood Spending $90,000 On Installing Of Waterworks System In Village

NORWOOD, Aug. 10 (ENS). — Aided by continuous fine weather, good progress is being made on the first stage of the installation of this village's $90,000 water system, work on which was begun ten days ago by the Wainright Construction Co., Ltd., of Toronto. Three thousand feet of water main pipe have been laid during that time and work is expected to start soon on pouring concrete for the water tank base and construction of the pumphouse. The Wainright firm also have the contracts for these two phases of the work.

The whole job is expected to be completed in three months' time and will fill a long-felt need, as for some time past many wells have been polluted due, it is believed, to seepage from septic tanks. As a result of this situation, many residents have had to depend on neighbors for water.

A total of 4½ miles is to be laid together with connections to serve some 250 or more homes. The water tank will have a capacity of about 125,000 gallons, and it will be 60 feet high and 20 feet in diameter.

Contract for drilling the well, which will be located on Ridge St. at the head of Colborne St., has been let to International Water Supply Co., Ltd., of London, Ont. So far, only test holes have been dug and work on the actual well will begin shortly.

The Village Council were very delighted when a plentiful supply of water was found at the first place where test drilling was conducted. The well will be sunk to a depth of 72 feet; at 40 feet water was found. Pumping was carried out for nine hours at a stretch at the rate of over 45 gallons per minute and the water level was only lowered two inches.

An interesting angle to the test drilling operations is that the ample supply of water was found right where William Wilson, 80, of Keene, firm believer in the "divining rod" method of locating water sources, said it would be discovered. Mr. Wilson also proclaims that his "diviner" has told him that a large deposit of natural gas exists farther down the road from the well site.

W. B. Parcels, chief of police, who has been delegated by the council to act as inspector of the work, told The Examiner that there was more than enough water to last out even a dry spell of this summer's record-breaking proportions.

Village Clerk R. A. Dean is being kept busy these days assisting ratepayers with the forms they must fill out to have water piped into their homes. It is felt that the great majority of residents will sign on the dotted line.

Already talk is beginning to develop about a possible next step in the modernization of the village's facilities, erection of a sewage disposal plant. However, considering the cost of the present project, it is not likely that action on a sewage plant will be taken very soon.

John E. Wainright, president of the contracting firm, is a native of Peterborough. Superintendent on the job for the company is Harry Kelly.

The council has authority to issue debentures up to $100,000 to cover the cost of the work, but it is hoped to keep the figure down to between $90,000 and $95,000.

The well water has been tested at the Provincial Department of Health laboratory in Toronto and found to be of excellent quality.

Main Street Topics

CONSTABLE RESIGNS

City police constable George B. Shaw handed his resignation to Chief Constable John Thompson Saturday to take effect immediately. He was a member of the police force two years.

CHAIRMAN RE-APPOINTED

A. D. Cameron, secretary-treasurer of the Civic Arena committee, reports that Percy Killingbeck has been re-appointed chairman of the committee for the next year. The position of an arena manager will be advertised for, and Mr. Cameron says the arena will be ready for use by Oct. 1. With the cement poured and the terrazo flooring placed, as well as machinery installed, little remains but a wait of three to four weeks for its setting and then the floor polishing.

CAR OVERTURNS

A car driven by Michael J. Asseltine, 13 McMurrick St., Toronto, overturned on No. 28 Highway, near the "Hitching Post" service station at 1.40 p.m. Tuesday, with about $150 worth of damage resulting. Mr. Asseltine received a cut on his elbow and his wife a bruised side caused by being thrown against the gearshift lever, one of the old floor type. The driver lost control of the car after swerving to one side of the road. The vehicle was proceeding south at the time. Provincial Constable D. W. Coffey investigated.

LIQUOR ON TRAINS

Canadian National Railways have published their notice of application to the Liquor License Board of Ontario for permission to sell liquor for consumption with meals on dining cars within the province. They are also asking for a lounge license for dining cars, cafe cars, parlor cars, sleeping cars and lounge cars. Hearing of this application is set down for August 22 in Toronto.

BREAK INTO HALL

Five to ten dollars was stolen by a thief who broke into the Oddfellows Hall at the corner of George and Hunter Sts. between 12 and one p.m. Tuesday and rifled an automatic soft drink dispensing machine. The thief had apparently made his entry by a fire escape at the rear of the building. The break-in was reported to Constable M. D. Traynor by Ken Throop, 580 Rogers St.

Water Is Low In Otonabee

Cause or causes for the drop in water level at Inverlea Park Monday still remain a mystery. On Tuesday afternoon, the level was down no more than it has been all summer, and certainly a great deal less than Monday, when it was reported that the river bottom was dry right out to the wading ropes.

The Quaker Oats Company, through Mr. L. H. Ingram, reported to the Examiner that their records showed that they had not drawn any more water than usual from the river on Monday. Yesterday at 4 p.m. the river level was 13'4", a situation not considered strange for this time of year, with the current lack of rainfall. Mr. Ingram said "There was no unusual pull whatsoever."

A trip up the river as far as Nassau Tuesday afternoon showed that the river, particularly at the Filtration Plant, is definitely low. A large rockpile graces the river bed just below the dam, and seemed to be no more than a foot the water, on casual inspection, or two in depth in the middle of the river.

At Nassau, the level was low, and rocks were again showing. Farther south again, the mud flats on the River Road side were in evidence, and what water there was moved at a slow rate.

The wading pool at Riverside did not seem to be affected by the level Tuesday. Although the river itself was less deep than usual, children were splashing in plenty of water in the pool itself.

Inverlea, the recession point of Monday, had a full quota of kids Tuesday afternoon, all enjoying the Otonabee.

Last Rites Paid To Jas. P. O'Neill

Burial services for James P. O'Neill, 666 Romaine St., who died in Toronto General Hospital Saturday after a short illness, were held Tuesday morning from the Anglesey Funeral Home.

Celebrant of the mass in St. Alphonsus Church was Rev. A. Conloque. Rev. J. Corkery said the grave-side prayers in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mr. O'Neill was predeceased by a son Joseph who was killed while flying in the RCAF.

Pallbearers were: Jack Callahan, Wm. McIvor, David Curtin, Clifford Beano, Clifford Bruton and Mr. Innis.

Dog's Life Is Saved But Car Damaged

A dog's life was saved but $40 damage was done to a car belonging to James Neck, 178 Adaline St., in an accident at the corner of Reid and Dublin Sts. at 7:40 p.m. Tuesday.

The accident occurred because Joseph M. Nolan, driving north on Reid jammed on his brakes to avoid hitting a dog. Neck, driving his car six to ten feet behind, was unable to stop in time and smashed into the rear of Nolan's car. The radiator, both front fenders and the headlights of the Neck car were damaged. Police Constable L. A. Rodreque investigated.

Harvest Fields Will Require Fewer Helpers

Number of additional harvesters needed from Ontario to assist in harvesting the Western crop is expected to be considerably less than last year, William Mellis, manager of the local office of the National Employment Service, said today. So far he has sent 25 applications to his head office in Ottawa, Mr. Mellis said, with more expected in the next few days. He is awaiting official word as to exactly how many will be needed from the Peterborough district.

Last year 50 workers from this area helped in the harvest and the year before 100.

Harvest Earlier

The annual movement of harvesters to the Prairie provinces is scheduled to begin today, according to an announcement made by Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Dominion Minister of Labor. A total of 2,200 made the trip last year from eastern and western provinces.

The harvest is somewhat earlier than last year, especially in parts of Manitoba, so the workers will in many cases start work in Manitoba and work West through Saskatchewan and Alberta. The peak of the movement will be reached around August 25.

Transportation is being provided for the workers at a low rate of $15.00 going and $11.50 for the return journey.

Soldier's Body Returned Home

A reburial service for Sgt. John C. Edwards, grandson of Walter Roseborough of Peterborough, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Craigie Edwards of Detroit, took place Saturday in Detroit. Sgt. Edwards was killed in May, 1945, in an air raid on Kyushu while serving in the Pacific. He died at the age of 20, leaving one sister, Madeline of Detroit.

A military ceremony in the White Chapel Memorial Park cemetery was held under the auspices of American Legion Posts 461 and 190, after a service conducted by the Rev. Schafer of Calvary Presbyterian Church.

Sgt. Edwards was a technical high school graduate and a member of the 20th Air Force.

Relatives from Canada attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Jackson, Mr. Orville Roseborough and Mr. and Mrs. James Price, all of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. George Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Plunkett and Mr. James Richardson of Keene; Mrs. Victor Meek, Woodstock and Miss Valeria Roseborough, Windsor.

Vegetable Dish Recommended In Hot Weather

Peterborough people should eat more vegetables, says Nick Douros of the Churchill Cafe, from his long experience in noticing their dietary habits.

This is not blurb for the business of the market gardener—it is a little emphasis on summer meals and particularly their vegetable content.

"These are vegetable days," says Mr. Douros. "The Lord gave us all those vegetables for our good, and many of them, so we have variety."

And, don't leave out fruits, too. That includes lemons.

Mr. Douros fixed up a little lunch for himself the other day, a liberal helping of tomatoes, a bit of onion, slices of green pepper, some olive oil and lemon juice, whole wheat bread, a small order of baked white fish.

Leave out the white fish, and if a man's wife is at the late or away visiting relatives, he has a good substantial lunch in the bowl of vegetables plus the whole wheat bread.

If a man hasn't acquired a taste for olive oil, that is his fault, Mr. Douros says, and he is missing something, especially with the lemon added.

"He could even dunk the brown bread, because his wife would not be there to frown at him," he suggested smilingly. "And any man can make a salad for himself."

Of course, if you must have a T-bone steak, you can go to a restaurant or hotel. But, the advice remains, this is the vegetable season.

There was also the business man taking home a head of lettuce. "My wife's away and I am just going to suit myself. Here it is: One bowl, plenty of lettuce, olive oil, a bit of salt, brown bread and a glass of orange juice. Maybe it is not recommended in Emily Post's book, but Emily is not home this week. She is visiting her mother at Georgian Bay."

Pitchers Prove Mettle As Bosox Edge Yankees

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Boston Red Sox ever catch up with the New York Yankees in their American League pennant chase, much of the credit must be given to Boston's pitching staff.

In the last five weeks, during which time the Red Sox have picked up 6½ games on the front-running Yankees, Boston hurlers have pitched 25 complete games in 34 starts—an amazing total, as a result, they've won 25 of them to whittle their deficit to 5½ games back of New York.

Ellis Kinder, the Red Sox' right-handed ace, is the latest to go the route. He beat the Yankees 6-3 Thursday night before a 35,691 crowd for his 13th victory against five losses. It was Kinder's 10th complete game.

Kinder permitted the Yankees 10 hits including a pair of round trippers by outfielder Hank Bauer, but an early 5-0 lead furnished by Birdie Tebbetts and Ted Williams carried him through. Tebbetts parked one of Vic Raschi's offerings for a two-run homer in the second, and Williams duplicated the catcher's feat in the third with his 28th.

Held Hitless

Dom DiMaggio, the Red Sox centrefielder who had hit in 34 consecutive games, was held hitless in five trips to the plate.

The triumph left the third place Bosox still a game behind the runner-up Cleveland Indians. The Tribe whipped the St. Louis Browns, 9-2, to reduce the Yankees' lead to 4½ games.

Bob Feller gained his fourth straight and 10th victory of the season as the Indians ended a three-game losing streak. Feller aided his own cause with a bases-loaded single in the first and a double in the eighth.

The fourth-place Philadelphia Athletics and fifth-place Detroit Tigers won their games to advance to within 7½ and nine games, respectively, from the top. The A's, aided by 15 bases on balls, defeated Washington 8-3 and the Tigers walloped the Chicago White Sox 11-5.

Continue Deadlock

Brooklyn and St. Louis continued in their first-place National League deadlock. The Dodgers whipped the Philadelphia Phils 8-1 and the Cardinals won over Cincinnati 4-1. New York Giants protected their hold on third place by edging out Boston Braves 4-3. In the only daylight contest, Pittsburgh Pirates slugged the Chicago Cubs 8-3.

Rookie Carl Erskine hurled three-hit ball for Brooklyn. He lost his shutout in the ninth when Bill Nicholson tripled and scored on a fielder's choice.

Southpaw Harry Brecheen permitted the Reds only seven hits and did not issue a pass to post his ninth victory for the Cardinals. He helped his cause with a single and triple. Johnny Vander Meer was the victim.

Home runs by Bobby Thomson and Billy Rigney helped the Giants present Larry Jansen with his 12th triumph.

Newhouser Put Detroit Tigers Back In Race

By JIM O'LEARY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—Manager Red Rolfe rejuvenated a capable but lakadaisical Detroit ball club in his first year at the helm, had serious designs on a first division berth.

But the hustling Tigers bogged down, seemed to slip out of the first division for good.

Third Baseman George Kell broke the small bone leading to the little toe of his right foot, was out for a spell.

Eddie Lake, though capable, could not compensate the loss of the serious threat for the American League batting crown.

Pitcher Virgil Trucks accumulated 10 victories quicker than ever before in his eight years as a Tiger, wrenched an ankle in Washington on June 19, couldn't win again for four weeks.

Hal Newhouser, ruler of the junior circuit with 21 victories last time out, stopped the Yankees' Allie Reynolds after the Indian had won 10 straight.

It was Prince Hal's first victory in five weeks. The classy left-hander couldn't win during July.

Batting slumps overtook Hoot Evers and Rookie Johnny Groth.

A Johnny Pesky line-drive foul into the Detroit dugout gave Ted Gray a slight concussion which was upsetting to say the least to the pitcher who, with Fred Hutchinson and Art Houtteman, had been carrying the load with some success.

But things began to happen. The Bengals took a turn for the better.

"First it was the pitching," explained Manager Red Rolfe.

"Why Trucks, Gray and Hutchinson gave us three shutouts in a row with 11-0, 3-0, and 6-0 victories over Philadelphia. Newhouser looks good now so the pitching is starting to hold up," said the old New York third baseman.

The infield change may prove to be equally significant.

Reportedly weak at first base, Rolfe found himself in the unenviable position of having Paul Campbell, with a bad leg from sliding, and George Vico, hit by a pitched ball, both on the disabled list at the same time.

Second Baseman Don Kolloway was shifted there, making room for utility infielder Neil Berry.

"Though he played good as the regular second baseman, Kolloway couldn't make the double play," said Rolfe.

Rolfe prefers to go along with the defensively sound and much faster 27-year-old Berry in preference to the near .300 hitting Kolloway, now 31 years of age.

"Kolloway will stay right there at first base," Rolfe went on to say, indicating confidence in what now seems to be a strong infield.

Matchless George Kell is continuing his hot pace at third base, and Johnny Lipon is coming through with a bit of unexpected help by getting hits when they count most, with ducks on the pond.

Vic Wertz repeatedly insisted that he had to play regularly to be effective.

Last year, alternating with Pat Mullin and Dick Wakefield was not to his liking. Last time we looked, Wertz was on the verge of driving in his 100th run, is second only to the terrific one-two punch of the Red Sox, Ted Williams and Vern Stephens, with no one else close.

A power-laden outfield, a pitching staff which has come into its own, and now an infield with holes blocked up gives the Tigers a club worthy of the first division.

Red Rolfe never had more than a casual acquaintance with any other type.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Thirteen horses are scheduled to compete to-day at New Hamburg, Ont., in Canada's richest harness race, the Canadian Pacing Derby, for a purse of $5,000. Officials are planning for a crowd of upwards of 15,000 persons from the United States, Ontario, and Quebec. They say the race has drawn many of the best horses in the pacing field and that the track's mile record of 22:04.5 set by Blue Again in 1946, may be broken.

Favorites include three horses considered by many experts to be provincial champions: Diplomat, owned by Alex Parsons, of London, Ont., Dale McIlwin, owned by H Hallarin, Winnipeg, and Prince Like, owned by George McCaffery, Quebec City.

A country-wide drive will be launched immediately by the Dominion Football Association to foster soccer in juvenile and junior ranks. Delegates attending the second day of the Association's three-day annual meeting at Calgary, voted Tuesday to set aside $2,000 for the project.

They also took first steps towards establishing a Canadian international eleven to compete against other countries. A committee, made up of representatives of every province affiliated with the DFA will be set up to organize and direct junior activities. Delegates said additional funds would be provided by the DFA as the need for them arose.

At Goshen, N.Y., Grand Circuit racing opened at Bill Cane's kite-shaped oval Tuesday with the host watching his speedy two-year-old pacer, Our Time, win the $14,132 Geer stake.

Lusty Song won the $5,000 Tompkins Memorial Trot, going the second heat in 2:03 3-5 to equal the fastest time of the season for two-year-old trotters. Charming Grattan won the $3,000 pace.

The 10-game Canadian tour by the Newcastle United soccer team, plus several games in the United States, grossed a total of $135,446 for the Dominion Football Association, it was learned in Toronto Tuesday night. The Association netted $48,039 and $8,000 went to the Ontario Soccer Commission.

Largest contributor to the gross total was Toronto where two games were played. The first game brought in $17,902, the second $30,454.

At Michigan City Ind., the United States took the lead over Canada Tuesday in the first of six races to determine the international tumlaren class yachting championship. The score was 12 to 9¼.

Al Rae of Toronto brought his boat across the finish line first, but Pi Johnson of Michigan City, Sherry Proctor of Olcott, N.Y., and Dr. Grant Johnson of Chicago took the next three places for the United States. Ken Purchase and Art Athawes, both of Toronto, finished fifth and sixth.

The winning time was two hours, 32 seconds.

Each boat scores one point for finishing and one point for each boat it beats, and the winner receives an additional quarter point.

Plan New School In Apsley With High School Wing

APSLEY, Aug. 10 (ENS). — The Municipal Council of Burleigh and Anstruther held its regular meeting on Saturday with all members present. Several important matters were discussed, chief of which was the matter of issuing debentures for a new public school and a high school wing.

The case was presented by a delegation from the Township School Area Board composed of Chairman Jos. Tucker, Trustee E. Tanner and Secretary-Treasurer W. Nelson, together with Public School Inspector Birkin and Principal Sutton, Lakefield High School.

It was pointed out by the delegation that a new public school was proposed to be built in Apsley to serve both the Township of Chandos as well as the Township of Burleigh and Anstruther, and that accommodation should be provided for high school students in Grades 9 and 10.

They asked the council, as a preliminary step, to apply to the Municipal Board for its tentative approval for the issuing of debentures for this purpose. The long discussion that followed resulted in the following resolution, proposed by Councillor Caverley, seconded by Coun. Young, being passed with only one dissentient vote:—

"That the clerk write to the Department of Municipal Affairs asking for its tentative approval for the issuing of debentures by the municipality to the amount of $60,000.00 for the erection of a public school and $16,500 for a high school wing."

Seek Better Road

A delegation from the Stony Lake Cottagers Association, headed by Pres. J. H. Jones, asked council to assume a right-of-way to Young's Bay, and provide a better road than at present for the 28 cottagers in that area. As a result of the delegates' presentation the Reeve will contact the district engineer with regard to the road and get further information as to the procedure of securing a right-of-way.

Rev. C. A. G. Spence, speaking for the Apsley Branch of the Canadian Legion, of which he is honorary chaplain, requested the council to consider the question of acquiring a suitable site for an athletic field, covered ice rink and community hall. The acquisition of such a site by the council would make it eligible for the Provincial grant of $5,000.00 available for such a project. The Legion would be glad to sponsor and support the movement.

New Parking By-law.

A by-law allowing the tax collector to mail tax bills to residents was passed, while the parking by-law passed two months ago was repealed and a new one in accordance with the instructions of the Motor Vehicles Branch was passed.

The road pay list amounting to $2,170.04 was approved for payment.

Council adjourned, to meet again Saturday, September 3.

Unhappy Ship's Captain Faces Tough Job Midwife To Elephant, Nursemaid To Baby

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10 — (AP). — Masters of ships often face tough jobs but to-day, in mid-Pacific, unhappy Captain W. S. Tyrrel was face to face with the prospect of:

1—Being midwife to an elephant; 2—Nursemaid to the offspring if the delivery is successful.

Tyrrel's ship, American President Lines' Taft, is due here next Tuesday with a cargo of wild animals from Siam, including pregnant Flora and three seasick elephant companions.

The captain radioed APL officials of Flora's condition and the imminence of the stork's arrival —he wanted advice.

Carey Baldwin, director of the Fleischhacker Zoo, exclaimed:

"It's a great event. Elephant births in captivity are quite rare."

He warned that it depends on how Flora is handled whether the delivery will be a success."

"It's a tricky business, but all they have to do is to leave Flora alone and give her plenty of privacy and she will have her baby all right," he added.

He said the captain will "have to feed the baby by bottle."

"But he should not be alarmed. Elephants are smart, and within a very few days the baby will be drinking its milk out of a bucket."

Flying Hobby Of Grandma

MONTREAL, Aug. 10 (CP) — Mrs. B. Mieana, Persian-born of German and French descent, is going all out to prove that "life begins as 40."

Beside being a grandmother at 49, Mrs. Mieana has her United States private pilot's licence and expects to receive her commercial licence after she has completed more flying hours. She is not eligible for a commercial pilot's licence in Canada because she is over the age limit.

While living in New York, Mrs. Mieana frequently strolled along the Hudson River. One day she noticed a sign about a flying club.

Her curiosity aroused she found what looked like the back of a small hangar and in the hangar a small yellow seaplane. The owner came by and offered a lift. Mrs. Mieana declined the offer saying that she would never ride in a small plane unless she was piloting it. The couple made arrangements for Mrs. Mienana's first flying lesson and she was on her way to being a pilot.

She says she tells her friends that is's safer up in the air than driving a car along a crowded highway where you have to guess the other fellow's mind and are at the mercy of careless drivers.

"During my first lessons I was so intent upon controlling the movement of the stick and rudder that I entirely forgot about being suspended in the air. It was just like sitting in a chair in my living room. Later I began to look at the countryside spread out under me like a huge bowl and my thrill and enjoyment were increased manifold."

Mrs. Mieana hopes that she'll soon be able to fly to Chicago to see her grandchildren. She has two sons, Ricardo and Rafael, both of whom live in Chicago.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Suicide Is No Alternative To Husband Changing Jobs

DEAR MISS DIX: Would you consider suicide justifiable under the following circumstances? I am a highly trained man in a very specialized field demanding college and graduate training, and am successful in my profession. I am very happily married and have two fine children, both young. But I am utterly miserable because I simply cannot continue in my present vocation.

Dorothy Dix

If I try to continue it will mean a terrific nervous strain which will make our home life miserable, react unfavorably on the children and terminate in a complete collapse on my part. There are many factors that make it difficult for me to get in different work, but the real complication is in the fact that I know my wife married me because of what I was doing. She loves me, but the one big element in that love is her devotion to the thing my work represents.

If I were removed from the scene, I am sure that my wife would ultimately remarry a man in such work as I have undertaken and which is getting me. My children would not have to undergo the nervous tension to vocational maladjustment on the part of their dad. So it seems best for everybody for me to fade out of the picture. What do you think?

ANSWER: I think that yours is about the craziest letter that has ever come to this department. Possibly there are conditions under which suicide may be justified, but certainly no man in your position has the faintest excuse for taking his own life. You are a coward and a quitter even to think of such a thing.

As you put the case, you are contemplating killing yourself merely because you don't like the kind of work you are doing, and because you think it will upset the family for you to make a change to something that will pay less, well.

Do you think that it will upset the family less to have a suicide in it than it will to have you give up your job? It is rather a shocking thing to have father blow out his brains or turn on the gas. Nor does it add to the prestige of children to have a suicide father in the background.

As for thinking that your wife can remarry into the profession you seem to thing she has set her heart on, that's highly problematical unless you are carrying a good life insurance. Not many men are seeking widows with readymade families.

I'm betting dollars to doughnuts, Mr. X., that what's the matter with you is that you are afraid of your wife, and that is why you would rather kill yourself than tell her that you are going to leave a distasteful occupation and do the kind of work you like to do. Bruce up and be a man. Give up the work that is driving you crazy and try something else, but don't make the change via the suicide route. You may find you have jumped out of the frying pan into the fire.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What can you do with a husband who is forever falling in love with some girl? At times he is a good husband and father, but when he gets a new infatuation he has no time nor love left for his family. It seems too bad to break up the home now with the children getting almost grown, but apparently I don't happen to be the right wife for him and can't keep him interested. He couldn't offer another girl much because he would have to support us in another house.

A WORRIED WIFE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is no such thing as reforming a chronic philanderer. He is just woman crazy and every petticoat that flutters across his way is a signal to him to get up and follow.

No woman can hold such a man for long. No woman can keep him interested or fascinated. He is fickle and unstable by Nature and would waste a change even if he were married to a woman who was a combination of every feminine charm and virtue.

So don't blame yourself or think that you are not the right wife for him. No woman would be the right wife. Such a man in justice to himself and in mercy to a woman should never marry.

The woman who is married to a born philanderer can do one of two things: Divorce him, or shut her eyes to his sidestepping and realize that he is just as untrue to the other women as he is to her. Probably your husband really loves you as much as such a husband is capable of loving.

If he earns only enough to support one family, believe me, you and the children wouldn't be the ones who would get the money if he were divorced. The Lady Love would.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Can dead love be revived? During the first years of my married life my husband treated me so cruelly that he killed my affection for him, but I stood it for the children. Now he has become the most considerate and affectionate of husbands, but every day his attentions are more repulsive to me. Do you think I will ever change?

WORRIED WIFE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I fear not. You cannot breathe life back into a corpse.

DOROTHY DIX.

✧ ✧ ✧

DOROTHY DIX cannot reply personally to readers, but will answer problems of general interest through her column.

Use Of Archives Hampered As Files Slowed

OTTAWA, Aug. 10 (CP)—Dr. William Kaye Lamb, keeper of Canada's historical documents, today said that because the Dominion Archives is having difficulty obtaining custody of government records, it no longer is serving historians and research students "as it formerly did."

The dominion archivist said in a brief prepared for the Royal Commission on Arts and Science Development that the federal government's files "now constitute one of the most valuable sources of information on many questions."

But the flow of these files into the archives has been retarded.

The archives "has been given custody of relatively few of the important files covering the decades since Confederation."

What was urgently needed was the establishment of a well-equipped and well-staffed Canadian Public Records Office which would have control over the movement of historical documents and government files no longer required by various departments.

Promising Step

A "promising and important step" in this direction was started a few years ago when a public records committee, headed by the secretary of state, was established. Whenever a department wants to destroy its records it now has to seek permission from the committee.

Meanwhile, there was the urgent need for the establishment of the public record office, a survey of departmental records and the consideration of plans to make the archives more accessible to the general public.

One way this accessibility could be achieved would be through publication of "guides" which would tell the public what certain sections of documents contained generally.

New Instrument For Atom Search

REGINA, Aug. 10 (CP)—Three Winnipeg scientists, using a newly-invented instrument to detect radio-activity, are conducting radiation surveys for a mining company on the western shore of Black Lake, 400 miles north of here, the provincial resources department said Tuesday.

The inventors are Dr. R. W. Pringle, nuclear physicist, Dr. K. I. Bowston, electronics physicist, and Dr. G. M. Brownell, head of the geology department of the University of Manitoba, they call their invention a "portable ray spectrometer."

The scientists claim their invention is "hundreds of times more sensitive than the Geiger counter now used in the search for uranium."

The spectrometer measures "precisely the intensity of gamma-rays emitted by radio-active deposits."

An advantage the spectrometer has over the ordinary Geiger counter, they said, is its ability to distinguish between thorium and the valuable uranium.

Gives Truman Report On China

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(AP) Ambassador John Leighton Stuart arrives today from China to give a first-hand report on what the United States now is confronted with there.

He will talk directly with President Truman and State Secretary Dean Acheson.

Stuart's reports, following publication of the Truman administration's "white paper," are expected to have an important bearing on the development of new American policies toward China. The white paper wrote off the Chinese nationalist government as a failure.

Especially important will be Stuart's estimates of (1) the possibility of further resistance to Chinese Communists by Nationalist generals outside the Red area and (2) the possibility of anti-Communist forces growing up inside the Communist controlled provinces.

Acheson meanwhile, was reported ready to begin consultations with House of Representatives and Senate Foreing Affairs committees on the Chinese situation.

Blame Campers For Three Fires

NORTH BAY, Aug. 10—(CP)—With the current heat wave drying up the bush at an alarming rate, Forestry officials reported Tuesday that a 100-acre bush fire was just "being held" in Ratter Township, about three miles north of Hagar.

The fire broke out Monday in tinder-dry undergrowth. Berry pickers are believed to have started the blaze, Frank Miller, forest protection supervisor with the Department of Lands and Forests, said to-day. Provincial Police are investigating.

Residents of Hagar and district and crews from the Department are battling the fire, and more men were to be dispatched to the scene with necessary equipment.

Campers were held responsible for three fires which broke out in the district during the week-end.

In Thistle Township, North Bay Division, campers started a one-acre fire when they left their camp site without attempting to extinguish a cooking fire. Between Corbeil and Astorville, the berry pickers or campers were blamed for a minor blaze which broke out in a beaver meadow.

Place Insurance On Township Grader

WARSAW, Aug. 10—(ENS)—At the regular meeting of the Dummer Council Aug. 4, a motion by Councillors Sloan and Olver directed that Melville Crowe and John Gallaher arrange for insurance for the new grader on its arrival. In addition, a motion by Councillors Olver and Gallaher provided that the Reeve and Road Superintendent ask for prices on cleaning and painting the old grader.

In addition, motions were passed, proposed by Olver and Sloan, that James Hannon be declared a permanent employee and proposed by Olver and Sloan that road accounts for $943.50 be signed for payment.

The following accounts were ordered signed for payment: Arthur Payne, hall openings, $7; Arthur Rogers, relief, $10; Gordon Cuffe part salary as assessor, $80; W. F. Sidey, stamps, $16.

London Laughs Blues Away At Humorous Art Exhibit

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON, Aug. 10—(CP)—Thousands of crisis-weary Londoners are laughing away their blues at the newly-opened exhibition of humorous art, sponsored by the Royal Society of Arts. The exhibition, housed in one room, features cartoons which for two centures have tickled the British funny bone.

Since it was opened by Princess Elizabeth recently, upwards of 1,000 Londoners, out-of-town visitors and overseas tourists daily have viewed the 162 exhibits, representing the work of 51 artists.

They are able, in less than half an hour, to trace the changing fashion in humor from Thomas Rowlandson's 18th Century water color "Too Late For The Stage"—a plump Englishman puffing after a disappearing coach - - to "Three Nice Cups of Tea, Please", a contemporary cartoon by Giles showing an English family in a "wild west" saloon.

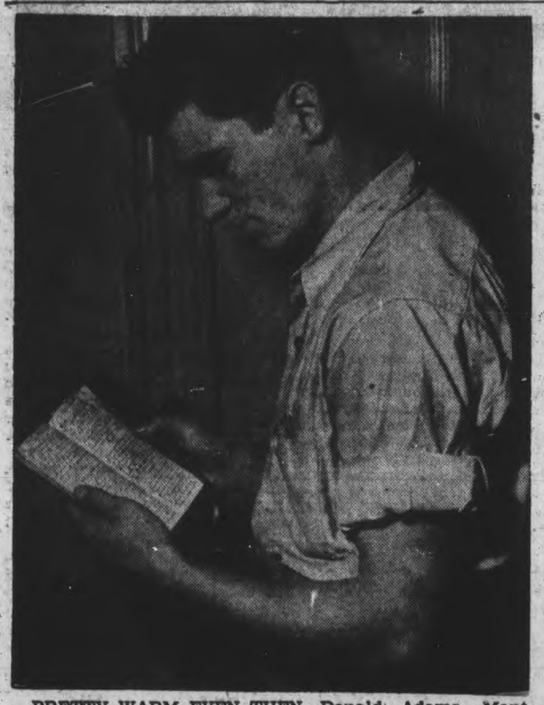
Between the two extremes are characters who have for years animated the pages of Punch and brought laughter to the breakfast tables via the newspapers.

Fun In The Trenches

Old Bill, a creation of Bruce Bairnsfather in the first world war, is there in his mud-stained khaki and "tin hat," cracking caustic jokes in rain-soaked trenches.

Heath Robinson's ludicrous pen-and-ink inventions have a section to themselves, and John Tenniel's figure of "Britannia" first used in Punch when the Boer War began, has a place of honor next to the "Rothschilds at play" a shadowy impression by Sir Max Beerbohm.

Not all of the humor is readily apparent to visitors from abroad. A Frenchman, for instance, was puzzled by the implications of "three nice cups of tea, please," but laughed heartily when told that tea was the last thing anyone asked for in a western saloon.



But the comedy of H. M. Bateman's "The guardsman who dropped his rifle on parade" (turning the colonel's face purple, the sergeant - major's green and the guardsman's pale grey) is enjoyed by all.

Elizabeth Laughs

When Princess Elizabeth loaned this drawing to the exhibition, she asked Bateman if he had ever seen such a thing happen. Bateman had not, but the Princess said with a smile: "I have, and it's just like that."

It was 62-year-old Bateman, internationally - famous humorist, who first suggested the exhibition. He also pleaded for the establishment in London of a permanent national gallery of humor.

"I believe eventually there will be such a gallery," an official of the Royal Society of Arts said.

PRETTY WARM EVEN THEN—Donald Adams, Montreal, shown here looking at his great-grandfather's U.S. Civil War diary dating back some 84 years, thought he would spend a few "cooling off" hours reading it . . . but practically every entry in the old memento starts with the words "warm today."

Seek Youth 21 For Questioning

STRATFORD, Aug. 10—(CP)—Police said they are seeking a 21-year-old youth for questioning in connection with an attack last Saturday on Mrs. Alberta Bart, 60, in her second-floor apartment here.

They said the youth recently was employed in the rural area near here and was believed to have been in the city during the week-end. More than 20 suspects were questioned and released Monday.

Mrs. Bart was beaten about the head by an unidentified man who walked into her apartment Saturday. He fled when a man downstairs, attracted by Mrs. Bart's screams, came to her rescue.

Guilty Of Assault

Found guilty of assaulting Mrs. Norman Leaitch July 28, by pushing the woman while she was on a flight of stairs, Dalton W. Way, Lakefield, was fined $5, and $11.75 costs, by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, in Police Court Tuesday.

Miners Refuse To Negotiate

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 10—(Reuters). — Striking Australian miners in Western and Southern coalfields at mass meetings Tuesday rejected a recommendation of the Council of the Central Mining Union that the Council should negotiate the miners' demands with the Commonwealth and New South Wales Governments.

Both governments announced Monday they would not negotiate with the miners.

In another move, miners in the north-western coalfields were reported to have called a conference Thursday to consider formation of a new union pledged immediately to end the strike, now in its seventh week.

Some 70,000 industrial workers went back to their jobs Monday as a number of key plants reopened. Coal dug by soldiers in open-cut mines in New South Wales provided the power necessary to operate these plants.

Cabinet Holds Secret Talks With Johnson

Defence Board Men Also Invited; Topics Kept Quiet

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 —(CP)— Louis Johnson, United States defence secretary, is scheduled to arrive here today for talks with the Canadian government.

His itinerary calls for a meeting with the cabinet defence committee shortly after his arrival at Rockcliffe airport.

Two members of the top advisory board on continental defence also will attend the meeting.

They are Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the joint defence board, and Maj.-Gen. Robert Walsh of the U.S. Air Force, an American member.

Disclosure that they will attend caused immediate speculation about the meeting—no members of the board attended a similar meeting last year when the late James Forrestal, then U.S. defence secretary, visited Ottawa.

Mutual Interests

Official announcements of the visit have said only that Mr. Johnson and the government will discuss "matters of mutual interest." That covers a lot of territory.

The meeting comes at a time when international defence talks —and Canada's role in them—are assuming increasing importance.

Possible topics are joint Canadian-U.S. planning for defence of North America and planning by the signatories of the Atlantic Pact. There is also the possibility they will discuss Canadian procurement of U.S. military equipment. This has been made difficult in the past by U.S. legislation.

Canada and the U.S. already are firmly linked in continental defence planning. Plans call for virtual integration of the forces in defence of the continent and there are also plans for increasing standardization of equipment.

Say Showers Will Bring Some Relief

Toronto Man Dies Shovelling Coal Blame Hot Weather

By The Canadian Press

The weatherman promised today that Ontario's current heat wave will crack tonight.

With temperatures already sagging away from the 90's, where they have been for the last four days, meteorologists forecast that cool air moving down from the north will reach southwestern Ontario tonight, bringing thunder showers and long-awaited relief.

The mercury in Toronto, one of the hottest spots on Ontario's weather map stood at 88 at noon, compared with a noon-day reading of 94 yesterday and 95 Wednesday.

A Toronto high of 80 was forecast for tomorrow.

As temperatures pointed downward, one death was attributed to the heat. John Kozack, 54, collapsed and died from over-exertion while shovelling coal.

Wednesday's peak at Toronto was 97 degrees, a record for the date but two degrees underneath Tuesday's high.

While the mercury reached 82 at Halifax and Yarmouth, other Maritime temperatures were in the low 70's yesterday. Montreal and Ottawa had a swift cooling after thunder showers were followed by pleasant breezes. Western temperatures showed a high of 65 at Winnipeg, Brandon and Rivers in Manitoba, varying to 80 at Regina, 72 at Edmonton and 66 at Calgary. In British Columbia, Kamloops showed 75 degrees but it was down to 57 at Victoria.

Even the weather bureau staff quit early at Toronto yesterday because of the heat. Water consumption reached 146,000,000 gallons, nearly a record, and soft drinks and ice cream had boom sales.

The many hot spots in Ontario were counter-balanced by such temperature readings as 45 degrees at Hearst in Northwestern Ontario, while Dawson City in the Yukon showed a range between 42 and 68 degrees.

Youth Drowns In Pool Despite Guard

ROUGE HILL, Aug. 11 (CP)— Harold Simmons, 18, of Toronto, drowned Wednesday night while swimming in Rouge Valley Inn Pool. A few minutes after Simmons was last seen, Barry Taylor, 16 (no given address), dove into the pool, struck a submerged body and called for help. He and lifeguard pulled Simmons' body from the water and started artificial respiration.

Taylor said he saw Simmons' body after diving from a springboard. He said the lifeguard dove in several times but failed to find anything wrong.

Taylor recovered the youth's body shortly after.

Simmons went swimming with three companions in a part of the river which has been dammed up to form a swimming pool. His companions, Bruce Bullion, 16, Allan Steele, 16, and Robert Wright, 18, said they swam from one bank to the other and climbed out, leaving Simmons in the pool. They said they left to talk to friends and later looked in their car to see if Simmons was there getting dressed. They returned to find his body being removed from the water.

Poor Swimmer

They said Simmons was not a very good swimmer.

The pool is about 150 feet wide, officials said, and is "over the boys' heads in very few places." His body was found in 10 feet of water.

Rescuers worked on the youth for nearly two hours before he was pronounced dead.

The drowned youth was the main supporter of his mother, Mrs. Eva Simmons; a sister, Kathleen, and a brother, Mervin, who live with him in their Toronto home. Simmons worked during the day and ushered at theatres during the evenings.

Four Swimmers Drowned When Undertow Breaks Human Chain Of 40

2 of Would-Be Rescuers Reported Missing Townspeople Scouring Beach After Cape Breton Mining Town Disaster

INVERNESS, N.S., Aug. 11—(CP)—The body of one of four persons drowned Wednesday night off this western Cape Breton mining town was washed up by the sea today as grappling operations began. The body was identified as that of Melvin White. A courageous attempt by a 40-man human chain to save the four—Malcolm Gillis, 16, Gerald MacNeil, 14, Simon White, 59, and his son, Melvin, 27—ended in failure. All are of Inverness and the Whites were coal miners.

Two of the would-be rescuers were believed missing and their names still were not known. Strong swimmers will scour the beach today for the missing persons.

Search parties, made up of miners, fishermen and other townspeople, combed the shore all night for the missing persons. Huge bonfires and miners' lamps dotted the beach. Doctors and clergymen joined in the vigil.

The human chain, organized by five RCMP constables, had come within feet of reaching the struggling swimmers when it was caught by a treacherous undertown and pulled apart.

All the human links in the chain —except two—managed to struggle back to shore through the pounding breakers. Four were sent to hospital suffering exhaustion and shock. It took almost an hour to revive RCMP constable Dave Fraser.

Get Into Difficulties

Gillis and MacNeil were on a weiner roast on the beach with several teen-aged companions and decided to go swimming.

Not far from shore, they got into difficulties. Simon White and his son went out to help them but were themselves caught in the clutch of the dreaded undertown.

While the four struggled in the sucking tide, one of the shore party rushed to the colliery and soon the mine's dreaded disaster signal screeched over the town.

The siren's blast summoned townfolk to the shore where miners and fishermen formed the human chain. It was impossible to get a boat through the crashing breakers.

The would-be rescuers clung grimly to each other in the rolling surf but the grip of their wet hands was no match for the dragging undertow. The chain parted and some 10 persons were carried out to sea. Somehow, they struggled back and lay exhausted on the shore where the breakers had flung them.

Refuse To Let Austrian Stay, Polish Pal Safe

QUEBEC, Aug. 11 (CP)—Leonhard Gawlitza today awaited deportation behind the steel-wire enclosure of immigration barracks here after a final desperate attempt to remain in Canada. The cool-headed Austrian, who plunged from a Europe-bound freighter taking him back to his homeland, said he thought such hopes were exhausted.

Still on the ship from which the sensational leap was made was Gawlitza's 47-year-old Polish companion deportee, Paul Radowicz, who was first reported to have drowned in a simultaneous attempt to escape. Ship agents later said he was still aboard the vessel.

The final word on this last attempt of the 22-year-old Viennese to remain in Canada came Wednesday night from immigration officials in Ottawa.

They said the deportation order still stands.

As far as they were concerned, Gawlitza was still home-bound on the Swiss freighter Annunciada.

Their appeal to stay in Canada as political refugees was turned down by an immigration board.

Wednesday night immigration officials explained they could find no trace of claimed persecutin against the two men. They were being deported under regulations governing stowaways.

Sign Contract To Build 100 Jet Planes

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—(CP).—A contract between the Defence Department and the Canadair Company of Montreal for the construction of 100 of the America 86 type of jet fighter planes will be signed within a few days, it was learned today.

Full details of the contract will not be made public until negotiations are concluded. There have been unofficial estimates that the cost of the planes will be about $25,000,000.

Defence Minister Clayton announced last April 12 that arrangements were being worked out for the production in Canada of the single-jet F86—a fighter that reached a speed of 670.981 miles an hour with a full combat load.

Permission was obtained from the North American Aircraft Company for use of the design of the Canadair, a subsidiary of the Electric Boat Company of New Jersey.

The F86, the first of which may be delivered by August, 1950, will become standard equipment for the RCAF and will replace the British-made Vampire now in use and considered obsolescent by some Defence Department authorities.

Ford Workers Vote Strike If Wage Demands Not Met

DETROIT, Aug. 11—(AP)—Ford workers in Michigan voted overwhelmingly to strike if necessary to get pensions, health benefits and a wage increase. Virtually complete returns from a strike election supervised by the State showed today the United Automobile workers (C.I.O.) won strike authority by a seven-to-one vote.

The State Labor Mediation Board announced the tabulation as follows: Yes, 60,585; No, 8,710.

The Board said 219 ballots were invalidated and 403 challenged. Still to be counted were about 1,800 ballots being brought by State police from the Iron Mountain plant. The Board held out about 4,000 ballots from other plants to be counted with the Iron Mountain vote. This was done because the Board ruled the vote had to be counted on a statewide basis without a breakdown by plants. Ford had asked for a breakdown.

About 75,000 out of 80,000 eligible voters cast ballots in one of the biggest strike votes in industrial history.

Union leaders were jubilant over the result. It did not mean, however, Ford workers would strike immediately.

In a statement, union president Walter Reuther said:

"The UAW-CIO is prepared to continue negotiations with Ford Motor Company in a sincere and genuine effort to reach a fair and equitable settlement of the issues involved through down the earth collective bargaining across the conference table.

"The Ford workers have expressed their solidarity and determination to win for themselves and their families a fuller measure of security and better working conditions in the shop shop . . .

"The union will exhaust every reasonable effort to win justice for the Ford workers through peaceful collective bargaining."

Contract talks have been under way since June 2. The company has rejected union demands for $100-a-month pensions and other benefits but offered to freeze wages at their present level for 12 months.

Checking Stands In Murder Case

TORONTO, Aug. 11 —(CP)— Provincial and Toronto police checked service stations and refreshment stands from Toronto to Barrie Wednesday in search of further information on the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKay, whose bodies were found in Toronto last week.

Police said they have uncovered information supporting their theory that the couple were alone in their car until they reached Bradford on the night of the slaying. While refusing to disclose the extent of information uncovered, police said it is possible that the killer could live in the midtown Toronto Dupont-Christie St. area.

Police said ballistic tests on a .38 calibre revolver found yesterday in a Barrie boarding house indicate it was not the weapon used in the slaying. They emphasized, however, that they have not completed tests.

Three persons arrested yesterday, two in connection with the McKay case, and another in connection with the killing of Alfred Layng last week, were released after questioning, police said. They are investigating the London, Ont., area and are questioning a number of wartime friends of the McKay family.

Strong Earth Shocks Rock Ravaged Ambato

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 11. —(AP).—Strong earth shocks were reported Wednesday night in already ravaged Ambato, centre of the area struck by a series of disastrous earthquakes which began last week.

A radio broadcast from Ambato said the remaining inhabitants of the town were panic-stricken as a few more houses, weakened by previous tremors, collapsed. The broadcast did not say whether there were any new casualties.

Relief forces, meanwhile, pushed additional supplies into the stricken area where the government estimates 6,000 persons were killed last week.

Miners Return To Work Aug. 15

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 11.—(CP).—The general coal strike which has paralyzed winter-bound Australia for almost seven weeks will end Aug. 15.

The Communist - dominated central executive of the Australian Miners' Federation has authorized all miners to return to work on that date, R. Hamilton, acting president of the Federation said today.

The miners earlier had voted overwhelmingly against continuing the strike. They rejected a resolution from their national council asking for new wage talks with the government of New South Wales and the Federal government. Both governments had said they would not negotiate directly with the miners.

Cyclone Hits Near Marmora

MARMORA, Aug. 11 (ENS)— An electric storm struck the village at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the same time as a cyclone appeared near Tiffen.

The old barn on the Maurice Foley property now owned by Wilson Thompson was blown down. At the residence of John Leonard about a quarter of a mile distant, the glass of three large windows was blown out and some fences on the property flattened down.

The cyclone, of short duration, came from the northwest. Lindsay Cassidy, who lives a little east of Springbrook, reports that some of his fences were blown down and that he noticed some trees inside fencing between Marmora and Bonarlaw also blown down.

Deny Children Cheap Labor

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(CP). — Canadian immigration authorities in London today were mystified by a Polish charge yesterday that the international refugee organization is helping Canada obtain 150 Polish children "as cheap labor."

A Polish foreign ministry spokesman said yesterday that the IRO was preparing to ship the children to Canada to prevent their return to their homeland and families.

General Wiktor Grosz said the children had left Italy this month for the British zone of Germany. Poland's request to Italy that the children be repatriated to Poland had been ignored, he said.

Gen. Grosz condemned the IRO for "flagrant breach of its repatriation statutes" and added that "Eastern European countries were right in declaring the IRO nothing but a recruiting centre for cheap labor. . . ."

One Canadian official today said the children are either known orphans or youngsters whose parents have not been able to be traced in the wartime and post-war refugee tides.

"Any who have parents living are not accepted," the official said.

Robbery Nets 75 Cents

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP)— Arrested shortly after a daring, daylight robbery that netted them 75 cents, three "highwaymen" are slated to appear in juvenile court, police revealed Wednesday night.

Two of the trio are 13 and the other is 12. The unarmed "holdup men" took 75 cents from an 11-year-old victim on Dundas Street bridge according to police.

The victim told police the three followed him from a downtown theatre "when they saw that I had money."

Elect Paul Spaak As Council President

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 11 (CP)—Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian Socialist leader, was unanimously elected today as the first president of the European Consultative Assembly.

The chunky little Belgian resigned yesterday as Belgium's acting premier and foreign minister so he could take over the top job in the newly-created council of Europe.

Winston Churchill of Britain nominated Spaak for the assembly presidency. The 101 delegates from a dozen countries quickly endorsed the selection without opposition.

Delegates in private negotiations yesterday gave their support to Spaak, one of Europe's outstanding political figures and first president of the United Nations General Assembly. Actual voting was delayed until today to give Spaak time to deal with a government shakeup in Brussels in which he resigned his premiership.

Loretta Young Ill Hope To Save Baby

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—(AP).— Loretta Young rested quietly today in Queen of Angels Hospital after earlier fears that she might lose a baby she is carrying.

The movie star fainted Wednesday on a movie set and was carried to her dressing roomg by co-star Clark Gable.

Tom Lewis, her advertising executive husband, said Miss Young had been in pain late last night and early this morning but that doctors hoped to save the baby.

He said that she is in her third month of pregnancy.

No Charges Laid

GALT, Aug. 11 —(CP)—Police said today that no charges have been laid against the 12 zoot-suiters from the Guelph and Hespeler area who invaded nearby Ayr last Sunday night. The youth allegedly attempted to start a fight in Ayr to revenge the alleged beating of one of their members. It had been expected that the youths would appear in court today.

Dynamite Smashes Press Room Windows

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 11 (AP)—Three plate glass windows in the press room of the strike-bound Springfield Newspapers, Incorporated, plant were smashed by dynamite today.

The charge, which police estimated at between a half-stick and a full stick of explosive, was thrown against one of the windows from the street.

The concussion ripped out three large panes of glass and sent slivers toward a new 112-page press recently installed at the newspaper plant. No one was in the press room at the time.

Canada's Jetliner Passes First Tests Successfully

TORONTO, Aug. 11 — (CP)— Designed and built by Canadians, the four-engined Avro jetliner successfully filled its first air tests Wednesday. It is the first jet transport produced on the North American continent.

The big plane, designed to carry 50 passengers at a cruising speed of 430 miles an hour at 30,000 feet, missed by only a few weeks the honor of being the first of its type in the air. A somewhat similar British jetliner took the air recently in Britain.

Airline teachnicians from many countries are expected here very shortly to examine the Canadian jetliner. Three United States manufacturers have similar planes on their drafting boards, but none is believed anywhere near the flight stage.

The liner was produced at the nearby Malton plant of Avro Canada Ltd., which said minor refinements will be made before the plane goes on the production line.

Pilot James Orrell took the plane off the ground in 2,000 feet, then climbed to 500 feet and made a low circuit of the field. The machine responded so well to the controls that he swept around the factory buildings before going higher.

The three-man crew then took the plane up to 12,000 feet where indicated airspeed was 250 miles an hour.

Walter Deisher, Avro's vice-president and general manager, said the new plane would undergo a period of flying and shake-down tests to qualify for a certificate of airworthiness.

Set Butter Price

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 (CP)—The Agricultural Prices Support Board announced today that the butter it has purchased at the current floor price will be sold to the trade at not less than cost plus storage charges. "Full details as to selling and distribution methods will be made public at a later date."

Strong French Army Needed In Europe Army Chiefs Say

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP).—Friends of President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms-aid plan were cheered today by word that Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio) won't lead a fight against it, and that strong support from the military chiefs is assured.

Taft, chaairman of the Republican policy committee, told a reporter he probably will vote against the plan of arming friendly countries. But he added he will not spearhead the Opposition as he did against the North Atlanttic treaty. Taft came nowhere near winning his fight on the pact but he gave it plenty of trouble.

The joint chiefs of staff—Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the Army, Admiral Louis E. Denfeld of the Navy, and Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg of the Air Force—added words of firm support yesterday. They gave closed-door reports to the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, and the House of Representatives' Foreign Affairs committee. The committees are studying the President's arms program.

The military chiefs disclosed that the bulk of assistance to Europe would go to re-arm once-powerful France.

Gen. Bradley said that a strong French army is the prime concern in the United States' plan to build up forces in Western Europe. The idea, he said, is immediate assistance to make the Western Europe countries strong enough to delay and hamper any aggressor until the United States could get into action.

The $1,160,000,000 earmarked for European members of the North Atlantic Pact will not give Europe the military strength to stop an attack by Russia.

Mother Fights Duel Over Noisy Children

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 11 — (AP)—A young mother and a 75-year-old carpenter duelled with shotguns in a clearing on a Mississippi river island Wednesday after first fighting with their bare hands. Both were critically wounded. Mrs. Lillian Curry, 22, was wounded in the abdomen with a 12-guage shotgun. Homer Gibson was shot in the face with a .410-guage gun.

Police said the fight and shooting came after Gibson complained of the noise made by the Curry children. They said the two fought with their fists, then each went home, obtained a shotgun, and hastened back to the clearing.

When they saw each other, they advanced, firing from the hip, police said. Both live in fishing shacks on Mud Island, just off the busy Memphis waterfront.

Dollar Talks To Include Arms, Atom

Canada May Build Equipment For U.S. To Be Sent To Europe

By GEORGE RONALD.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11 (CP). —Military and atomic co-operation have been added to the list of subjects scheduled for the power discussion here in September, informants said Wednesday.

Originally, the Anglo-Canadian American talks were to have centred on Britain's dollar crisis. But recent developments in the two other fields necessitated similar three-way conversations as soon as possible.

Canada's role as a buyer and supplier in the US arms-for-Europe program presumably will be a main topic in the military discussions.

The over-all question of co-operation among Britain, Canada, and the United States in atomic matters has been due for study for some time. President Truman said July 28 that a series of "explanatory" talks is being arranged to attack the problem of what atomic information the United States should share with Britain and Canada.

Three Meetings

This means three meetings, instead of one, will be under way, probably at the same time although held separately.

The financial talks have been scheduled for some weeks. Finance Minister Douglas Abbott will be Canadian representative.

Informants said it now is likely that External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson will come to Washington too. Trade Minister C. D. Howe, the Canadian Government Minister in charge of atomic matters, may accompany him.

At it stands now, the proposed arms legislation would make US military equipment available to Canada at cost. The Dominion would receive no grants or credits.

It also provides, however, for countries such as Canada to manufacture arms and equipment for the United States to ship to Europe. With such a new source of United States dollars, Canada would be able to offset some of the cost of materials she herself would buy in the United States.

The atomic question involves not only exchange of information but also the supply of raw materials for the United States' stockpile of atomic bombs.

Electric Storm Heavy To North

Severe electrical disturbances took place on Wednesday evening which some observers in the Buckhorn area said started building up in the south-west in the mid-afternoon. By 4 p.m. a shower of 20 minutes' duration centred on the village, stopped and moved to the north and east. Cottagers in the Chandos lake area tell of a violent disturbance which lasted for more than two hours with considerable rain. From a survey of the storm track, it appears to have centered around the area of Bancroft, which had a 10-minute shower about 9 p.m.

Moved East

The afternoon storm which laid the dust in Peterborough around 4 p.m. moved east slowly and reached the Marmora area an hour later accompanied by winds of cyclonic proportions. During its short duration an old barn owned by Wilson Thompson was levelled and several sections of fence overturned a quarter of a mile away near the John Leonard home. Fences were also flattened east of Springbrook and trees were uprooted between Marmora and Bonarlaw.

An airline cargo plane which flies west over Lakefield around 10 p.m. was seen to be flying eastward, swinging in an arc to the south-east, apparently in an attempt to either get around the storms north and east of it, or make an emergency landing at some field in the Trenton area. On checking of schedules, it was determined that it was not a regular airliner.

A report from Cobourg tells of two storms two hours apart in the afternoon. Rain was light but lightning set fire to the grass on Barnes' Hill, which was put out by farmers in short order. It did little damage since grain had already been drawn in from the fields.

Hospital Treats Minor Accidents

Nurses and doctors on the Peterborough Civic Hospital staff had a busy night Wednesday with victims of a series of minor accidents brought to the hospital.

Geddus Harper, 581 Gilchrist St., fell over a plank and dropped nine feet, breaking his right arm. He had been helping carpenters build his house. He came to the hospital just after five p.m. The arm was set and he left.

Two-year-old Peter Guerin, son of A. J. Guerin, 220 Mark St., was brought to hospital with a cut on his left foot he received while playing.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Graham, 754 Stewart St., came into the hospital shortly after five p.m. suffering burns apparently caused by a fall from their motorcycle.

A Toronto man came in from Haileybury with his eyes burned. Frederick George Hunt suffered the burns when a car battery he was working on exploded, shooting out battery acid. He came into hospital about 11 p.m. and after being treated was released.

NAME OMITTED

In the promotion results of St. Peter's High School published on Wednesday the name of Daniel Griffin was omitted as passing from Grade X to Grade XI.

Small Child Hurt When Hit By Car

Five-year-old Robert Vance was injured when he ran out into London St. and was hit by a car driven by Mrs. H. Steggles, 611 Homewood Ave., Wednesday evening.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Vance, 590 George St., received a fractured right leg, lacerations of the scalp and multiple bruises and brush burns to the body. Hospital officials today said his condition was good.

He was taken to Civic Hospital in a police cruiser where he was attended by Dr. John T. Stewart.

Constable Allan Edmison, who investigated the accident, reported Elgin Hammell, 147 London St. was a witness. Constable Edmison said the Steggles car came to a stop 35 feet beyond where it had hit the Vance boy and about seven feet from the north curb indicating Mrs. Steggles had swerved in an attempt to avoid hitting the boy.

Cut All Red Tape For New Waterworks

TORONTO, Aug. 11. — Construction of Mattawa's new waterworks system will go ahead with a minimum of red tape to slow it up. Ontario's Health Department Wednesday issued a mandatory order for construction of the new plant, thus bypassng the normal procedure of calling a vote of property holders of the town.

W. P. Near, vice-chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, said the board is now awaiting receipt of an official application from the town for permission to issue debentures of some $125,000 for financing the plant.

Officials of the province's Municipal Affairs Department last week completed details involved in preparation of a bylaw to be passed by the town. Mattawa's council has already approved the bylaw and now needs only to return this to the municipal board for official provincial approval.

"We indicated our tentative approval of the plan last May and now the way is clear for immediate action once the town makes its official application," Mr. Near said.

Africa Severs New U.K. Link

By ARTHUR J. CLASSEN

PRETORIA, Aug. 11.—(CP). —South Africa intends to sever one of her last constitutional links with the United Kingdom, retaining only her membership in the commonwealth.

The Union government has announced that it plans to introduce in the South African parliament next year legislation necessary to abolish appeals to the Privy Council. Canada has indicated a similar intention.

However, even if Canada goes ahead with abolition of the appeals, South Africa still will be one length ahead of her in the constitutional stakes, and possibly two, if common allegiance to the Crown and common status are taken into account.

Canada, for example, still will have to ask the British Parliament to amend her constitution. South Africa shed herself of that in 1934.

EYE TOPICS

QUICK AS A WINK

Television is among the greatest triumphs of invention, but it is crude compared with the human eye and the process of vision. In television, each individual picture is drawn by light within about one-thirtieth of a second. The object to be transmitted is torn apart, in an optical sense. Its millions of points of light and shade are converted into electric signals which strike the receiving set. There the impulses are changed back into the points of light and shade, each in its proper position, that make the picture. As all this happens almost instantaneously, the eye accepts the picture as a thing of one piece.

Wonderful though television is, we could do without it very well. But it is a real disaster when we lose our eyesight or even forfeit a part of its magic. Today that disaster can almost always be averted by ophthalmic sciences — if we will give science a chance to apply its skills to us.

If you have any questions concerning your eyes, or any visual problem, your enquiries are very welcome. Your enquiries should be addressed to A. Ward Smith, Optometrist, 341 George St., Peterborough, Ont. (over Selkirk's). A personal visit to Mr. Smith at this address (telephone 9397) would be even more desirable. — (Advt.)

LAY ASPHALT

Work was started today on laying the top coating of asphalt in connection with the paving of Monaghan Rd., south of Charlotte St., beginning at Charlotte St. and working south, heralding early resumption of traffic on this thoroughfare.

PEACHES ARRIVING

Freestone peaches at a dollar a basket were on display today in down town fruit stores. They usually arrive about the time the Toronto Exhibition is packing in the crowds from the Ontario counties.

16 Fishermen Receive Awards 15 To Americans

Sixteen certificates and crests emblematic of membership in the Order of the Kawartha Muskie have been warded by the Resort Operators Section of the Chamber of Commerce since the order was created July 1 on suggestion of the manager, James M. Fraser, it was learned today. With the exception of one fisherman from Brantford, all have been presented to American visitors the majority of them from Ohio, residents of which state garnered nine all told. Average weight of the muskies caught is 20.8 pounds and total poundage 332½ pounds.

Fourteen of the fish were caught by trolling and the remainder by casting. Six were caught during the morning hours and the rest in the afternoon.

Lakes in which the "big ones" were caught are as follows: Rice, 10 Pigeon, 2; Buckhorn, 2; and Stony, 1. Apart from those caught by the Ohio anglers and the Brantford fisherman, four were caught by Pennsylvania residents and two by New York Staters.

The following is a list of the first sixteen members of the order: W. B. Kyser, Akron, O., 18 pounder caught in Pigeon Lake; H. E. Mott, Brantford, 27 pounder, 43 inches long, caught in Buckhorn Lake; Mrs. E. Zingery, Beach City, O., 35 pounder, caught in Rice Lake; Mrs. Mae Prentice, Akron, O., 22 pounder, Pigeon Lake; Mrs. C. S. Zingery, Brewster, O., 27½ pounder, Rice Lake; Mrs. C. Skelley, Canton, O., 20½ pounds, 44 inches long, Trent River; C. J. Benes, Jr., Erieside, O., 18 pounds, Rice Lake; F. P. Firm, Grove City, Pa., 23 pounds, 46 inches, Rice Lake; Bill Demine, Mercer, Pa., 15 pounds, Rice Lake; Mrs. H. Oney, Columbus, O., 19¾ pounds, Buckhorn Lake; R. Alleman, Orrville, O., 15 pounds, Stony Lake; L. Feldman, Long Beach, N.Y., 17¾ pounds, 39 inches, Rive Lake; H. J. Doall, Long Beach, N.Y., 16½ pounds, 43 inches, Rice Lake; W. J. Maize, McKeesport, Pa., 15 pounds, 38 inches, Rice Lake; C. M. Kinsey, East Liverpool, O., 22½ pounds, 43 inches, Rice Lake.

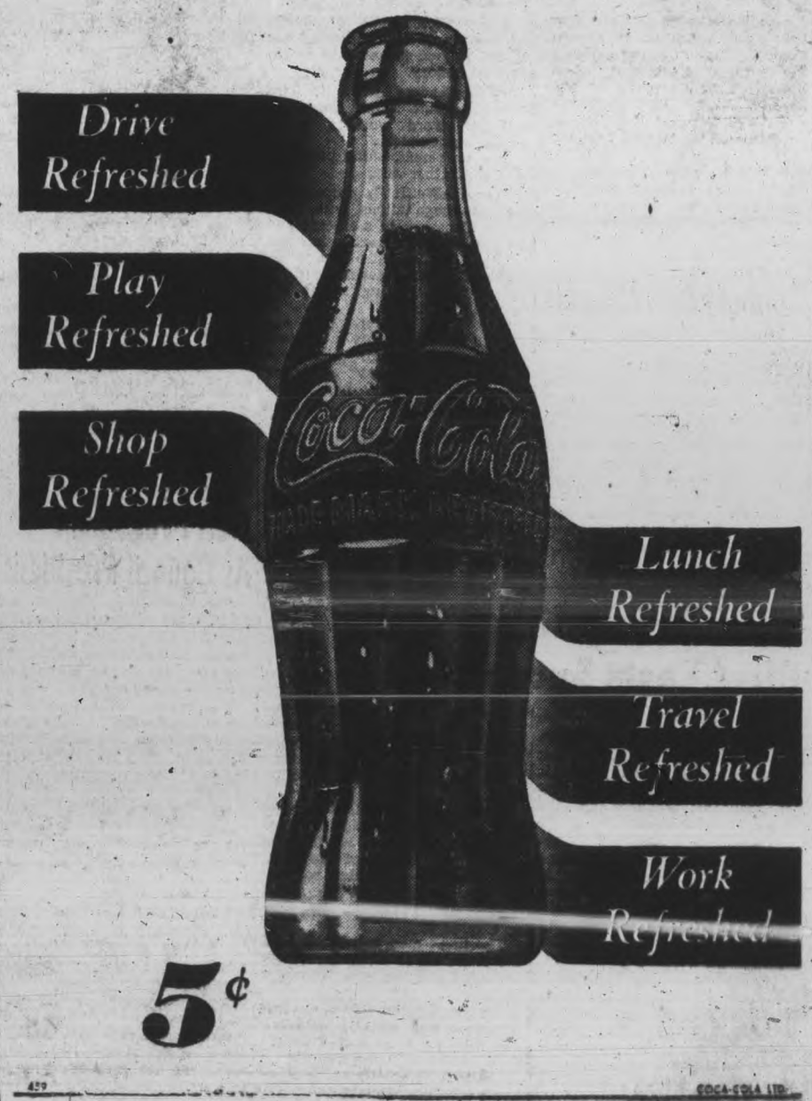
West Park Hill Name Given New Community

A meeting was held Monday evening by residents of the new community west of Jackson Park bordering Park Hill Road. The purpose was to organize a project committee and hear discussion on various problems dealing with the community and its improvement.



The project committee is composed of six members, three from Smith Township, and three from North Monaghan Township. Members elected to form this committee were J. Burnett, chairman, F. Fritnell, T. Busby, C. M. Krug, C. Signecotti and L. Armstrong.

It was agreed by community residents present that the area west of Jackson Park bordering the Park Hill Road continuation and extending west to Ackison corners would in the future be known as West Park Hill.

The major problems discussed are of an immediate nature as they deal with location of schools for the children of the community, condition of the road plus the traffic and speed situation. The housewives of the community are extremely vexed over the dust situation, and no attempt having been made to dispense with this unnecessary problem. Traffic and speeding on this road definitely a major problem as residents have had numerous dogs killed, and it is apparent if no steps are taken to stop such traffic violations the death toll might not only be confined to animals.

These problems have been placed with the project committee and will be directed to the various councils concerned for their immediate and necessary action.

Arrest Pair For Car Theft Youths Turn Out Girls

CHARLOTTE, NC, Aug. 11 — (AP). — "You are going to be embarrassed," one of the youngsters told a highway patrolman. And he was.

Patrolman J. C. Rogers arrested the two occupants of a car early Wednesday on a charge of having no driver's licence. They gave him their names as "Scotty and Johnny."

When he told one of them at jail to partially disrobe and be searched, well, he hurriedly called for a matron.

He said they turned out to be Anne Stelzriede, of Providence, RI, a blonde who posed as "Scotty"; and Shirley Mae Wills, of Lancaster, Pa., who likes to be known as "Johnny." Both 19 years old, they were dressed in sport shirts and slacks. Shirley Mae's hair was combed into a pompadour, and Anne sported a crew-haircut.

Rogers said the car was stolen in York, Pa., and, he added, the girls had a pistol. He charged them with car theft.

They told the patrolman they had worked as boys in California, Arizona, Providence, RI, and Lancaster, Pa.

Anne added: "I worked once as a counsellor in an underprivileged boys' camp up north."

Company Asks Rights On River Systems

VICTORIA, B.C., Aug. 11 (CP) —The Aluminum Company of Canada Wednesday filed application with the British Columbia government for water rights on the Nechako and Chilco river systems.

Each system has been investigated by the company which proposes a $500,000,000 development scheme on one of them. Both aluminum and Hydro-electric production is planned. The river systems are about 400 miles north of Vancouver.

Main opposition to the Nechako site is expected to come from 50 or 60 farmers likely to be flooded out, and salmon fishing interests.

Canada Offers Bond Issue For Sale In U.S.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11 — (CP) — Canada is going to offer a new $100,000,000 bond issue for sale in the United States.

The finance department announced yesterday it will file a registration statement with the U.S. Securities Exchange Commission "in the near future" covering the issue.

The bonds, to come due in 1974, will carry 2¾-per-cent interest. They will be used to refund three issues of long-term five-per-cent bonds of the Canadian National Railways and the National Harbords Board, all payable in U.S. funds.

This will be the second issue of Government of Canada bonds to be sold in the U.S. in two years. Last year, an issue of $15,000,000 bonds was sold to a group of New York financial organizations.

Proceeds of the issue will be used to redeem:

1. An issue of $57,728,500 CNR five-per-cent, 40-year bonds which have been called for payment Oct. 1.

2. An issue of $19,000,000 Harbour Commissioners of Montreal, five-per-cent 40-year, first mortgage bonds to be called for payment Nov. 1.

3. An issue of $17,338,000 CNR five-per-cent 40-year bonds to be called for payment Feb. 1.

The new bonds will be payable in the U.S. funds and guaranteed as to principle and interest by the government.

The issues being redeemed are callable at 105. But government financial experts said that refunding at this stage at a lower interest rate will mean a big saving in carrying charges.

Stealing Fixtures

TORONTO, Aug. 11 (CP) — Harold Locke, administrator of Toronto's emergency housing shelters, said Wednesday he thinks some tenants are getting more than they're paying for. He told the civic board of control that 1,405 window screens, 91 toilet seats, 90 shower heads and other plumbing fixtures are missing from apartments owned by the city.

Arrange To Carry Out Monthly Chest X-Rays

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 11. — (ENS).—A regular monthly chest X-ray. clinic will be held at the health clinic office on the afternoon of the fourth Monday of each month, beginning August 22.

This is part of the general program of tuberculosis control carried on throughout the United Counties. This program is a co-operative effort in which the family doctors, the health unit, the provincial department of health and the East Northumberland and Tuberculosis Association will work closely together.

The X-ray plates will be read by chest specialists of the Provincial Department of Health's tuberculosis division at Belleville, who are in charge of travelling chest clinics in this area.

Boy, 5, Lands Lunge

HASTINGS, Aug. 11 (ENS) —Johnnie Thompson, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alon Thompson of Hastings, Alton Thompson of Hastings, can safely claim the title of youngest fisherman hereabouts, perhaps in all Ontario. Just to disprove recent stories that the fish aren't biting, Johnnie landed a 11½ pound maskinonge the other day single-handed. "There was just nothing to it," he said after hooking his catch.

Johnnie shows signs of developing a real athletic bent in other ways, too. Realizing that, after all, he might be a trifle young to act as coach of the local Juveniles hockey team last winter, he settled for the job of mascot, following the team all the way through to the Ontario championship.

Sees Big Price Drop

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 11 (CP)— Prediction that eggs may drop to 30 cents a dozen this fall was made Wednesday by a southwestern Ontario butter and egg dealer. Declining to be quoted by name, the dealer said that poultry breeders now have heavily restocked their flocks and meantime the majority of contracts with Britain have run out.

Cleaning Up The Beverage Rooms

A few weeks ago the Ontario Government announced its intention of cleaning up the beverage rooms which it licenses, and within a few days several licenses were cancelled. Last week there were four more cancellations; in one case beer was served outside the legal hours; in another customers were served who were drunk; in two other cases the rooms were overcrowded. Two or three instances have been mentioned by magistrates in which minors have been served. We think that everyone will agree that the Government is acting properly, and will applaud its campaign to enforce the rules which govern beverage rooms.

• • •

A great many beverage rooms are conducted in a quiet fashion, and the rules are carefully enforced. There are others, however which are run without any sense of responsibility, by proprietors who seem to think that anything is all right so long as they are not caught. Such places are highly undesirable and it is right that they should be closed. We fully approve of governmental strictness in this respect.

• • •

There are some rules which the government imposes upon the beverage rooms which are, however, more apt to create abuses than to cure them. One of these is the rule that no food can be served in a beverage room. We feel that any place which is a drinking place and nothing else is likely to find itself in trouble sooner or later. We would like to see the Ontario beverage rooms turned into genuine "public houses", in which food and refreshment of any reasonable kind can be obtained. The sale of sandwiches and light meals in beverage rooms would, we feel, improve their atmosphere greatly. At present a man or woman going into a beverage room is expected to drink beer, and to leave as soon as he has drunk all he wants; such an atmosphere will never bring about a temperate attitude toward beer. A rule that food must be supplied in beverage rooms on demand would annoy the saloon-keepers, but it would improve their places of business greatly. It would also please many of their customers.

• • •

Another rule governing beverage rooms which we think unwise is that which forbids any sort of entertainment. There can be no music and no games. This rule also is calculated to turn a beverage room into a drinking den—a place where civilized pleasure is scarcely possible. A few chequer-boards, a few pin-ball games and a juke-box would turn many a beverage room into a pleasanter place; add some sandwiches and an occasional plate of scrambled eggs, and its character is transformed. The present rules are rooted in a form of hypocrisy which is vanishing in Ontario, and which gave rise, in its time, to many abuses. The Ontario government benefits in several ways from the sale of beer; it has a responsibility to civilize the conditions under which beer is drunk in public.

A C.N.E. Sellout

It is expected that the grandstand show at the Canadian National Exhibition, which will be provided by the American comic team Olsen and Johnson, will be sold out before the end of this week. That means that about 350,000 want to see the show badly enough to book their seats two weeks ahead of time.

In the light of the discussion about this show which has been going on intermittently since last August, this is a most interesting state of affairs. Complaints were made on two grounds: one, that the show was smutty, and two, that the grandstand attraction at the C.N.E. should be Canadian and not American.

We did not see the show last year, and therefore we cannot say whether it was smutty or not. We have seen other Olsen and Johnson shows, however, and while we would not call them smutty they contained elements which were perhaps unsuitable for children. A very large exhibition cannot appeal to the public on a highbrow level. Nevertheless a great many children go to the grandstand show at the C.N.E. and we think that it should be free from offensive matter. Adults, in our opinion, can settle these questions for themselves; if a majority want a gamey show, the minority which dislikes it can stay away. Children, however, are taken to these entertainments as a treat, and they should not be exposed to dirty jokes or sexual innuendoes.

As to the Canadianism of the show we feel that the complaints are on less sound ground. Could a show large enough and attractive enough for the grandstand be assembled in Canada? Mr. Elwood Hughes, who manages the Exhibition says that it could not. A very remarkable degree of showmanship is required to put on an entertainment on such a scale, and while we are eager for Canadian entertainers to have their chance, we can see that the C.N.E. does not want to take risks with very large sums of money.

The public has spoken with an unmistakeable voice. It wants an Olsen and Johnson show, and that is what it will get.

It Brings In The Wrong Guns

The recent outbreak of murders in Toronto has given new life to an old fallacy—the belief that people who have guns should in some way be compelled to give them up to the police. The Brantford Expositor devotes an editorial to the exposition of this theory, concluding that "If about three-quarters of all weapons now loose throughout the country were called in and either destroyed or stored for military armament, some individuals might be deprived of a childish pleasure, but the lives of a good many others would be safeguarded". This is an opinion from which we dissent.

A demand that all guns and pistols be handed over to the police would bring in the weapons of the law-abiding—sporting weapons, war souvenirs, heirlooms and the like. The lawless element who use guns in their business would not be so easily influenced. They do not register their guns; they usually file the identification numbers off their guns; they never part with their guns. The effect of such a regulation would be to disarm the law-abiding, leaving them a little more unprotected than they are at present.

It is sometimes asserted that guns lying around a house are a temptation. In a fit of temper somebody may kill with such a gun; in a fit of despair it might be used for suicide; children may shoot one another with guns which have been put away loaded. These are possibilities, of course. But there has never been a system of law yet which could protect people completely against their own stupidity or lack of self-control. It might be said, with equal justice, that a gun in the house may be used to capture a burglar; guns have good and legitimate, as well as bad, uses.

Disarming the innocent public is a measure of hysteria. The people we want to disarm are the criminals, and as the Toronto police very rightly point out, no way of doing that has yet been discovered.

Verdigris Or Ambergris

Last week, in a comment on something that had been said in a Russian magazine, we said that whales produced valuable verdigris. The Kingston Whig-Standard takes exception to this; it says we meant ambergris.

We could, of course, say that the hot weather had relaxed our customary vigilance, and that "verdigris" was a slip of the pen. That would be the easy way out. We scorn such shifts. We said verdigris, and now, after some pondering, we have decided that we meant verdigris.

After all, anyone can refer to the ambergris-producing qualities of a whale. It is well-known that whales, when not feeling quite up to the mark, have a biliary concretion in their intestines called ambergris; sometimes the whale manages to get rid of it; sometimes it stays with the whale till it dies—as much as 100 pounds of ambergris at a time. Like many another nasty substance, it is used in making perfume. We assume that our readers know all about whales and ambergris.

Verdigris, however, is quite another matter. Most people know that verdigris can be produced by dropping acetic acid on copper. What they do not know is that the spermaceti whale is chock-full of acetic acid (hence its name) and that when a whale swallows coppers it develops verdigris in its inside in undreamed-of quantities. How does the whale get the coppers? Tourists throw them to whales, as everybody knows.

We hope that this explanation will show the Whig-Standard that we are not easily to be shaken.

Russians And German Nationalism

By W. N. EWER

It was rather amusing to read on the same day a bitter complaint in the Communist Daily Worker" of London that "the Nazis go free and occupy positions of authority in Bizonia" and a boast by the German Communist leader, Walter Ulbricht, in the "Nacht Express" of Berlin that "we have in the Soviet zone no small number of formerly active Nazis who are carrying on responsible work". It is indeed difficult for outlying Communists to keep touch with the mutations of Soviet policy.

◆ ◆ ◆

But in itself, the "new line" in the Soviet policy in Germany is no matter for amusement. It is as dangerous as it is cynical and unscrupulous. The Soviet Government is deliberately encouraging a revival of German Nationalism in its fiercest Nazi form in the belief that it can be used as an instrument in the Russian conflict with the democratic world.

◆ ◆ ◆

It is historically not a new policy. The Soviet Government, always obsessed by the idea (more Russian than Marxist) of eternal conflict between East and West, has attempted to use Germany before. In the "20's" Soviet aid was given for re-equipping and retraining the Reichswehr, in a breach of the Versailles Treaty. The Red Army and the Soviet munition factories helped to create forces which became the nucleus of Hitler's Wehrmacht. In 1939 Stalin acclaimed Nazi-Soviet friendship "cemented by blood" — the blood of Poles and Finns—and felt arrogantly confident that he was using Hitler to destroy the West. Now the experiment is being repeated. For the third time the Russians are trying to make an alliance between Sovietism and German Nationalism. The old idea of "National Bolschewismus" is being revived.

◆ ◆ ◆

It is entirely cynical—as cynical as Stalin's alliance with Hitler in 1939. All Marxist belief is being subordinated to ruthless power politics. That also is not news. Already, in 1933 Stalin callously sacrificed his German Communist comrades to his desire for an alliance with Hitler. "We, of course, sympathize with the sufferings of our German Comrades" said Maxim Litvinov, then Commissar for Foreign Affairs, "but we Marxists are the last who can be reproached with allowing our feelings to dictate our policy". Marx's scorn for such "policy" would only have been equalled by his vehemence on the subject of an anti-Western alliance between German militarism and Russian dictatorship. But as Stalin himself remarked at the time: "Fascism is not the issue. The policy of the Soviet Union is oriented towards the Soviet Union and nowhere else".

◆ ◆ ◆

Now the dangerous game has begun again. Herr Ulbricht, notoriously indiscreet, has blurted out publicly what has been going on quietly for some time. He did so already on May 17th, when he told a group of party officials in Berlin that "it is no longer on the agenda whether man is democrat or non-democrat, a Nazi or non-Nazi, so long as he is a German patriot and fighter for German unity". But that was at the party meeting and was not meant to become public.

◆ ◆ ◆

German Communist leaders on orders from Moscow have ceased even to talk of "working class unity". They preach a doctrine of aggressive nationalism. They welcome and seek the co-operation of all the elements which made Hitlerite Germany what it was: believing that they can rely on them to direct their aggressiveness entirely against the West and to be—this is Ulbricht again—"unswervingly loyal to Stalin". In the Soviet Zone, ex-Nazis are being politically reorganized as a "National Democratic Party". A "Youth Movement" on the lines of the old Hitler Jugend is being formed by an "Action Committee of Youth for a United Germany".

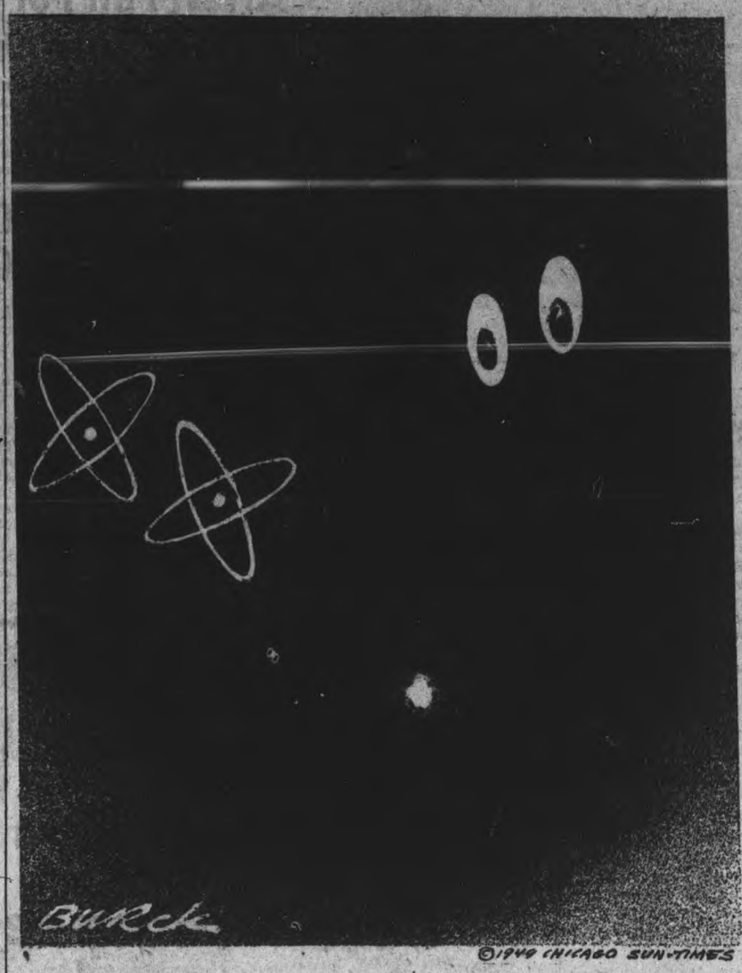
◆ ◆ ◆

The propaganda takes many forms. In the Western zones approaches are being made to socialists to restore "working class unity", to trade unionists to restore "trade union solidarity"—always with the suggestion that these admirable objectives are being supported by the Soviet Union opposed by "Anglo-Americans" who are seeking to keep the German workers divided and weak. At the same time, approaches are made to West German capitalists who are promised big profits from economic association with Russia—Germany's "natural business partner"—if they will help the new "National Front".

◆ ◆ ◆

The methods are as various as they are tortuous. The Germans are even being told that it was "the Anglo-Americans" who decreed that the Eastern Territories should be sundered from Germany and given to the Poles and that Russia only consented reluctantly. This, one may add, is NOT said in Poland. But the purpose is the same. To rebuild and reawaken an ardent German Nationalism infused with a burning desire for "revenge" against the West. Herr Ulbricht calls for "every nationally-minded German" to unite in fighting "the aggressive American forces which seek to destroy the German nation". That has an authentic Hitler ring.

◆ ◆ ◆



One's mind goes back to Molotov's accusations, in 1947, that the Western Allies were seeking to revive Nazism and militarism in Germany. It is not the only time that—for some strange psychological reason—he has revealed the Soviet intentions in that curious way. But also one wonders if Stalin ever thinks about the outcome of his two previous attempts at using German Nationalism for Russian ends.

GETTING THERE

"So you really think your memory is improving under treatment. You remember things now?"

"Well, not exactly, but I have progressed so far that I can frequently remember that I have forgotten something, if I could only remember what it is."

'IS TH-TH-THAT YOU, MR. ATOM?'

"Cross My Heart"

(EDMONTON JOURNAL)

The affair of Ulrich Geyer is the sort of thing which seems more in keeping with the manners and customs of the Middle Ages than with those of our own time.

Herr Geyer, on trial as a "major Nazi" at Nuernberg, was accused of committing an atrocity. He exclaimed to the court, "May I drop dead if that charge is true."

And then, to everyon'es vast astonishment, he did drop dead.

In medieval times, such a development would have surprised no one. In those days a recognized method of trying a criminal charge was to have the accused, using one of several recognized formulas, invite God to strike him dead if he was guilty of the crime laid to his charge. If, after a suitable time, nothing happened, his innocense was considered proved.

A survival of this custom, it is said, is found in the familiar children's phrase, "Cross my heart and hope to die."

It might be imagined that this peculiar method of trial would permit many hardy malefactors to escape punishment, but it seems that occasionally justice was done.

A famous example took place in Anglo-Saxon England, a few years before the Norman Conquest. Earl Godwine, the leading nobleman of the time, was accused of murdering the king's brother. He took a piece of bread and said: "May this bread choke me if I slew the prince."

What followed is described with magnificent matter-of-factness in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle: "And he ate the bread, and it choked him, and he died."

Maybe something like that happened to Herr Geyer!

1949 Festivals In U.K.

Plans are nearing completion for the series of Music and Drama Festivals which will be taking place in Britain this summer. First, and longest, is the Shakespeare Festival at Stratford-upon-Avon. This runs from mid-April to the end of October. The repertory will include "Macbeth", "Much Ado About Nothing", "A Midsummer Night's Dream", "Cymbeline" and "Henry VIII". Last year's notable production of "Othello" is being revived. Godfrey Tearle and Diana Wynyard again head the cast.

From June 10th to June 19th, at the ancient West Coast town of Aldeburgh, Suffolk, the English Opera Group will give the premiere of Benjamin Britten's entertainment for young people called "Let's Make an Opera!" There will also be performances of the same composer's "Rape of Lucretia" and "Albert Herring". Handel's "Ode on St. Cecilia's Day" and Britten's "Saint Nicholas" will be rendered by the Aldeburgh Festival Choir, with famous soloists. The Cambridge University Madrigal Society will appear, and there will be chamber and vocal music and poetry readings.

The famous Malvern Festival will run from August 8th to September 3rd. Six plays will be presented each week, three by Bernard Shaw and three new plays by other dramatists. The Shaw plays will "Buoyant Billions" (having its world premiere), "In Good King Charles' Golden Days", first given at Malvern in 1939, and "The Apple Cart", which had its first performance at the 1929 Festival. There will be a Festival Club at Malvern, where artists and audience can meet; a Garden Party for all serial ticket holders each Monday, tea time talks by celebrities, and, on August 25th, a Literary Luncheon.

The Edinburgh Festival will run from August 21st to September 11th. A record attendance is expected for this third Festival in the Scottish capital, which will include two operas—Verdi's "Masked Ball" and a repetition of last year's exquisite "Cosi Fan Tutte"—by the Glyndebourne Opera. The Scottish drama, "The Three Estates", one of the successes of 1948, will be repeated, and there will be premieres of T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party" and of the play about Charles and Mary Lamb by Dorothy Parker and Ross Evans. During the last week, the Dusseldorf Theatre will present Goethe's "Faust" in German.

Ten conductors of international renown will conduct seven famous orchestras, and the soloists will include Madame Corinne Lacomble, well-known American pianist, Ginette Neveu from France, Adolf Busch, Rudolf Serkin, Kathleen Ferrier and William Primrose. There will be the usual morning chamber concerts; piping and dancing at night, the Ballet des Champs-Elysees, and midnight performances by candlelight of the old Scottish pastoral comedy, "The Gentle Shepherd" by Allan Ramsay. Written in 1725, the play shows something of the rural life of Scotland in the early 18th century.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus departed from thence, and came nigh unto the sea of Galilee; and went up into a mountain, and sat down there. And great multitudes came unto him, having with them those that were lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and cast them down at Jesus' feet; and he healed them: insomuch that the multitude wondered, when they saw the dumb to speak, the maimed to be whole, the lame to walk, and the blind to see: and they glorified the God of Israel. (Matt. 15: 29-31.)

◆ ◆ ◆

And they came to Jericho: and as he went out of Jericho with his disciples and a great number of people, blind Bartimaeus, the son of Timaeus, sat by the highway side begging. And when he heard that it was Jesus of Nazareth, he began to cry out, and say, Jesus, thou son of David, have mercy on me....

And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, saying unto him, Be of good comfort, rise; he calleth thee. And he, casting away his garment, rose, and came to Jesus.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? The blind man said unto him, Lord, that I might receive my sight.

And Jesus said unto him, Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he received his sight, and followed Jesus in the way. (Mark 10: 46, 47, 49-52.)

Unconsidered Trifle

Jones—"Good evening, old man. Thought I'd drop in and see you about the umbrella you borrowed from me last week."

Brown—"I'm sorry, but I lent it to a friend of mine. Were you wanting it?"

Jones—"Well, not for myself, but the fellow I borrowed it from says the owner wants it."

One day a burglar was arrested in the home of a Washington society woman, and the next night at a dinner party she was telling Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes all about it.

"I went right down to the jail and talked to that burglar," she said. "I told him how evil his way of life was, and how much happier he would be if he reformed. I talked to him for two solid hours."

"Poor man," murmured Mr. Holmes.

A merry party was going on in one of the rooms of a hotel where the festivities were interrupted by an attendant, who said: "Gentlemen, I've been sent to ask you to make less noise. The guest in the next room says he can't read."

"Can't read?" replied the host. "Well tell him he ought to be ashamed of himself. Why I could read when I was five."

PRETTY HARVEST—It's harvest time in Essex County and there's nothing like a pretty girl to display the crop to its best advantage. In this case it's the beautiful Jean (Butch) Brodie, 17-year-old Kirkland Lake lass now working at the Ontario Farm Service Force camp at Ruthven, in Western Ontario. The crop? Oh yes, they grow luscious peaches, melons and tomatoes in that part of the province.

Heat Causing Record Growth In Corn Fields

There's no mournful sound down in the corn field these days. All over Ontario the corn crop is flourishing in the heat, as reported by representatives of the Department of Agriculture this week.

"Corn and sugar beets are promising big crops this fall," says Lambton county. "Silo filling will start early this season. Corn is two weeks in advance and maturity over normal production."

"Phenomenal growth" is the word from the St. Catharines area, Norfolk: Corn never looked more promising; and Frontenac: Corn is making exceptionally good growth, and a heavy tonnage is expected.

Consensus of these reports is that after all the lack of moisture through June returns have been much better than were expected. Oxford comments: "Most farmers are well satisfied with their grain yields".

Middlesex: "Wheat yield has been excellent with some up to 59 bushels to the acre, and a very large number of yields reported more than 40 bus. to the acre. The reported average is 45 bus."

Eastern Ontario needs rain. Leeds says supplementary feeding is necessary to almost all milking herds. Milk flow is falling rapidly. Pastures are poor to very poor.

Glengarry: Cattle are suffering from lack of pasture, and milk production has taken a very severe decline. This county is suffering from the worst infestation of grasshoppers in its history. This menace is increasing in Grenville.

Prescott-Russell says: "Farmers are hastening their cutting of grain to reduce damage and loss from grasshoppers."

Shortage Of Cargo Lays Up Second Ship

PORT COLBORNE, Aug. 11.—(CP).—Shortage of cargo has for the second time in the last few weeks caused the lay-up at Sarnia and Colonial Steamships Ltd., ships Mathewston and Evertton here.

Both vessels, along with several others of various lake shipping concerns, had previously been laid up at Sarnia a few weeks ago because of the cargo shortage situation expected to be remedied with the annual grain rush from the head of the lakes in September.

German Police Fire On DP's

MUNICH, Aug. 11 (AP)—German police yesterday fired into a crowd of 1,000 Jewish displaced persons they said had stoned them and defied orders to disperse.

The police said three of the D.P.s were wounded.

The crowd, without obtainink a licence for a meeting, had gathered to protest an alleged anti-semetic letter in a Munich newspaper, police said.

The crowd of D.P.s gathered in front of the building housing the newspaper Sueddeutsche Zeitung, which had printed a letter criticizing German Jews.

City officials said the D.P.s replied to an order to disperse by tearing up cobblestones from the street and hurling them at the police. Hand-to-hand fighting broke out at several points.

The D.P.s set fire to one police car. Then they pelted a hastily-summoned fire engine with stones.

Four more fire engines arrived and also were stoned.

The crowd dispersed after the firing. The three wounded D.P.s were taken to hospitals. How seriously they were hurt could not be learned immediately.

Dadson Hurls Two-Hit Ball As Petes Beat Batawa 7-0

The Petes blanked Batawa 7-0 here last night to creep closer to the top-place Oshawa Merchants in the COBL and dunk the Shoemen deeper into third place. A small crowd saw Lefty Bill Dadson throw two-hit ball, fanning eight; as his buddies belted Max Smith for 14 safeties, including a homer by Howie Dalton and doubles by Dalton, Fred Garvey, Al Menzies, Tom Foley and Joe Stewart. It was a snappy scrap and not too one-sided till the Petes broke loose for four runs in the eighth.

Dadson also led the homesters at bat with three for four, while Dalton had three in five tries, Foley two for four and Menzies two in five. Wagar and Bridgeman hit doubles for the lone Bata bingles. They were also the only two on their team to reach second base throughout. Muffitt had a neat catch and Smith pulled down a screaming liner to turn it into a twin killing.

Got The First

Menzies scored in the first on a double, moving up on a throw-in and scoring on a wild pitch. Estlick singled in the second, took second on Dadson's safety and raced home on a double by Dalton. In the sixth, Stewart doubled and came in on a two-base error at second on Estlick's grounder. They got four in the eighth on singles by Brown and Dalton, a double by Foley and Dalton's hard homer to deep right centre. The Petes threatened also in several other heats, while Batawa never had a man as far as third base.
